Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Toronto stock market were mixed Tuesday in the absence of active mid-morning trading today.

The industrial index, considered a major indicator of market trends, was up .38 to 218.76 after 10:45 a.m. E.S.T. Base metals were off .12 to 82.53 and western oils .81 to 273.81.

Volume at that time was 842,000 shares compared with 803,000 traded by the same time Thursday.

Among sectors of the market where prices were common, merchandising, paper forest and pipeline stocks while oil refining, real estate, utility and bank issues were mixed.

Declines held a slight lead over advances, 149 to 128, while 94 issues remained unchanged.

Falconbridge Nickel was up 1¼ to $21¼, Murphy Oil ¼ to $9, Western Supplies A ¼ to $20½, McLaughlin Associates ¼ to $12½ and Brewers ¼ to $15¼ to $22.

Pacific Pete slipped ¼ to $4⅛, Shell ¼ to $38¼, Columbia Cellulose 10 cents to $1.30, Canada Northwest ¼ to $5¼ and Security Capital B 2 cents to 71 cents.

Key Addison climbed 15 cents to $9.75 and Pan Central Energy 10 cents. McIntyre was down 2 to $44.

Construction Industry Facing Labor Problems

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's construction industry should enjoy some slight improvement in 1973 but a lack of serviced land and forthcoming labor negotiations are expected to present some problems.

Eric L. Hartley, president of the Canadian Construction Association, says "The overall construction program during 1972 appears to have held its own with 1971 and may prove to show a slight increase.

"The prospects for 1973 are for a year of modest expansion."

Mr. Hartley, president of Frankel Structural Steel Ltd., Toronto, said, however, that the $16-billion-dollar-a-year industry faces a serious shortage of serviced land and spot shortages of labor and materials.

The year will be a major collective bargaining year in many parts of the country.

"Over 300 construction labor agreements are due to expire in Ontario next spring, for example, as is the agreement covering the entire industry in Quebec,' Mr. Hartley said.

"One hopes, however, that next year's bargaining will result in less work stoppages and more moderate settlements."

Mr. Hartley said the industry's residential sector will set a record for 1972. He put housing starts at 250,000, compared with about 235,000 and expenditures at about $5.3 billion.

C. D. Wilson, president of the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada, said residential housing will be at least as strong in 1973 as it was in 1972.

"The lending institutions have indicated no shortage of mortgage financing during 1973 and the industry's performance this year leaves me confident of my prediction of 250,000 starts."

Mr. Wilson, of Calgary, also warned that there may be a shortage of serviced lots.

"However, such a shortage could reflect a decline in the single-family starts and an increase in multi-family starts."

Gordon C. Gray, president of the Toronto real estate firm of A. E. LePage Ltd., said the "market demand for housing of all types is unusually strong across the country."

Mr. Gray sees a continuing increase in the cost of homes.

"Construction costs are getting totally out of hand. It is expected that we will continue to see substantially increased costs in all areas, particularly in the residential sector.

"This, of course, must result in higher prices and rents."

John C. Hurlburt, president of the Toronto Home Builders' Association, said the average price for a new single detached home in Metropolitan Toronto will increase by as much as $8,500 in 1973.

Metropolitan said the increase will be largely attributable to land costs and the remainder to rising costs of labor and materials.

St. Louis Placed Under Microscope

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — St. Louis is being put under the microscope for the benefit of the rest of the country.

Environmental scientists from many parts of the United States are studying intensely various aspects of pollution using the St. Louis metropolitan area as their specimen.

From these studies they hope to be able to determine just what one city's activities do not only to the immediate environment but also to areas distant from the city.

This, they will give them information which can be applied to cities throughout the world.

Dr. James Lodge, chemist at the National Centre for Atmospheric Research at Boulder, said in an interview that St. Louis was agreed upon by scientists involved in a number of pollution studies because "it is a typical city—it has some of everything."

It is probable, he said, that knowledge gained from these studies, to continue five years or so, can be transferred to almost any other city in the world.

St. Louis makes a good specimen, Lodge said, because its terrain is diverse. It has no mountain barriers to interfere with air movement.

It is also a large city isolated from other major cities and has no "endless suburban sprawl," he noted.

And sources on both sides of the Mississippi River have been active in the study of air pollution for a number of years, so there is good data available for comparison, Lodge added.

More than 50 studies already have been planned or are under way.

Scientists from the two Missouri universities are looking at the effects on plant and animal life of pollutants that originate from St. Louis. Because of geographical boundaries and the direction of prevailing winds, much of the study will be concentrated in Illinois where many of the effects of St. Louis pollution are felt.

The scientists are following pollutants for about 75 miles downwind from St. Louis.

Past weather data for St. Louis indicates that summer rainfall immediately downwind of the city is 10 to 15 per cent greater than in other surrounding areas.

It has been found also that on weekdays in the warm season the area immediately downwind has seven to 14 per cent more rain days than does the area upwind or farther downwind, but on weekends there are no marked regional differences.

A Christmas Message

Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism. Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass. Take kindly the council of the years, graciously surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, DEC. 23

Aries (March 21-April 19): This is an excellent day for checking up on home and family news and situations. Ordinary work-and-routine develop clutter.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There's no time to waste, plenty to do and only about so much ready co-operation on all sides. Go while the going is good.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Make a schedule early, allow for breaks, pauses for reflection. Yesterday's projects can be brought a long way further.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): A large range of opportunity is broader than usual. Give it plenty of thought, move promptly on whatever you're sure you understand.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): See how much you tend not to have there quietly and tactfully. Impulses toward generosity need a second thought before you act on them.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your friends are trying to be helpful, but mostly complicating matters. Social activities are more expensive than planned.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Select a few people who are reliable, give them a set of chores to do; move on to responsibilities you cannot delegate.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Social adventures offer much promise. Many arrangements can be settled fairly easily if handled diplomatically.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): In your eagerness you may have distressed somebody. If there's anything you can do to set matters straight, do it now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A brief survey should tell you where you have something in line — wherever you can collect, do so.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): No point in fretting over the family and your friends; they're going right ahead with their own schemes, anyhow.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Even if it seems there's little time left, take a moment to think what you are about. Corrections are unlikely.

Physical Allergy Hard to Treat

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told by my family doctor that I have physical allergy, caused by the weather change. Are there shots or some cure for this?

A physical allergy is one in which hives, lumps or other allergic symptoms are produced by undue sensitivity to cold, heat or the sun.

This is in contrast to the usual type of allergy which involves contact with material of some sort—pollen, etc.

The actual causes of physical allergy—the manner in which it works—is not known. Certain drugs and cosmetics can provoke sensitivity to the heat, cold and sun, but we don't know why.

Anyway, "shots" aren't the answer to this problem. With more ordinary allergies (hay fever, or sensitivity to other pollens or materials) desensitization to some degree is possible by exposing the patient to small, graduated amounts of the materials until he acquires a certain tolerance. Or, of course, antihistamines may be used to suppress the symptoms to some extent.

With a physical allergy, desensitization doesn't offer much help because, simply, there is nothing to give a patient, say, tiny doses of pollen gradually, but it is not clear how you can give a patient tiny doses of changes in weather.

In severe cases, however, cortisone-related (cortisone-type) drugs can be injected for emergency relief. Corticosteroids, and antihistamines can be given by mouth as a treatment and preventive, but the chances of help they can provide is somewhat conjectural.

The most reliable method of combatting physical allergy is to avoid severe exposure to whatever bothers you. If it is cold, warm clothing, including mittens, will be essential. If it is sunshine, then protection from direct rays of the sun is necessary. Gradual exposure rather than abrupt exposure may help, but this may not always be easy to accomplish.

One point in your letter is not clear to me. You say your doctor said "weather change" was to blame. I'd discuss this a little more—does he mean sudden cold, intense heat, high humidity, or what? Pinning down the precise kind of condition that bothers you will be necessary if you are to develop the methods that will help you best.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do people get brucellosis (undulant fever) any more? I have been in arguments recently over whether this disease is a thing of the past. A doctor tells me that he treats many patients for it.

You can't rightly call undulant fever "a thing of the past," because it still exists. The amount of it, though, has been greatly reduced because of better control of infection in animals—cattle, hogs and goats were the chief offenders.

Farmers and people handling raw meat are susceptible. Unpasteurized milk from cows or goats can transmit the disease, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will a tetanus shot, given when a woman is in her first month of pregnancy, harm the unborn baby?

I am not aware of any ill effect from it. All the same it is well to abide by the general safety rule: avoid giving routine vaccinations or immunizing injections in the first three months of pregnancy.

If an injury, calling for a tetanus injection, occurs within that time, then it certainly should be given because the risk of tetanus (lockjaw) is greater than a problem(atical) risk to the fetus—when, indeed, we do not know that there is any real risk.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

♣ A9875

The contract is Six Clubs, played by South, and West leads the two of clubs. The object is to make the slam, assuming best defense. You are permitted to look at all four hands.

The hand was played by Tim Seres, Australian star. Had West led any suit but a trump, Seres would have made the slam very easily, for he could then have ruffed a diamond and two hearts in dummy after taking a heart finesse.

But with the trump lead, Seres had to perform quite a trick to bring home the contract.

He won the club lead in dummy, played a heart, and finessed the queen. The finesse succeeding, he cashed the ace of spades and returned a diamond. West took the ace and led a second trump.

Seres won again in dummy, ruffed a spade, cashed the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, ruffed another spade, then played a diamond to the king, producing this position:

North

West

East

♠ 10

Now Seres ruffed the right of spades with his last trump and West found himself in a decidedly uncomfortable position. If he discarded a heart, declarer would lead his established heart winner to make the slam, while if he discarded the jack of diamonds, declarer would lead his established diamond winner to make the slam.

And if West underruffed, instead, dummy would automatically become the last two tricks. So Seres made the slam by virtue of a highly unusual squeeze.

Tomorrow: A deadly false-card.

Woodtke, Mallory Fire Dairymen

Reid's Dairy Bob Woodtke and Reid Mallory pulled the pan out of the fire in Quinte Hockey League action Thursday night as they took the dairymen out of a 5-4 third period deficit into a 6-5 victory over Central Tech.

Central took the lead midway through the third period as Tom Deroo and Steve Moore scored goals six seconds apart. Five minutes later Mallory beat Central goalie Ken Genereaux for the go-ahead goal. Woodtke tallied the go-ahead less than a minute later to give Reid's a two-point edge over second place Teachers.

Dairy's other goal getters were Bill Barberstock, Jason Morris, Denny Tompkins and Mallory whose second goal last night gives him a 10 point lead over linemate Tompkins in the individual standings.

Grant Sage, Eric Maher, and Paul Fleming hit the netting for Central's other goals.

In the second Quinte League game Thursday, Teachers took over sole possession of second place with their 6-4 win over last place Belvedere.

Doug Jodoin's hat trick and goals by Brian MacKenzie, Gord McGonghey, and John Holgate earned Teachers their victory. Paul Macklam, John Baker and Gerry Jones, who scored Belvedere's two markups.

Quinte Only Curling Reps

Quinte Secondary will be the only high school represented in-g Belleville in the Ontario Curling Association's Division Three School Boy Playdown.

Moira Secondary, which had planned to send a team to the bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club December 28-29, was unable to field a rink' According to the school's curling supervisor Paul Henderson.

"Only three people showed, interest in the School Boy," said Henderson, "and as a result I can't make team commitments. I'm a bit disappointed. I had hoped we could send a team, to the School Boy Playdowns."

MERCURY GETS MATE

MIAMI (AP) — Unbeaten Miami Dolphins Thursday became the first professional football team in history to have two 1,000-yard rushers in one season, after the National Football League reviewed films of an Oct. 22 game and gave Dolphin running back Mercury Morris nine more yards. The Dolphins said NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle had ruled that a nine-yard loss charged against Morris Oct. 22 in a game with Buffalo was a fumble by Dolphin quarterback Earl Morrall.

JURGENSON GETS OFF

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — The Prince Georges state's attorney's office agreed Thursday to prosecute Sonny Jurgensen, injured Washington Redskins quarterback, on charge of drunken driving after he said he would attend a special class set up for "persons arrested for driving and drinking." Under a separate law, the Maryland department of motor vehicles temporarily suspended Jurgensen's driving licence because he refused to take a breath test.

In Prince Edward - North Shore Hockey League action Thursday Bayview Orchards defeated the OPP 7-3 while Wellington Hotel trounced Wellington 9-2.

Jocelyne Bourassa Top Woman Athlete

TORONTO (CP) — A sweet swinger from Shawinigan has been voted Canada's top woman athlete of 1972.

Jocelyne Bourassa, a 26-year-old professional golfer, was an overwhelming winner in a poll, conducted by The Canadian Press, of sports writers and broadcasters across the country.

Quebecois Miss Bourassa, whose Gallic temperament appeals to golfers and the organizers of the women's professional golf tour, received 194 points. 57 ahead of swimmer Leslie Cliff of Vancouver and runner Abigail Hoffman of Toronto, who were tied for second with 137 points each.

A first-place vote was worth three points, a second two points and a third one point.

Glenda Reiser of Ottawa, who cracked a world record in a preliminary heat of the 1,500 metres at the Munich Olympics, was fourth. Karen Magnussen, figure skater from Vancouver, was fifth.

Miss Bourassa, who rolled up 46 first-place votes, twice as many as Miss Hoffman, was also chosen Golf Personality of 1972 by the monthly magazine Golf Canada and will be featured on the January cover. Miss Cliff, who won a silver medal at the Olympics, received 15 first-place votes.

Only three other women received first-place votes: Barbara Simpson-Kerr of Calgary, a member of Canada's equestrian team; ice sitz; Vera Pezer, skip of the Canadian women's championship curling rink from Saskatoon, and Laurie Kreiner, a teen-age skier from Timmins, Ont., got one.

Miss Bourassa turned professional in January and exceeded the goals she set for herself—to win $10,000 and finish in the top 30 on the tour.

She won $18,086 and finished 19th.

Those were the awards made public, but along with one honor she undoubtedly wanted and didn't dare hope for—to be named rookie of the year.

The good-looking golfer of expressive mannerism and buoyant enthusiasm has a good chance for the award. Her $18,086 was a record for a rookie and she finished in the top 16 a total of 18 times.

She didn't win a tournament, but came close when she lost to veteran Kathy Whitworth in a playoff in the Southgate Open at Kansas City in August.

Perhaps her most important finish was in the U.S. Golf Association women's tournament—the prestige event of the tour—when she placed eighth.

She got her start thanks to a no-strings gift of $10,000 from J. Louis Levesque, Montreal financier and sportsman. So impressed was Levesque by Miss Bourassa's performance that he has agreed to sponsor a stop on the tour in Montreal in 1973.

Miss Bourassa, once considered a bit too demonstrative on Canadian golf courses by some of the more puritanical maidens, was a hit wherever she went on the U.S. tour.

Her propensity for dancing on greens, slapping her feet over the hole after a tricky putt dropped or telling herself off for poor play put her a shore many of her more famous colleagues with the gallories.

Plane Returns

Senior A hockey fans favorite Ralph Plaine will be performing in his first home game since Nov. 17 when the Belleville Quinte's face Orillia Terriers tonight.

The Quintes' captain suffered a broken nose and a badly sprained wrist in the November meeting with Barrie which sidelined him until last Saturday's 2-0 loss to the Cobi Hornets. The Terriers are currently in second place in the league standings with 18 points. Quintes have slipped to seventh with a 8-15 mark. Game time tonight is 9 p.m.

Aces Pad Hand

Kingston Aces will add 12 players for the Royal Bank International Hockey Tournament which commences Dec. 26.

Four players will be added from Sir George Williams University and Oshawa Generals of the OHA Junior A loop in addition to George Godson, Lorne O'Donnell and Greg Marchen of the Quintes.

Nixon Ponders Pause

Bombs May Stop

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (CP) — President Nixon's aides say he has left open the possibility he may order a Christmas pause in the heavy air and sea bombardment of North Vietnam.

Reporting that Nixon is "determined to take every step" to end the war in Vietnam, Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Friday, when asked about a Yuletide bombing halt, that he could not respond to such a question "at this time."

The press secretary talked to reporters after Nixon met for two hours with his top Vietnam advisers, Henry Kissinger and Gen. Alexander Haig.

The meeting in the president's bayfront home came shortly after Haig returned from Saigon with a letter in response to Nixon's reported threat to cut off aid to South Vietnam if President Nguyen Van Thieu refuses to sign a peace agreement.

Ziegler wouldn't disclose contents of Thieu's letter. But Saigon sources indicated Thieu offered to ease his demand for withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops if Hanoi recognizes South Vietnam as a separate state.

The press' secretary, when asked whether Nixon was optimistic or pessimistic about chances for peace, said: "The president is determined to take every step he can to move the situation to a point where a negotiated settlement can be reached . . . to bring the war to an end rapidly."

The Saigon government announced today that it would maintain a Christmas and New Year truce.

A U.S. command spokesman in the South Vietnamese capital declined to say whether the Americans would do the same.

However, diplomatic observers believe there is little prospect of a U.S. bombing halt lasting more than 24 hours, judging by Nixon's anger over the disappointing breakdown of direct secret peace talks in Paris.

Hanoi Minister Killed

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese sources said today that Defence Minister Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap of North Vietnam was killed in an explosion while inspecting bomb damage at Haiphong, where U.S. air forces continued to mount the biggest aerial blitz of the war.

The Associated Press quoted informants as saying Giap was killed Friday when a "delayed mine" exploded as he inspected damage at the Tran Hung Dao armaments plant in Haiphong.

Reuters news agency reported that South Vietnamese military sources, who declined to be quoted, said that Giap was "assassinated."

Sources said the report of Giap's death was picked up from a radio broadcast monitored in Saigon, but there was no separate evidence to support it. U.S. officials said they had no knowledge of the report.

Neither was there any mention of Hanoi radio of the death of the general.

Reuters said U.S. military sources tended to treat the report skeptically.

Giap, 60, led the Viet Minh to victory over the French in the first Indochina war and has been the principal architect of the North Vietnamese effort in the current war.

Giap spoke Thursday in Hanoi at a ceremony marking the 28th anniversary of the founding of the People's Army.

The North Vietnamese news agency today broadcast excerpts from the general's speech which defied the U.S. bombing and said that although U.S. planes may raze Hanoi and Haiphong, they would not bend the will of the Vietnamese people.

"Hanoi and Haiphong and other cities may be destroyed, but the Vietnamese people will not be intimidated," Giap said.

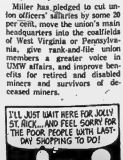
Lion on Loose

KINGSTON (CP) — A troupe of amateur actors was rehearsing a production of the children's play Dandy Lion Friday when someone noticed that the lion was missing.

The play is being presented free at the Grand Theatre today by members of the Collins Bay Penitentiary Drama Club.



The lion was being played—up to Friday, anyway—by Roy Donald Kelly, 28, serving a life sentence for non-capital murder at Bracebridge, Ont., in 1966. He has been active in the Drama at Collins Bay since his arrival in 1969.

The lion's costume was left behind and it was not a speaking part. Director Jill Chamberlain will double in the part.

Kelly's departure was discovered in a head count by a penitentiary escort among the 13 actors. Police were hunting for him.

70 Days on Slope

Andes Survival 'Miracle'

SAN FERNANDO, Chile (CP) — Eight of the 16 survivors of an October airliner crash began their 70th day today at the 12,000-foot level in the Andes Mountains, huddled together for warmth in the craft's broken fuselage.

Three mountain survival experts, with food, clothing and medicine, joined them after helicopters rescued six other survivors. Rescue officials called it a "Christmas miracle."

Flight crews wailed for clearing skies to resume the rescue mission in an area where clouds usually close high valleys by noon. The forecast was for some cloudiness but better conditions than prevailed the last three days, officials said.

Two Chilean air force helicopters lifted the first six survivors out Friday morning from the wreckage of the Uruguayan air force Fokker Friendship plane that crashed Oct. 13 on the Argentine-Chilean border.

Their discovery came after two other survivors, members of the Old Christians rugby team of Montevideo, Uruguay, gave up hope of being found and began walking out. After 10 days, they met a mountain shepherd who carried word to authorities that they and 14 others of the 45 persons aboard the plane had survived the crash, hunger, blizzards and avalanches.

News Briefs

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The National Earthquake Information Centre reported that a sizable earthquake occurred early today in Central America. The quake, which registered 6.5 on the open-ended Richter scale, was centred somewhat south of Managua, Nicaragua, the centre said. If the quake were shallow and occurred directly beneath the city of Managua, damage could be extensive.

Farms Deserted

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians continue to desert the rural life for the cities, Statistics Canada reported Friday. The 1971 census shows 76.1 per cent, 16,410,780 out of a total population of 21,568,-310, living in urban areas. The urban percentage was 73.8 per cent in the 1966 census. 14,726,759, out of a total population of 20,014,880. Percentages of population living in urban centres and rural areas were up in every province and both territories from 1966.

Ryerson in Red

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that a report prepared by a committee at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto recommends the school fire about 20 teachers and recruit more students to avoid financial disaster. The report, the Globe and Mail says, shows Ryerson has a $1.3-million deficit this year and will go further in the red unless enrolment is increased.

Milk Frozen

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A price freeze has been ordered on milk, cream, cheese and meat in Sweden, where housewives have protested price increases with marches and boycotts. The decree, which begins Jan. 1, freezes the prices of Thursday morning. The freeze is expected to remain in effect throughout next year, which is an election year. Last year the government introduced a general price freeze, but that was lifted and prices have spiralled upward.

Caught in Act

DETROIT (AP) — A secretly appointed police detachment has uncovered evidence implicating about 25 Detroit police officers in drug trafficking, the Detroit Free Press reports. The Free Press says it had learned the special squad's latest action was a dawn "raid" on a precinct station Dec. 8 in which the squad seized heroin and other drugs allegedly obtained illegally by the precinct's narcotics officers.

New Boss Firing

Miner Power New Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arnold Miller, the new president of the United Mine Workers Union, has asserted his power quickly by firing 20 union board members and temporarily replacing them with his own supporters.

"Coal miners have been pushed around enough," he said Friday.

Miller, who defeated W. A. (Tony) Boyle in a labor department-supervised election for the presidency, said the ousted board members had been illegally appointed by Boyle through trusteeships over 20 of the UMW's 23 districts around the United States.

"We could not stand by and let a little group of selfish men maintain the kind of grip on our nation that we fought so long to break," Miller said.

Miller, whose election victory was formally approved by a federal judge earlier Friday, appointed "prominent rank-and-file" union members to the executive board pending new district elections.

As several hundred coal miners, mostly from his home state of West Virginia, cheered and sang, For He's a Jolly Good Fellow, Miller, 49, took the job as UMW president at the union's headquarters here.

Present for the swearing-in ceremony was Joseph A. (Chip) Yablonski, lawyer son of the slain labor leader. The elder Yablonski, his wife and daughter were shot to death in their Clarksville, Pa., home several weeks after the 1969 election in which Boyle won re-election. A federal judge ordered another election after finding that Boyle's victory over Yablonski was marred by a widespread vote fraud.

Boyle, who resigned several days after Miller's UMW victory, has denied any knowledge of the murders. Two Tennessee union officials have been implicated in the slayings.

None of the old board members showed up at the ceremony Friday.

Miller has pledged to cut union officers' salaries by some 20 per cent, move the union's main headquarters into the coalfields of West Virginia or Pennsylvania, give rank-and-file union members a greater voice in UMW affairs, and improve benefits for retired and disabled miners and survivors of deceased miners.

Bombs Blast Truce

BELFAST (CP) — Two bombs rocked a Masonic hall in Belfast one minute after midnight, the time set for the beginning of the Irish Republican Army's 72-hour ceasefire, but no casualties were reported.

Later, a gunman was fired at a British soldier in a Roman Catholic area of the city but missed. "The man was on patrol," an army spokesman said. "He was not carrying out a search or anything like that."

The provisional wing of the IRA said Friday in announcing its ceasefire that it would apply only if troops refrained from search and arrest operations.

The partial truce, similar to one proclaimed last Christmas, came after 48 hours during which gunmen killed three persons and bombs damaged property in many areas, including Belfast. Three years of guerilla warfare has taken at least 078 lives in the province.

The Ulster Defence Association, a militant Protestant vigilante group, refused to join the ceasefire, which is to end at midnight Christmas night.

"We don't see why we should," said the UDA deputy leader Tommy Herron. "They started the whole bloody mess."

Guerrilla sources said the truce applied to offensive actions such as shooting attacks on the army, bombings and assassinations. But the sources stressed defensive tactics would continue.

Not Snow, Nor Dark of Night

Ice Delays Mail Delivery

Belleville postmen were pulled off the streets Friday, only the second time city residents have failed to have a mail delivery in post office history.

Postmaster Roy Wainwright blamed the cancellation on icy walking conditions that would have put the men's safety in danger.

"Under those conditions there was no way we could send the boys out" he said. "When you consider that they have to walk up about 200 driveways and porches each, you can be sure someone would have been hurt".

Only other cancellation occurred last winter following a similar ice storm. The extra load was delivered the next day.

Mr. Wainwright said the letter carriers' manual laying out working conditions states that in potentially hazardous situations, the men are not required to make deliveries.

Carrier supervisor Doug Burns tested a couple of side streets, then reported to Mr. Wainwright who made the decision to stay in.

Commercial and business offices still had deliveries but most are located on main routes and are served by public transportation.

The cancellation necessitated the calling back of extra help hired for the Christmas mail rush. Each of the 33 postmen will have an assistant when he goes out today, originally scheduled to be a clean-up day with service only making walks.

Mr. Wainwright advises that during an average winter, as many as one dozen men receive injuries due to treacherous conditions encountered on their routes.

Residents were informed of the cancellation by radio announcements broadcast Friday on CJBQ.

Accidents and Hurts Minor

TRENTON — Brighton detachment, Ontario Provincial Police this morning reported a rash of minor accidents, none of which resulted in serious injury to the parties involved.

Three passengers of two cars involved in a collision on Highway 401 were treated for minor injuries at Trenton Memorial Hospital and released. Police report a camper truck driven by Anthony Raymond-Lovell of Toronto, was turning into a service station east of Smithfield Road, when a car struck his truck from behind.

Injured was the passenger, Marguerite Marie Lovell, and passengers of the second car, Barry James Strong of Port Credit and Donald Gordon McDonald of Clarkson. Driver of the second vehicle, James William Hopkins of Port Credit, was uninjured. Total damage was estimated at $1,600.

At 5:40 p.m. Friday, a two-car collision on the railway bridge overpass west of Trenton on Highway 2, sent one driver to Trenton hospital with minor injuries.

Police report David Gordon Kippen of 67 Alice Street, Brighton, was charged with careless driving after his car plowed into the rear of a car driven by Daniel John Griffith, of 42 Young Street, Brighton.

Mr. Griffith was turning off the highway when the accident occurred. He was treated for injuries and released.

Total damage estimate was $800.

The third more serious of Friday's rash of accidents was a one-car flip on Highway 401, west of Dyer Road at 11.30 a.m. Friday.

Police report Joseph Scott of Weston, Ontario, was attempting to avoid colliding with a car that cut him off, when it struck an icy patch and crashed, rolling over on the median. He also was treated for injuries at TMH and released. Total damage was estimated at $7,000.

There are also nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Dec. 24 at 1.30 p.m. at the Hagle Funeral Home, Stirling with Rev. John Lombard officiating. Interment will be in St. Thomas' Anglican Cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM McKAY

Mrs. Myrtle Bernice McKay, of 87 West Street, died Friday evening at Belleville General Hospital in her 81st year.

Born in Huntingdon Township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alec Love. She was a member of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc.

She is survived by three sons, Ross, Telford and Jack, all of Belleville, two daughters, Mrs. James (Fern) Meloth of Belleville and Mrs. Robert (Edith) Nicol of Montreal, 21 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her husband William Anderson McKay, two brothers, William Love, Madoc, Albert Love, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan and three sisters, Mrs. Helen Gowley, Huntingdon, Mrs. Darce Jones of Togo, Saskatchewan and Mrs. Margaret Johnston of Madoc.

Visitation at the John R. Bush Funeral Home will be from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Christmas Eve and from 7 to 9 p.m. Christmas Day.

Funeral service, to be conducted by Rev. A. L. Sutherland, will be held in the funeral home chapel. Resting in the Belleville Cemetery vault for interment in the spring at Lakeview Cemetery, Madoc.

CHARLES FREDERICK KELLAR

The funeral for Charles Frederick Kellar was held in the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home Dec. 22, 1972 at 11 a.m.

Rev. Arthur Sheil officiated and interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Arnold Bartleti, Charles Lloyd, Ivan Emory, Stirling Shandraw, Andy Reynolds and Arthur Daimard.

Dreary Yule Forecast

It's going to be a dreary Christmas as far as weather is concerned.

The duty forecaster at CFB Trenton predicts that nature's Christmas present for Ontario is overcast skies, some periods of drizzle turning into freezing rain at night in northern areas, and mild temperatures.

But driving conditions should be good in Ontario, improving gradually east of Quebec.

Temperatures will hover in the mid-30s during the day and drop to about 30 at night. The thermometer will register in the low 30s most of today, with a low of 30 tonight and a high of 35 Sunday. Cloudy skies are in store for Christmas day, with some snow in the morning. Conditions will improve slightly during the day.

Some fog patches can be expected over the holiday weekend, but forecasters indicate the worst of the heavy fog is over.

Attack Fatal

SMITHFIELD — Sheets before 5 p.m. Friday, Rev. Kenneth McAllister, 68, of the United Church parish here, collapsed and died in the backyard of his home.

He was found by his wife.

A post mortem will be conducted today at Trenton Memorial Hospital, but it is believed Rev. McAllister may have suffered a heart attack, Brighton detachment, OPP Constable Robert Creighton investigated.

Radio Special For Christmas

CJBQ is broadcasting a 12-hour special on Christmas Day that, along with seasonal music, features clips by such memorable radio stars as Jack Benny and Jimmy Durante.

The 12-hour program, to be aired on both AM and FM, also contains historical broadcasts such as Harry Truman's first presidential Christmas speech.

Called Christmas Is, the show was produced by a New Westminster radio station. It will be heard in such centres as Deseronto Creek, Montreal and Little Rock, Ark., although CJBQ has exclusive rights for this area.

The program comes on the air at 1 p.m. Christmas Eve over the FM wavelength. AM listeners can tune in at 1 p.m. Christmas day.

The other highlight of Dec. 25's schedule is Queen Elizabeth's annual broadcast, at 10:03 a.m. Unlike former years, Prime Minister Trudeau will not make a Christmas speech but will be heard instead on New Year's Day.

CJBQ has been playing holiday music for the past several weeks and more of the popular Children Sing concerts, featuring area school choirs, can also be enjoyed at various times.

Head-on Cost $2,900

Belleville was hit by a rash of minor accidents Friday as drivers contended with slippery road conditions brought on by a morning ice storm.

Most serious accident occurred near Quinte Secondary School on College St. just before 6 p.m.

City police say Roy John Hoskin, of 51 Valleyview Cres. was apparently driving on the wrong side of the road when he collided head on with a Checker cab driven by Carl Edward Cronin.

Damage to the taxi totalled $1,800 and to the Hoskin vehicle $1,100. Both drivers were taken to Belleville General Hospital but were later released.

Hoskin, 25, has been charged with careless and dangerous driving. Other charges are pending.

BRUSHE — In loving memory of a dear father, Camille Brushe who passed away December 23, 1971.
Although we smile and seem happy,
Deep in our hearts we mourn in vain,
And when sad times we will not borrow,
That's when we miss him most of all.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Edna and son-in-law Ted.

ALLEN — In loving memory of a dear father Harold Allen who passed away five years ago, December 2, 1967.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day, dear Father,
That we don't think of you.
Sadly missed by Donald William and family.

MINNIE — In loving memory of a dear husband and loving grandfather, Ernest Minnie who passed away Dec. 24, 1971.
A million times we've cried,
A million times we've cried,
If we could have you back again,
Dear, dear husband,
Things we feel most deeply,
Are the hardest things to say,
Our dearest dad, we loved you,
Yes, more than words can say,
And we could have you back again,
One dream that could come true,
We'd pray to God with all our heart,
For yesterday with you.
Sadly missed and mourned by wife Blossay and family.

Teachers Request 1973 Conferences

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Prince Edward elementary and secondary school teachers have requested two conferences relating to professional development from the kindergarden to grade 13 level.

Teachers Eugene Selder and Sharon Campbell last night told school trustees of two conferences which have been planned tentatively for 1973.

The first conference, to be held February 23, will feature a discussion of student, parent, teacher rapport led by Dr. Morgenson, head of the psychology department at the University of Waterloo. It is topic will be Working With the Total Student.

A second meeting on April 11 will be organized as a seminar. Teachers will be briefed on the workshops available and allowed to attend the ones of their choice.

Mr. Selder said one of these will involve the metric system which he predicts will have "a pretty profound impact on us in the next few years, particularly in teaching." Another conference workshop will be based on Video Unlearning. Creative drama could provide a third seminar and kindergarten to grade 13 physical education and the multi-media also may be introduced for discussion. Two metric workshops have been planned.

Mr. Selder said he expects to see the metric system introduced in schools here during the next two or three years.

Trustees supported a motion to close schools at 1:30 p.m. on the days when conferences are held for county teachers.

Former Bellevillian Wins Major Post

A native of Belleville and former member of the clerk's office staff here at city hall, Wayne Woods, 31, deputy clerk of the city of Galt, has been appointed clerk for the new Waterloo Region council. The position carries a salary of $15,500.

Mr. Woods was in the city clerk's office at Belleville for four years and was named secretary of the city committee of adjustment in 1968. He has been deputy clerk at Galt for the past seven years.

Mr. Woods said his appointment was a challenge. "We have a chance to learn from past mistakes and get regional administration started properly," he said.

Christmas for the Vets

War veterans now in nursing homes have not been forgotten this Christmas. Royal Canadian Legion and the Belleville Poppy Committee combined resources and will present veterans and their widows with such gifts as flowers, fruit baskets, chocolates and tobacco. Enjoying the aroma are Jack Lacey, chairman of the legion's sick and welfare committee, and Dorothy Berrage, secretary - treasurer of the poppy committee.

Storm Casualty

Freezing rain left the Redmerville Road a bottle-smooth surface Friday and many commuters who tried to travel the route before sanders could get into action wound up as stranded in the ditch. A grade, three miles east of Carrying Place near the intersection at Bryant Side Road, proved extremely difficult to navigate for the drivers of these two vehicles. The drivers, however, were able to walk away to report the incident.

Nurses Busy

Public health nurses with the Quinte branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses made a total of 1,429 visits to give nursing care during the month of November, according to the report of Miss Valerie Trask, nurse in charge.

In addition, they made 12 calls on behalf of patients or to offer health supervision.

During November last year the total of nursing care visits was 904.

Last month the branch had 49 patients requiring nursing care, more than double the number in the same month last year.

Throughout November, the Belleville office has participated in the medical secretary course at Loyalist College.

Banquet Business Booming

While most Quinte residents are burying themselves with preparations for Christmas '72 the Royal Canadian Legion is preparing for Christmas '73.

The way reservations are going, large groups will not be able to book Legion facilities for the next yuletide season unless they act quickly.

"Already each of the four prime Saturdays prior to Christmas next year have been taken by large functions and booking are starting to back up into Fridays and Thursdays", said Herb Cavalier, secretary manager of the Legion building.

In his estimation, the Legion is moving into the heavy catering field, soliciting larger and larger groups.

We are starting to be recognized in the community as a good facility and already 50 per cent of our gross revenue is made up from banquets, which is the reasoning behind the planning of the building", he said.

Mr. Cavalier sees the banquet revenue increasing to 75 per cent of the total building revenue in the next year.

The Legion is becoming such a catering machine that steps are being taken to create an entirely separate entity to handle the commercial aspects of the building as opposed to strictly Legion functions, taken care of by the Legion board of directors.

Mr. Cavalier said a motion to this effect was passed at the last meeting.

"We are throwing the door open to banquets — they will pay the bills for the building."

Christmas 1972

Christmas 1972, as in years past, is being played out against a background of fear and unrest in some parts of the world.

In Vietnam strong hopes of an early settlement of the conflict there have been dashed, for the time being at least, while in Northern Ireland a seemingly endless social and political malaise continues on its squalid and violent course.

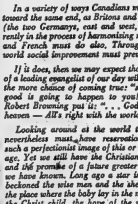
In the Middle East too, "incidents" still occur between Arabs and Jews. Here, amid the sun-baked hills and deserts where Christ walked, there are virtually irreconcilable differences of outlook, of race, of living standards.

It does seem though as if life there has been a little less violent of late. There have been fewer threats emanating from Cairo, in terms of all-out war, seeking a revenge that could really be "ashes in their mouths" as the late President Kennedy phrased it in connection with that other potential confrontation, the Cuban missile crisis.

There are the other aberrations of modern society — aircraft hijackings, the drug scene, the fear that grips the big cities of the United States in particular, the robberies and the muggings and the killings, and not forgetting the terrible carnage on the roads every year — in the U.S. and Canada some 55,000 killed annually in auto accidents and two million injured.

Human nature does not change. The dark side of human behavior is always present. Only the methods by which man exhibits his inhumanity to man have changed. But it is also in the nature of man, as he strives to be truly civilized, to seek a higher plane, what today we call "quality of life." If we serve to accept Gresham's Law in its broadest sense (not just as it applies to money), that the bad drives out the good, we might well sound the alarm. Rather, life goes on, the fittest survive — because they believe in life, in humanity, in the ongoing progress of society, in conservation and respect for others, in justice for all.

There are some signs of hope in the world, of a sense of responsibility: in the new understanding needed for human survival in the United States — and by association other nations of like interests — and the most populous nation on earth, China; signs of concern for the world's material resources, with parallel initiatives to limit population growth and curb pollution in all its forms.



The incredible explorations of the moon by U.S. astronauts have also been carried out with peaceful and constructive intent. They will go far toward unlocking secrets of the universe that still elude us.

If the United States can now devote as much time and money to raising the standard of living of its disadvantaged, among its affluent society, work toward erasing its slums and curbing its spiralling crime statistics, it will move still further toward social betterment.

In a variety of ways Canadians must work toward the same end, as Britons and Germans (the two Germanys, east and west, are currently in the process of harmonizing relations) and French must do also. Throughout the world social improvement must proceed.

If it does, then we may expect those words of a leading evangelist of our day will have all the more chance of coming true: "something good is going to happen to you!" Or as Robert Browning put it: "... God's in His heaven — All's right with the world."

Looking around at the world today, we nevertheless must...find reassurance about such a perfectionist image of this or any other age. Yet we still have the Christian ideal — and life promises of a future greater than any we have known. Long ago a star in the east beckoned the wise men and the shepherds to the place where the baby lay in the manger — the Christ child, the hope of the world, the same then, the same today and tomorrow.

Government in High-wire Act

Political Deadlock Dampens Celebrations on the Hill

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Christmas it may be out your way, but merry it is not on Parliament Hill.

This new variety of — all-minority Parliaments opens in 13 days and there seems to be an Honorable Gentleman who is not dismayed.

But appearances are deceiving.

The Hill has never been more festively dressed.

Two towering spruce trees on the broad snowy lawns and another even larger evergreen behind the Parliamentary Library on the brow of the Ottawa River encampment wear 10,000 lights.

The Hall of Fame is decked with lights outlining the archways, and four more decorated trees glitter in the broad white marble corridors.

All through the hugely rambling Centre Block and across the lawns in the century-old West Block there have been sounds this week of wassailing.

The parliamentary staffs are celebrating while Parliament is off the time and the holiday occasion for it before the orders when the House of Commons opens the new and uncertain and indefinite season.

The staffs have been partying more out of seasonal tradition or holiday habit than any real compulsion to make merry.

Premises stretching behind the parliamentary opening are just too unsettled for either civil servant or politician to really put their heart into the Christmas festivities.

And this is a whole dismaying change of parliamentary pace.

Back in all or most of the Parliament routinely has approached the Christmas — New Year as a mid-winter holiday, lasting well into January and even as late as February.

There may have been a political crisis of one sort or another from time to time, but nothing comes to mean or be having been serious enough to dampen the Christmas holiday spirit.

Whatever the political prospects have been in those years reaching back to the days of Mackenzie King, it was Commons custom to declare a long holiday truce for Christmas.

But not this time.

For this new 29th Parliament is different.

The Liberals will have the cabinet - over two - votes majority over the Conservatives.

In a confrontation with the combined opposition, they will be losers by 48 votes.

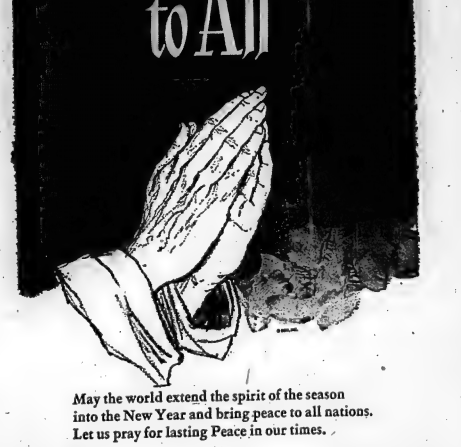
So the trick will be to keep the Commons in balance.

It should be the greatest political high-wire act since it's a parliamentary curtain - raiser back in 1867.

And all hands, Liberal, Conservative, New Democratic, Social Credit and Independent will be playing starring roles.

For none of them, government nor opposition, wants another election now in the snows and deep-freeze of winter.

They are not organized for it. They cannot afford another election. And most of all Chief Electoral Officer Jean - Marc Hamel insists he cannot possibly get things all together for another vote until spring.



But the surprises who so roundly rebuked the Liberals last October will be expecting action and plenty of it.

So the Liberals will have to back off some of the issues that got them into trouble. The Conservatives will have to think them — but not too hard to topple them. And the NDP will have to come to their aid, but avoid the suspicion of propping up a stalwart government.

One vote conceivably could bring the whole house down.

So everyone, cabinet minister and backbencher, will have to be on the job every day. It has to be a hard, if not necessarily long siege — a compact parliamentary "sit-in" for everyone.

Nothing really to celebrate.

May the world extend the spirit of the season into the New Year and bring peace to all nations. Let us pray for lasting Peace in our times.

Latin American Expansion for Canadian Plants

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Services

Three Canadian multi-national companies with major interests in the Western Hemisphere have announced business expansion arrangements in Latin America. The fact the three came almost at once is coincidental.

But put together, the latest moves of Brascan Ltd., Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. and Massey-Ferguson Ltd. make good news for those who still see this hemisphere as a place for international business prospects.

Brascan, the former Brazilian Light and Power Ltd., Brazil's second largest company, has joined with CAEMI, a Brazilian group of private companies to purchase the Swift-Armour meat-packing business in Brazil.

The Socialist military regime in Peru, a tougher business prospect than free enterprise-oriented Brazil, will permit Massey-Ferguson Ltd. to build a local tractor-manufacturing plant as well as enter into a joint venture with Volvo of Sweden to build tractor engines in Peru.

The third item of good news for Canadian business in Latin America is that Alcan Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. and a large Brazilian mining company have signed a joint venture arrangement to reopen major bauxite mining at Trombetas, near the Amazon River basin.

These kinds of business arrangements are not entered into overnight, nor made public before much negotiation has been carried out. Therefore, they indicate continued confidence by Canadian private enterprise in business opportunities in various Latin American countries.

Add to these, the reappearance of Canadian banks in South America—the Toronto Dominion Bank for example will open an office in Sao Paulo in Brazil—and Canada would appear to be competing with the European and Japanese industrial giants who have shown more daring in penetrating developing economies.

These kinds of arrangements like several others made in the recent past, also point to a substantial sophistication by Canadian investors in Latin America and other Third World national economies. It is foreign participation not foreign penetration which those countries want.

Indeed it is more than a matter of choice for us. Economic nationalism, even in Brazil which is taking a strongly private enterprise route compared to the state socialism in most developing nations, is strong and persuasive.

The foreign businessman who thinks he can sell his kit of high-cost manufactured goods, which those countries want to make more cheaply for themselves in local economies, is as dead as the dodo. If he comes with capital and managerial know-how to participate as a partner in a particular country, sales can usually begin from there.

This less-hopeful prospect in the news of more business for Canadian industry in Latin America is that such deals apply largely to major companies with big cash flows. They can afford to take a few losses until they settle into their new arrangements.

In time, any foreign-based national corporation, the omnipresent Marxist left excluded, will run up against virulent nationalism—and the omni-present Marxist left. They will make new forms of economic imperialism—not only arise from such arrangements.

For them, the dependency thesis, calling for a country with little industry, to go it alone, can be disastrous. There are plenty of examples of such failures in the Third World economies, the Chilean at the present time, being the most obvious.

Members Sit Through Marathon House Session

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

If any evidence of need for the Camp committee on the Legislature was required it certainly was provided by the silly goings on in the closing hours of the recent session.

When a house of adult men and women can't order itself better than to sit for 22 hours, and throughout the night, much of it in a petulant attitude, then corrections obviously are needed.

For this particular incident the government must get most of the blame.

The direction of the house, and the ordering of its business is its responsibility.

On its behalf, it is true that in jamming business into the final days and hours of a session it was only following its usual practice.

Governments have been doing this for a long time.

But the practice is one which always has been questionable. Its main purpose, of course, has been to get through controversial legislation without too much debate.

Certainly it is not a practice which can be regarded as high in principle.

And today it is one which can be regarded, or should be regarded, as politically decadent.

The practice is a shadow from the day when members were relatively short (some five or six weeks compared to the present five or six months) and our questions of public affairs relatively uncomplicated.

In those days members were part-timers and there was little call for expert debate.

The climate has now changed entirely.

Members are full-timers—when they are not doing their duties they are busy in their ridings.

And the economic, social and environmental questions of this moment in our history call for specialized knowledge and discussion.

It is true there must be somebody over the house. Some members would speak forever if given the chance.

But last-minute bull sessions are not the adult way to secure this control.

U.S. Bombs Supplant Peace Negotiations

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

As we approach the season of "Peace on earth and goodwill toward all men" the American nation must reflect on the latest piece of pusillanimous diplomacy executed in their name.

Unable to browbeat the North Vietnam delegation into a settlement that would allow the United States to leave the negotiation table with the myth that America has never lost a war, President Nixon has turned loose the bombers.

While a disillusioned and disenchanted American people subscribe to the tenets and hollow preparation for a "good old-fashioned American Christmas" thousands of innocent people are being killed, maimed and injured in order to perpetuate belief in American invincibility.

Since July 1954, when the U.S. first introduced "military advisers" into Vietnam, the Hollywood - created impression of the indefatigability of the American fighting man has been completely destroyed.

Man for man, the tough little men of Hanoi have demonstrated time and time again, that the half-bearded G.I. who would sooner be at home than slogging through rice paddies, is reluctant in his role of "protector."

Daily we read of the poor discipline existing among the U.S. troops. As their disgust mounts the more vicious and often outright rebellion is only just around the corner. Instead of heroes engaged in a just mission, we see a disorganized rabble that makes little attempt to conceal its dissatisfaction with the administration back home.

Tricky Dick Nixon has failed, the American people dismay, and if this latest massacre is not stopped immediately it could well be responsible for plunging the world into global confrontation number three.

This is not the way the Americans have lost — a fact that is apparent to everyone except President Nixon. Get out and get the men home.

The money spent on the moon missions and the war in Vietnam could, and should have been directed toward correcting the dreadful social inequities that exist in America itself.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

Editor's Note: United States troops are no longer engaged in combat missions in Vietnam. Thousands of men have been withdrawn on the orders of President Nixon, leaving us up to present, only about 30,000 from a force that originally totalled approximately 500,000. The North Vietnamese for their part are guilty of earlier infractions of the so-called demilitarized zone, as well as indiscriminate killing of, fleeing refugees.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

December 22, 1952

A gathering of the student and graduate nurses of the Belleville General Hospital, Kenneth E. Hart the interne, a number of the departmental heads, and the new superintendent, Margaret Peart, held a Christmas party in the Ritchie Memorial residence.

For a few hours Monday afternoon leg braces were as light as feathers and crutches weighed less than mushrooms. More than 50 crippled and otherwise handicapped Belleville and district children attended the annual Christmas party given for them by Shriners at the Shrine Club.

December 23, 1942

The greatest of festivals of the Christian year is at hand—Christmas. The people will be caught up in the full consciousness of the spirit of Christmas Day. In many churches this time is one of the most beautiful significances in the glory of the coming of the Christ child and how He has transformed history and human society. On this day carols are sung and gifts are had by the children. Ordinarily adults instruct the children. On this day the young teach the old the most beautiful lessons. A little child leadeth them: what is more emblematic of the ideal society and the Christian ideal lessons of kindliness and generosity does it teach? The goal is worth the effort.

Before the last bag of potatoes will have been given out by the members of the local fire department, 190 needy families in the city will have been cared for by the local boys in blue. Eighty quantities of potatoes of all sorts, honey, flour, apples and other goodies have already been distributed so far, and more will be given out before the end of the week. Much credit is given all members of the department as well as Fire Chief Lunch who organized the dance from which the necessary funds were obtained and who was assisted by Asst. Chief Gerald Vance.

Christmas Messages

Canadian Church Heads Plead For Slowing Age's Fast Pace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An appeal to slow the frenzied pace of the space age and to reflect upon the true meaning of Christ's birth is the central theme running through this year's Christmas messages by the prominent churches in Canada.

Dr. Max V. Putnam, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, asks Canadians to "stop to think that Christmas is the greatest compliment God ever paid the world."

The Right Rev. N. Bruce McLeod, moderator of the United Church of Canada, says that "sometimes at Christmas, in the middle of a carol, or by a child's bed, or alone in a crackling night, the earth is a whole cosmos into view" and "we know that hunger is wrong and hate and fear, and that families are for loving, and strangers are for speaking to."

David S. Simmonds, president of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, says that "in this amazing age of space travel and split-second timing, the wonder of the coming of Jesus nearly 2,000 years ago becomes even more startling."

Archbishop E. W. Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, says that God proclaimed by His being "that life must be measured not in the abundance of material goods, physical prowess, or even intellectual ability, but in the quality of one's 'being' as a person."

Sphinx and Madonna Represent Rival Forces

By REV. GORODN SMYTH

It has been the genius of art to capture and embody the struggles of the human soul. In one of the leading European galleries hangs Raphael's greatest Madonna, called the Madonna of St. Sixtus.

Among the dreary sands at the edge of the Egyptian desert under the shadow of the Pyramids, stands the mighty Sphinx, the product of human hands, but so calm in its majestic solitude that it is difficult to think of it as the work of man at all.

These two suggest comparisons far from fanciful. They represent great forces contesting in history and in individual lives. Fatalism and Providence, the Sphinx and Madonna respectfully proclaim. Both endeavor to express a union of humanity with something superior. One seeks to join us with the strength of the animal. The other seeks to join us with the strength of the divine.

One smiles wisdom and power, claiming our homage for the combination. The other smiles wisdom and sympathy, inviting our confidence. The Sphinx has life in its face written into a riddle, a question, a mocking bewilderment. The Virgin's face outlines a mystery which really explains a thousand mysteries.

The Sphinx surely causes us to draw back from its colossal size. The Virgin surely attracts us as a glorification of humanity. The Egyptian monster is alone amid surrounding sands. The lovely mother has a beautiful infant in tender arms.

The Gospel was outlined in the flesh in Bethlehem stable. It has been enshrined in matchless stories by Matthew and Luke. No painter's brush could equal it. Mary is there. Joseph is there. The great and humble are there. People from near and far are there. The child is there. And God is there, keeping watch over His own.

No religion with such a beginning could lose the struggle of humans to find a consistent interpretation of the meaning of the universe, our place in it, and ultimate destiny.

H. G. Wells, who poured acid scorn on Christian orthodoxy, died in despair in his bed. How ever Martin Luther King, Jr., was able to die with high optimism on behalf of the full gospel of the Incarnation.

The Apostle Paul wrote to the early church at Corinth, "For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sake he became poor so that by His poverty you might become rich."

Charles H. Malik, late President of the United Nations General Assembly said: "If you ask me what Christ's message is I will try to tell you. What he says to the two power blocks is: 'Resolve your differences peacefully. If you must fight, be humane; and remember that history is completely in the palm of my hands and I am its Lord'."

Christianity is a religion of incarnation. The doctrine of the Virgin Birth is one view of incarnation. This doctrine was incorporated in the creed about the start of the third century, not to defend the Lord's divinity but to safeguard it's truth against the heresy that he only seemed to be human.

I am aware of texts and counter-texts in the Bible, on the Virgin Birth. I am aware that medical science has come to a new humility in this regard. Maybe we should learn to be humble as well, instead of taking up unyielding positions to do battle.

When all is said and done, I do not see how there could be one God and two kinds of divinity. We have the assurance that God enters our lives because God entered life in Christ.

No wonder Christmas is a time to cast off our rags and claim the wealth of both a head-held and heart-felt faith. The most immediate sign of the glad tidings of great joy intended for all people, once these are heard and accepted, is that we are inspired in the presence of One who understands us, believes in us, and stirs us to be and do what we may have hitherto only dreamed.

Christians Fail To Aid Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM (AP) — The mayor of Bethlehem complained that this queen of Christian cities is a shabby lady.

The town council says Christians around the world should send money to support Bethlehem. Israel took the town from Jordan in the 1967 war.

"Bethlehem, not Rome, is the capital of the Christian world," says Mayor Elias Freij. "Here Christ was born—but all the Christians have not a penny to spare for its upkeep."

Colored lights are being strung across Manger Square. Souvenir shops are working overtime to produce ivory crucifixes and olive-wood babes in the manger for the expected 15,000 pilgrims.

Manger Square, besides being the reputed site of the manger where the baby Jesus lay, is a yearning for tourist cash.

Only on Christmas is it cleared to make way for the pilgrims who attend midnight mass at the Church of the Nativity, built on the traditional site of the manger.

"Is this what the visitor is to find outside his holiest church?" asked Freij. "A parking lot!"

Ann Landers
Raging Debate Continues Over Value of Cats

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet you've already heard more than you care to from cat lovers. May I have the last word?

The nerve of that person saying: "All cat-haters are vicious, mean and underhanded. I have never met a cat-hater who wasn't a scoundrel."

Have you ever been awakened in the dead of night by the awful howling of a cat during full moon? It's enough to make your hair stand on end. On the other hand, do you know what it is to awaken to the lovely melody of a mockingbird or a redwined blackbird or even a common sparrow? Have you ever fed these lovely creatures and seen them become so tame they would sit on your shoulder and eat out of your hand? They do harm no one, only help to keep trees and bushes free of insects.

Cats. What do they do? They rip hosiery and draperies and furniture. But worse yet, have you ever gone out into the yard and found the body, or a wing and the feet of a little bird —all that was left of him? Of course it was the cat who did the dirty work.

Cats do have a place—in a barn, with the rats.—J.K.M. and Friends

Dear J.K.M.: Take that and add that and that all you cat lovers —and now the score is Lions 2 Christians 10!

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have a good marriage. I am not the jealous type and so far as I know Denny has never been unfaithful. We have been married less than three years.

Recently Denny went to another city on business. His boss accompanied him at the last minute. Denny and I are friendly with a couple in that city. The wife met Denny at the airport. She's an attractive girl and the boss assumed she was his out-of-town mistress. Denny thought it was highly amusing and didn't bother to set him straight. He seems pleased that his boss now thinks he's a womanizer.

When Denny related the incident to me I was hurt. I feel this is a serious reflection on me and I am not sure I could ever socialize with his boss and his wife again.

Am I making too much of it? I hate feeling foolish, but I don't like being depressed either.—Troubled Mind

Dear T.M.: He who excuses himself accuses himself. Your husband was smart not to go out of his way to describe the woman as a friend of the family, etc. You cannot read the boss's mind—and neither can your husband. I'll bet he's got the picture straighter than you think. My advice is to forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: When you read this letter you'll probably say, "A 17-year-old kid who doesn't have anything more to worry about is pretty lucky." But my problem is bugging me like crazy. I can't grow sideburns.

I've been trying to shave for two years but there's hardly anything to take off. The only spot on my face that really grows is my chin. I envy the guys with bushy mutton-chops. Some dudes my age even have beards. Is there anything I can do to help things along, like maybe take shots or pills? Once a woman wrote to you about a certain medication that made hair grow on her chest. Maybe I should be taking it. I need advice.—Hairless

Dear Hairless: Accept the fact that some guys just can't grow sideburns and you're one of them. This whole hairy scene is a fad and it will pass. When it does, you'll be one of the lucky guys who won't have to spend much time shaving.

Gifts Exchanged From Secret Pals

The December meeting of the Elmbrook Friendship Circle was held at the Picton residence of Mrs. Howard Norton.

The exchange of presents from secret pals took place; followed by a contest given by Mrs. Ella Gorsline, and won by Mrs. G. Benson.

Mrs. Howard Norton, president, opened the meeting. The minutes of the previous meeting were given by Mrs. George Benson in the absence of Mrs. Orval May, secretary; and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. Arthur Stone. A discussion arose concerning methods of raising money for the Sunday School; a thank you card from Rev. Don Valleau was read followed by a reading, "Our Christmas Blahs" by Mrs. H. Norton.

Mrs. Raymond Jinks then took charge of the devotional part of the meeting, with the theme being, "Spirit of Christmas". The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Jinks, followed by various readings pertaining to the Christmas theme by Mrs. R. Jinks, Mrs. Reg. Moore and Mrs. Carol Kerr.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Are some people afraid of science?

YES; many individuals think science has gone too far in advancing technology. Others criticize the cold, impersonal nature of science saying that its practitioners are more interested in proving theories than in responding to human values. Extreme views against science hold that since truth can hurt it takes too literally in human relations, literal, scientific truth may also be damaging at times.

Must a child be taught self-reliance?

If it isn't necessary, he begins to learn how to be independent almost from the day of his birth. Parents, however, must sometimes be taught how to let their child grow away from them. A mother, for instance, may be so afraid to think of the day when her child will be independent that she will unconsciously use her love to keep him dependent upon her, withholding love when the youngster acts on his own and lavishing it on him when he clings to her.

Does a 'man's woman' lack femininity?

NO; if anything, a woman who induces a man to say, "I like you because you're a real man's woman," is more feminine than a woman who never consciously lets a man forget she is a woman. What prompts a man to express such a remark is that a man delights in being in the company of a woman who is so interested in him that she doesn't have to keep telling him she is a very feminine woman—he finds that out for himself.

Skating Rinks Built In Three Easy Steps

With cold weather and snow on the ground, it's time for skating and hockey. You can construct a backyard skating rink on lawn areas without damage. If you are careful, says R. F. Gomme, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

It is preferable that the ground be frozen in the location you choose. Start the rink after the first heavy snowfall. Select a level area and outline the rink by mounding extra snow around the perimeter. Be sure to tramp the area around the rink to prevent water from draining away. Boards placed on edge will make ideal hockey cushions. Level the rink surface by dragging it with a snow shovel or a toboggan.

Spray light layers of water to build a base, letting each layer freeze before adding the next. A garden hose or lawn sprinkler is excellent for this. Sometimes large plastic sheets can be used to help retain the water. Holes in the rink or cracks across can be patched with snow, then soaked with water.

Once a good base has been established, easy layer of water will begin to level the ice surface. When the rink is in perfect condition, the only upkeep is a brush of light snow and apply another fine spray of water.

Little Watering Required For Winter House Plants

With the dull short days of winter upon us, most house plants take a rest and will make little new growth until the days become longer and brighter in mid - February.

SLICK TRICK

• Use a rolling pin to help lay linoleum — roll out air pockets with it, and push the material down firmly so it will stick evenly.

Avoid over - watering house plants during this dormant period, says R. A. Fleming, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Most house plants should be kept a little on the dry side. Many require watering only once a week, and some even less. When the plants need water, be sure to water thoroughly so the soil is moistened right to the bottom of the pot. The excess moisture should drain away quickly.

By keeping the plants on the dry side, they should be in excellent condition to start growing with the brighter days of spring.

Successful Living
Child Without Fear Adult Without Problems

By DORIS CLARK

The door is on the latch tonight.
The hearth fire is aglow;
I seem to hear soft passing feet.
The Christ Child in the snow.
My heart is open wide tonight.
For stranger, kith or kin;
I would not bar a single door
Where love might enter in.

At Christmastime, teacher Elizabeth M. Allen of High Point, North Carolina, asked her class of fifth graders to answer this question: "If you could give any gift you wanted to, what would you give and to whom?" Here are some of the responses her students wrote:

—The gift I would most like to give would be love. It lasts forever and never grows dull. It can be given to anyone that you like. —John Brandon

—If I could give one gift I would give it to my parents. If I could give them to get along together. And to live together forever. Tyra

—I would give my self after my mouth. If I could give that gift, I would give anything in this world if they would live together. And make up their minds if they are going to live together.—Fonda Hunter.

—I would give a small orphan child friendship, fun and love where he would be happy. I would tell him never to be sad.—Amanda Greene.

—I would give jobs and good homes to the poor and starving all over the world.—Laurie Kerr.

—I would like to give happiness to the people that have not smiled.—Larry Shaw.

—If I had one gift, I would give it to my mother. I would give her a washer and dryer. Because I love her, and she works too hard.—Jeanne Byrd.

—I would give my crippled grandmother the power to walk. She stays alone down in her home in South Carolina. We left our dog down there to keep her company. She seems real happy when we come; but she gets sad when we leave. She stayed two years in our house, but she wanted to go back home, because she thinks she is too much trouble; but she's not. —Sylvia Johnston.

Writes Mrs. Allen:

We have been quite surprised at the reaction to our article. I was impressed by the unselfishness of the children's wishes, and on impulse, sent them to Guideposts.

Thank you, Mrs. Allen. I am impressed by the kind of teacher they must have.

God Bless Us Every One!
Doris.

Garden Soils Not Suitable For Growing House Plants

It is important to obtain good potting soil for house plants, says R. A. Fleming, horticultural specialist Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. Garden soils alone are not suitable. It is difficult to mix garden soil, humus and sand in the correct combination for individual house plants. However, the problem can be solved by using a name - brand, artificial potting mixture available at garden centres and seed stores.

Artificial soil mixes are formulated to allow for good root penetration, aeration, rapid drainage and waterholding capacity. Most artificial potting mixes will contain some plant food. However, regular feeding with plant tablets or liquid fertilizer will be needed to maintain healthy, vigorous growth of most plants.

Cherney's
FURNITURE WORLD

Inglis' "One Millionth" Washer" Winner!

Congratulations, Mrs. E. M. P. Elmy of Roslin, Ont.

Mrs. Elmy is celebrating Christmas early this year. She entered Inglis' "One Millionth Washer" Contest at Cherney's Furniture World Salecentre here in Belleville and she won the Grand Prize. That means she receives the complete set of John Inglis appliances. An automatic washer, automatic dryer, refrigerator, dishwasher, trash masher compactor and a frost-free freezer. Picture above is the Inglis representative for the Belleville area Bob Belding showing Mrs. Elmy some of the features of the Inglis front load dishwasher and beside her is the Belleville Manager for Cherney's Furniture World, Doug Shaw. Merry Christmas Mrs. Elmy!

Who's Board with Christmas ?

Telephone operators have one of the busiest jobs at Christmas. Mrs. Monica Byrd, (standing) and Mrs. Peggy DiGenova, Bell Telephone operators in Belleville, begin to handle the Christmas rush of telephone calls from Belleville area residents.

WEDDING

Rev. Roy Vessey officiated at the December 1 folk wedding ceremony in College Hill United Church when Marilyn Elaine Bailey exchanged vows with William Bruce Rae. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rae, Belleville. Folk singer Miss Dawne Brown rendered music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a floor length chocolate brown peasant dress with petite velvet red roses and green leaves imprinted. She carried a cascade of 20 red carnations, while a wreath of red mums and green fern adorned her hair.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Marlene Williams, selected an empire waisted deep purple peasant dress. She carried a bouquet of mixed white and deep purple mums.

Best man was James Williams.

For the reception held at College Hill United Church, the bride's mother received guests wearing a rust brown street length dress accented by a mandarin collar.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a mauve print street-length dress with long sleeves accented by a matching sleeveless coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Rae will reside at 15 Earl St., Belleville.

Marzipan Candy Made For Children and Adults

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton cest almonds. If fewer almonds la6s claim to having the only professional confectioner in Canada still making marzipan by hand, the traditional way.

Marzipan has been an integral part of European Christmas fare for centuries, and a visit to Boehmfeld's candy shop in downtown Hamilton is a trip in nostalgia.

Heinz Boehmfeld, who came to Canada from Germany 20 years ago, is an artist in the modelling and coloring of marzipan. There are crocodiles and turtles, performing seals and penguins and bright pink pigs to delight children. For their parents are lifelike copies of turkeys and pork chops, fish and whole hams and a whole market garden assortment of miniature fruits and vegetables.

"Christmas wouldn't be the same without marzipan," said Boehmfeld's wife Frieda. She recalled childhood Christmases in East Prussia when every child found a plate of marzipan novelties awiil his presents under the Christmas tree.

The basis of marzipan is a mixture of almonds and sugar, to which each master confectioner adds his own secret ingredients to transform the almond paste into a smooth and aromatic confection with a rich, haunting taste.

Mr. Boehmfeld said his basic almond paste is made the traditional European way with 50 per

First, the almonds are skinned, washed and cooled. Then they are crushed and roasted in copper kettles. The importance of crushing the nuts and not grinding them is emphasized by the Hamilton confectioner. The delicate almond oil is lost in grinding, he said.

From this point on, the ingredients which Mr. Boehmfeld adds are known only to him and his family.

Traditionally, however, the finest marzipan has contained rosewater or orange extracts, extra confectioners' sugar or fondant and sometimes egg white.

Marzipan should be kept in a airtight container in a cool place to keep it fresh and tender.

Christmas, Another Day For Those On Call

Some people have to work at Christmas.

Among them are telephone operators who prepare to handle the annual Christmas Day rush of calls to family and friends throughout Canada, United States and overseas.

George Thompson, Bell manager in Belleville, reports that almost 30 operators will be on duty to handle approximately 3200 operator handled long distance calls made by Belleville area residents.

The telephone company is preparing to handle about 800,000 long distance calls — each lasting an average of 11 minutes — on Christmas Day alone.

Bell Canada suggests that callers dial their own long distance calls to take advantage of dial-direct savings and help avoid delays.

Spreading long distance calls over the holiday weekend will help keep telephone lines from experiencing "traffic jams".

That's the technical side.

An fact actually working on Christmas day, & requires a sacrifice that operators eventually get used to and plans are made in IR schedules.

Christmas can actually be celebrated at any time, the feeling is still the same, with husbands and children chipping in to cook dinner.

A lot goes on behind the scenes and people oftimes take operators for granted. The operator plays a big part in deciding how busy an operator will be on Christmas day and how often her patience is tested. During bad weather, more telephone calls are placed.

And how often is an operator's patience tested? There are always situations to be handled and understanding to be used; but the majority of Christmas callers are happy and more understanding than at other times of the year.

Now, if only the Christmas spirit would prevail all year round.

Working Girls Get Smart At A Reasonable Price

By STASIA EVASUK

Working girls enjoy treating themselves to something new to wear for the holiday season when lots of office parties and festivities are going on.

It's an expensive time of year for those when you consider they have their Christmas gifts to buy. But they have to watch their budget so are not buying costly clothes.

They're lucky. They can dress smartly for holiday parties in dressed under $35.

Business girls caught on long ago that separates give them a lot of fashion mileage. They're interchangeable and really stretch the wardrobe.

If she prefers a long dress there are plenty of them around to suit the pocket book.

For office parties, the working girl can look smart in a short angora and orlon dress with striped top. It's the kind she can wear to work so it's good investment.

If she prefers something a little dressier, there's sleeveless wool dresses. The can wear the dress with a thin leather belt to work and then use a satin belt for partying. Turtles can look cool, and chic on very little money.

The outfits mentioned are only a small sampling of what's available in stores this time of year. The holiday clothes at reasonable prices are almost too good to be true but working girls can get a terrific fashionable.

Now don't forget accessories are important. A new season ushers in fresh trends and accessories change, too.

Big clip-on earrings are in while the loop ones for pierced ears are out.

The fashionable belt is the thin one with a simple buckle. It's even smart to wear two or three at a time in different colors. Watch, too, for the clutch bag coming in to replace the shoulder hand-bag.

Long masses of chains and charms around your neck are replaced by simple beads or pearls. If you're wearing rings on every finger, remove them. It's chic now to wear one or two that have some sentiment for you.

Social And Personal

Prior to her wedding, Mrs. Thomas Drake (nee Heather Slade) was honored at several showers given by Mrs. Robert Irvine, Mrs. William Moffat, Mrs. Peter Hayes and Miss Beverly Dickie, who was also a bridesmaid at the wedding. She was also honored with a tea and presentation given by Mrs. R. Ellis and members of St. Julian Chapter of IODE.

Prior to her recent marriage, Mrs. William Rae (nee Marilyn Bailey) was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Muriel Fobay, grandmother of the bride, and assisted by Mrs. Joyce Bailey, mother of the bride.

MANY FIRES

More than 700 forest fires have been recorded this year in Spain.

Seductive French Use Hard-line Approach

By BERNARD EDINGER

PARIS (Reuter) — France, traditionally a bastion of seductive femininity, has sprouted one of the most aggressive women's liberation movements in the world.

Though numbering only a few hundred hard-line militants—proportionately far fewer than in other Western countries—the French women liberationists have shown a strong tendency toward downright muscular tactics.

When they left France's somewhat stuffy national medical association had taken the wrong stand on a controversial abortion issue, a commando group from the Movement Pour la Liberation de la Femme (MLF) raided the association's Paris office, leaving it a shambles.

The women threw files out of windows, buried stink bombs and wrote insults—including the words "Fascist Mummies"—in big letters over the walls with red paint spray-guns.

Though their demands are not much different from those of their sisters in others countries, the French women's liberators have a decidedly more extreme leftist approach than elsewhere.

As in other countries, their only stable alliance has been with homosexual groups.

However, they have also been able to find a number of extremely feminine figures to speak for them. Foremost among these are actresses Delphine Seyrig and Francoise Fabian.

Their most respected supporter is writer Simone de Beauvoir, a major figure on the French intellectual scene and long-time companion of philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre.

The presence of the 64-year-old Miss de Beauvoir at the head of MLF groups handing out leaflets on Paris boulevards has often been a headache to police trying to clear the streets without giving photographers a chance to take pictures of the well-known writer being led away for disturbing the peace.

Despite their headline-grabbing tactics, the French women have not been able to make much headway in recruiting sizable numbers of their sisters throughout the country.

Although many French women may sympathize with MLF goals, most feel the methods used will only obtain marginal results.

The abortion issue, a potentially explosive subject in any Roman Catholic country, has given the MFL many opportunities to air its position.

Abortion is illegal in France, except when a mother's life is in danger, but many conservative women's groups have recently rallied to the MLF stance for more liberalized laws.

The main argument is that anywhere between 300,000 and a million abortions are being procured illegally each year anyway, and that only the rich can take advantage of such practices.

Though political groups from all schools of opinion are coming to agree that the law should be changed, Health Minister Jean Foyer has said: "The vice of the rich should not also become the vice of the poor."

With legislative elections just around the corner, the main parties—led by the Gaullists and Communists—are organizing women' caucuses to study the issue.

Perhaps the biggest obstacle to a widespread women's liberation movement in France is the psychology of the French women herself.

The legendary chic of the pert Parisienne is an obstacle the MFL will always have to contend with.

Legion News

MARMORA (Special) — Members of a Canadian Legion committee are busy this week planning and organizing the Christmas baskets that will be distributed to families in need, sick and shut-ins and the elderly people in and around Marmora.

The committee, headed by President William MacDonald, met last Sunday and again on Tuesday night to compile a list of names suggested by Legion members and other organizations to make sure that no one is left off who should be remembered with a gift.

Approximately 25 grocery baskets are prepared for families where the breadwinner has been unemployed and the family is in need, pensioners, widows and separated women with children. Depending on the number in the family, each one will receive either a large basket, valued between $15-18 (including a turkey) or a small basket, worth approximately $13 with a large chicken.

In addition, there are many senior citizens who are confined to their homes or are in a nursing home at Stirling, Belleville General Hospital or Hastings Manor. They too will be remembered with a box of candy, or chocolates, cigarettes or tobacco. The Centre Hastings Nursing Home in Deseronto will be given a turkey for all the residents there.

Gifts will also be sent to the Ontario Hospital in Kingston and the Retarded Children's Hospital in Smiths Falls and Picton for patients from Marmora.

The Legion receives some financial assistance from the Women's Institute, Marmora Chapter IODE, The Catholic Women's League and the Ladies Legion Auxiliary but the remainder of the cost is borne by the Canadian Legion members. They also see that the gifts are delivered in time for Christmas.

Planning Strangles Maritimes Hamlet

BERRY MILLS, N.B. (CP) — The Trans-Canada Highway cuts through this southeastern New Brunswick hamlet, and besides passing cars, the only noticeable activity for residents is the Friday night bowling league and church socials.

Thirty years ago there was a thriving community spirit about the hamlet—the wood-framed white church the centre of social activity, the lumber mill the major employer and farms numerous.

Today, Berry Mills, just eight miles from urban Moncton, projects many characteristics of hundreds of small Canadian communities. City housing developments, motel and tourist facilities have robbed the village of its sense of being.

Old age and sprawling urbanization has caught up with the hamlet.

"I can see the community disappear in a matter of a few years," 75-year-old retired merchant Ernest Little lamented. He ran the village's only general store and post office for 2 years before retiring to the nearby city for health reasons.

"How can you swim with your head under water?" he asked. "Nobody's willing to work to keep the village alive."

During the late 1940s the Berry Mills Lumber Co., now owned by Price Mills Ltd., was the centre of industrial activity employing more than 100 people. Up to 300 families lived here then.

Today the mill has closed and a small pressboard factory operated by Price Mills Ltd., provides jobs for about 35 people. It produces board for door cores. Less than a hundred families are left.

The general store and post office have disappeared because of lack of business and most people drive the eight miles to Moncton for food, supplies and work.

The elders pass the time watching the hamlet disappear. During the 1940s, '50s and early '60s Mr. Little operated the store, post office, delivered mail to the top of nearby Steeves Mountain, manufactured feed, worked in the woods and operated a small saw mill.

Mr. Little blamed the Trans-Canada Highway and the Greater Moncton Town Planning Commission for the decline in the growth of Berry Mills as a distinct community.

"The community has been bursting with enthusiasm but can't do anything because it's being strangled by town planning," he contended.

The area is mostly zoned as agricultural lands and attempts to locate some industry here have failed. Farming is no longer a big business, except for three or four large farms compared to 30 small farms 20 years ago.

Mr. Little said he sold some land to a Halifax developer but town planning turned down the developer's request to establish a factory here.

"Town planning didn't want trucks turning off the highway," he added.

"What they are trying to do is make a sacred cow of the highway at the expense of industry locating here."

Municipal officials in Moncton look to the day when Berry Mills is just another part of the city. The city has already started expanding toward the hamlet and one city councilor has been pressing for the extension of city boundaries.

Meanwhile, the residents drive to the city Friday nights for a couple of hours of league bowling and the church caters to a youth group and other social activities.

Truman Losing Fight

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry Truman has lapsed into unconsciousness, and his condition is described as "possibly somewhat worse."

A spokesman at Research Hospital said Friday that he did not know whether doctors considered the 88-year-old former president to be in a coma.

Truman, who gave 'em hell in politics and is astounding doctors with his spunk despite a wide range of infirmities, lapsed into unconsciousness a few hours after pulling through what was described as "a dangerous period."

Weather Grounds Holidayers

TORONTO (CP) — Airline officials battled poor flying conditions and long lineups Friday at Toronto International Airport as they attempted to get thousands of stranded holiday travellers on flights in Canada and outside the country.

Fogs that had cancelled almost all flights Thursday afternoon and early Friday had almost cleared by mid-afternoon, but the big airport still was clogged with weary travellers and stacks of luggage.

At one point, crowds were so bad RCMP had to direct pedestrian traffic among the queues wailing at ticket counters.

Air Canada, which handles most flights from Toronto, used chartered trains and buses to carry hundreds of passengers to planes in Montreal.

The airline had hoped to move 132,000 passengers during the holiday weekend, about 30,000 more than it has ever handled.

Didn't Pay

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — U.S. Representative Cornelius Gallagher, once considered a possible vice-presidential candidate, has pleaded guilty to evading $74,945 in income taxes for the year 1966.

Money in the Bag

TORONTO (CP) — Rudolf Loorits' brand new bag has just earned him a sackful of money from the post office.

And the postal worker's employer, who gave him $4,500 for inventing a pouch to speed mail delivery, may decide to increase the reward later on.

A post office spokesman said Mr. Loorits, 61, designed "mini" mail containers to hold letters of a specific size—thus speeding postal delivery. The canvas pouches now are in use in Toronto and Ottawa.

The pouches, which eliminate bundling and bagging of mail, eventually will be used throughout Ontario and the rest of Canada, the post office spokesman said.

If suggestion award committees at the district, regional and national levels see merit in the idea, Mr. Loorits, who emigrated to Canada from Estonia in 1951, may receive further rewards.

Barred

LEEDS, England (CP) — During a visit to his home by a rich uncle, businessman Geoffrey Gee was astonished when four strangers strolled up to his private bar demanding two brandies and two large gins. Gee could only presume they were some of his uncle's friends and served them. The penny dropped when the men tried to pay for the drinks. They had mistaken Gee's floodlit house in this Yorkshire city for a pub.

Captive Freed for Christmas

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ronald Grove, British businessman held in captivity for 76 days by urban guerrillas in the Argentine, said Friday he could only "thank God for the light of day and the joy of being with my family again."

The 56-year-old businessman, who appeared tired but showed little other sign of his harrowing experience in Buenos Aires, made the comment at a news conference he agreed to as an expression of thanks for the manner in which world news agencies handled the kidnap story.

He said he had spent 10 days in a very small cell about six feet by six feet, guarded night and day by three guards, but gave few other details of his experience.

He said an Argentinian judge had given him strict orders that he was not to talk about the many details of his abduction and captivity.

Mr. Grove, senior representative in Buenos Aires for Union International Company Ltd., a British-owned meat packing plant, has lived in the Argentine for 26 years. He was kidnapped Dec. 10 and released Tuesday.

The businessman flew to Vancouver Thursday night to join his wife, former actress Leslie Burton, and his sons Peter, 24, and Colin, 17, for Christmas.

All three were with him at the news conference.

PM Holidays

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his family arrived here Friday night to be quickly whisked away to begin a one-week Christmas holiday with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair, in North Vancouver, and skiing.

Poor weather in the east delayed the flight in a government plane, but a spokesman for the prime minister said the trip was uneventful. The Trudeaus return to Ottawa Jan. 2.

Yeowomen

LONDON (CP) — A milestone for women's equality with men was reached recently when the government announced free-for-all competition for a career at one time restricted exclusively to men—that of a Tower of London Beefeater. This is one of 100 jobs the government has opened up for women as well as men. A spokesman for the Beefeaters said, however, that women "would find the job unsuitable as there are no facilities for them in the Tower." The last woman to spend any considerable time in the Tower, he added, was Anne Boleyn, an ill-fated wife of Henry VIII.

Hi! Merry Christmas

Blacksmithing Trade of Past

EDMONTON (CP) — The acrid smell of electrical burning was first to register, followed by a quick initial impression of comfortable, masculine machine-shop clutter.

The visitor walked through a small functional office, past a doorway where a bright glare drew the eyes to a welder working on a car body and into a large noisy high-ceilinged area filled with machines and scattered heaps of metal.

The floor was of old, oil-stained wooden beams which sagged in places. Past equipment and overalled men, around a corner, was a scene out of the past.

A man covered in coal dust stood in front of a forge, pushing a metal rod into a pile of glowing coals.

His sleeves were rolled up to the elbows, his shirt unbuttoned to bare a grey-haired chest, and he wore a cloth cap. His forehead glistened with perspiration. He rubbed a hand over his forehead, leaving a trail of black coal dust, and grinned a welcome.

He introduced himself as Henry Georges Cranna, 62. His accent — despite 43 years in Canada—didn't make it difficult to discover where he comes from.

"Banffshire, Scotland," he said. "That's 83 miles out of Aberdeen"—and watched to make sure it's spelled correctly.

"I've been blacksmithing since I was 13. I didn't like school, so I quit. I had to go to work, so I thought I'd start blacksmithing.

"I got five shillings a week . . . overalls, and room and board.

"Five shillings was a lot of money in those days. You could go to a show for two pennies. And you could buy a pack of cigarettes—five in a pack—for two pennies."

His comments came piecemeal between sessions at the forge, the grindstone, the trip hammer, and the anvil where Mr. Cranna displayed storybook blacksmith strength and swung his hammer at the glowing metal sending a ringing through the shop.

"There aren't many blacksmiths left in the city, he said. "There's one other man, but he's older. He works when he feels well and not when he doesn't.

"There are a few 30-day guys in the city who shoe horses. They take a 30 - day course or a 90-day course.

"What can you learn in 90 days?"

Mr. Cranna came to Edmonton in 1929, when there were about 36 blacksmith shops in the city.

He was a "trade horseshoer" until "the horses quit".

"Then I went on the road for two years."

Mr. Cranna still goes on the road, especially during the summer. Packing a small forge and anvil into his half-ton truck, he drives out to farms to shoe horses.

He also worked for two dairy firms, until they stopped using horses to pull the milk wagons.

Mr. Cranna has been with Minchau and Sons (Blacksmith and Welding) Ltd. for 11 years and hasn't found it difficult to switch from horseshoeing all day to making things like plowshares and drift pins.

He is married and has a daughter and three sons. The sons aren't interested in blacksmithing.

"Blacksmithing is a lost art today," Mr. Cranna said matter-of-factly.

Fred Minchau, who with his brother Stanley runs the shop, agreed.

"We used to have two blacksmiths," he said. "Now we only have one. The other one got old.

"Noone wants to do it anymore. It's too hard—too much work."

Brownson Brightest Marmora Light

MARMORA (Special) — Marmora resident Garnet Brownson, of 11 Hastings Street North took top honors in the home Christmas lighting competition Thursday night.

Stewart Hardy, of 67 Forsyth Street placed second, third prize went to Robert Moore of 3 Thomas Street and John Fluke of Cameron Street placed fourth.

Harold Doyle of 36 Hastings Street North, was chosen as the winner of the best decorated Christmas tree with Matthew Street resident Percy Gray in second place.

The Francis Cook Barber Shop was awarded top honors in the commercial division.

Honorable mentions were made to Stanley Reynolds, 27 Victoria Street; Allan Wells, 57 Madoc Street; Crawford and Patrick O'Connor, Mrs. Arthur Campion, 84 Forsyth Street; Leo Quinlan, 11 William Street; Ronald McGarvey, 13 Hastings Street and Father T. Air Rescue A Touchy Subject ABOARD FLIGHT 8055 — For passengers and crew of special CFB Trenton flight 8055, the weather at flying altitude 9,000 feet Friday afternoon, was entirely different from that of Thursday.

Bad weather Thursday made it imperative for pilot Captain Bruce Mitchell and co-pilot Captain Jim Gray to maintain alternative flying courses should inclement weather force a detour of the special Christmas day delivery flight to Cree Indian children on James Bay.

"What you saw Thursday was some really serious decisions made", CFB Trenton Air Transport Command public relations officer Captain Bruce McKay said Thursday night. He was discussing the flight in the afternoon at Val D'Or, where the special flight was forced to stop over Thursday night as storms raged in southern Ontario.

"This is nothing new, this business of having alternatives. This whole flight was flown with alternatives in mind", he said.

The special flight faced several possible detours en route to Fort Albany, Ontario, to deliver 400 pounds of Christmas toys for 360 Cree Indian children, residents of the remote village of Kashechewan, nine miles from the landing field.

Even with poor visibility that made it necessary for the pilots to maintain constant weather condition checks, the flight arrived in time to meet villagers.

For much of the flight to CFB Moosonee for lunch and refuel stopover, visibility was almost nil below clouds. But after leaving Moosonee, the weather cleared and passengers could see the ground below.

Visible for miles around, the vast expanses of barren forest and frozen lakes typical to the area below James Bay's northern tree line, was impressive.

From the air, natives were occasionally spotted, trekking across lakes on snowmobiles, almost the only means of transportation in the area, other than by airplane.

Flying over such regions brought into conversation the topic of a recent northern tragedy-success story — that of both pilot Martin Hartwell, who survived 32 days after crashing his twin-engine Beechcraft 180 miles off course. The crash resulted in the death of three passengers and touched off the most extensive search in the history of Canadian aviation. The 31.7 million price tag placed on the search is also a Canadian aviation search record.

It was a sad cry that surrounded the crash, questioning the wisdom of Hartwell, the competence of the pilot who was only rated for visual flight rules, and why he was once fired from a private airways firm after he crashed a Cessna 180.

His flight, bearing Norse Nullaryok, an Eskimo woman in labor at time of takeoff, and a 14-year-old Eskimo boy, David Kostoke, suffering possible appendicitis was considered a mercy trip, in the face of reported poor weather conditions that threatened to make visibility spotty.

For a period of 19 days after the plane was reported missing from radar screens Nov. 8, the armed forces' Edmonton search and rescue teams scoured 100,000 square miles using Hartwell's personal flight path, The father of the pilot's girlfriend demanded the search centre, charging the armed forces with making a "half-hearted" attempt.

This charge raised the ire of military personnel, especially those in search and rescue, across the country. Electronic and visual searches began immediately, in an attempt to locate the aircraft's short-range Emergency Locating Transmitter (ELT). At times, an average of five Hercules aircraft were combing the area.

And even when the military search was ended, there was still a routine supply freight Hercules aircraft, piloted by Batawa resident Captain Kenneth Moody, that picked up Hartwell's distress signal — 180 miles west of his intended 325-mile flight path — 180 miles out of his takeoff point at Cambridge Bay, Northwest Territories.

CFB Trenton Air Transport Command public relations officer Captain Bruce McKay pointed out that the search and rescue squadrons, based in Trenton, Victoria, Edmonton and Halifax, had a 98 per cent success rate in 1972, during the year, there were 130 searches conducted. In 1971, only five of 190 downed aircraft were not found. All but seven of 127 searches successful in 1967.

"This success could possibly be attributed to two things; the greater awareness on the part of aircraft operators on the need for defensive procedures, particularly in the north-land, and a wider acceptance by civil air operators of electronic locator beacons," Captain McKay said.

"Essentially, you have to consider we are talking about six million square miles, most of this in the hinterland, where one hill or one stream, or one lake looks the same hour after hour, and where ground navigation aids are few and far between."

From the air, passengers saw some of the terrain Capt. McKay was referring to. On the shores of James Bay, less wintered than more northern regions, a half-covered car abandoned sometime in the past, was barely visible at 2,000 feet and at a flying speed of 150 miles per hour.

Normal search and rescue is done at about 110 miles an hour, at 1,000 feet.

Said co-pilot Capt. Jim Gray, "there's a considerable difference between this Christmas flight and a search flight. The mind doesn't have enough time to concentrate at the faster speed, even though you can see it goes by fast.

"What you look for is something different: colors, a bright flash off a downed pilot's mirror, anything. You can be seen 10 to 15 miles away, so looking is almost always a man - made occurrence in the northland."

"It takes a very skilled eye to spot a downed plane", Capt. McKay said. "They get buried in snow, or the pilot could be injured or dead.

"These search and rescue personnel are highly qualified — Flight Sgt. Hartwell had a man flying time totals 17,000 hours with thousands of hours of flying applied to their profession.

"The fact that they are military lends a disciplined approach to tedious search procedures and ensures a thoroughness of coverage of search areas", he said.

The letter from Dr. David Haley, father of Hartwell's girl friend, complained that the Hercules — considered a good long-range search plane because of its fuel capacity and communications — was inadequate for the job. He said Canada's 22 Argus planes would have been better.

The military answer to the Argus suggestion? The Argus is designed for submarine hunts and large quantities of kerosene, to provide food for their tuna-size engines, is not available in the north.

The Twin-Otter, capable of slower speeds and lower flying levels, is limited as to range.

While Hercules are used for searches, special crews have to lie on partially-lowered loading ramps, braving cruel temperatures during the cold of winter. Captain Gray says that the Twin-Otter is considered to be Kakinos or Indians who are used to the hardships and are better able to spot anything different.

The Hartwell controversy has sparked off demands for an inquiry. Defence Minister James Richardson would like to see an upgrading of the rules and rules for bush pilots.

General Ramsey Withers, commander of the armed forces northern region, intends to press for improvement. Yellowknife search and rescue base to be added to the existing bases.

Halfway House Need Is Continual

Most Quinte residents know that obstacles exist for convicts trying to go straight. Today, being one of Ontario's major prison centres keeps Belleville aware of this fact.

But how many are aware they can take part in prisoner rehabilitation?

Probably not many, Judging by the fact that Harold King Farm is forced to scramble for money every year.

"We've had to beg every bit of the way", says mouse Harold King who founded the farm 10 years ago.

The main problem is convincing people to give money for places like his. Mr. King is fond of telling visitors that less about the more than 800 prisoners he has helped set on their feet.

The rural halfway house, located in Keswick on the north shore of Lake Simcoe, collects 45 per cent of its operation budget by government subsidization. For donors contributing to the remainder of the budget, he offers a tax-deductible receipt, a quarterly newsletter keeping readers informed of the farm's activities, and an invitation to the annual open house in June.

At no time of the year is money needed more urgently than in December—and rightly so, Mr. King says problems at the farm reach a demoralizing low as the Christmas day season approaches.

"At the farm, many of our men look on Christmas as the time best forgotten because the memories of Christmases past make it too painful to the memories of Christmases today. This presents to us a real challenge to take the Christmas day season a very special and happy occasion to them."

Mr. King and his wife Kate have devoted nearly 30 years of their lives toward understanding inmates. They are well acquainted with the inner feeling one gets from contributing to the added men, and self respect of those men.

They make no demands about the size of donations. Only that they be made.

Peace Anthology Under Preparation

An anthology of peace is now under preparation by Roy Cadwell, chairman of the Lester B. Pearson Peace Project, Trent.

Mr. Cadwell is editor of the book, to be published by Longmans Canada Ltd. It is expected to be ready for distribution at the 7th annual memorial service at the park in July. All royalties will be used to maintain and develop the park, the first of its kind in Canada.

The Lester B. Peace Prize winners have made contributions to the anthology. They are Lester Pearson and Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany.

Queen Elizabeth has permitted the use of her annual Christmas and New Year's message and President Richard Nixon had consented to use of an interview he gave the New York Times, Pope Paul's peace address to the United Nations will be included and book excerpts from a Billy Graham book and from Ann Landers will also appear.

Among Canadians are Robert Stanfield and Peter Newman, editor of MacLean's Magazine.

Snowmobiler Hurt at Madoc

MADOC (Special) — One of the first reported accidents involving a snowmobile in the Quinte area occurred at 1.10 a.m. today in Madoc Township, a municipality that allows the vehicles to travel on regular roads.

Ronald Clarence Masters, 42, of R.R. 1, Eldorado, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital with minor chest in juries. Madoc detachment, OPP Constable Robert Whitehorn reports at 1:10 a.m., the snowmobile ridden by Mr. Masters collided with a packed car on the Hunt Club Rd., 2.7 miles north of Highway 7. 3.7 miles north of Highway 7. The car is owned by James Arthur Ruckstuhl of Sharbot Lake.

Kashachewan Cree Indian Village on James Bay

Cree Children Welcome Gifts

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

FORT ALBANY — Christmas for about 360 Cree Indian children who live in a remote Northern Ontario village nine miles north of here on the shores of James Bay, promises to be one of the few Yuletide seasons which come out of the frozen reaches of Canada's north.

Almost all of the residents of Kashachewan, Ontario, are on welfare. Most of them add to their spartan existence by hunting, trapping and some fishing.

But this Christmas, thanks to the combined efforts of the Canadian Armed Forces from Trenton plus Peterborough residents and the radio-television station, there, it is a different story.

On Thursday afternoon, despite inclement weather over much of Ontario, a CFB Trenton 424 squadron search and rescue twin-Otter aircraft delivered approximately 40 pounds of Christmas presents for the 360 children of the village.

The toys were donated by residents and service organizations in Peterborough, in response to the 1971 annual toy drive for needy children by CHEX Radio-TV. Boxes were placed in various locations in the city for the collection of the new toys.

The Thursday flight was the third such toy delivery to the needy residents of the Fort Albany area. However, almost all of this shipment was destined for Kashachewan.

After the toys were turned over to the adult residents of Kashachewan for transport by snowmobile, Alex Metat, a Bell Canada and Ontario Northland Communications employee who lives in Fort Albany, described for newsmen who accompanied the flight, how the whole idea came about.

Three weeks ago, his brother Edmund, a Trent University student in Peterborough, radioed a message to him to get the names of all of the families and children of Kashachewan. Apparently, Edmund Metat had been in contact with the Radio-TV station, which was organizing its annual toy drive.

"At first I thought the things were going to be parachuted in, but this way is better," he said.

His passengers and crew stepped down from the military aircraft, it was obvious on the faces of the Cree Indian children and adults who were there as a reception committee, that the visit was a welcome one.

Fort Albany can only be readily reached by commercial or military aircraft that land at its civil air strip. The only other regular means of transportation to the distant village is by snowmobile in winter.

The arrival of the special plane had been announced and a large group of native residents were on hand to greet the visitors. Most were from Fort Albany. A few came the nine miles from Kashachewan.

While the crew unloaded the gifts and waiting snowmobiles, CHEX promotion manager Mrs. Josie McCoubrey Cheon handed out Christmas candies to the youngsters. Most of the younger children were quite shy at all this attention. The older youngsters who attend either the mission or residential school there, took the whole thing in stride, eagerly inspecting the equipment.

During the flight from CFB Trenton, Mrs. McCutcheon said choice of the presents was limited to specific items such as hockey sticks and pucks, footballs, dolls and various games and coloring books.

"This was a real problem, having to buy for a general age group," she said.

Some of the toys were purchased by the station beyond the number donations. Organizers were not informed how many toys for the children were boys or how many were girls.

The arrival of special flight 8055 from CFB Trenton was, in itself, something of a success story. Shortly before takeoff from the base at 8 a.m. Thursday, armed forces officials reported poor weather over the James Bay area. They were seriously considering postponement or an alternate site for the delivery.

However, the Otter set off on time, landing at CFS Moosonee shortly before noon. Weather was again checked. Temperatures dipped slightly below zero and snow was making visibility limited.

Shortly before 2.30 p.m., the toy run set down here, just as the cloud ceiling lifted, affording passengers and crew a brief look at bright blue skies.

Twenty minutes later it was all over. Children ran excitedly to the plane as it set off again, this time to Val D'Or, Quebec, 180 miles north of Ottawa.

Bad weather conditions over much of southern Ontario made it impossible for any airplane to land in Trenton.

The weather was crisp, cool and clear at Val D'Or, while freezing rains coated landing fields 300 miles south. The special Christmas flight was able to return to CFB Trenton by 3.30 p.m. Friday.

Gift of Giving Far from Simple

by Maurice Switzer
Managing Editor

Taking one's child Christmas shopping is like driving a dynamite truck — an important, if tricky chore.

"Wouldn't it be cute if Junior contributed for, selected, and wrapped his mother's gift on his own," the thought enters the do-gooding father's mind, usually about the age of five (the child's, not the adult's).

That is as close to sanity as the experience becomes.

"How about that Snoopy lunchpail — Mommy'd really like that," screeches the snowsuited shopper the instant he spots the sweeping Snoopy design on the lunchpail.

Somehow, even at this tender age, his devious mind grasps the fact that he will inherit the lunchpail when Mommy finds it the embarrassing to carry into her staff lunchroom.

But, then, is Junior's reasoning all that different than your purchase of the slide projector your father-in-law has been borrowing from you all year long?

Mommy has he finally made the point Mommy would be equally unlikely to make use of a number of other presents — Silly Putty, a jack-in-the-box, and something called Ants in Your Pants — the father shopper's problems are far from over.

"I'd rather you wouldn't pick up EVERYTHING you think Mommy'd like," you gasp, as he adroitly juggles a bottle of cologne worth more than Santa Claus earns in a week.

Or: "No, the beads an that necklace aren't supposed to come apart like the ones you make in school." Not unless, of course, his teacher is heiress to the Hope Diamond.

Finally, after what seems like days, but is in fact only hours, the crucial selection is made.

The prospective present meets all a seven-year-old's criteria; it's red — his favorite color, naturally; it's shiny, which usually means breakable, therefore replaceable; and it's hideous.

It also meets fatherly gift tastes, costing less than $2,000, which one explains to Junior, is somewhat less than this week's allowance; it does not require the rental of a ball-on truck to carry it home; and it's hideous.

Next on the agenda is the top-secret wrapping process.

"Mommy — would you go next door and talk to Mrs. Plum?"

Not only if it after ten o'clock at night, but Mommy hasn't spoken to Mrs. Plum since the children high-fingered the door-wreath and scrawled obscenities in the dust on the landing.

Somehow, in the face of all these obstacles, a gnarled little parcel finds its way beneath the family Christmas tree, the one Junior picked out beneath a truckload of spruce in a search that transformed a smiling seller into a growling porcupine.

Monday morning, Mommy will open it first, being as how Junior will rattle it off her forehead at four a.m. before last night's eggnog has barely cloud her eyelids.

And whatever may be inside — a ball of magenta plastiscene, a left-handed thimble, or a charm bracelet that would look gawdy on a side-show still — you can bet your pothered ascot that will be the present Mommy likes best.

Cree Spokesman

Alex Metat, a Bell Canada and Ontario Northland Communications employee from Fort Albany, collected names of 360 Cree Indian children at Kashechewan. He radioed the list to his brother Edmund, a Trent University student at Peterborough, in time for a 400-pound shipment of toys to the village children by a Peterborough radio-television station. Crowds of native people surrounded a special Armed Forces flight from CFB Trenton as it landed on the Fort Albany air strip on the western shore of James Bay Thursday.

Natives Leave Air Strip After Gifts Distributed at Fort Albany

Merry Xmas Sports Fans

by

Eric Emerson

Sports Editor

Santa Claus is not a jolly old elf with eyes that twinkle and dimples so merry. Santa Claus is an old man with watery blue eyes and a veined nose shilling for your local department stores—stores that are filled with glass-eyed shoppers elbowing their way to an overworked clerk.

That, to me, isn't Christmas.

Sports are not red-cheeked youngsters playing on a frozen pond or red-faced adults flailing through a Sunday afternoon softball game. Sports are court actions, player strikes, blacklists and subtle segregation.

That, to me, isn't sport.

Sports and Christmas have a few things in common, not the least of which is slow death through commercial means.

Shouldn't a sport be similar to Christmas morning. And isn't one of sport's beauties the fact that when the opening whistle blows, you're sure just what the package will contain. You may find a comfortable 7-4 gift wrapped inside like a pair of needed, unloved socks. Or a 3-2 overtime thriller sparkling through sweat like a diamond ring. Or a 42-6 atrocity lying limp inside like someone's idea of a bad Christmas joke.

There are artificial Christmas trees and talk of electronic eye umpires and both seem inhuman.

Isn't the beauty of athletics the human element . . . a fat, wisecracking Italian leading Team Canada to victory over the oiled, conditioned Soviet hockey machine . . . or a Texas tackle laying back his ears and busting play after play . . . or Joey Smith skating on his ankles in a novice house league hockey match.

Isn't Christmas spirit what people, not ad agencies, make it?

It has been said by one of sports' giants that, "Winning isn't everything — it's the only thing," but isn't much that's beautiful in life — art, poetry, philosophy and fiction — dedicated to the beautiful loser as much as the gilt-ed winner?

Winning is beautiful. I believe that. Isn't the basic beauty of sports the fact that they keep score, that you can determine a winner? But isn't it also the fact that it is a game, an irrelevancy to life? You don't "live and die" with sports. You live and die with wars, disease, pollution not homers, assists and field goals.

Can we rid sports, and Christmas, of the greed, the selfishness, the commerce that encompasses both? And give them back to kids of all ages?

Merry Christmas!

Basketball Trials at OSD

Belleville's Ontario School for the Deaf will be the setting for the Canadian basketball final trials in preparation for the XIIth World Games for the Deaf to be held in Malmo, Sweden in July, 1973.

The Federation of the Silent Sports of Canada will be holding its other National Finals December 27-29 at Milton, Ontario to select the volleyball team which will represent Canada at the World Games.

The Ontario Athletic Association for the Deaf which held its provincial finals in earlier November, will be sending a basketball team selected from the regional Ontario - Quebec playoffs held earlier this month.

A western Canadian team drawn from British Columbia, Alberta, and Saskatchewan will met the Ontario - Quebec and a Maritime team of dribblers in next week's finals.

"There will be a series of games on Thursday (Dec. 28) to decide which players will represent Canada at the World Games," said Hyalie Bryant, Student Services Administrator at OSD. "Players from the winning team will be supplimented by the best players from the losing team to create Canada's basketball representative."

Wednesday's activities at OSD will consist of practice sessions while Friday, Bryant said he "hopes to run a clinic and get the selected team's members to practice with each other."

Bobcats Power Pays With Win

PICKERING (Special) — Belleville Bobcats were short on players, but not on power as they recorded a 5-3 Metro Junior B hockey win over Pickering Friday.

The Cats went into Pickering with only 13 players, but scored six power play goals to assure themselves of victory.

Because of the shortage of players, defenceman Darryl Cole was shifted to forward duty, while Belleville played with only three defencemen when an ankle injury felled regular rearguard Neil Turner.

Despite the lack of manpower, the Cats seemed to get stronger as the game progressed. The score was tied 2-2 at the end of the first frame, but the visitors pulled away to a 4-2 lead in the second and increased that to 7-3 at full time.

Brian Cousins opened the scoring at 3:06 collecting a pass from Wally Dalnard. Two goals by Pickering put them ahead until late in the period when winger Mark Coates deflected a pass from Rick Meagher. Coates was named as the game's first star while Meagher was second pick.

Belleville's winning rally came in the second when Coates and Wally Dalnard scored within two minutes to give their team a 4-3 lead that Pickering was never able to overcome.

Tom Williams made it 4-4 at 2:14 of the final period but Rick Meagher quickly squelched the rally when he circled the Pickering net to score less than two minutes later.

Wally Dalnard, who saw action at both forward and defence, paced the winners with two goals and two assists while Meagher counted a goal and three helpers. Coates with two goals and Cousins and Cole with one each rounded out the Bellerville scoring. Ron Harris, Dave O'Brien and Williams scored for Pickering.

Tim Yohn was a standout defensively for the winners who drew 13 of the game's 29 penalties.

The next Bobcat home game will be Wednesday night when they face Toronto St. Michaels at the Memorial Arena.

Quintes 'Let George Do It'--to Orillia

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Editor

The Belleville Quintes let George do it Friday night.

It wasn't out ipsmanmen. It wasn't replacement manager George Rutledge who beat Orillia Terriers 4-3, it was the Quintes themselves, but George had something to do with it. He picked the starting lineup.

"We lost the last game and I couldn't decide on the lineup so I said 'Here you do it'", chuckled Quintes coach Wayne "Wiener" Brown explaining how his emplacement manager felt heir to this particular duty.

"I got a chance to watch the team more than Weiner, with him working shift work so I thought maybe I could help", said George of the successful shuffle.

While his manoeuvring may have had some bearing on the game's outcome it was the Quintes play that provided a victory over the Senior A league's second place team.

Hustle and goaltending were keys to the Belleville win. Wingers like Ray Johnston, Ken Knapton and Dan Pickerowski helped produce what Brown termed as "our best checking effort of the year", while goalie Ron Jury played a strong game in blocking 28 of the 31 shots Orillia directed his way.

The sophomore goalie was inserted into the lineup Friday after a four week absence. "With working and trying to practice he wasn't in any shape", said the Quintes' coach, "I told him that when he was ready to tell me. He was ready tonight and he played a great game."

While checking and sentinding had a great deal to do with the final outcome, John McConnell's pair of third period goals certainly didn't hurt. The second year centre sank a rebound at 5:35 of the third to put the Quintes into an apparently comfortable 4-1 lead only to have Orillia cut that margin to one as Jim Keon and Mike Dwyer scored.

McConnell then provided his team with breathing space by scoring the final tally of the 5-3 contest. It was an individual effort as he poked the puck loose from a Terriers' defencemen and circled behind the net to jam the puck between goalie Louis Sossenstein's pad and the post.

Orillia had opened the scoring at 7.13 of the first with Grant Moore scoring on a rebound after Jury had made the initial stop on Jim "Okie" O'Brien's clear cut scoring chance.

Wayne McConnell evened matters before the end of the period when he picked up a loose puck, threw a tremendous poke on defenceman Doug Dunnville and backhanded the puck past Leamesour.

Jury had kept the Quintes in the game by standing his ground on Jim Keon's clean breakaway near the start of the period and later blocking an attempt by Mike Dreger when he was in alone. At the other end of the ice the Quintes missed some good scoring chances through erratic shooting.

Belleville carried play in the second period notwithstanding the Terriers 15-7 to account for their margin of eight in shots on goal. Knapton scored the only goal of the period from a scramble in front of the Orillia net.

Goals by Johnston and McConnell made it 4-1 before the visitors could pay them some tribute from a tenacious checking job. Keon scored from a scramble and Dreger from a face-off before McConnell banished the three with his final goal.

Lorne O'Donnell, normally a left winger, turned in a workmanlike job on the Belleville defence following the death of Dan Creighton's mother. O'Donnell beachmanned the puck well and was helped by the backchecking of his wingers which enabled him to stand his ground and stick check.

SENIOR A HOCKEY SUMMARY

ORILLIA — Goal — Levasseur; Defence — Palmole, Ball, Clarke, Kelcher; Forwards — Kilroy, Keon, Dreger, McCarty, Marsh, Wright, Venables, Moore, Sandner, O'Brien.

BELLEVILLE — Goal — Jury; Defence — Marchen, Reilly, O'Donnell, Simonds; Forwards — Johnston, Knapton, Pickerowski, Johnson, Pinder, Lee, Mayhew, Jones, W. McConnell, Ferguson.

FIRST PERIOD

Scoring — Orillia — Moore (Venables, Wright) 7.13.

Penalties — Sandner (interference) 2.00; Reilly (hook) 4.39; Marchen (trip) 8.30; Keicher, Marchen (roughs) 11.00.

Orillia's Carrie Vaughn uses his stick to good advantage in tying up Belleville Quintes' John McConnell during OHA Senior A hockey action at the Memorial Arena Friday night. The Terriers couldn't contain McConnell well enough however as the Belleville centre scored a pair of third period goals that proved the difference in a 5-3 win by the Quintes.

Sticking To It

It's My Party And---

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Re- burgh Steelers, police said, serve tight end Bobby Moore of Oakland Raiders received five stitches Friday night after he police were attempting to push was struck on the back of the a crowd of about 150 persons head by a patrolman as a result away from the Hilton Hotel, of a "misunderstanding" during where the Raiders were staying a pep rally in honor of Pitts- on the eve of their American Conference playoff game with the Steelers.

Moore was treated at Mercy Hospital and released. Colville said no charges were filed in connection with the incident.

Oakland team physician Dr. Robert Rosenfield, after examining the player, said Moore's injury would not keep him from playing in today's game.

Police said Moore was injured as police were attempting to force the crowd away from the hotel after someone had thrown a beer bottle through a plate glass window in the hotel second floor, and an unnamed patrolman had been shoved off a four-foot high stone wall and injured slightly.

"Police formed a line and were directing the crowd away from the hotel," Colville said. "Simultaneously, Bobby Moore and another player who we don't know (later identified as linebacker Greg Slaugh), were walking back to the hotel.

Ferguson Finds Touch Hull Fans With Fans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Normie Ferguson had great expectations when he made it to the National Hockey League with the old Oakland Seals in 1963-69.

The Sydney, N.S., native was a top threat for the Calder Trophy as the NHL's outstanding rookie award, won that year by fellow Maritimer, Dan Grant, with Minnesota North Stars.

But after 24 goals in his first year, Ferguson's career followed the Seals' tailspin until he was grabbed by New York Islanders in the universal draft in June.

Instead of reporting to the Islanders, Ferguson signed on with New York Raiders of the rival World Hockey Association, and it's been just like Oakland four years ago.

The 27-year-old right winger had one of his moments Friday night, scoring one and assisting on two others over a span of 41 seconds to lead the Raiders 7-6 over Ottawa Nationals.

In the only other WHA game, Bobby Hull got booed by the fans who loved him for 15 years at Chicago where the Cougars edged Hull Winnipeg Jets 3-2.

Tonight the Cougars are at home again, this time with Alberta Oilers, while Minnesota Fighting Saints visit Cleveland Crusaders, Houston Aeros entertain Philadelphia Blazers and Los Angeles Sharks are in Quebec City with Les Nordiques.

BOBBY HULL

Christmas Eve Los Angeles moves into Boston against New England Whalers in a day packed with Minnesota at Houston and Quebec at Ottawa for night contests.

Monday's Christmas Day billing has Philadelphia in Cleveland, Alberta at Chicago and New England at New York.

Ferguson assisted on two earlier New York goals against the tired Nats, late arriving in New York after an all-day bus trip from the Canadian capital.

Reports from New York said Jim Ozawa team's charter flight was involved in an accident at Ottawa airport, but airport officials said Friday night there were no reports of damage incurred by any plane during the day.

Oaks Forfeit Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oakville Oaks had to concede their game in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league Friday night, and Kingston Aces might just as well have done the same.

The financially-troubled Oaks were unable to ice a team after only nine players, including two goalies, arrived. Following a brief warmup, the Oakville players returned to their dressing room and refused to start the game.

Oaks manager Jack Price said six other players had promised to play and said that he is unsure of the team's future. Financial help had been expected this weekend from two Oakville businessmen interested in buying the team but none had been received by Friday night.

Oakville players say they have not been paid for the last four or five games.

At Barrie, the Flyers walloped Kingston Aces 10-6 in their final game before leaving Christmas Day for the Star Cup tournament in Sweden.

Doug Acomb, Bob Baird and Pat Monahan each got two goals for the Flyers. Frank Hlocks, Glen Siddall, Corky Adams and John MacMillan added one each.

Bernie Miller and Bill Woodyatt shared the shutout, blocking drives on the Kingston net.

In other games, Owen Sound Downtowners beat league-leading Cobi Hornets 7-4 and Belleville Quintes defeated second-place Orillia Terriers 5-3.

At Owen Sound, the Downtowners strengthened their grip on fourth place, getting two goals from Wayne Wilder and one each from Joe Hamley, Mayo Paquette, John Weeks, George Boorman and Bob Meredith. Pete Shostenburg scored twice for Hornets. Mac Westgate and Ron Smith added one each.

A pair of third-period goals by John McConnell provided the margin of victory for the Quintes. Ray Johnston, Ken Konopka and Wayne McConnell also scored. Grant Moore, Klen Keon and Mike Dreger replied for the visiting Terriers.

Games tonight are Brantford at Galt and Belleville at Orillia.

Keech Scores In Lost Cause

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There wasn't much suspense in the Central Junior Hockey League Friday night, as Pembroke and Smiths Falls ran up large margins over their opponents.

In Smiths Falls, the home-town Bears walked over Ottawa Rangers 6-1. Scoring for Bears were Mike Defalcon, George Thompson, Bruce MacPherson and Terry Feaver, with two more by Des Allen.

The lone Ranger marksman was Norm McLeod.

In Brockville, visiting Pembroke Lumber Kings routed home-town Braves 9-3.

Pat Hahn scored three times for the Lumber Kings, while Tim Young and Steve Croucher had two each. Singles went to Dane Neeman and Grant Rowe.

Brockville had two goals by Steve Keech, and one each from Dave Scotland and Bob Mulcahy.

Penalties were evenly divided in each game, 8-8 in Brockville and 8-4 in Smiths Falls.

Seals Strike Sabres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Sabres, a tie for third place in the National Hockey League's East Division ahead of them, blew their chances Friday night when they fell 4-2 to the lowly California Golden Seals.

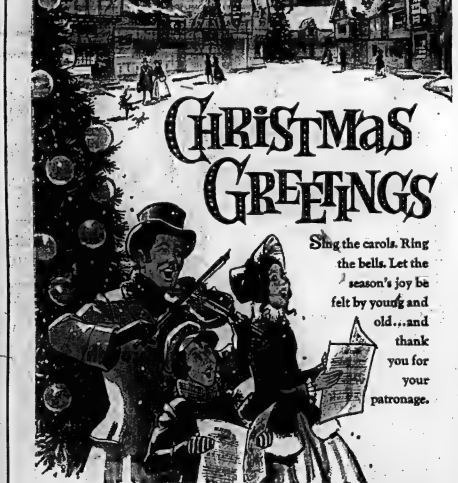
It was only the Seals' fifth win of the season and they remained deep in the West cellar with 17 points in 33 games, nine behind seventh-place St. Louis Blues.

Buffalo continues it's west coast trip tonight at Los Angeles Kings and another opportunity to move into at least a share of third with New York Rangers.

In other games, Vancouver Canucks are at Detroit Red Wings in an afternoon game with night contests bringing together Pittsburgh Penguins at Montreal Canadiens, Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Maple Leafs, Minnesota North Stars at New York Islanders, Atlanta Flames at Boston Bruins and Philadelphia Flyers at St. Louis.

The Hawks and Leafs return to Chicago for a Christmas Eve contest while the Rangers entertain Detroit in matinee games and Los Angeles visits California at night.

The loss ended Buffalo's win streak at eight games and combined California's surprising domination of the Sabres this season. The two clubs played to a scoreless tie Nov. 9 at Buffalo and the Seals won 5-1 at Oakland on Nov. 17.



The Sabres are two points behind the third-place Rangers, four points behind second-place Boston and just five back from leading Montreal.

They have yet to be beaten in 18 games at home this season, the only NHL club with its home ice record intact.

The Californians blew leads of 1-0 and 2-1, both the Seals' scores by Craig Patrick, before assuming command in the third period with the help of goaltender Marv Edwards who turned back several dangerous Buffalo attacks.

Joey Johnston, at 5:32 of the third period and Hilliard Graves sailed down the California victory that ended a nine-game winless streak for the Seals.

Steve Atkinson, at 9:31 of the second, and Mike Robitaille with only 21 seconds gone in the third period set up the 2-2 deadlock.

Sing the carols. Ring the bells. Let the season's joy be felt by young and old...and thank you for your patronage.

What the Stars Say
By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be up and about, bright and early, to do your full share in community rituals and customs. You carry more responsibility today.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Meeting new people or seeing familiar associates in a surprising new lights normal for this day of discovery.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Keep on pursuing yesterday's goals. The steady pace you set will keep will bring abundant results with patience.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): This is one occasion to stay at home to share local excitement. You'll never get it straight by hearing about it.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Be quieter, the better as any firm announcement provokes dissent or inspires competitive plans by everybody involved.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Being placid is simple to say but not easy to achieve in this rushing wind-up season. Keep things uncomplicated.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): You are more than apt to feel some what crowded with all the people moving out of their accustomed grooves of habit, visiting.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Endless discussion clears the air, finally, so you know where you are with the people around you. Keep at your necessary Sunday routines.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It is a bit late for most decisions. Perhaps you've let some matters decide themselves by procrastination.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You'll be proud of managing your competitive impulses today. There are so many good things to do, not much time to do them.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take a vacation from thought about finances and getting advantages. Seek favors from people who are able to give them.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Put your plans aside serenely. There are so many factors you can't evaluate them all quickly. Be ready with candid answers.

Aries (March 21 - April 19): Career means something more today than it did yesterday. Rearrangements are in order, the sooner the better.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20): Have a list of things to do, assign priorities, get to work early. Sentimental pursuits encounter complications, require patience.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20): Speculative enterprises show their faults, while overly conservative ventures are blisstedly enlarged.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Let your parper be active if wherever you share. Projects developed today have strong potentials, further new versions coming up.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Work and career attract support, encouragement. Go it alone, set a sharp new pattern. Impatience - romance is your strongest temptation.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Emotional factors enter into decisions, perhaps with undue emphasis, as those you love insist on moves you aren't ready to make.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Financing of home, family matters comes under critical review, probably brings an old issue to a head for decision.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Early efforts to produce sell, but details pile up for mid-day and later. Secret romantic efforts encounter unusual hindrances.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money gets out of your hand too quickly. Impulses toward pleasure are strong. People who care about you will argue.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put a major share of your time and energy into catching up completing existing projects rather than starting new ventures.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Solitary search brings you to an exciting trail you hadn't suspected. Familiar contacts provoke alterative comments.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20): New events are unlikely to excite interest. Finishing regular chores eases some of the pressure, deserves your discipline.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Now comes a half-week for closing out the year and nearly all are in a rush; too much to do, too little time in which to do it.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Energy is available, along with a backlog of routine and half-finished work to use it up. Travel should be done with caution.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Whatever you are giving attention now comes back to you considerably enlarged, but of the same kind. Pace your efforts to avoid fatigue.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): This is a good time to consider your health and other matters of personal welfare, what to do to protect what you have.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Material success is promised in the fine manoeuvres of your career.

Fifteen Too Young For Nose Bobbing

By G. C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 15 and have a problem. I am wondering if I could get my nose trimmed down a bit, or bobbed at this age.

I would consider myself mature enough so this wouldn't bother me psychologically, but me this would make quite simple.

How would I get in touch with someone who could do this expertly?—N.N.

Maybe you are mature enough psychologically, but you haven't matured physically at 15 and still have some growing to do. For that reason I doubt that a plastic surgeon would accept you at your age. The operation is not simple either. It requires studying the contour of your face to determine exactly what change in the bone, shape will achieve what you want.

So wait a few years yet. Then have your regular physician refer you to a surgeon (plastic or ENT) who specializes in this type of work.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can anything be done about it when the your skin loses pigment and white spots form on your arms and they look awful?

Mine are spots the size of a dime so far, but they could be larger ones. I am 60 and he is 64.

Would a vitamin or anything help?—E.B.

Your description sounds like to the estimates.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may get so involved with settling details of family matters that you miss out on some business advantages. Never mind.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Confidential arrangements made now can become significant, hard to change later. Evening hours bring some confusion.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Make the best of your spurt of interest, excitement. Lingering too long on one spot does not pay—make the rounds.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good for business, exchange, mild speculation and last minute bargains, at the probable expense of social amenities.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Changes are here; nothing to do but adjust and cope with them as you may find others shedding long-accustomed burdens.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Indications are that most areas of your material affairs need review, technical corrections here and there, a few changes.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Just when you are settling old differences, you can get new ones started with needless comments, explanations nobody asks for.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your opinion of a doctor starting a woman's labor by giving her a shot, watching the nerves, or breaking the water? Do many doctors p r a c t i s e this? Why would it be done if the woman was only a few days late?—Mrs. N.R.

It is done frequently and is based on the doctor's evaluation of the state of the pregnancy and on being a few days late." The estimated dat: of confinement is seldom exact and accurate. It may be two weeks "early" or "late" accord-

Tweed Personals

TWEED — Winners at the euchre party held in Stoco were: Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Fred Bosley, James Kinlin, Gerald Cassidy and Mrs. Joseph Kehoe.

Joseph Kehoe of Actinolite, just north of Tweed was the lucky winner of a Christmas dinner basket for six persons, through a ticket draw held recently at Long Sault, Ontario.

The basket consists of nearly everything required for a complete dinner, including: turkey, vegetables, fruit cake, serviettes and candles. The lottery was held in aid of St. Pius X Church, Long Sault.

The winners at the recent euchre party held in the Queensboro Women's Institute Hall, were as follows: Mrs. Fred Bosley, Fred Bailey, Stan Lockwood and Mrs. Mac Davies. Whereas Mrs. Ed Holmes and Allan Rossborn were also winners of prizes.

At the next euchre at the same location the following were the winners: John Parks, Mrs. Woodford Blakely, Kenneth Cassidy and Mrs. Mac Davies, and Mrs. Stan Lockwood. The lunch was served by the Women's Institute members.

Mr. and Mrs. James Arbuckle, of Arden, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. Andy McKenzie of Ingersoll, Ont., (Horseshoe Lake) returned home this past week from vacationing in Florida and the Bahamas.

TWEED — At the recent euchre party held in Moira, winners were: Martha Keller, Helen Lucas, Mrs. Arthur Robinson, Barry Thompson, Bill Orr, Stan Lockwood and Leah Fiske.

The newly-erected Free Methodist Church, at Cheyne held their first Christmas concert at a recent Sunday evening.

The Trent Valley Jamboree presented a play in Clapp Mill Hall, Pierna, recently on a Saturday night. Jack Webber and Don Woods were two local boys born in Pierna and nearby Ardoch.

Basque Autonomists Feel French Squeeze

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France (AP) — At 48, Telesforo de Monzon found himself this fall under house arrest. The explanation given him was a vague one, but Monzon felt he understood the French government's reasoning very well.

"I don't look like much of a bomb thrower, do I?" he asked a visitor. "But what I am is a Basque and an autonomist, and this is a very bad time to be both. France is going out of its way to court business and friendship with Franco's Spain. And obviously one of the aspects of the deal is turning the screws on us."

The action against Monzon, who was the interior minister of Euzkadi, the Basque republic formed from three Spanish provinces for nine months in 1936 and 1937, is just a small element of a general crackdown by French authorities on Basque autonomists near the Spanish border.

The house arrest and expulsion orders and the banning of certain organizations are striking because until the last two years the French seemed to leave the autonomists alone. They are ironic, as well, because the Basques have some historical claims to nationhood.

There are about two million Basques in Spain's eastern most provinces and another 250,000 in France, united by a language whose origins are unknown and a feeling of separateness from the Spanish and French. Gen. Francisco Franco's regime ended the Basque moment of nationhood and then tried to stamp out what remained of a desire for independence.

The autonomist movements survived, however, and in the last three years have been dominated by young activists, notably the Euzkadi Ta Askatasuna group, Basque for "Basque country and freedom." Their armed guerrilla activities in Spain have brought tough measures by the Spanish police and the French crackdown.

Many of the autonomists date the crackdown to the appointment two years ago to a local administrative post of Raymond Heim, a career police officer and close associate of Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin, the top French law enforcement official.

This year alone, say the Basques, 26 political refugees from the Spanish Basque country have been expelled from the French Basque regions and ordered to live in areas of France bordering on Belgium or Germany. No specified reason is given for the expulsions, but it is assumed French authorities think the refugees are using France for a base to attack Spain.

One of a group of Basques who went on a hunger strike in the Bayonne Cathedral to protest the expulsions, said: "All we ask is that if a political refugee commits an offence, then arrest him and try him. But for that you need evidence, and the police have none. What they are doing, in effect, is taking hostages and striking at a group instead of individuals."

The Basques believe, however, that the new French economic push toward Spain is the essential factor in the crackdown. They cite the French sale of 30 Mirage III jet fighters to Spain and the contract signed last year to provide 30 AMX tanks to the Spanish army. Spain also is participating in building the European Airbus, a program the French have championed for their aviation industry.

Moreover, it is argued that the French are trying to sell themselves up as the country Spain can regard as its best friend in the Europe of the enlarged Common Market. This would place France in a position to benefit most from Spain's eventual integration into Europe and to receive Spanish backing for France's interest in leadership in a Mediterranean bloc. President Georges Pompidou stated at his most recent news conference that Spain should be permitted to enter the Common Market—a point of view not many other European leaders would choose to voice because of the absence of democracy under Franco.

Season's Greetings To 'All!

I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year. Cash and Carry LONDON (CP) — At a Greater London Council meeting held to discuss the rights of tenants who want to buy their own homes, former directors John Macray told delegates of elderly couple, both pensioners, who were recently offered their council house for £3,000 (about $8,640). They produces the money in a suitcase next day but clerks found it to be £300 short of the required sum. At that, the husband turned to his wife and shouted: "You idiot, you brought the wrong case."

Hard Graft

LONDON (CP) — A bulletin issued by the National Union of Journalists monthly newsletter said that the union's secretary "is recuperating from an operation for a hernia and hopes to be back in harness before the end of the year."

Washington Appointment

R.Z. Smith New Expert On Canadian Relations

OTTAWA (CP) — Rufus Z. Smith, a senior-unarmed attaché working as assistant to the head of his United States Embassy office opposite the Peace Tower for because Washington's top expert on currently discordant relations with Canada.

Since 1968 he has been the country's senior minister—right-hand man to the ambassador—earning a reputation on the diplomatic circuit as a brilliant proponent of U.S. policies.

He is also regarded by Canadian officials as strongly hostile to Canadian problems in a period marked by disagreement between Ottawa and Washington on basic economic relations between the two countries.

At the beginning of 1973, Mr. Smith, 51, becomes his government's first deputy assistant secretary of state for economic affairs.

He says the title simply reflects Canada's unhappy complex ties to the U.S. No other country is represented in the state department's bureaucracy by such a senior official.

"It means I will have automatic entree to the White House, the secretary of state and other agencies," Mr. Smith said in an interview.

Canada has not always been so privileged.

Until 1966, relations with Canada were handled by a desk man in the department's office of British and Commonwealth affairs.

Then there was a special office—now staffed by four people—in the department's bureau of European affairs.

A spokesman for External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp says Ottawa is pleased with the new status, and with Mr. Smith's appointment.

Mr. Smith agrees with Canadian observers that Canada-U.S. relations crossed a watershed last year, when Canada was lumped with the rest of the world in Washington's political offensive aimed at curing its own economic ills.

"It was something of a shock here," he said of the impact on Ottawa of Washington's trade measures.

No longer should Canada expect automatic exemption from U.S. policies that threaten other countries.

But he is confident that the U.S. and Canada can get along in future.

"As continental neighbors and each other's biggest trading partners, "the stakes are very high for both of us."

"I'm very optimistic."

On the immediate issues, such as the 1965 auto trade pact which Washington wants changed, he feels a new agreeable spirit has displaced the bitterness which shrouded talks that broke off last winter in California.

Washington put a package of disputes on the bargaining table for settlement with Canada, Ottawa balked.

"I don't anticipate a revival of that same effort," Mr. Smith said.

As for longer-run issues, such as Canadian exports of energy resources to the United States, "I think the Canadian government is going to find us fully aware of the kinds of problems they pose for Canada."

Born in Toledo, Ill., Mr. Smith has spent most of the last 16 years dealings with Canada.

After air force service in the Second World War, he joined the U.S. foreign service in 1946, serving in the Netherlands, Panama and Thailand.

From 1955 to 1958 he worked in Washington as officer in charge of Malayan and then Burmese affairs.

In 1959 he moved his wife and two sons to Ottawa to serve five years as political counsellor in the embassy.

After a further two years in Panama, he was recalled to Washington to set up the office of Canadian affairs in 1962.

He returned to the Ottawa embassy in 1968 as minister.

Booming Britain

LONDON (CP) — By the year 2001, Britain will be a booming paradise, says economist Colin Leicester. He predicts that every home will have a telephone, at least one automobile and the latest modern living facilities in a report for the post office. Leicester foresees a boom in the leisure business, with a four-day or even three-day working week as standard. Britain's economy will treble by the end of the century and business profits will soar, the report adds.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT—Bible Study for the Bayside ladies was held at the home of Mrs. Muriel Bilham. A special Christmas service was enjoyed with Christmas carols.

Various Christmas meetings took place recently. Unit One UCW, Unit Two, and Unit Three all held their annual Yuletide meetings.

A Christmas Carol service was held at Westminster United Church with senior and junior choirs taking part in the service.

Tiny Investor

LONDON (CP) — Little Mark Lane is set on attaining the heights of big-time success. Already Mark, 13, has written to a nearby furnishing concern offering to buy his way in—investing his £1.50 (about $3.60) pocket money in company shares each week. Although the firm is a private one, Mark's efforts didn't go unnoticed. The directors invited him to an informal business call to fill him in on the tricks of the trade.

Train Ride In Russia Long Drawn

MOSCOW (AP) — It is possible to drink your way from Moscow to Vladivostok on the two-day train ride between those Soviet cities. But you must not get much to eat in the restaurant cars.

A special correspondent of the newspaper Socialist Industry made the 5,600-mile trip with two police officers to see how new decrees aimed at curbing drunkenness were working out.

The correspondent, B. Ponomarev, reported they aren't.

Although it is forbidden, passengers were having "one for the road" on the station platform in full view of the police.

On the train, passengers were crowded into a restaurant car drinking themselves senseless on sweet, red wine. Ponomarev remarked that the food menu was "far from original."

The chief cook is said "in a dirty uniform with puffy face and reddish eyes constantly able to walk when he goes to his bingo-don for a pitcher of liquid that he and a companion had been drinking for two hours."

Early next morning many passengers were back in the dining car for a few drinks to cure their hangovers.

At the station in Taganrog shortly after 8 a.m., Ponomarev wrote, people were buying vodka although the sale of strong liquor is allowed only between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

X-ray Baking

LONDON (CP) — The job was a piece of cake for experts in a hospital's x-ray department. They were asked to check a Christmas cake for metal "patters" was hurried back to Lesley's kitchen. Couldn't let the children eat a cake which might have contained bits of metal," she said. The x-ray cost her £4.50.

Hastings County Split Up

Quinte Ridings Will Be Shuffled

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A new federal riding — to include all of Prince Ed w a rd County and five Hastings County townships — is being proposed under redistribution of national electoral boundaries.

The proposed redistribution blueprint — published today by the federal government — would reshuffle all three present ridings in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

For General Story on Ontario Redistribution, See Page 13

Quinte - district constituencies and abolish the present Hastings riding extending from Belleville to Bancroft.

Prince Edward - Hastings would reach from Lake Ontario about to Highway 7, with Deseronto and Belleville assuming its east-west limits on the Hastings mainland. It would exclude Marmora, Deloro and Madoc.

The Hastings mainland area of the proposed riding would comprise the townships of Rawdenford, Huntingdon, Rawdon, Village and the Tyendinaga Mohawk reserve.

The present riding of Prince Edward - Hastings — the seat held by leading Progressive Conservative George Hees — includes all of the Prince Edward peninsula, Trenton, Sidney and Thurlow townships in Hastings and part of Northumberland County.

It would be replaced by an area that still includes Trenton and Sidney township and most of Northumberland County's charge in a consequence to be called Northumberland.

The present riding of Bastard is now represented by Progressive Conservative Jack Ellis, former Belleville mayor, who won the seat in last October's federal election.

Twelve Hastings County townships north of Highway 7 would be integrated into neighboring Frontenac Lennox and Addington, a constituency now represented by Progressive Conservative Douglas Alkenbrack. The riding would include Marmora, Deloro and Madoc villages.

The new plan for Ontario constituencies will be submitted to the Commons after hearings throughout the province by the boundary commission responsible for the new proposals. A hearing will be held in Belleville, Feb. 20 at the Hastings County court house.

Southern Ontario will gain five seats in the Niagara-Ontario belt in the Commons and Northern Ontario loses two under the redistribution proposals.

The 1971 census raised Ontario's share of the 264 Commons seats to 91 from the present 88.

But the redistribution will not affect an election before 1975, by which time readjustment of ridings for all provinces and territories is to be completed. Boundary commissions have been working since last spring to match population shifts with new riding divisions.

Christmas Bundles

Two Quinte district couples got extra-special Christmas gifts this year — sons born on Christmas Day. Belleville Christmas baby (left) was born at 5:16 a.m. Dec. 25, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart who names him William Guy. Geoffrey Noel Mizin (right) was born at Kingston Memorial Hospital to Mrs. Robert Mizin of Brighton, the wife of a CFB Trenton corporal. Born at 12:52 p.m. Dec. 25, young Geoffrey was a week premature and his Christmas birthday was a complete surprise for his parents and 18-month-old brother, Gregory Robert.

Pearson Near Death Of Cancer

OTTAWA (CP) — The condition of former prime minister Lester Pearson continues to deteriorate and he now has lapsed into unconsciousness, his doctor reported today.

Mr. Pearson, flown back to Ottawa from Florida Christmas Eve when his condition suddenly worsened, is suffering from cancer of the liver, said Dr. F. M. Burton.

"I don't think we can say exactly how long Mr. Pearson can live," said Dr. Burton.

The 75-year-old former prime minister is being treated at his Rockliffe home.

Mr. Pearson, the relaxed and likeable public servant who later became external affairs minister and the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize before becoming prime minister in 1963, underwent surgery for the removal of an eye tumor in 1970.

"The cancer has now spread to the liver," Dr. Burton said.

Until today, the illness had not been publicly specified.

Mr. Pearson had been under treatment for several weeks before Christmas. He and Mrs. Pearson then flew to Florida for a planned three-week holiday with friends. It was disclosed Tuesday night that the former prime minister had returned to Ottawa Christmas Eve.

When the latest recurrence of the illness first became public last month, Mr. Pearson was reported suffering from fatigue connected with the writing of his memoirs and his duties as chancellor of Carleton University in Ottawa.

The first volume, entitled Mike: Memoirs, has already been published. It covers his life from 1897 until 1948. The book was well received by critics and was listed No. 2 last week on the Toronto Star's list of best-selling non-fiction books in Canada.

Mr. Pearson has completed a second volume of memoirs, not yet published, and is reported to have reached the year 1964 in a third and final volume.

Truman's Last Rites Are Simple

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — For the final time, Harry Truman today travels the half mile from his home to the presidential library that bears his name.

And the country he led from war into the chill of an uneasy peace will have a day of mourning Thursday to commemorate the man whose dearest wish was to be known as "The people's president."

There will be little of the pageantry of other state funerals for the former president who died Tuesday.

Mrs. Truman, daughter Margaret and her family, and close friends were to be at a private service in the Carson funeral parlor this morning.

Then a motorcade was to take the coffin in a direct route from the mortuary, through the streets of Independence to the Truman hall walked so often to the library to which he devoted many of his retirement years.

Thousands were expected to pass by the coffin in the 21 hours of lying in state. But only 200—the capacity of the Truman Library Auditorium—were invited into the service Thursday to be conducted by Rev. John H. Lonsdale, pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church.

Weather

Synopsis: A low pressure system near Sioux Lookout spread snow today as far east as Sudbury. Brantford falls are expected to be along the north shore of Georgian Bay. Mostly cloudy conditions are forecast for the south, with some flurry activity expected near the lakes. On Saturday, high pressure over the south is expected to give considerable sunshine to that area while the lower lakes will have mostly cloudy conditions. Temperatures will continue near normal.

Hanoi and Haiphong Hardest Hit Tuesday

SAIGON (CP) — United States planes flew 1,400 strikes against the Hanoi and Haiphong areas of North Vietnam in the last week and devastated scores of military targets, the U.S. command said today.

Hanoi radio said the heaviest American raids of the war were launched on Hanoi and Haiphong Tuesday night and today, with 11 planes, including eight B-52s shot down.

The North Vietnamese foreign ministry accused the United States of acts that surpassed Hitler's war crimes in scope and intensity.

It charged the Nixon administration "has caused thousands of deaths, destroyed thousands of homes, scores of medical centres—including the Bach Mai medical centre, many schools including the Hanoi Polytechnic, the school of economics and several cultural centres."

The U.S. command, breaking its silence on the heaviest air attack of the Vietnam war, reported in a communique that more than a dozen different types of targets were attacked, including some for the first time.

The report covered the period from Dec. 18 until late Dec. 24, when the bombing pause over the North was halted for a 36-hour Christmas ceasefire. It was resumed Tuesday afternoon.

The command also announced the loss of two more planes in the Hanoi-Haiphong blitz, including the 22th B-52 bomber it has admitted losing in the attack.

The command reported 16 attacks on North Vietnam's airfields, several of which, delivered airstrikes on the ground.

The command spokesman said that during the raids one Russian designed MIG-21 jet was shot down by an American F-4 Phantom jet, more than the surface-to-air missiles were fired at U.S. planes.

In the Hanoi area there were numerous, secondary explosions, the command said, indicating supplies of gasoline and 22 buildings were destroyed in the port facility.

Refuse to Meet Until Bombing Brought to End

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks said today it would not send representatives to a meeting with American experts until the bombing of North Vietnam stops.

U.S. planes also knocked out Hanoi's communication control centre when a laser-guided "smart" bomb hit the building.

In an attack on the capital's railyard, the main terminal building was destroyed, many rail cars were destroyed and railway lines were cut in many places, the report said.

Hanoi's thermal power plant was badly damaged, leading the city without heat for a period, it added.

Millions Lost Due B.C. Rains

VANCOUVER (CP) — Estimates of damage from record-breaking rainfall Christmas Day in southwestern British Columbia indicate repairs will cost millions of dollars in the wake of widespread flooding and landslides.

Vancouver International Airport recorded 3.21 inches of rain in a 30-hour period and at Victoria International Airport the reading was 3.35 in 24 hours. Previous 24-hour rainfall records at the airports were 3.15 inches at Vancouver in 1955 and 2.62 in Victoria in 1967.

Municipal crews spent long hours Christmas and Boxing days unplugging trouble spots and repairing weak spots. Many homeowners with flooded basements, yards and other troubles had to cope by themselves because there weren't enough men available. In West Vancouver, the fire department distributed sandbags and assisted only those who couldn't help themselves.

Rainfall hit was Surrey, south of Vancouver, where a double blow of heavy rainfall and high tides broke two sections of Nicomekl River dikes Tuesday.

Mayor Bill Vander Zalm said disaster could hit early today if high tides combine with possible rainfall to produce further breaks in weakened dikes.

Andes Crash Survivors Ate Bodies of Victims

SANTIAGO, Chile (CP) — Despair and anger followed the disclosure that some of the 16 survivors of an Andean air crash fed on their dead companions to stay alive.

Official sources on Tuesday disclosed the cannibalism among the young Uruguayan rugby team's 60-day ordeal on an icy mountain ledge.

A dozen of the survivors staggered out of the mountains Dec. 22 and the last three died in November and early December of injuries or undernourishment.

Most relatives and friends of the survivors refused to discuss the cannibalism but Domitila de Ferrari, mother of a burst transplant," the survivors made to solve one person's life. In the case portions of the bodies were used to continue a number of lives.

Another survivor described the decision in terms of "the sacred sacrament of communion."

"Had we died, it would have been suicide, which is contrary to our faith," the young man was quoted as saying.

Chilean police sources said earlier the survivors ate the bodies of their companions and the country's Andean Rescue Corps Tuesday night said its members, who reached the crash site, found six cut-up bodies in the scene.

The rescue corps neither confirmed nor denied the information by the police sources that those who lived ate one body every five days.

Israeli Planes Bomb Syrian Posts

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli jets crossed the ceasefire line with Syria today to bomb and rocket an Arab guerrilla base, two Syrian army positions and a Palestinian military post after guerrilla attacks, the Israeli military command announced.

The air raids broke a five-week lull on the front along the occupied Golan Heights, where the heaviest fighting since the 1970 cease-fire flared Nov. 21.

The Israeli command said all its planes returned safely.

No immediate estimate of damage or Arab casualties was issued.

Fire and Vultures Consume Bodies of Managua's 6,000 Dead

MANAGUA (AP) — Looters prowled through the rubble left by the earthquake that devastated Managua, vultures pecked at decomposing bodies and fires burned today in many parts of the shattered Nicaraguan capital.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the country's strong man, blamed a rash of fires that broke out late Tuesday afternoon on businessmen "trying to get insurance money for their buildings."

"A lot of businessmen had insurance against fire damage but no insurance against earthquake damage," said Somoza as the blazes lit the sky over the downtown section.

Others blamed the fires on looters hoping to hide their activities from national guard patrols. And some of the fires were started by demolition teams dynamiting shaky structures.

The troops had orders to shoot looters on sight, but only occasional casualties were reported in the confrontations between the troops and those who refused to heed the order for general evacuation of the city.

There also were clashes between groups of survivors combing the ruins for food as well as loot.

"We turn into animals when we get so hungry," said one man as he ran from a pillaged supermarket. "We'll do almost anything to get something to eat."

The latest official estimate of casualties in the quake Saturday was 3,000 to 6,000 dead and up to 20,000 seriously injured.

Rescue workers continued to burn unidentified and unclaimed bodies pulled from under piles of debris. Bodies that weren't burned were buried in common graves.

Vultures circled overhead and often got to the bodies before the burial squads. A stench blanketed the ruins as the hot, fetid sun decomposition.

Somoza declared as soon as many of the survivors began to settle down in villages surrounding the capital. But a number of those who had left the city defied the national guard and returned to try to salvage belongings from what remained of their dwellings.

Roads in and out of the city were jammed. Trucks and cars arrived empty and left with loads of goods pulled from the rubble.

Col. Frank Simons, in charge of the U.S. relief program, said there was a big shortage of trucks to deliver supplies to emergency food and medical stations.

Simons said the three immediate problems were the complete evacuation of the city and the orderly distribution of food and water to survivors.

Drinking water was being distributed at key relief stations, but many of those remaining in the downtown area were drinking untreated water. This raised the threat of epidemics.

Somoza has vowed to rebuild the city of 300,000 people on its present site, but one Venezuelan expert said this would be impossible due to the soft subsoil.

"The whole town must be blown up," said Ruben Tercero. "It would save water and get rid of all the dangerous buildings."

More than 80 per cent of Managua was destroyed by the earthquake which struck early Saturday.

Police estimated Tuesday that about 34,000 of the city's residents were still in the city, most of them living out in the open.

Rockies Highways Are Closed

CALGARY (CP) — RCMP reported Tuesday night that many travellers were stranded without accommodation because both the Trans-Canada and Banff-Jasper highways had been closed by avalanche slides.

They were unable to provide figures, but said hotels and motels in Banff, about 80 miles west of here, were full and that people were being turned away.

Prisoner Counsellors Thank Community

A Wellington couple that has taken on the self-appointed task of caring for homeless men may have chosen the Christmas season to thank the Quinte community for its co-operation in their work.

George and Rosalie Teskey have cared for 20 men this year at their home.

"Some have come through the detention centres, some on bail, some from welfare, the police (both Brighton and Belleville), from Kingston social workers, the Salvation Army and Youth for Christ", says Mr. Teskey.

Mrs. Teskey or her son Peter attended court every Tuesday and Thursday in Belleville throughout the year and every Wednesday they went to Picton court. After court they visited the Quinte Regional Detention Centre in Napanee to see the men detained there. On behalf of the inmates they made contacts with lawyers, employers, families, teachers, social workers and Canada Manpower. Every week Mrs. Teskey talked to four to eight inmates and attempted to solve their problems.

"All this would have been impossible without the full cooperation of the Napanee detention centre staff, town and Provincial police, lawyers and judges", says Mr. Teskey.

The Teskeys are particularly delighted with help they have received from employers in the district. As a result of one advertisement placed in a newspaper in the spring they received more job offers for their homeless than they had men to fill them.

Biggest Winners Are Not in Quinte

A lucky seven Quinte district dwellers didn't broaden their good fortune into the big money on today's Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes race.

Nonetheless, they get a consolation post-Christmas bonus of about $1,000 — the prize which automatically goes to everyone lucky enough to draw a ticket on the race — which saw three Canadians win top prizes of $116,500.

Among the Quinte ticket-holders was Belleville's Mrs. Jinny Biggers, North Park St.

Three Trentonians, a young Tweed man, John Pearson, a resident of Consecon and one in Havelock also held tickets on horses which didn't show among the top three.

Winner of the Irish Sweeps Hurdle race Dublin was Captain Christy.

Five Canadians won about $46,500 with tickets on second-place Comedy of Errors and one Canadian won about $23,000 with a ticket on third-place Brendons Rod.

Nearly 300 Canadians held tickets in last week's Sweepstakes draw.

Transport Hits Slow-moving Car

TRENTON (Staff) — Five out-of-town people escaped serious injury Saturday evening when a transport truck hauling two trailers loaded with bundled cow hides struck the rear of a car as it slowly entered Highway 401 at the Wooler Road interchange.

Brighton detachment OPP reports John Brige, 36, Oshawa, driving a Cadillac Transport Ltd. unit from Toronto was unable to avoid a car being driven by Hailing Ujda, 18, of Michigan. The trailer smashed through guard rails, overturned, flinging the two trailers down an embankment. The load of cow hides and the trailer tore up snowbanks for more than 100 yards. The cab overturned, coming to rest at the top of the bank.

Both drivers were injured, as well as three passengers in the car, the passengers were Bruno Ujda, 55, Genini Ujda, 20 and Miss Andrew Ujda, 19.

All five were treated for a variety of minor injuries at Trenton Memorial Hospital and released.

Mr. Brige's 6-year-old son had accompanied him on the of the truck, but had been dropped off at home in Oshawa. A spokesman for the OPP detachment said the boy would surely have been killed in the crushed cab had he remained with his father.

No estimate of damage to the transport was given but the Ujda car suffered $1,200 damage to the rear end and is considered a write-off. Investigating officer is Constable Ross Nelson.

A Chance for Charity

Quinte Secondary School climax to the fall term with a millionaires' day on the last day of school before Christmas. For 25 cents, students bought $2,000 in paper money and used the currency to place games of chance and bid on 15 articles donated by Belleville merchants for an auction. The money raised went to buy turkeys for the hampers the students packed for needy families and $100 profit will be donated to the Christmas Sharing program. Trying their luck are Cindy Reid, Steve Burke and Brian Drennan.

Padre Davidson conducted the service with interment in White's cemetery.

Bearers were fellow corporals from the base.

A resident of 15 Namao Dr., Trenton, he died in Trenton Memorial Hospital, Monday, Dec. 18.

Born in England, he was in his 42rd year and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson.

He is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Booker and his children Gary at home and Mrs. Dieter (Linda) Viola of Trenton.

He is also survived by three brothers and two sisters in England.

He was Anglican and a member of the Independent Order of Foresters.

MISS SARA JANE STICKNEY
Hastings Manor

The funeral of Miss Sara Jane Stickney was held this Wednesday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home where service was conducted by Rev. Clare Kellogg. Entombment was in Belleville Cemetery vault with later burial to be in Riverview Cemetery.

Miss Stickney died Sunday at Hastings Manor where she had been a resident for only a few weeks. She had previously lived at RR#3 Belleville.

Born at Shannonville, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Farley Stickney and during her active years had worked as a practical nurse.

She is survived only by a niece Mrs. W. E. (Roberta) Melbourne) Stephens of Kingston and several great nieces and nephews.

Three sisters, Mrs. J. F. (Allie) Melbourne, Mrs. Milton F. (Frances) Bird and Mrs. Walter (Bertha) Lindenfield, predeceased her.

CLARENCE ALBERT HAGERMAN
RR1 Corbyville

Stricken while spending Christmas with his son at Foxboro, Clarence Albert Hagerman, RR1 Corbyville died suddenly on Monday. He was in his 67th year.

Born at Stirling, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Hagerman and had lived in the area all his life.

He farmed in the Melrose district for many years but in recent years had worked as a self employed carpenter. He was a member of the Melrose United Church.

He was a former member of LOL No. 242 at Shannonville and was a past president and active member of the Shannonville Fair Board.

Mr. Hagerman is survived by his wife, the former Doolen Marion Sherman, a son, Carl, of Foxboro and a daughter, Mrs. Gerald (Bernice) Stratton, RR1 Shannonville.

There are two sisters, Mrs. Russell (Helen) Bowerman of Bath and Mrs. Russell (Verna) Reid, Roslin, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A son, Bruce and a brother, Clifford Allen Hagerman predeceased him.

The funeral will be held Thursday from the John R. Bush Funeral Home with service in the chapel at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. William B. Hendry. Interment, Victoria Cemetery.

Deloro Reeve Dies Suddenly

MARMORA (Special) — Funeral service for Charles R. Gordanier, reeve of Deloro village for the past six years, was held Tuesday from the Bowden Funeral Home at Marmora. Rev. John Peters conducted the service with entombment in the Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

The honorary pall bearers, William Barlow, Carl and Jim Sory, Jim McGrow, Ross Wallon and Clay Hawley.

Area members of parliament, along with Hastings county officials and members of county council attended the funeral.

Mr. Gordanier died suddenly early Saturday morning at Oshawa as result of a heart attack. He was in his 70th year.

The Deloro reeve and Mrs. Gordanier had gone to Oshawa to join other family members for a holiday trip to Florida when he suffered a heart attack after picking up his car at work.

Born in Rawdon township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gordanier, he farmed in the township until 1960 when he retired and moved to Deloro.

He was elected to the Deloro council in 1965, had served as reeve since 1967 and was chairman of council head in the December 4th municipal election.

As member of Hastings county council he served on this year's Children's Aid Society Board and on the ARDA committee. He had also served on the Moira River Conservation Authority for six years.

A lover of the outdoors, Mr. Gordanier was an ardent hunter and fisherman and was well known as a wild trapper and gun collector.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lettie May Brinkley, two sons, Milford of Oshawa and Reginald of Brownsville and two daughters Mrs. Ronald (Audrey) Barker of Whitby and Mrs. Elsher Bronson (Marion) of Madoc. There are 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Three brothers predeceased him.

Needs Up, Donors Down

The number of needy families in Belleville was up slightly this Christmas, but the number of donors was down.

The Central Volunteer Bureau's Christmas Sharing project arranged for 417 families to be a hamper of groceries for their holiday dinner. These were 14 more than the project catered for in 1971.

Christmas Sharing is a clearing house where both needy families and donors register. Director Gwen Hayman and her staff have spent the pre-Christmas season matching donors and recipients, making sure everyone was provided for and there was no duplication.

This year, donors, both individuals and institution, donated 341 hampers. Cash donations paid for those packed by Towers Food City and Zeppetella Variety Store. Towers took care of hampers in the West Hill and Zeppo as packed those for the East Hill. There were 70 people and groups who made cash donations.

By far the largest contributors were city schools, whose students packed 152 hampers.

"If it weren't for the schools we would have been lost", said Mrs. Hayman.

Before the Christmas Sharing office closed for the holiday, its staff was visited by Belleville police officers with a contribution of $25 for the fund. The students had gone carol singing at night to raise the money they donated to help pay for hampers.

IN MEMORIAM

CARLTON — In loving memory of our dear father and grandmother, Linda Maxine Carlton who passed away Dec. 27, 1968.

Three years have passed, dear mother,
Since God called you home to rest,
He in sweetness His shadow,
Where you'll have eternal rest.
Sadly missed by your loving daughters,
Mrs. Lorna Lee and Mrs. Linda Sue
But hurried to your Master's call,
We never said good-bye,
For we say that time will ease the pain,
But when seasons recalls your name,
It always brings sorrow.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by the family.

TAYLOR — In loving memory of our dear father, Percy Taylor, who passed away Dec. 27th, 1971.

We will always remember the way he looked,
The way he spoke and smiled,
But time brings no end to the pain,
And with us all the while.
The light has gone from memories,
The light has gone from sight,
But our hearts forget to shine,
We will remember.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom, Dad, Beverley, Paul, Brenda and brother-in-law Alan.

Christmas Timing Good for Travel

This was a "Spaced out" Christmas for the transportation industry, and a good thing too, after fog in Toronto upset aircraft schedules.

Because Christmas day fell on a Monday this year, passenger traffic on buses and trains was spread out over Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

"With the holiday spaced out this way it's been a lot better for us," said a railway spokesman.

He conjectured that students had travelled to their Christmas destinations Friday, businessmen and their families on Saturday and merchants on Sunday.

Heaviest rail traffic was on Friday, with most trains running extra sections. Trains ran 15 minutes late Friday, 1½ hours late Saturday and about 15 minutes late Sunday.

The number of buses on most routes were doubled over the weekend and drivers worked extra hours.

Rail and highway traffic was heavy as Air Canada chartered trains and buses to get stranded passengers from Toronto to Montreal. With Toronto closed in by fog, both arriving and departing flights were diverted to Montreal.

The result could have been disastrous, transportation spokesmen said, but thanks to a Monday Christmas, bus and train traffic flowed through the Quinte district without a snag.

Volunteers Do the Job

TRENTON—Christmas Day for the Glen Rouse family at RR8, Trenton, could have ended in a tragedy if it were not for the combined efforts of neighbors and the Sidney Township Fire Department.

Source of a fire in a utility room has not been determined as yet, Mr. Rouse said, but flames were contained in the small room. Some smoke and water damage to the 12-year-old frame dwelling in which he and his wife Doris have lived since June of 1972, will require attention.

Mr. Rouse, who operates Gibson - Willoughby Real Estate from his home, left at approximately 5 p.m. Christmas Day, about an hour after the rest of his family who were visiting.

Because electricity was cut off by the fire, electric clocks in the house show 6 p.m. as the possible time of outbreak. By the time he returned at 7 p.m., it was all over and firemen preparing to leave.

"They did a hell of a good job," Mr. Rouse said.

The fire, which possibly caused between $2,000 and $3,000 damage, virtually destroyed a wall and room partition near a furnace.

After a passing paper girl gave the alert, several neighbors entered the Rouse home and shovelled snow onto flames until firemen arrived.

Damage $1,100

SMITHFIELD — Brighton detachment, OPP, report at 6:34 p.m. on Christmas Eve, a car driven by Gordon Blake Hunt of RR 1, Smithfield, was involved in a three-car collision.

Proceeding east on Smithfield's main street, the Hunt car struck a second car in the rear, skidded past and struck a third parked in a nearby driveway.

Mr. Hunt received minor bruises. Total damage was estimated at $1,100.

Snowmobiler Hurt in Crash

HOLLOWAY (Staff) — A Belleville man was taken to hospital Sunday after his snowmobile slid off a town-

Kenneth McGhee of 150 Catherine St., suffered lacerations to the chin and was treated at Belleville General Hospital. Damage to the machine totalled $50.

Charges Mount

Belleville and Trenton police are continuing to lay charges against three youths alleged to have used stolen cheques and a credit card to obtain merchandise in both centres.

Eileen Graham, 17, of Odessa, faces at least 17 charges of uttering forged cheques.

She was picked up by Trenton police last Tuesday along with William Sweet, 18, of the City Hotel, Belleville. Sweet has been charged with possession of property obtained by crime including, among other items, a tape recorder and a wrist watch, all valued at under $200.

The third person arrested is Larry Carr, 18, of 509 Dundas St. East. He was charged Thursday by city police with obtaining money by false pretences. A subsequent charge of attempting to steal cutlody was laid when Carr ran out of the police station onto Campbell St. and had to be hauled back by officers.

Boxing Day Brings Out the Crowds

One of the few stores open Dec. 26 was Towers and the post-Christmas rush of shoppers packed the department store in search of bargains in marked-down seasonal merchandise. The "boxing day" sale was kept busy with the flood of articles returned for exchange as the traditional English Boxing Day took on a new meaning. Originally the day on which Christmas gifts were presented, it has become the day on which they are exchanged for more appropriate size or color.

Greeks Get Christmas Bonus

Quinte district's Greek community got a special Christmas present this year — its own church.

Although the building is unfinished, the congregation celebrated its first service in its own church at midnight Christmas Eve.

It was a triumph for the 450 Greeks from Belleville, Napanee, Picton, Campbellford, Brighton, Trenton and Stirling who made up the congregation.

"We've been moving around like gypsies," commented Peter Zegouras, president, for the last six years of the executive that has arranged Greek Orthodox services in Belleville.

The Greek community first worshiped for three years in Columbus Hall on Front St. Then services were moved to St. George's Hall on Station St. for a further three years, with high holy days being celebrated in St. Thomas' Church.

St. George's Hall is slated for demolition, so the congregation moved temporarily to St. Joseph's Church until the new church was close enough to completion to permit occupancy.

Located on the corner of Avondale Rd. and Harder Dr., the church measures 32 by 80 feet and cost $90,000 to build. The Greek community has raised $42,000 to pay for the building and will assume a mortgage for the remainder.

"Without the help of the people of Belleville it couldn't have been done," said Mr. Zegouras of the financial contributions of non-Greeks.

Phil Panelas of Trenton, a member of the congregation, was in charge of construction and personally paid the $2,800 fee for the design and blueprints.

When completed, the church basement will be used for cultural activities. Greek language classes and dancing classes will be conducted as well as a regular Sunday school. The Greek language classes now conducted at Loyalist College will continue to be held here, however.

"To express our appreciation to the people of Belleville for their help, a basement meeting room will be open to any local organization that wants to use it," says Mr. Zegouras.

Services will be held at the church every other Sunday, with the next slated for Jan. 7, from 10 to 12 a.m.

Nicholas Avgoustinakis of Toronto is the spiritual leader of the congregation, serving Oshawa and Peterborough as well as Belleville.

Horse Killed

ROSLIN (Staff) — A pet horse owned by Earl Cross of RR1, Roslin, died Christmas morning after it was struck by a car the day before.

The two-year-old colt, used for riding and towing sleighs and buggies, chewed through its restraining fence and wandered onto a township road.

The car, driven by William Scott of Tyendinaga Township, suffered about $225 damage.

Memorable Yule For Trenton Crew

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Thoughts of the brotherhood of man were brought home and will long be remembered by the officers and crew of a Boeing 707 military jet from CFB Trenton.

The nine took Canada's only relief flight to the devastated city of Managua, Nicaragua, on Christmas Day.

An enormous earthquake Saturday destroyed about 75 per cent of Managua, a city of 300,000. The death toll has been estima ed as between 5,000 and 10,000, plus an additional 20,000 injured.

Pilot of the 437 Squadron, Air Transport Command jet, Major William Carss of Trenton, said the arrival of every conceivable type of aircraft, bringing relief supplies from dozens of countries, had created somewhat of a traffic jam at the crowded civilian airfield. Although the control tower and main terminal had been condemned because of large cracks caused by the great quake, the landing strip's surface was surprisingly free of pot-holes, he said.

As news of the disaster in the South American country swept the world, leading nations immediately organized relief plans. Besides the Red Cross and church relief groups as well as CARE, Canada quickly stepped in with approximately $100,000 for relief work.

The federal government forwarded a grant of $50,000 through the Canadian Red Cross. CARE Canada provided $25,000, Oxfam Canada, $5,000 and a body representing several Canadian church groups — Church Action for Emergency Aid, made an initial contribution of $2,000.

At 8:45 p.m. Christmas Eve the military jet set off from here, destination St. Louis, Missouri. Almost 12 hours later the relief flight set down in a southern United States military base there, to begin loading 911 tents, weighing Managua.

Major Carss said the loading was handled by U.S. Air Force headquarters staff at the airfield, in addition to his two loadmasters and two men from the Movement Unit at CFB Trenton.

Loaded up, the special flight took off for the 2½-hour hop to the Nicaraguan capital.

Flying over the crumbled city, members of the crew could see some of the devastation mentioned in world-wide newscasts, but were limited in their scope.

The pilot said landing controls had been all but knocked out by the quake, aircraft having to land by visual control only, with aid of a small mobile communications centre located in a jeep on the field.

"The airport was in quite good shape," Major Carss said adding that despite the ruined tower and terminal, "runways and taxi-ways were all good. There was no sign of cracks in the surface at all, which was quite surprising.

"We had really good weather, and there was no problem landing."

He said there was "tons of traffic" in and around the city. Supplies were pouring in by aircraft from the U.S., the Caribbean and South American countries. Everything from 707s, U.S. 141 Starfighter four-engine jet transports, to DC 7s and old Douglas DC 3s were used.

Major Carss said his flight was met by the cousin of Nicaraguan strong man General Anastasio Somoza, possibly General Luis Rodriguez Somoza, relief co-ordinator, although he could not be sure of his identity.

"The military had kind of taken over so that people did not run all over. It was pretty well run," he said.

Despite the crowded off-load ing conditions, it took only 3½ hours to empty the CFB Trenton plane. Several locals arrived with forklift trucks to help the Canadian crew unload the tents.

Major Carss was high in praise of his crew, whom he said had only 3½ hours of sleep en route from St. Louis to Managua. The pilot, co-pilot and navigator went to a St. Louis motel while loading was completed.

Because supplies were limited at the airfield, the 707 had to land at Merkles, Mexico to refuel. The plane touched down at CFB Trenton 11:10 p.m. Christmas Day, 27 hours after taking off for the mercy flight.

SUPPORT ROTARY SKATE-A-THON

DEAR PARENTS:

Is your child participating in the Rotary Skate-A-Thon, December 29 and 30? If so, kindly see that he or she receives the following information:

a. YOUR COACH OR LEADER HAS NOW RECEIVED THE SKATE-A-THON SCHEDULE. OBTAIN FROM THEM EXACTLY WHEN AND WHERE YOU ARE TO SKATE.

b. Be at your designated Rink about ½ hour early to register and put on your skates.

c. Wear your Team Sweater or Group Uniform.

d. Bring your Sponsor Sheet(s) with you so that they can be certified.

e. It would save a great deal of time if you would total your sponsor sheet before you arrive at the rink. If you do not make the 60 laps, your sheet can be corrected after you skate.

f. From a quick canvass, it appears that a large percentage of the homes in our city have not been asked to sponsor a skater. Have you asked all of your neighbors to sponsor you?

Busy Japanese

One of the great industrial and technological sagas of the day is the postwar growth and influence of Japan.

Consider Japanese initiatives and others to come in such widely-distributed areas of the world as New Zealand and Prince Edward Island. They include construction of additional spans for the Auckland harbor bridge and provision of a new modernized train for the 400-mile Auckland to Wellington run. New Zealanders, familiar with the bone-shaking units that formerly operated this route are now basking in the glory of a train described as the third most luxurious in the world after long-distance trains in South Africa and Australia respectively.

Canada's coast-to-coast trains, by the way, according to a British survey, still rank highly but for sheer luxury the three mentioned above are tops.

Now to Prince Edward Island: in a recent address to the Charlottetown Chamber of Commerce the president of the Canada-Japan Trade Council, Col. R. L. Houston suggested Japan as a market for PEI agricultural and fishery products, stemming in part from the changing diet of the Japanese people, their greater desire for variety of choice and their ability to pay. He mentioned vegetables and, in particular, potatoes, for the Japs have shown an increasing appetite for the tuber chips of all things.

The same market opportunities applied to the fishery sphere, Col. Houston advising that PEI would be wise to explore the prospect of fish-farming and of sea-plant farming, "both highly-developed and lucrative fields in Japan."

With regard to manufacturing, he mentioned opportunities in the area of undersea engineering, fisheries-related equipment and instruments.

The Japanese are also becoming increasingly sports-oriented, enjoying such western activities as bowling, golf, ice hockey and so on, and the trade official saw opportunities for PEI in the export of sailing and power craft.

Similiarly with tourism. We know for example that Alberta, and the ski slopes of Banff in particular, are popular with Japanese visitors, but as Col. Houston pointed out they have little or no knowledge of the Maritimes. Envisaging a bright future in tours from Japan to PEI, the tariff "Ann of Green Gables (with its PEI setting) is a classic beloved of most Japanese and he believed it would be but one strong attraction.

If this all seems a little heady and unreal — the prospect of a mass tourist invasion from the Orient — it need not be so, given the Japanese outreach in the world today and its undisputed affluence.

It is an opportunity to ask for the Japanese to get away for a time from their very crowded homeland and polluted cities. A note in Japan Report, from the information centre in Toronto, says that the country's population at the end of March was 105,800,000, or some 1,300,000 more than last year.

Dining Out

Dining out in Belleville has become a more varied and interesting experience in recent years. A was inevitable, with the growth at our times, that additional restaurant facilities would be provided.

Five years or so ago there were not all that many family-style restaurants in the city, besides the hotels, that is, and a handful of others in the downtown area.

The situation has now changed, with the establishment of at least half-a-dozen new restaurants, quick-service and take-out spots.

There are good restaurants too on the periphery of Belleville and east and west extending to the other side of Napanee on the one hand and to Trenton on the other.

The former Queen's motel restaurant, now a self-care convalescent unit, had a quality and atmosphere all its own which is still missed, but in all the choice of venues for an evening out or for a quick bite, as it were, is better than ever.

A passing thought, we can think of a number of places where dining out is enhanced by restaurants on the top floors of buildings — from Toronto to Niagara Falls to Stockholm — and we wonder is it too much to hope that Belleville might have such an establishment one day. We have our high-rise apartments, controversally situated as they are, but why not a hotel perhaps, built skywards, and with a restaurant on the top floor?

Reporters Jailed

News Sources in U.S. Are No Longer Sacrosanct

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — With stunning suddenness, editors and reporters across the United States are being jailed before the courts to defend something they had long taken gratuitously for granted—the right to keep their news sources confidential.

Four reporters have been put behind bars recently, two for periods of almost a month, after they refused to expose the sources of their information.

In addition, reporters from several other newspapers or radio and television stations have been ordered by the courts to produce their notes or tape-recordings as evidence in trials or grand-jury investigations.

A bitter confrontation is plainly building up between the U.S. press—which has long boasted of being the most free and crusading in the world—and law-enforcement authorities determined to use every available weapon to bring crime rates down.

The key to the current battle lies in a ruling last June 29 by a sharply divided U.S. Supreme Court. By a 5-4 decision, the court decided that the constitution does not give reporters the right to protect confidential sources or news information they obtain confidentially about crimes.

Although the decision brought an outcry from the press at the time, its real impact has only recently begun to be felt as prosecutors throughout the country learn of their colleagues' success before the courts in obtaining subpoenas to get information long considered out of reach.

The rash of cases has inevitably produced its own lineup.

For example, although "the Watergate paper" first broke last fall with the arrest of eight men in connection with alleged spying on Democratic party headquarters here, only one person has gone to jail so far. That was a newspaper editor who spent two hours behind bars this week for refusing to hand over tapes' interviews with a witness.

Other reporters' evidence has been demanded in a range of cases covering such subjects as official corruption, narcotics, black-militant activities and murder. Reporters who refuse to co-operate face imprisonment for contempt of court.

The press case has been made over and over in newspaper editorials', in court arguments and in a growing number of appeals within the profession for solidarity behind embattled journalists.

Without the ability to protect their sources, the press spokesmen say, investigative reporters will find fewer and fewer sources willing to provide vital information about crime, corruption or social ills.

The ability of the press to expose or even know about a variety of issues would be fatally impaired, they say.

Justice Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court, in a dissenting opinion last June, stated a vital part of the press's current argument—that government should not attempt "to undertake a journalistic profession as an investigative arm."

But the majority of the court—all four of President Nixon's appointees, plus John T. Harlan's son, Justice Byron White—ruled that newspaper men are not exempt from the normal duty of appearing before a grand jury and answering questions relevant to a criminal investigation.

The current mass of proceedings against reporters will surely wind up back at the Supreme Court before long.

At that time, the press's hopes will be based to some extent on assurances given by members while they were in majority opinion in June. Justice White said then that the courts stand ready to protect the press against "official harassment." And Justice Lewis Powell promised that "no harassment of newspapers will be tolerated."

Strain on Energy Resources Envisaged

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

This time next year and for years to come Ontario almost certainly will be facing a problem which will be entirely new to it and could be one of the most vexatious with which it has had to contend.

The problem will be energy.

This province has been one of the most fortunate lands on earth in energy.

Due to its abundant water resources for years it had the cheapest electric power in the world through its network of hydro plants.

It has been one of the original users of natural gas. First through its own resources in southwestern Ontario and latterly through cheap supplies from the west.

With the great U.S. mines just across the great lakes it has had low-priced coal.

And water has been abundant everywhere.

A drastic change is now underway.

In electricity there are no water sites left for hydro power and costs have started to rise drastically.

With gas Premier Loughead of Alberta has served his notice: he is looking for the big payoff.

Coal is still in good supply. But costs are going up and there is mounting environmental objection to it.

The greatest problem, however, could come from a direction which only a few years would have been thought ridiculous.

This is water.

Not that we are going to run out of water or will be troubled with supply (though transporting it is becoming something of a problem).

But the United States is very water short. It is getting thirsty.

And with its thirst it will automatically turn its eyes on our abundant supplies.

A future confrontation would seem inevitable.

And this could only be the tipping on perhaps our greatest problem of the future: energy.

Suicidal Tendencies Factor In Some Auto Accidents

Montreal Gazette

Quebec's Motor Vehicle Bureau is working hard to make the province a safer place to drive, and some aspects of its program show promise, if not yet conscicuous success. Others may be on the wrong road.

For several months the bureau has been pushing the value of driving schools and there is no doubt a qualified school can teach the all - important objections as well as the techniques of driving. The bureau is passing the buck, however, when it allows a school certificate to stand in lieu of a driving examination. If the province kept the schools up to a standard for accreditation — which it does not — the policy might be defensible on practical grounds, though simple logic indicates that the government, which sets the criteria for issues the licences should be the one to see they are met.

The practical effect is that all driving tests are in large part irrelevant, because they stress the overt, physical aspects of driving that anyone can learn within months, the subjective mental states that cause most of the accidents. A recent study by a team of Houston doctors who conducted a series of "psychological autopsies" on drivers killed in accidents found that 50 per cent were either depressed or suicidal with about 15 per cent being "conscious, goal-directed suicides" though they are almost never listed as such.

The hard fact we must face is that many of what we call accidents are not accidents at all but deliberate or subconsciously willed acts of destruction. Under present regulations, a would-be suicide can obtain a license as easily as the man with a perverse desire to last into centenarian senility.

Our society operates under the implicit, although sometimes denied, assumption that anyone old enough to drive a car has the right to do so providing he learns where the buttons are. It is a lethal postulate. Psychological examination and testing is a common requirement for many occupations today. Where lives are at stake it should be mandatory. Furthermore, it should be repeated, periodically: a person's mental state can change.

The point system may help weed out unfit drivers. It has been found in Manitoba that the rate of fatal accidents among drivers with a large point accumulation is 34 times that of the no-point drivers. But the problem is not simply to get these people off the road; it is to keep them from getting on.

For this Quebec bureau the need is not only for keeping the schools in trim but for a new standard in its own work. A Quebec highway is no place for sick minds to act out their frustrations, their fantasies and their death wishes.

Today In History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dec. 27, 1972 . . .

The Methuen trade treaty between England and Portugal was negotiated 269 years ago today—in 1703—by Lord Methuen. It provided for a low-duty import duties on Portuguese wines against a promise by Portugal to take all its wool imports from England. Portugal was traditionally known as England's oldest ally, owing largely to the efforts of the Stuart kings Charles I and II who backed the small mountainous country against Spanish domination in the 17th century.

1858—Britain and nine European countries widened the convertability of their currencies.

1944—Bastogne was relieved in the Battle of the Bulge.

1939—An earthquake killed 23,020 at Erzingan, Turkey.

1857—Ontario and Quebec provincial legislatures held their first sessions.

1835—Governor-General's Horse Guards organized as 1st Troop, York Volunteer Militia.

1946—First New Haven Railroad train reached New York.

Old-Fashioned Remedies

Ottawa Journal

Comes in the mail the Household Guide, 539 pages of advice and hints on how to make a home successful. First published in 1894, the Guide offers refreshing counsel on an endless range of subjects — from "the art of happy living" to "how to make bad cooking good." Some tips, practical and otherwise:

A cure for the blues: "Usually a good brisk walk will bring it to our notice. The physical exercise and mental distraction one finds in the open air will sweep away the cobwebs of the brain as nothing else can. A long, vigorous walk every day is the best tonic for mind and body, and, an almost invariable panacea for the blues."

On onions: "The medicinal qualities of the onion are not to be despised. An aged onion is cure an earache quicker than any other remedy. They are good for the stomach, the complexion, and the nerves when eaten either boiled or raw."

How to cure a nightmare: "Nightmares are probably the result of indigestion, late suppers, too much excitement or hard thinking, cold feet, constipation, flatulence, and the causes and eat light suppers. Sleep with another person. A little cayenne pepper or baking soda, taken just before retiring, will be found efficacious."

Colds and what to do with them:

"Doses of oil, cod-liver oil, skunk's oil, goose grease, and many other sorts have been found to help certain persons suffering from colds, but, after all, it is probably a question of digesting them or not."

The Guide advises that holding a wound over burning sugar is the best cure for a cut from a rusty nail; includes 15 suggestions from a gymnasium director on how to maintain a slim figure and asserts that cosmetics are generally good for nothing but the drug business:

"Use merry thought, one kind word, and the smallest contribution to another's happiness will be more for the complexion than a tableful of cold cream, violet powder and other skin whiteners."

Cheaper, too.

A Question of Privacy

Montreal Gazette

The federal government's study of the problem of privacy in relation to computers has at least reached the point of decision. The government has agreed in principle with the study group's recommendation that it begin by taking steps to protect individuals from its own data banks. It was announced this week that a special committee of officials from the departments of justice and communications has been set up "to draft specific proposals and develop mechanisms to implement and enforce those rules."

More and more data about more and more people is going to be compiled by government agencies and business firms in the future. There is no stopping the process. The computer can't be uninvented. It has come to be like a genie. It has permanently simplified the task of storing and making massive numbers about everybody, not only for his capacity as a citizen dealing with the government but as a job-seeker or a customer in need of credit.

The problem is to restrict access to information about individuals and its transmission to those who have legitimate use for it. The government alone will have to devise rules to enforce that only relevant information is collected, that it is used only for the purpose for which it is collected, and that it falls into the right hands.

An individual should have the right and the means to find out what the data banks have on him. The spread of false information is possibly the greatest of the dangers that will flow by the assembling of masses of data in computer banks.

As Justice Minister Jerome Choquette of Quebec put it in a speech to the Data Processing Management Association not too long ago: A citizen can be financially ruined without knowing this is happening. Because of the secret nature of information-sharing, he would never know who was responsible for his downfall.

Cuts Mean Problems

Brockville Recorder and Times

It would seem the two hospitals have been told that an initial 55 beds now being used in acute treatment will have to be cut to either 50 or re-allocated or the hospitals would have to find their own means of financing their use. The Ontario Hospital Services Commission for the phasing out of 29 beds. St. Vincent de Paul hospital has been informed that there won't be any money for the obstetrical unit of 10 beds, and that money for another 12 beds won't be forthcoming.

What good is it to say that Brockville hospitals have to live on the budgets that doctors should start sending patients to nursing homes or have them cared for through the home care program if the community hasn't a nursing home or a home - care program? Somewhere should be allowed to keep all 55 beds at least until there is a nursing home, a health centre or a full-blown home-care program functioning.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Grills

Phone Call From England

A phone call from an aunt and uncle in Bournemouth, England, made the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Grills a memorable one, December 6.

An open house was held on Dec. 10, with approximately 200 guests attending at Westminster United Church Auditorium.

Best wishes were received from Mrs. Michener, Prime Minister Trudeau, Robert Stanfield, Premier Davis, George Hees, Richard Potter and friends and relatives.

The original account of the wedding published in The Intelligencer in 1922 was read by Fred Ash, brother-in-law of Mr. Grills.

The couple has resided on a mixed fruit and dairy farm in Sidney township. They have two sons, Gordon Grills, Scarborough, and Gerald, Belleville and five grandchildren.

Election Of Officers

The nominating committee of Roslin General UCW elected the following slate of officers for 1973: Mrs. Don Sills, president; Mrs. Don Chisholm, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Ray Dickens, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Ken Cranston, recording secretary and press reporter; Mrs. Laurison Ketcheson, treasurer; Mrs. Percy Ray, citizenship and social action.

Also elected were Mrs. M. Harrison, Mrs. Allen Lott, Mrs. Grant Keir, Mrs. Delbert Rowe, Mrs. S. Colden, Mrs. A. Dills, Mrs. Clayton Hall, Mrs. Horace Palmer, Mrs. Clayton Hall, Marion Harris and Mrs. Doug Sills.

A Christmas program was also included on the agenda with appropriate readings and songs.

The meeting closed with the lighting of individual candles.

Christmas Smorgasborg

The Redeerville WI was treated to a Christmas smorgasbord at the home of Mrs. C. Baker.

During the course of the evening Mrs. H. Montgomery reported that all 20 copies of the Church History had been sold.

A motion was also passed to send life members, who are shut-ins a cookie and candy package.

Removal of cancelled stamps from envelopes supplied by Bell Telephone required volunteers for the job. The stamps will be sent to The Leprosy Mission in Toronto for resale.

A letter was received from the Mental Health organization thanking for the WI donation.

Roll call for the meeting consisted of recitations of Christmas verses.

MR. AND MRS. CARY BULPIT

Bulpit – Hancock

Rev. Jack Morrison officiated a the recent wedding of Sheila Valarie Hancock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ennis Hancock, Belleville, and Cary Gordon Bulpit, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bulpit, Belleville.

The ceremony was performed at St. Mark's United Church, Carrolton with Mrs. Ollve Farnhem playing accompanying organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a full length dress of silk organza over fine net. The high neckline was trimmed with French lace as were the cuffs of the full length sleeves. From the neckline to the flounce of the skirt were seed pearls and daisies made of lace. The shoulder length veil was caught to a floral cluster headpiece ornamented with seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of pink carnations and orchids.

Sister of the bride, Connie Hancock, was maid of honor. She chose a long empire style dress of pink polyester crepe. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids, Barbara Vesterfelt, cousin of the bride, Rilla Wood and Joyce Parker wore dresses identical to the maid of honor but in mauve.

Gary Bulpit, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman with cousins of the bride John Lanay and Greg Bellis and Leonard Bulpit, brother of the bridegroom, ushering guests. Larry Derochie, cousin of the bride was ringbearer.

The reception was held at Elk's Lodge on Cedar St.

Following their wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple is residing at 28 Pringle Drive, Belleville.

W.I. History Lesson

February 19, 1897 was the birthdate of the first Women's Institute, in Stoney Creek, Ontario.

After her child died from impure milk, Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless decided to bring rural women together for the purpose of providing them with homekeeping information and advice.

Today, the Women's Institute is an international organization with a membership of 5½ million.

Social And Personal

Prior to her marriage, Cary Bulpit (nee Sheila Hancock) was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Barbara Vesterfelt at the Hillcrest Community Centre. The bride was also honored with a gift from her fellow employees at Northern Electric.

Editors Fail to Choose Woman of the Year

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Once again, Canada's women's editors have declined to choose a woman as top newsmaker of the year.

In the annual Canadian Press poll, women's and family editors of newspapers, radio and television stations were asked to choose the most newsworthy Canadian woman of 1972 and most newsworthy women in several categories.

This is the third year they have not chosen an over-all newsmaker. Last year Marcel Trudeau captured the poll, but in the two years before that, no one was chosen.

Jeanne Sauve of Montreal was chosen most newsworthy in public affairs. Mrs. Sauve, one of five women elected to Parliament in October, was named minister of science and technology in November.

Athlete of the year is Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., a young golfer who set a first-year money-making record.

Margaret Atwood, chosen most newsworthy in the literature and art category, drew comment for her survey of Canadian literature.

Singer Anne Murray, the newsworthy entertainer for the third consecutive year, was given several awards and honors during a year in the public eye.

The poll's voters chose the federal and provincial elections as the biggest news story of the year involving and affecting women.

The 71 women nominated as candidates for the federal election were for the most, ever. Some of them made news because they were running as women's right's candidates.

The five elected did not set a record in terms of numbers, but three are from Quebec, and that made news. The province has never sent a woman MP to Ottawa before.

British Columbia set a Canadian record by electing six women to its legislature.

And there are a record number of women cabinet ministers across the country, until one in each of five provinces plus Mrs. Sauve. She is the first woman in the federal cabinet since 1968, when Judy LaMarsh retired as secretary of state.

Mrs. Sauve is a former free-lance journalist and broadcaster and is wife of Maurice Sauve, a former MP and cabinet minister. He now is vice-president of Consolidated Bathurst.

She is also a founding member of Vanier Institute for Research on Public Policy, a government-sponsored think tank.

Miss Bourassa, considered a rising star in the world of golf, set a record by earning $16,000 in her first year as a professional player. She did it without winning a tournament.

Her sponsor, Jean-Louis Levesque, will be sponsoring a women's golf tournament in Montreal in 1973.

Margaret Atwood, best known as a poet and novelist, has produced Survival, a survey of literature in Canada.

Miss Murray was often on television during 1972.

She began the year with an appearance in the Rose Bowl parade and collected other honors and awards during the course. She is honorary president of the Canadian Association for Mental Retardation.

In February she was chosen female vocalist of 1971 in a trade magazine poll of the Canadian music industry. British country music experts voted her Britain's top female country music singer.

She did tours of England and European countries as well as Canada and the U.S.

Ann Landers

Ann's Pro Divorce View Distresses Irate Minister

Dear Ann Landers: I was sorry to hear you say that you've changed your views on divorce. Granted, divorce no longer bears the stigma it once did, but such logic could be extended to other wrongs and brutalities so that even murder or child abuse could become so commonplace as to carry very little social stigma.

"What God has joined together let not man put asunder" is a moral precept to which we are still answerable as "Thou shalt not kill" or "Thou shalt not steal!"

I have often applauded your common sense and unyielding observations on marriage and family life and I regret your switch on divorce. Perhaps you'll switch back. Thanks for your time, Ann.—Rev. J. Barclay Brown, Mount Hope, Lutheran Church, Casper, Wy.

Dear Reverend Brown: Thank you for your good letter. I am sorry you and I are having a serious disagreement in principle, but the world is changing and those who refuse to reassess the issues will be sadly out of tune with the times.

I no longer believe that marriage means forever no matter how lousy it is—or for "the sake of the children." I see too many people who had a rotten first marriage and are truly happy with a second husband or wife. Our basic disagreement, (yours and mine) lies in the interpretation of "what God has joined together." If God made the selections, it would be simple. But, unfortunately, the selections are made by humans. And humans make mistakes.

My thanks for writing and my best wishes.

Dear Ann Landers: What is your opinion of middle-aged women mowing their lawns?

We moved to the suburbs two years ago and two of my neighbors have told me that I am damaging the prestige of the neighborhood because I am out in front like a common laborer. And get this—my husband was informed last week that it looks "low class" to wash his own car in the driveway. The neighbor who told him said, "People who live out here should be able to afford to have their cars washed in a garage."

My husband and I are both puzzled. We don't want to decrease the property values in Highland Park but we do love the exercise and thoroughly enjoy these physical chores.

What is your advice?—Vim and Vigor.

Dear V. and V.: Too bad more suburban dwellers don't mow their own lawns and wash their own cars. They could use a little exercise other than elbow-bending.

What a sad commentary when manual labor is considered "low class." Tell your neighbors you have no plans to have anyone to do for you what you prefer to do for yourselves. Make no apologies whatever.

Dear Ann Landers: Lately you've printed several letters from readers who are concerned about who should give the bride away if her mother has remarried and she has both a natural father and stepfather.

The new answer is one you should pass on to your readers. Nobody needs to give the bride away anymore. This is an outmoded custom based on the theory that the girl was the property of her father, and he was handing her over to another male. People are getting more sensible and less bound by convention. I'd like to see this part of the ceremony thrown out by everyone.—On With The New

Dear On: O.K., throw it out of your ceremony, if you want to, but do you mind if a few million leave it in for the sake of tradition? The wedding ring is a symbol of the leg-iron once applied to prevent the bride from running away. Want to abolish that, too?

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Does group life increase confidence?

IT could if an individual has been able to remove some of the inhibiting factors that have impeded his interaction with other people and with his environment. When, however, group activity is simply an extension of authority figures, then the person may become accustomed to acting for the approval of and reinforcement from others. He may expect that group activity will defer the need for him to act independently.

Must a woman mask her 'strong mind'?

NO. A woman need not act differently from what she is. Even if she were a fiercely resolute woman, she couldn't hide it—not from anyone who may be interested in her either as a friend and associate or as a potential wife. A woman who has some enough to be strong-minded in any context generally has a pretty good idea of what she wants of life and she is confident that she can get it without having to water down either her resolve or her mental ability.

Should a 'real brat' go visiting?

CERTAINLY, even if the child is said to be destructive, he should accompany his parents when they call on friends and relatives. If possible, the host and hostess should try not to put away all their fragile bric-a-brac. It is true that a destructive child is a danger, but if he is left home or if he visits only homes that have been "cleared for action," the child will never know how to behave with others.

Doris Clark

Aged Mother's Problem: Where Will She Live?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My mother, now aged and a widow, has always decided what she wants to do, then finds reasons why she should. She uses the nursing home for a sort of home base; she would be down town all day, visiting people, hospitals, teas, etc. However, the matron has had to check up on her a few times against the place and given notice.

And they won't put up with her much longer. She has told a tale that we are getting her a nice quiet place in our town but I told her they don't have boarding places for old ladies of 86 here — I'm afraid no one would put up with her moods.

If she went back to living with my sister it would be bad — she would spend her time bothering the neighbors. She tells horrible tales (all untrue) of how she did heavy farm work, how cruel her husband was, etc. etc. No other man would have put up with her.

My other sister says she is paranoid. — Stymied

Dear Stymied: Could she manage a senior citizen's apartment if all three of you chipped in? You might have to make it seem to be her own idea.

Bring her doctor in on your conference. You cannot completely abandon her. And for what consolation it may be, the mental deterioration that may come with age presents similar difficulties for many another dutiful son or daughter.

You need personal counseling to find the solution in her case. See it.

Dear Doris: Reading of the ills of others makes one feel just how fortunate they are that their own problems aren't so serious. How easy it is to think of all the undesirable things that one has to complain about!

We forget altogether about the so many wonderful things we have to be thankful for. Aren't we all guilty to a varied extent? — Looking Up

Dear Looking: Aren't we though! Even when we know the days are sliding by and there just is no time for gloomy reflections.

I have one friend — one who has been homebound with a bad heart for years — who says every time she gets down in the dumps she gets pen and paper. She makes two columns, one headed "Blessings" and one "Not-So-Good". Then proceeds to fill them in.

Her blessings outweigh the not-so-goods by a long shot. So then the mood passes and she picks up where she left off, feeling much better.

And think of the influence of her habitual good cheer on those around her!

Dear Doris: I wonder if you would have the words of the following:

"You got to walk the lonesome Valley,
You got to walk it all alone."

I do not know the title of it. We enjoy old songs and poetry and think your column is wonderful — read it the first thing. — Faithful Fan

Dear Faithful: Never heard of it, but it has possibilities! Readers, over to you!

Spree Behind Copper Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — "Old Bug Eyes discovered the whole damn Highland Valley copper strike," said Bob Watson, "and all because he went on a spree in town.

"He had diamond drillers working on a showing and if he'd come back to the job sooner, he would have stopped them because they'd gone down to where there was no ore at all.

"But Bug Eyes didn't show and the drillers kept going — they get paid by the foot, you see," said Mr. Watson, a prospector himself who has discovered many important ore bodies.

"Well, by the time he came rushing back to stop them, the drilling was well below where they should have stopped and there was this rich copper ore coming out. It was one of the biggest strikes ever in B.C."

Al Potter, another prospector, reminisces about another prospector who blew a million dollars in two years: "When we asked him about how he felt about being broke again, all he said was: 'Now I'm rid of all of them damned relatives.'"

Mr. Watson and Mr. Potter, although under 50, are considered oldtimers in the prospecting business. In an age of light planes and helicopters for transport, geiger counters and magnetometers and aerial surveys, the two still rely on hunches, instinct, luck and long hours of foot - slog along through the bush. Aircraft have helped but flying 'n rugged areas has many risks.

Bob Watson recalled the time he was a passenger aboard a small plane, heavily loaded with equipment, which landed on a frozen lake. The aircraft struck a soft spot and bent the propeller.

"The pilot used a couple of claim posts as an anvil, hammered the propeller back in shape and took off again, pretty well on schedule," said Mr. Watson.

Both are employed full-time by Silver Standard Mines Ltd., based in Vancouver. But while they're on salary, they still have the sourdough's dream of one day striking it rich because their contracts include a generous share in the profits of any discoveries they make.

Today's prospectors work with geo-chemical methods — some carry testing kits with them, others send samples to a city. Magnetometers detect magnetic minerals such as certain iron ores. Sensitive gadgets measure underground electric currents.

"But sooner or later," says Mr. Potter, "it takes a man slogging up the creeks and breaking rock to give a fair indication if the prospect is worth more surveys."

Bob Watson stands by his own techniques.

"Some pretty important discoveries have been made in places that geologists wouldn't be bothered with."

They agree there is little chance today for the independent prospector who comes up his own grubstake, chooses his own spot and arranges his own transportation.

"After all your work and planning, you get there on foot, with your pack on your back after a week or two of walking through the bush. And there's a big company helicopter sitting there, and a crew of 15 prospectors combing the place."

That reminded Mr. Watson of the time he and his partner trekked into a remote area of northern B.C., back-packing all their food and 25 pounds of dynamite. When they got back from an exploration trip, they found a black bear had eaten all their food—and their dynamite.

Drinking Indians Get Help

HOBBEMA, Alta. (CP) — The informality and ease with which Hobbema tribal counselling services conducts its alcohol and drug sessions might make an outsider wonder if anything is being accomplished.

But in view of the Indians' inborn reticence to discuss themselves, this informality and the ease with which they openly admit their faults at the twice-a-week gatherings is a measure of the program's success.

The program, funded 80 per cent by the department of Indian affairs and the remainder by the Hobbema Four-Band Enterprises, was started in 1971 as a result of the number of deaths, accidents and crimes related to the consumption of alcohol.

In 1971 1,047 Indians from Hobbema, 35 miles south of Edmonton, were jailed overnight under the Liquor Control Act. Last September 166 were jailed overnight.

At least half of the males of the reserve's more than 3,000 population suffer from drinking problems, said Russell Smith, tribal services counsellor.

"Unemployment is one of the major contributing factors," he said.

"The lack of facilities for cultural and sporting activities also makes it difficult to offer alternatives for the people."

Sessions are held on the reserve and Indian counsellors are involved in the programs.

One of the counsellors, Mary Bull, pointed to an elderly man and said he had lost the respect of young people on the reserve because of his drinking.

"He wants to get it back and be able to help keep them from doing the same thing," Mrs. Bull said.

"He was very shy at first like most of them are, but now he stands up and talks all the time."

Another participant, a mother of eight children, said she attempted to speak to clergymen and doctors about her alcohol problem "but it didn't do any good."

"I used to be all bottled up inside and just didn't trust anybody," she said.

"I felt so lone. My children never came to me with their problems because I was such cranky old woman.

"I've been coming here now for three months. Just talking and listening to others has helped me to understand about the downfalls I've had. . . ."

Classic Discovery

BEDFORD, England (CP) — Antique dealer Michael Henderson paid a local library £10 (about $24) to clear out a back room filled with dusty old books when the institute moved to new premises in this Bedfordshire town. It was a shrewd deal—Henderson found rare books worth more than £2,000 which he promptly auctioned. A frustrated library official said there was nothing the institute could do about Henderson's classic discovery.

Guatemala Prepares For Vote

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Guatemala, accustomed to political violence, looks ahead with combination of hope and trepidation toward her 1974 election as several leaders manoeuvre for position.

This beautiful Central American country has been stricken for more than a decade with internal troubles that have hampered its development and brought Guatemalans worldwide embarrassment.

The West German ambassador was kidnapped and killed by leftists, the U.S. ambassador was assassinated and other diplomats kidnapped and held for ransom. Internal battles between leftist guerrillas and the rightist military government left many dead and showed the economic and political development.

The trouble is still there under the surface but the overall level of political violence has dropped this year. A five-year development program, with emphasis on agriculture modernization, education and health improvements, has started to show results in the countryside.

No one has any accurate count on how many people have died this year in political violence because of the difficulty in distinguishing between a political killing and a death caused by a personal vendetta.

Gen. Carlos Arana Osorio, the army man who was elected to a four-year term in 1970, cannot succeed himself, but he can hand-pick the candidate of his National Liberation Movement (MLN) party. Speculation includes three generals as possible MLN candidates—Eugenio Kjell Laugerud, the defence minister; Fausto Rubio, the chief of staff, and Gen. Leonel Vessaux.

Arana Osorio was elected by a wide margin in 1970 through a coalition of the rightist MLN with the centrist Institutional Democratic party (PID) and the MLN has already given an indication of its strength by winning more than 70 per cent of the municipalities in local elections earlier this year.

Political activity was forbidden under a state of seige Arana Osorio imposed for several months last year. It was finally lifted in November, 1971, and all constitutional rights restored.

There has not been a coup d'etat in Guatemala since 1962. There now have been three peaceful government transitions. Arana Osorio and other Guatemalan politicians obviously would like that trend to continue.

The MLN—PID candidate is likely to be opposed by Manuel Colom, mayor of Guatemala City and founder of the FURD—United Revolutionary Democratic Front, and Rene De Leon Schlotter, leader of the Christian Democrats.

Belleville Stopover For Tasmanian Couple

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Island - hopping in the south Pacific is not all glamor. Sometimes it can be downright nerve shattering.

John and Sally Alker-Jones were en route last summer from Portugese Timor, north of Australia, to Indonesian Timor, further west. Not heeding warnings, the young couple opted to try a native flight aboard one of Zemrud Airline's antique - modern DC3s.

"The planes were supposed to go twice a week but none had been sighted for six weeks," recalled John in the safety of his grandmother's Belleville home. "We must have been lucky because when the appointed day came along, there was our plane."

But the good fortune was short-lived.

They picked us up from various hangars and taxied out to the apron. First the pilot revved up the right engine, then the left. The plane sagged, moved forward about two yards and the back door flew open."

Despite the precarious travel arrangements, John and Sally arrived unscathed — a slightly wary — in Canada Oct. 29. Starting from their home in Hobart, Tasmania, the four-month journey took them halfway around the world and provided lengthy looks at eight different countries, staying with friends most of the way.

John, 28, is a town planner with a post - graduate diploma from Melbourne University. It was his decision to leave Australia and "gaid experience" in the North American world of blighted city cores and urban sprawl.

"More than 80 per cent of Australians are concentrated in towns," he explained. "As a result we have a large decentralization program under way but the cities are low density and spread far out."

In Melbourne, a city of 2½ million people, there is only a ring freeway and no underground transportation. Drivers park their cars on streets at the city's outskirts and take trams into work.

"There's a great debate whether to put a freeway across the city," he said, sounding like any western urban planner.

While awaiting word from several job applications submitted in Toronto, John and Sally spent Christmas with John's grandmother, Mrs. Florence Alker of 68 Moira St. East. Both were struck by the contrast in their normal Yule surroundings.

"It often sport Christmas in a bikini," commented Sally. "Summer was just starting and the temperature would be between 65 and 70 degrees."

Snow Christmas are extravayed by winter's early onset of darkness but Sally sees it as an advantage.

"You can put up lights for decorations and I think that's marvelous. We have frills to Christmas but not so many are external."

The history of Tasmania — like that of Canada — can be traced to early English colonists. But, unlike here, the first settlers were not adventurers or expatriates seeking a land of opportunity.

Instead they were convicts exiled to Port Arthur, a rugby isthmus on the island's southeast coast. Tourists still flock to see the narrow neck of land where watchdogs and traps were used to keep the men on their ocean-guarded promontory.

The rest of Tasmania is a cornucopia of scenic delights. A drive around the island would take you through lush grazing fields, expansive beaches, a subtropical rainforest and even a man-made desert — created in the last century from fallout at a nearby copper mine.

"Everybody likes Tasmania but nobody wants to live there," laments Sally, describing the typical Australian's attitude to the land located below the main continent.

A quarter of a million persons do inhabit the island, though, most of them in the south coast city of Hobart. Still, Tasmania's name has not carried very far.

"Everywhere we've gone, people confuse us with Tasmanians," says John. "We're always getting asked about the black-white problem in South Africa."

One of the more interesting stops on their westward trek was Chiang Mai, a region centred on the common border of Thailand, Burma and Laos. Better known as the Golden Triangle, Chiang Mai is reputed to be the opium capital of the world.

"All the huts have a corner set aside for smoking," said John. "The men just flake down with only the light of the opium. You can buy a small cigarette of it for about the burner they use to light 35 cents."

In this primitive society, opium is one of the staple products. Extracted from nearby poppy fields, the resin drug is also put to other, more mundane uses.

Years ago, for instance, the locals reportedly exchanged opium for silver and it is still common to see immense pieces of solid silver extending the ear lobes of native men and women. Vast caches of the metal are said to be buried in the surrounding hills.

Opium is also hauled off to nearby villages where it is traded for such luxuries as car parts, a scarce commodity in that mountainous land.

"You see them carrying the stuff on their mules," said Sally. "Those animals are the pride of their lives."

She recalled the journey to one isolated village, through jungle a Land Rover could not negotiate. When they finally arrived, the reception was even more strange than the environment.

"They kept offering us bundles of seven-foot marijuana plants," she recalled. "They couldn't figure out why we didn't want them."

Further south was the island of Bali — "the Barbados of the south Pacific" — where John and Sally spent several leisurely days. Married for four years, without children, the couple found their situation highlighted one of Indonesia's most ironic dilemmas.

"People kept giving me coconut milk," said John. "We supposed to help your virility."

But the twist, explained by Sally, is that the government has been inculcating its citizens in the concept of family planning for the past 18 months.

"Everywhere you go in the country, you see these huge billboards," she said. "On the left is a family with six kids and the right a hut. On the right is dad in his suit and mom in her starched apron with two kids fashionably alongside."

Sally and her husband also toured Malaysia before flying from Singapore to London. After a quick tour of Lancashire, they flew straight to Toronto, arriving in Belleville the next day.

Fosters' Christmas Is Memorial

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

If Belleville has a Father Christmas, he must be Don Foster.

For probably more than anyone else in the city, Mr. Foster and his wife have captured the true spirit of Christmas and share it lavishly with thousands during the holiday season.

Every year, the front yard of their small bungalow at 80 Emily St. is a showpiece, with workshop, his elves, his sleigh and the merry old man himself. Huge candy canes are hung in the tree and the colorful scene is floodlit at night. Every evening and on Sundays during the Christmas season, the Fosters pipe recorded music to the street.

"All the neighbors decorate at Christmas too, and we have the best lit up block in Belleville," boasts Mr. Foster.

But that's just the preliminary. Between 7 and 8 p.m. every Christmas Eve, Santa Claus in person visits the Foster front lawn, usually making his entrance from the roof of the house.

For an hour he hands out a small gift, candy or bags of chips and ballons to every youngster who comes to see him.

Mr. Foster always arranges to get "the real Santa" because, as one moppet told her friends this Christmas Eve, "you can tell by his voice he's the real one".

Assisting Santa on his annual visit is Bozo "with his troupe of clowns and several Santa's helpers, headed by Mrs. Foster in red velvet with white fur trim.

Bozo is as well-known in the Quinte district as Don Foster himself. He is a perennia at traction at parades, fairs and almost every public event when a little fun is called for.

More than 1,000 people flock to the Foster home every Christmas Eve, tieing up surrounding streets with parked cars and necessitating a traffic director on the road outside — also provided by Mr. Foster.

But the Foster's Christmas Eve is more than just a jolly festive occasion provided by a warm-hearted couple.

It is a triumph of the human spirit over tragedy.

On Christmas Eve, 1958, the Foster's only child, 13-year-old Bill Foster was killed in a car accident. He was a hockey player with the New York Rangers and was killed on his way back from Carnithon where he had visited a former hockey coach.

"I was just putting his presents under the tree when the policemen came to the door," recalls Mr. Foster.

The next year marked the beginning of the couple's now-traditional Christmas Eve event, a memorial to their son.

"We could be moping at Christmas," says Mr. Foster, "and have a terrible time. This way, we make other people happy. This is what Christmas is all about, seeing all those happy kids out there."

Mr. and Mrs. Foster spend about $200 on their hour-long Christmas Eve block party. This year they laid in 25 cases of chips and about 4,000 tiny plastic Snoopy figures. There were also balloons and happy face pins.

Mr. Foster was disturbed when a grateful father contributed a $2 bill "because this must cost this man a lot of money".

"I don't take money! I do this on my own," he said.

Don Foster is best known in Belleville as the man who rescued the Santa Claus parade after it was cancelled three years ago.

On his own, in a week's time, he organized a parade and made it an independent part of Christmas in Quinte district.

"There will always be a Santa Claus parade in Belleville as long as I am alive to do it if the others back out," vows Mr. Foster.

Mrs. Foster recalls that she spent two days on the telephone to round up assistance for their spur-of-the-moment parade.

Mr. Foster has been helping people enjoy themselves since before World War II. That's when he began "going clowning to help the March of Dimes. Clowning around has been his hobby ever since, and is now almost a full-time second job after he puts in his hours as a CN railroad engineer.

After the war he gathered up a troupe of friends and costumes to dress them in, and Don Foster's Clowns became an institution.

Ten years ago Mr. and Mrs. Foster had accumulated about 50 costumes friends and neighbors began to borrow them. The couple decided to go into business and Foster's Float and Costume Rental is the result.

Mrs. Foster makes most of the clothes, but a few donations of old top hats and other antique items round out the collection. At Hallowe'en the couple has about 800 costumes rented out. All costumes in Kingston's Santa Claus parade come from the Fosters.

"We do more business out-of-town than we do in Belleville," says Mrs. Foster.

In addition, Mr. Foster has 30 big floats and 25 small ones in his warehouse, along with 20 assorted bicycles and other rolling stock.

Christmas is the Foster's busy season, with floats and costumes and their 12 Santa Claus suits in circulation and all sorts of festive events.

Mr. Foster plays Santa when no one else is available but his favorite role is Bozo the clown.

Clowning around has become a serious way of life for the Fosters; even their poodle, Pierre has his own clown suit.

Even Mrs. Foster's Christmas present this year was a utilitarian contribution to the world of fun and frolic and practicality.

Because she washes and repairs all the rented costumes herself, Mrs. Foster's husband gave her a new washing machine as a Yuletide present.

Trenton Planes In Air Search

TRENTON (Staff)—A massive air search is being conducted 300 miles north of Thunder Bay for two crashed light planes, one carrying a pregnant Indian woman.

Neither plane filed a flight plan when they left Christmas Eve, but the search by five military aircraft from Trenton and Winnipeg and by four civilian planes is being centred in the Pickle Lake and Big Trout Lake areas.

The first plane, a Norseman owned by Slate Falls Air who have provided the four civilian search craft planes, left Kasabonika Lake at 3:30 p.m. for the 1½-hour flight 130 miles north to Pickle Lake. This airplane carrying the expectant woman is equipped with 10 days' survival rations.

The second downed aircraft, a Cessna 180, owned by Bearskin Lake Air Service, left Pickle Lake at 5 p.m. Christmas Eve, for a two-hour run to Big Trout Lake. The number of passengers is not known. Survival rations status is also unknown.

At precient a 7:33 from Winnipeg is conducting an electronic sweep near the supposed flight paths of both downed planes. One of the aircraft, and it is not known which is equipped with an electronic crash position indicator. The 7:33 began its search at 9:15 a.m. today.

As well, two CF 5s from 429 Squadron, Winnipeg, plus a Twin-Otter from CFB Trenton Search and Rescue are visually combing the area.

It left Trenton at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A Hercules from here was scheduled to depart at 11 a.m. today. Military spokesmen at the airbase said approximately 20 military personnel are involved in this search.

Nine Sent To Hospital

A three-car Christmas Eve collision 10 miles south of Madoc on Highway 62, sent nine people to hospital for examination.

Gary Robert White, 23, of Frankford, had three children in the car he was driving Gary, Sharon and Richard White.

Frank Lynn Curtis, 36, of Frankford, driver of the second car, was taken to hospital for minor cuts and bruises and later released.

Kenneth Wood, of Crookston, driver of the third car, with his passengers Mrs Wood and two children Angela and Morris Wood were all treated and released from Belleville General Hospital.

A spokesman at the scene said damage to all vehicles was extensive. Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating.

Former School Principal Is Dead

Funeral service will be held Thursday afternoon at Bridge Street United Church for W. Gordon Anderson, 145 Foster Ave., former city public school principal.

Mr. Anderson, who lived at 145 Foster Ave., died Tuesday in Belleville General Hospital following a brief illness.

Born in Tyendinaga Township son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Anderson, he had devoted most of his adult life to education.

After teaching in city schools, he was named principal of Queen Alexandra in the early 1930s and was the first principal of Queen Elizabeth Public School when it was opened in 1951. He retired as principal in June 1961 but following official retirement had worked as part-time supply teacher for several years.

In addition to his school activities Mr. Anderson was a member of the Quinte Region Library Board and was past chairman of the Carlton Public Library Board, and had served on the Belleville Red Cross board for many years.

He was a member and past master of The Belleville Lodge AF and AM No. 360.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Simpson, one daughter Mrs. Thomas R. (Betty) Colden of Belleville, three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Anderson is resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home. Rev. George Ward will conduct the funeral Thursday at Bridge Street Church at 2 p.m. Interment, Napanee Cemetery.

Firemen Just Make It

Five hundred hockey sticks, paraded past toys in batches of 400 — that was part of the Christmas shopping list of Ralph Boomhower, director of the city firefighters Christmas toy project for needy families.

The firefighters just made it this year, with their warehouse at the corner east and bowling alley cleaned out by Christmas Eve.

"We had hardly enough to make up a decent basket of toys for the last 10 families on our list," said Mr. Boomhower.

The firefighters provided total of about 1,600 children. Total of about 400 families.

"The public response was good in the last few days before Christmas," said Mr. Boomhower.

Donations of new and used toys were slow in coming in this year and the firefighters had their fingers crossed, hoping that luck would see them through without any child being neglected at Christmas.

"We ended up with a plus in the doll department; we have a surplus for next year," reported Mr. Boomhower.

Mrs. Mary Lloyd and Mrs. Gerald Hamilton assisted with the dolls. They, together with Girl Guides and high school students, dressed and stole 150 cartons of cigarettes, valued at $750.

Because modern plastic toys cannot be repaired the way the old wooden ones were, the firefighters were forced to buy many toys, games and puzzles for the children on their list, a total of about $1,000 in cash donations for the purpose.

Drunks Biggest Police Problem

City police had a busy weekend keeping drunken drivers off the road but elsewhere, activity was quiet.

Nine persons were halted in Belleville and charged with impaired driving during the party period from Saturday to Christmas day.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said he was not pleased with the figure, up from last year. Only accidents to occur in the city were minor.

In the rural districts, provincial police report most holidayers stayed home rather than venture out onto the roads. Only a few minor collisions were reported.

At Sidney Inn early Sunday morning, a thief pried open the front door and stole 150 cartons of cigarettes, valued at $750.

Plane And Car Collide

ENOSBURGH FALLS, Vt. (AP) — Two women and the Quebec pilot of an aircraft escaped serious injury when the light airplane collided head on with the women's car while making an emergency landing on a highway.

State police said the single-engined plane was flown by Salvatore Ditrapani, 18, of Lachine, Que. Police said the pilot told them he believed he was north of Montreal and decided to land because of bad weather.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Theresa Stanope, 36, of Berkshire, said she and her passenger, Mrs. Deborah Larsby, 24, of Enosburg had noticed the low flying airplane.

Mrs. Stanhope said Mrs. Larsby flung open her door and leaped from the car, falling down an embankment.

Mrs. Stanhope said she instinctively threw herself below the level of the car's dashboard.

Police said the body of the plane shattered the windshield and bounced off the top of the car. The plane came to rest in a nearby field.

Trudeaus Spend Yule On Skis

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his family spent a white Christmas on the ski slopes of Whistler Mountain, escaping both the wet weather and an anti-Vietnam war protest.

An RCMP source said the prime minister's party was "out and about" on the ski runs with good ski conditions.

The Whistler Mountain area, about 90 miles north of Vancouver, had snow Monday afternoon and night and reports from the area Tuesday were that 36 inches of new snow had fallen.

About 20 persons turned up at the North Vancouver home of Mr. Trudeau's father-in-law, James Sinclair, Monday night in an attempt to deliver an anti-war protest telegram. But they were told by neighbors that Mr. Trudeau and his party had not returned from their ski holiday.

The telegram calls on the Prime Minister to urge publicly that the U.S. halt the bombing of North Vietnam.

It also urges a "non-party vote of conscience" on a motion to the same effect when Parliament reconvenes next month.

Smelting Avoids Pollution

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A firm that says it has developed a non-polluting copper smelting process has signed a contract to develop a pilot plant in Ontario.

The firm, Associated Smelters International, granted exclusive licensing rights to the process in Canada to Contek Refining Co. and Kilborn Engineering Ltd., a spokesman said Tuesday.

Lyon E. Burr, president of Associated Smelters, said his company will receive a royalty payment of $5 a ton under the contract.

Further development of the technique, the Spendlove dual-reduction process, under the pilot program will enable the company to expand into other areas of the world, Burr said.

The process, which has been under development for four years, cuts down on the emission of sulphur dioxide, he said.

The pilot plant will be located in the Toronto area, he said.

Pair Charged With Murder Christmas Day

TORONTO (CP) — Two Toronto men were charged with non-capital murder Tuesday and two more were being sought in connection with the Christmas Day shooting of a father of three small children.

Gordon Raymond Johnson, 31 died in hospital shortly after being gunned down outside his apartment building when he returned from a party at a neighboring apartment.

Police said Steven Jordan, 17 and a 16-year-old man, whose name they were withholding temporarily, have been charged with non-capital murder.

U.S. Banks Raise Rate For Loans

NEW YORK (AP) — A string of major United States commercial banks followed the lead of two other big banks and increased their prime lending rates Tuesday to six from 5¾ per cent.

Chase Manhattan Bank, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., Chemical Bank and Marine Midland Bank increased the cost of borrowing for their most credit-worthy customers in the face of the Nixon administration's campaign to control inflation by keeping the lid on bank interest rates.

Changes in the prime rate are pegged to fluctuations in short-term interest rates in the money market and these have been rising sharply recently.

Friday, First National City Bank, the second-largest bank in the country, and Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh, a major commercial bank, increased their prime lending rates to six per cent, citing higher short-term interest rates.

Both Citibank and Mellon had floating prime rates, which are used by just a few of the banks. These institutions have formulas that automatically follow movements in money market rates to determine the prime.

Tass Says Tensions Are Eased

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Soviet news agency Tass gave an optimistic review Tuesday of international relations in 1972 and said the world "has made a step toward building a better future for mankind."

The Tass commentary by Anatoli Krasikov said President Nixon's talks with Soviet leaders in May "has major importance for ensuring international security."

While mentioning Vietnam and the Middle East as exceptions, the report said 1972 would go down in history "as the year of important diplomatic initiatives aimed at the liquidation of the seats of dangerous tensions in different areas of the world."

Krasikov observed that Soviet-American relations had improved, but reminded that party leader Leonid Brezhnev said much will depend on ending the war in Vietnam.

Krasikov mentioned the nuclear weapons limitations agreement; talks on curbing strategic arms and for cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union, trade, space exploration and other fields.

He also saw reason for optimism in the improvement of relations between East and West Germany and said: "The diplomatic blockade of the Socialist German state has been ultimately broken."

He noted that preparations for a European security conference have started in Helsinki, with "all grounds to expect the all-European conference will start not later than by mid-1973."

Import Ice For Swim

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Four tons of imported ice, a blazing bonfire, a shapely Hawaiian band and 362 dedicated bathers provided the basic ingredients Tuesday for one of Canada's zaniest Boxing Day capers—the annual Nanaimo polar bear swim.

A crowd of about 3,000 turned out to watch as the bathers took to the water in unseasonably high temperatures, close to 50 degrees.

"It's far too warm for comfort," said Frank Wey, swim organizer and mayor of this Vancouver Island city. "The ice is melting as soon as we put it in the water and the polar bears have been driven away by the heat."

Truckloads of ice were imported this year for the 16th annual swim. In the past, the swim has gone ahead in blizzard conditions with snow on the beach and the temperature well below freezing.

Adelaide Willmon, 73, was the oldest participant, and she is a regular. The oldest man present was "Happy Harry" Sletsky, 68, while at the other end of th age scale were Jeff Elias, 4, and Scotty Waitt, 3.

Strike Still On

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The strike by bus drivers against the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway enters its sixth day today with no new contract talks scheduled.

The strike affects 194 company employees, including 124 drivers of Division 616 of the Amalgamated Transit Union.

HARRY S. TRUMAN

Victims Don't Blame Truman

TOKYO (Reuter) — Patients suffering from after-effects of the world's first atomic bomb attack do not hold Harry S Truman responsible for the tragedy, a doctor said in Hiroshima Tuesday.

Dr. Fumio Shigeto, head of the Atomic Bomb Hospital in western Japan, was speaking on behalf of 158 patients, some of them close to death.

He said they blamed the war itself but not the president or the American people for the bombing.

Hiroshima officials believe nearly 200,000 people were killed by the Aug. 6, 1945, bombing although the official death toll is about 80,000.

Government officials here expressed condolences on the death of the former president and described him as a great leader.

They said Japanese in general in post-war years did not consider the late president responsible for the bomb.

Truman, who assumed office in the last days of the war after the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, ordered the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki three days later, after his military advisers warned the U.S. could suffer up to a million casualties in an invasion of the Japanese mainland.

Six days after the bombing of Nagasaki—where the official death toll is set at about 45,000 — Emperor Hirohito announced Japan's unconditional surrender.

What Did 'S' Signify?

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Harry S Truman had no middle name and it caused no end of confusion, particularly to typesetters.

He signed his full name with a continuous stroke that allowed room for a period after the S, and it was commonly assumed he preferred it that way.

The middle initial stood, he said often, for either one of his grandfathers—Anderson Shippe Truman and Solomon Young.

A reporter once asked about his preference—period or none.

"It doesn't matter to me, one way or another—do as you like," he said.

The period appears on stationery of the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, on the cover page of the three books he wrote, and—most recently—on the jacket of the biography written by daughter Margaret.

Conducts Study

BOSTON (AP) — Harvard Medical School is launching a five-year investigation, sponsored by eight tobacco companies, to explore the relationship between tobacco smoking and lung and heart disease, the school announced Tuesday. Researchers will study the effect of smoking on development of emphysema, bronchitis, lung cancer and heart and vascular diseases.

PM Expresses Sympathy

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday that former U.S. president Harry Truman is still remembered with affection by the Canadian people.

In a message to President Nixon, he expressed sympathy for the death of Mr. Truman early today. He also asked that this message be conveyed to Mrs. Truman and her family.

"President Truman was well known to Canadians and we recall with affection his visit to Ottawa in 1947," Mr. Trudeau said.

"He exemplified to Canadians, American warm-heartedness and close family life.

In addition, we recall the courage and effectiveness with which he discharged the burdens of his high office at the close of the Second World War and his great efforts for peace and post-war reconstruction."

World Briefs

Thieves Active

TORONTO (CP) — Burglars and hold-up artists took over $100,000 in loot over the Christmas weekend in the Toronto area. Police said Tuesday there were 13 robberies and 39 burglaries of shops or homes.

Quake Hits

PALMER, Alaska (AP) — A moderate earthquake about 30 miles southeast of Adak Island caused minor damage Tuesday at the Adak U.S. naval base. A spokesman for the Palmer seismic observatory said the quake, registering 5.1 on the Richter scale, was felt "very strongly" on the island. The earthquake that struck Nicaragua Saturday registered 6.5 on the Richter scale.

Two Stabbed

WOLISDAD, Calif. (AP) — Two Soledad prison convicts have been stabbed to death and two others wounded in an incident a prison official says involved rival Mexican-American groups. Guards found the bodies Monday.

Burn Centre

DACCA (AP) — Students set fire Tuesday to the United States information centre at Rajshahi 90 miles northwest of here and caused considerable damage. Earlier, students meeting at Rajashahi University campus condemned the American bombing of Vietnam.

Bad News

ISTANBUL (Reuter) — Turkish publisher Bulent Habora, 32, has been sentenced to 7½ years at hard labor for publishing Trotsky's The Permanent Revolution. The civilian court passing sentence Monday also ordered that he spend 2½ years' exile in the western Turkish town of Kutahya on completion of his prison term.

Wine Flows

ROME (Reuter) — Italy exported more than 111 million gallons of wine to France in the first nine months of this year. The senate here was told by a government undersecretary that this was an increase of 56 per cent over the same period last year.

Toll Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas weekend traffic fatalities totalled 565 in the United States for the three-day holiday period. The Christmas total is fewer than the 624 who died during Christmas 1971, and far below the Christmas record of 720 killed in 1965.

Belgium First

BERLIN (AP) — Belgium became today the first member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to grant full diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

The official East German news agency ADN reported that the East German embassy in Brussels would go into operation today under special emissary Max Kleineberg.

Swiss Sign

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba and Switzerland have signed a trade agreement for 1973, Radio Havana reported Tuesday. The pact, signed in the Cuban foreign ministry, is an extension of the 1972 agreement, said the Havana broadcast monitored in Miami. It did not mention amounts and items involved.

Beats Nixon

PARIS (Reuter) — The readers of the right-wing French newspaper L'Aurore have voted U.S. presidential envoy Henry Kissinger man of the year—five percentage points ahead of President Nixon. Kissinger collected 29 per cent of the 4,000 votes sent in by readers. Third was West German Chancellor Willy Brandt.

South Ontario To Gain 5 Seats

OTTAWA (CP) — Southern Ontario will gain five Commons seats and the north will lose two under a redistribution plan to be published for the province today by federal electoral boundaries officials.

The 1971 census raised Ontario's share of the 264 seats in the House to 95 from the present 88. The only other province to enjoy an increase in representation is British Columbia.

But the redistribution of seats will not affect an election before late 1973, when readjustment or ridings for all provinces and territories is scheduled for completion. Boundary commissions in each province have been working since last spring to try to match population shifts with new riding divisions.

Under the plan, Metro Toronto retains its 22 seats, although with major changes in boundaries.

But the burgeoning suburbs, and the strip between Oshawa and Niagara Falls, will gain 6 seats to reflect a growing population density.

After hearings throughout the province, the boundary commission will submit its plan to the Commons. MPs may request changes, but the commission in each province have the final say.

In Northern Ontario, the ridings for Fort William and Port Arthur are combined into the single riding of Thunder Bay.

The present riding of Thunder Bay, which stretches from the fringes of the Lakehead north to Hudson Bay, is called Nipigon under the new plan.

The second loss in northern Ontario is caused by the combination of the ridings of Cochrane and Timiskaming into the single riding of Cochrane-Timiskaming.

Newly-formed ridings in southern Ontario include Markham-Vaughan north of Toronto, Mississauga North and Mississauga South on Metro's western edge, Oakville, and Ontario South to the east of Toronto.

Though it holds its 22 seats, Metro Toronto sees some changes in its new riding map.

Etobicoke, for example, is split into North and South.

The formula, ridings in Ontario were granted a quota of 94,650 people each. In practice, the figure may go 25 per cent above or below that figure.

Electoral officials say nine of the 12 existing ridings in Northern Ontario fall below the minimum of 63,467, while several southern ridings exceed the maximum of 105,833.

Legal Aid Assistants Advocated

TORONTO (CP) — An Osgoode Hall professor says there is a need in Ontario for trained legal assistants to help poor people unable to afford lawyers to deal with their problems.

Prof. Frederick Zemans said Tuesday in an interview there will never be enough lawyers in low-income communities to handle the case loads.

He supervises the Parkdale Community Legal Services office in Toronto. It is an office with specially trained assistants—sometimes known as para-legal personnel or lay advocates.

The assistants give advice, help fill out bureaucratic forms, and help people seeking welfare, unemployment insurance benefits or workmen's compensation payments.

Stan Pazass, 32, is one of two lay advocates working at Parkdale. He joined last April through a $100-a-week grant from the manpower department's Local Initiatives Program. The pay was half of what he was getting selling life insurance.

Since that grant expired last fall he has been paid through York University's Osgoode Hall Law School from grants from the federal health and welfare department and the Ford Foundation.

Mr. Pazass said he was chosen for the job because he lived in the area for 10 years and was often ... grants looking for advice on immigration matters or help in interpreting.

Kinloch Says Potter Got Right Figures

TORONTO (CP) — Why did [health] Minister Dr. Richard Ne[wman] have to ask the last sess[ion] of the Ontario legislature for $50 million to keep the prov[ince's] health insurance scheme "[afl]oat"?

Dr. Potter's explanation at the time was that some of his senior officials had "drastically underestimated" the growth in the cost of the Ontario Health Insurance Plan (OHIP). The cost was 10 per cent higher than the estimate he gave the legislature in May, and the $50 million was needed to cover the difference.

But Dr. David Kinloch, 38, recently relieved of his duties as director of the health plan, says that is not the case.

He said in a recent interview that officials warned Dr. Potter of the deficit when the original estimate was being made. They said drastic measures would be needed to deal with it.

But Dr. Kinloch said the measures came too late to affect this year's budget.

One measure required was close inquiry into doctors' billing practices. Dr. Kinloch says his inquiries were so stringent the minister yielded to "pressure-group tactics" from the medical profession and had him demoted.

"I have my own reasons," Dr. Potter said recently. I don't have to discuss them in public. ... I'm not happy with a lot of things in my ministry. We were not moving fast enough and I wasn't getting enough information."

He denied he yielded to pressure from doctors for Dr. Kinloch's demotion, but said the Ontario Medical Association and the College of Physicians and Surgeons preferred to deal with him rather than Dr. Kinloch. Officials of both groups agreed with the statement.

Dr. Potter and his predecessor in the ministry, A. B. R. Lawrence, have said some doctors are milking OHIP. The College of Physicians and Surgeons has said it is just as concerned with unethical billing practices and it established a medical review committee last year to investigate them.

Although Dr. Potter indicated in an interview that he was not getting the information on billing he wanted, Dr. Kinloch said he and his section were complimented by the deputy minister on their investigation.

"Dr. Potter may have been bugging the medical review committee to hurry up," Dr. Kinloch said, "but he was doing

Lewis Stoic At Common Market

LONDON (CP) — David Lewis, New Democratic Party leader, says there is no purpose in Canadians shedding tears about British entry into the European Common Market.

"We'll just have to make the best of it," he said in an interview today.

"Personally, I was never particularly enamored of it," the NDP leader said of the European community which Britain joins next month.

Referring to the market's tariff policies, he said that "essentially it's an inward-looking organization."

"But it's there and Britain will be in it and that's it."

Lewis said Canada will have to be on the alert for the effects of the gradual ending of Anglo-Canadian preferential arrangements covering manufactured and agricultural goods.

But Canada also should "take advantage of the larger trading area" which the expanded community will provide for Canadian exports.

Turning to the resumed bombing of North Vietnam by the Americans, Lewis said "Canada and other countries ought to be protesting very loudly and very angrily."

"I believe this resumption of bombing is a tragedy and a crime," he said.

The behavior of the U.S. government had been "barbaric."

"I'm sure this will be the feeling of a large section of Canadians," said the NDP chief, who is here on a private visit.

Lewis, who returns to Canada Thursday after slightly more than a week in Britain, was cautious when asked to predict how long the next Parliament in Ottawa will last.

"It's not likely to last four years," he said.

Lewis has spent his British visit seeing his daughter, Janet, a student at the University of Newcastle.

The NDP leader also conferred briefly with several representatives of Britain's opposition Labor party, though many of its spokesmen were away for Christmas.

Asked whether he has detected any change in British feelings towards Canada Lewis, once a student at Oxford University, said:

"The people I've met from the Oxford days are all very keenly aware of Canada...

"Persons in the street are as unaware of Canada as ever."

Aussies Ending Aid

CANBERRA (Reuter) — The recently-elected Australian Labor government said today it will end all defence aid to South Vietnam following the return home of the last Australian troops from Vietnam just before Christmas.

The decision, announced by Lance Barnard, defence minister, reverses a commitment by the previous Liberal-Country party government to supply $25 million in defence and civil aid during the three years ending 1974-5.

The Australian Labor party defeated the 23-year-old coalition government in elections on Dec. 2.

During 1971-72, a total of $7 million was spent on defence and civil aid to South Vietnam, of which defence aid comprised about $3.5 million.

Island Isolated

FOGO, Nfld. (CP) — Severe ice conditions in Notre Dame Bay have halted the daily ferry service between this island community and the rest of Newfoundland, but ski-equipped aircraft have been keeping the transportation link open.

Bill Bennett, owner of Gander Aviation Ltd., said his airplanes were operating all through the holiday weekend moving holidayers to their island homes. He said two additional planes will be added to the service today to ensure that all holidayers will be able to return to work on time.

Pollution Effects Toned Down, Those of Smoking Played Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A C
nadian scientist said today t
American industry, priv health agencies and governm research centres have cast
"pall of secrecy" over much the information needed to a sess the health effects of poll tion and cigarette smoking.

Furthermore, said Professo
Theodore D. Sterling, evidence that has been made public or these questions "appears to be derived from many inadequate studies."

In a report for the 139th meet ing of the American Association for the Advance of Science,
Sterling, a statistical specialist from Simon Fraser University at Burnaby, B.C., said:

"By and large, studies on the effects of pollutants are so de signed that they tend to under-play the effects of industrial or air pollutants on health, while studies on the effects of smoking are so designed that they would overestimate the effects of smoking on health.

"A more serious hindrance than these technical flaws is the pall of secrecy that hangs over much of the crucial information that is needed to form a balancing conclusion.

"Almost all (American) parties involved in these areas of estigation—industry, private ncies, and government re-rch centres—have been ity of withholding data from community of concerned entists and are violating the fu damental tenets of science si its transactions must be public."

He said it is difficult to justify "any but the most tentative conclusions concerning the relative role of pollution and smok-

Sterling singled out the American Cancer Society and the U.S. Public Health Service for withholding detailed information of the type he suggested is needed for a "dispassionate evaluation" of contentions by those two organizations that cigarette smoking is the chief cause of lung cancer.

He also said the U.S. Public Health Service has tended without proof to discount air pollution as a major cause of lung cancer and chronic bronchopulmonary disease while putting virtually all the blame on cigarette smoking.

Referring to alleged secrecy of "crucial information," Sterling said:

"There is an apparent willingness by the scientific community in the United States to tolerate the major breach of scientific principles.
Until this attitude changes, not much can be done about the matter."

White Lady Vacates Old Tavern

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP) — The boys down at the Stag's Head, a 300-year-old English tavern in this Midlands city, never had a ghost of a chance when the White Lady was around.

When the wispy apparition wasn't haunting the place and turning off the beer taps in the cellar, she often gave the customers the fright of their lives by appearing suddenly as they lurched out of the pub after a night's carousing.

She was the bane of landlord Harry Unett's life.

"The beer would suddenly stop flowing and I'd find the taps turned off in the cellar," he explained. "I'd turn them back on and then without any explanation they'd go off again. It happened 22 times in a month once.

"It could only have been the ghost because there's only one entrance to the cellar and no one could get down without everyone in the pub seeing them."

Unett's 18-year-old daughter said she saw the lady once in the cellar.

"I saw a woman in the form of a grey cloud sitting on a beer barrel," she said.
"She moved across the cellar and just disappeared."

Now, for some unknown reason, the White Lady's vanished from her old haunt. Unnett believes it was because he had some structural changes done on the ancient pub at Penn Common.

"The boys may be getting

Korean President Sworn In SEOUL (Reuter) — South Korean President Chun Hee Park was sworn in for a new six-year term today with vast extra powers expected to lead to tougher internal rule and broader dialogue with the Communist

North.

The inauguration of the 55-year-old former army general, who already has ruled the country for 11 years, followed the formal promulgation of a new constitution which gives him enormous powers unparalleled in Western democracies.

It marked the end of 71 days of tension which began when the president declared martial law, scrapped the previous constitution, dissolved the National Assembly and banned all political activities.

With his authority strengthened, he promised in an inaugural address at a simple ceremony that he now would broaden the dialogue opened with the North earlier this year.

The ban on political activities was lifted with the promulgation of the new constitution today. But there were no signs for revival—at least for the time being—of active political dissension from the opposition or students which had punc tuated his past rule.

A total of 1,203 prisoners were released from jails across th country and 5,016 others h their prison terms commuted a general amnesty granted t mark Park's inauguration.

Boxing Day No Holiday For Toronto Store Clerks

TORONTO (CP) — Boxing
Day was no holiday for clerks at major Toronto department stores.

Large crowds jammed downtown stores and shopping plazas intending to cash in on post-Christmas sales.

Some store clerks who had just finished the busy Christmas shopping season were not happy about Tuesday's crowds.

having a few days off at Christmas. To come back the next day and face crowds like this is something else. I need a holiday."

Many stores hired off-duty policemen and security guards to control lineups.

Nine Die by Mistake

SAIGON (AP) — A South
Vietnamese F-5 fighter-bomber accidentally dropped a bomb in a village 20 miles northeast of Saigon today, killing nine civilians and wounding 10, field reports said.

Six homes were reported destroyed.

Algae No Cure For Food Shortage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although it improves the head on a glass of beer, seaweed will not save the world from hunger in the future, says a biologist who tends California's offshore kelp beds.

It doesn't look like algae is going to be a significant source of nutrition," said Dr. Wheeler J. North of the California Institute of Technology.

Asked in an interview about the popular notion that future generations will eat seaweed for breakfast, lunch and dinner North said: "I think the excitement was a little premature."

Kelp—the only variety of seaweed harvested in great quantity by United States firms—contains some essential minerals, he said. But it is low in protein and its carbohydrates are generally indigestible by human beings.

The Japanese cultivate and consume a great deal of algae. However, this is more for cultural reasons—they like the way it tastes—than nutritional ones, he said.

Still, the seaweed industry continues to be important and last year more than 150,000 tons were harvested off California, about 90 per cent of the U.S. crop comes from the California coast.

From the processed kelp comes algin, a substance widely used to stabilize liquid mixtures. Brewers add it to beer to reduce the head. Ice cream and salad dressing, as well as paint and rubber, are manufactured with the use of algin.

Algin also is used in the processing of paper and certain textiles, and is an important component of dental impression compounds.

The enthusiasm of a few years ago about the potential of algae as food resulted partly from "politics" efforts among scientists to obtain more money for marine research, North said.

"We've suffered from that," he said. "People sat down and took a good hard look at algae and began to realize it wasn't going to compete with large terrestrial sources of food. Now funding agencies and the public are a little disillusioned."

Manitoba Hydro Plan Opposed

WINNIPEG (CP) — About 35 members of the Manitoba Metis Federation as well as several representatives of Pollution Probe and the Manitoba Naturalist Society demonstrated Tuesday on the grounds of the Manitoba legislature against a proposed hydro-electric development in northern Manitoba.

The demonstrators, carrying placards opposing the planned increase in water level of Southern Indian Lake, marched quietly for about two hours before dispersing.

The demonstration was held on the final day of a protest by Ted Chartrand, a 46-year-old Metis from The Pas, who camped in a tent on the grounds of the legislature during the Christmas weekend as a show of opposition to the Manitoba hydro plan.

The hydro proposal calls for the diversion of water from the Churchill River system at Southern Indian Lake, 500 miles northwest of Winnipeg, to a tributary of the Nelson River through a diversion channel, as part of the massive Nelson River power development.

The plan will raise the level of the lake about nine feet and is expected to flood about 150,000 acres of land including the Indian and Metis community of South Indian Lake.

Mr. Chartrand, who was camped at the legislature for five days, said the water diversion will destroy the ecology of the area and end fishing and hunting on which residents depend.

A statement from the Metis Federation said the Manitoba government "is proceeding to destroy the ecology of the north to provide more power to tag United States."

Premier Ed Schreyer has offered to meet with critics of the hydro plan.

TV to Cover Procession

NEW YORK (AP) — The major U.S. television networks scheduled live coverage of today's procession in which the body of former president Truman was to be moved from an Independence, Mo., funeral home to the Truman Library.

ABC, CBS and NBC said coverage would begin at 2 p.m. EST and was expected to last about an hour.

8,000 Economists Meet in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The growth of monster cities, black power in business, and women in economics are among the topics to be discussed at a three-day convention opening today and drawing 8,000 delegates, mostly American university professors.

The American Economic Association, of which Canadian-born John Kenneth Galbraith is president, will spread its annual meeting through the convention halls of four downtown hotels. It is the biggest convention to come to Toronto this year, and is expected to leave about $1 million behind in retail trade and service sales.

Mr. Galbraith, U.S. ambassador to India in the Kennedy years and author of the best-seller The Affluent Society, is credited with encouraging economists to devote more attention to the practical problems of today's society.

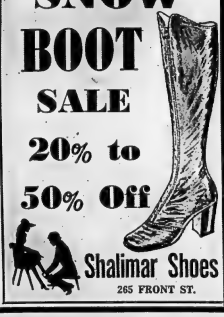
Several sessions will be spent on the problems of urban growth and the allocation of economic resources. Along with the problems of blacks and Spanish-Americans, the role of women, the convention will devote a session to the economics of heroin.

While the group is predominantly—American, Canadians will participate in many of the sessions. James Gillies, newly-elected Conservative MP, Bryce Mackasey, former Liberal labor minister, and Sylvia Ostry, heads of Statistics Canada, will preside at some sessions.

Dr. John Young, head of the now-disbanded prices and incomes commission, will present a paper on his experiences, one of almost 400 learned dissertations scheduled to be delivered.

The convention will honor Kenneth J. Arrow of Harvard University, 1972 winner of the Nobel Prize in economics. He will preside over sessions on resource allocations and meeting the problems of uncertainty in the quest for economic equilibrium.

Today's convention program deal mainly with preliminaries—nominations for executive office and executive meetings. Sessions Thursday, Friday and Saturday fill a crowded schedule running from early morning to late night.



Along with the American Economic Association, the convention includes the annual meetings of the American Agricultural Economics Association, the American Finance Association, the Association for Social Economics, the Econometric Society, and the Industrial Relations Research Association.

Judge Charged

CALGARY (CP) — Mr. Justice Harold Riley of the Alberta Supreme Court was summonsed Saturday to appear in court on a charge of impaired driving, police said Tuesday.

Police said the charge against Justice Riley is to be heard here Jan. 26.

Tannahill Scores Three For Canucks Against Seals

By IAN Maclaise
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Don Tannahill came out of junior ranks from Niagara Falls Flyers he became a gleam in the future of Boston Bruins.

Four years later, the 22-year-old winger finally can say it's now in the National Hockey League—with Vancouver Canucks.

The Penetanguishene, Ont., native was drafted from the Bruins in June and is among some of the newer and brighter features with the Canucks this season.

Tannahill gave his new owners more than a little satisfaction Tuesday when he scored three goals to pace Vancouver to a 4-3 win over California Golden Seals in an afternoon game.

In evening encounters, Montreal Canadiens handled St. Louis Blues 4-1 and Pittsburgh Penguins played to a 1-1 tie with Detroit Red Wings.

Montreal is in Minneapolis against Minnesota North Stars tonight while Toronto Maple Leafs are host to Pittsburgh. Buffalo Sabres visit New York Rangers, New York Islanders are at Los Angeles Kings, Boston Bruins at Atlanta Flames, St. Louis at Chicago Black Hawks and Philadelphia Flyers in Oakland against California.

Tannahill, a 5-foot-11 178-pounder, missed most of his first pro year with Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central League with a cracked knee cap that required two operations.

He scored only 30 goals that initial season, but followed it with a 37-goal year at Oklahoma home in 1970-71 and hit the charmed 30-goal circle with Boston Braves of the American League last year.

So it was somewhat surprising he became available in the inter-league draft last June and Vancouver was quick to grab him.

The Canucks survived 1-0 and 2-1 California leads built on defenceman Ted McAneeley's first two goals of the year.

Then, with the Seals ahead 3-2, Tannahill scored his second of the game at 14:17 of the second period to tie the game 3-3 and tallied the winner 31 seconds into the final period.

It left Vancouver in a tie with Toronto for sixth in the East, 18 points behind fourth-place Buffalo. The Seals remained deep in the West cellar.

Blazers' Lawson Beats Saints for Three Goals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Danny Lawson was a promising speedster in the National Hockey League who never quite achieved his potential.

In the World Hockey Association, he's a promising speedster who has been igniting rivals' teams' scoreboards with monotonous regularity in recent outings.

The only player in the fledgling WHA to score four goals in a game twice this season, the Philadelphia winger added another three times Tuesday night to lead the Blazers past Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-3.

"In other games, New York Raiders toppled Les Nordiques 5-2 in a rugged contest at Quebec City. Winnipeg Jets earned a 3-2 home ice win over Chicago Cougars and Houston Aeros salvaged a 3-3 tie with Ottawa Nationals.

Quebec is at home again Thursday night to New England Whalers while Philadelphia moves on to Chicago and Los Angeles Sharks entertain Minnesota.

Lawson, who brought his season total to 27 goals, has been a leading figure in the Blazers' sudden emergence from the Eastern Division cellar.

His high year in the NHL was the 1970-71 season with Buffalo Sabres when he notched 19 goals in 78 games.

But behind his scoring burst, the Philadelphians now have 13 victories and trail fifth-place Ottawa by only seven points—a gap they have been narrowing at a fast clip in recent games.

Lawson's linemate, Andre Lacroix, scored once and drew three assists against Minnesota.

Don Herriman and Pierre Henry completed the winners' scores.

Dick Paradise and Wayne Connelly notched the Minnesota goals before 6,124 fans who teamed up for the Saints final game in the old St. Paul Auditorium before moving into new accommodations at the St. Paul Civic Centre.

Norm Ferguson, advised by a New York judge earlier in the day to show cause by Jan. 10 why an injunction should not be issued barring him from playing in the WHA, scored twice for the Raiders at Quebec City.

The goals were Nos. 18 and 19 for the winger who, prior to the season, was claimed by New York Islanders of the NHL from California Golden Seals.

Terriers Fall To Foresters

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Two goals late in the third period gave Brantford Foresters a 6-4 win over Orillia Terriers in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game before 2,038 Tuesday.

Don Fraser's goal at 8:13 broke the tie and Carl Carlsten scored into an empty net with 21 seconds remaining.

Brantford's other goals were scored by Terry Cooke, Jack Powell, Terry McKnight and Dave Johnson.

Brantford outshot Orillia 36-22.

It was the only league game Tuesday. Action resumes Friday with Brantford at Orillia.

Ashby Knocked Out In Ottawa 67s Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltending proved to be a dangerous occupation in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game at Hamilton Tuesday night.

Ottawa 67s, who dropped a 7-5 decision to the Red Wings, lost starting goalie Barrie Ashby with a concussion late in the third period after a shot glanced off the goalie's stick and hit his forehead. He was taken to hospital for observation.

Midway through the second period, Hamilton netminder Steve Miskiewicz was struck on the temple by a shot and required three stitches before returning to the game.

Seven players divided the scoring for the Red Wings, who led 3-1 after the first period and 6-3 entering the third. Paul Hickey, Mark Evans, Dana Staffen, Jim Mooney, Chuck Blair, Greg Hickey and Ron Sedlbauer scored for Hamilton. Paul Sheard scored twice for 67s and Bruce Baker, Dereck Smith and Denis Potvin added one each.

In other games, Toronto Marlboros edged the Cathariner Black Hawks 4-3, Oshawa Generals defeated London Knights 6-3 and Kitchener Rangers slipped Sudbury Wolves 3-3.

At Toronto, Marlboros extended their undefeated streak to 25 games. Brian Dillon, normally called up by the club, scored the only goal of the game and goalie Mike Palmateer gained the shutout. Toronto's third of the year.

Oshawa scored three unanswered goals in the third period, breaking a 3-3 second-period deadlock.

Don Selling scored twice for Oshawa while single goals went to Lee Fogolin, Bill Lochead, Walt Johnson and Brian Kinsella. Paul Nicholson, Reg Fleming and Andy Spruce replied for the visiting Knights.

At Kitchener, Rangers scored on a 12-game winless streak, enabling them to escape the cellar past the Ide family Sr. Marie Greyhounds.

The Rangers jumped into a 1-0 first period lead and stretched it to 3-1 after two periods. Joe Perisano, Mike McKegney and Dave Maloney scored for the Rangers who outshot Sudbury 43-22. Terry Fyck and Morris Titanic scored for Sudbury.

Dynamos' and Czech Team Victors in Tourney Openers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league were good hosts Tuesday night, yielding victories to two European teams as a 15-game international tournament opened on two fronts.

Czechoslovakia whipped Owen Sound Downtowners 6-3 and Moscow Dynamos outlasted Kingston Aces for a 8-6 win.

The tournament is a 15-game, total-points series between three OHA Senior teams and three European teams. Owen Sound, Kingston, Galt Hornets, Czechoslovakia, Moscow and a team from Timra, Sweden, are taking part.

In Owen Sound Tuesday, the Czechoslovaks from Prague played Downtowners to a 2-2 tie at the end of the first period. They marched to a 4-3 lead after the second period and added two more goals in the third.

Bohuslave Eberman got t w o goals for the Czechoslovaks and singles goals were added by Vaclav Nedomansky, Bohuslav Stastny, Oldrich Machac and Jiri Novak. Jon Weeks, Mayo Paquette and Rod Bloomfield replied for Owen Sound. Weeks suffered a minor separation and will be sidelined for three to six weeks.

Owen Sound was reinforced by defenceman Pat Bester and forward Pete Panagakos of Oakville and Barrie OHA teams.

Moscow Dynamos kept up a steady attack at Kingston, taking a 2-0 lead in the first period, making it 5-2 in the second and raising it to 6-2 early in the third before Kingston became respectable.

"When the score was 6-2 early in the third period," said Moscow coach Arkady Chernushov, "I think our players thought the game was over. I wasn't satisfied with our play tonight. We will get better."

Yuri Regis, a 29-year-old left winger who played briefly with the Soviet national team a few years ago, also drew Dynamo goals. Other Moscow goals went to Igor Samsonchyev, Vladimir Davyatov, Evgeni Kotlov, Anatoly Moiseyev and Alexander Philipov.

Mike Flanigan scored twice for Kingston, with single goals going to Jim Johnston, Bob Clayton, Charlie Convery and Doug Gibson.

Sweden plays Orillia Terriers in Orillia tonight, in the first of five exhibition games that will be played between competing teams without counting toward tournament standings.

Tournament play resumes Thursday night with Prague playing Galt Hornets in Galt.

Morrall to Start Dolphins vs Steelers

MIAMI (AP) — Aging Earl Morrall again will start at quarterback for Miami when the Dolphins meet Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday for the American Conference football championship, but coach Don Shula is leaving the door open for Bob Griese.

And a member of the Dolphins' offensive line, repeatedly tripped by Cleveland Browns in Miami's 20-14 squeaker over the Browns Sunday, says they'll have to do better against Mean Joe Greene and his compatriots on the Steelers' front four.

"Earl will start in Pittsburgh," Shula said Tuesday. "Each week Griese is getting more and more time to heal and get back in the groove."

The Dolphins coach said he was tempted to replace Morrall with Griese early in the second half Sunday but held off when a turnover resulted from Jim Klick's fumble during a Morrall-led drive.

"It wasn't his fault," Shula said of Morrall.

Morrall directed a come-from-behind 80-yard scoring drive late in th fourth quarter, which included a pinpoint 35-yard pass to Paul Warfield and Klick's slashing eight-yard touchdown run that pu the Dolphins ahead.

But Griese, out since early in the season when he broke a leg, is in good shape and ready to play if needed in the Pittsburgh game. The winner meets the victor of the Washington-Dallas game in the Super Bowl for the National Football League championship.

Offensive guard Bob Kuechenburg of "the Dolphins said: "We'll definitely have to play better for Pittsburgh than we did against Cleveland. . . .

"We're just going to have to control the line of scrimmage. You're not going to win many ball games if you don't."

Cheevers One of Four WHA Choices

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Four players were unanimous choices Tuesday for the East squad which will face a team from the West Jan. 8 in the World Hockey Association's first all-star game in Quebec City.

They are Tom Webster of New England Whalers, Gerry Cheevers of Cleveland Crusaders, J.C. Tremblay of Quebec Nordiques and Ron Ward of New York Raiders. Twenty-one players were selected.

The West squad will be announced Thursday.

Jack Kelley of New England will coach the East and Bobby Hull will also be coaching duties with Nick Mickoski for the West. The game will start at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Gary Davidson, WHA president, announced the makeup of the East team which will include:

First team: Garry Jarrett, Cleveland, and Webster, forwards; Paul Schmyr, Cleveland, and Tremblay, defence; Cheevers, goalie.

Second team: Wayne Carleton and Ron Colmie, both of Ottawa Nationals, and Danny Lawson, Philadelphia Blazers, forwards; Rick Ley and Jim Dorey, both of New England, defence; Al Smith, New England, goalie.

Third team: Bobby Sheehan, New York, John McKenzie, Philadelphia, and Gerry Pinder, Cleveland, forwards; John Hanna, Cleveland, Ken Block, New York, defence; Serge Aubry, Quebec, goalie.

Fourth forward line: Larry Plesa, New England; Michel Parizeau, Quebec; and Norm Ferguson, New York.

Hull Breaks 20-Game Loss String to Bears

By TH CANADIAN PRESS

The worms turned in the Central Junior Hockey League Tuesday, as last-place Hull Festivals broke a 20-game losing streak 6-4 against Smiths Falls Bears, and Nepean Raiders hampered lately by losses, beat Brockville Braves 5-3.

The third game in the league saw league-leading Pembroke Lumber Kings double second place Ottawa Rangers 6-3.

Hull's win had little effect on standings, but was a boost for the club which had been taking drubbings almost regularly.

Richard Moyneur, Terry Chiasson, Lsc Prud'homme, Marc Brazeau, Al Silnser and Michel Brisebois all scored for the Festivals.

Terry Fournier, Des Allan, Don Robertson and Dave Wilson were the Smiths Falls scorers.

Nepean's win jumped them over the Bears into fourth place in the six-team league.

Art Powell scored four goals for the Raiders, with Mitch Bolvin getting the other.

Bob Shaw, Jeff Scott and Bob Mulcahy scored for Brockville.

The Lumber Kings almost predictable win over the Rangers came on goals by Tim Young, Mike Nixon, Pat Hahn, Steve Croucher, Murray Thrasher and Bill Sweeney.

Terry Feindel scored twice for Ottawa with Norm McLean getting the other Rangers goal.

With half the season gone, Pembroke appears to have settled down to a solid hold on first place, with Ottawa trailing in second.

There is a wide gap between the Rangers and Brockville Braves in third place. The Braves are battling with Smiths Falls and Nepean for third, with Hull stuck fast in sixth and last position.

Voyageurs Win 3-1

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia Voyageurs dumped Rochester Americans 3-1 in an American Hockey League game Tuesday night.

Outside of a robust first period, there wasn't much for the crowd of 2,185 to cheer about.

The two teams settled for only 20 shots on goal between them over the last two periods—Rochester outshooting Nova Scotia 5-3 in the second and both teams managing six shots apiece in the third.

The scoring opened shortly after the midway mark in the second period as the hard-hitting U.S. team, composed of top collegians from around the country, battled the superior shooting and passing Czechs to a virtual standstill. Holik, a 10-year veteran of Czech teams, drew three penalties in the session.

The Czechs play Canada in Wednesday's second game.

Czechs Edge U.S. 3-2 In World Cup Opener

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A screened third-period power-play goal pulled Czechoslovakia by the United States 3-2 Tuesday night in a fiercely played opening game of the second annual World Cup hockey tournament.

The U.S. team, rallying behind a fine performance by goalie Dick Perkins, who had 46 saves, managed a 2-2 tie after two periods.

The winning goal was scored by defenceman Peter Adamik, whose shot from the blue line, screened by two players, slid underneath Perkins.

The Czechs opened the scoring at 15:34 of the first period as Jaroslav Holik rapped in a rebound on a power play situation. The United States tied it up a minute later on a goal by Bob Young, which deflected in off a Czech defenceman.

The second United States goal also came on a deflection, when Chuck Ness hammered the puck off a Czech blueliner.

Tempers flared in a stormy second period as the hard-hitting U.S. team, composed of top collegians from around the country, battled the superior shooting and passing Czechs to a virtual standstill. Holik, a 10-year veteran of Czech teams, drew three penalties in the session.

The Czechs play Canada in Wednesday's second game.

Kinsmen Bounce Back

The Campbellford bantam majors started the scoring with a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period, but Belleville's Kinsmen Club's Paul Hayman finished the scoring and Campbellford's hopes of a win with a four goal scoring binge.

Hayman led the OMHA bantams to a 10-2 victory over the Campbellford club in Tuesday's exhibition hockey action. The Kinsmen rallied around the opposition goal posts in the second period as Tony Meagher netted two goals, while Paul Hipkin, Bobby Thompson, Andy Lucesole, and Rob Chase knocked in singles for a second period total of eight goals.

Hayman rounded off the third with his final two goals. Stephens and MacDonald each scored single tallies for Campbellford.

In Saturday's exhibition play, Hayman, along with Meagher and Lupenette earned goals in the Kinsmen Club's 3-2 victory over Trenton.

Wilson Concrete tykes skated into the third period with a 4-0 lead and came out of Saturday night with Napanee with a 5-1 victory. Trevor Powell, David Slaughter, Tim Muironey and Jamie Hofford each marked up goals for Wilson's while Terry Gray scored Napanee's single tally.

Belleville Rollins lost their victory bid during Saturday's the third-period, as they went down to defeat 6-3 at the hands of Kingston Vocationals.

Rollins lead 3-2 in the final frame when three consecutive penalties to Belleville allowed the Nats to bang four goals into the Belleville net for a 6-3 victory.

Danny Jaques, Danny Duffy and Mike Bryant tallied for Rollins while Doug McKenzie and Bob Fisher scored two goals apiece for Kingston.

Stan White and Danny Bavega added the final single goals for the Nationals.

In novice major action Saturday, Towers Food City bested the collective ears of Prescott 8-2 as Mulroney and Birch each netted two goals for Belleville, Wolfe, Crawford, Hanlon and Burkholder followed up with a goal apiece. Campbell and Dickson with two, were the goalgetters for Prescott.

Saints Talk to McCafferty

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Don McCafferty, the man who led Baltimore Colts to a Super Bowl championship and was fired two years later, was here Tuesday being interviewed for a job with New Orleans Saints.

McCafferty met with John Mecom, majority owner of the Saints, and coach J. D. Roberts, the man under fire for the past season's 2-11-1 record.

Saints officials said that several other persons were being interviewed.

McCafferty was fired by the Colts and replaced by his assistant, John Sandusky, who has since been fired.

Rebound by Ransom

Jim Ransom of the "No Name" basketball team embarks a rebound in an encounter with CFB Trenton. The team is mainly composed of former high school basketball players and competes with seven other teams in an adult league. Since no sponsor has been forthcoming the players pay expenses out of their own pockets.

EX-FOOTBALL STAR DIES

VILLA RICA, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Patton, 39, former New York Giants defensive football star, was killed in a traffic accident last week, police reported Tuesday. Patton was killed Friday three miles west of Villa Rica when he attempted to pass another car, lost about the game, but we still have fun."

Under the sanction of the Trenton Recreation Commission, the Trenton 'Not Called Anything' team gets use of the local high school gymn to practice, plus a ball. All other expenses, for uniforms of sorts, and travelling fees, are out of pocket.

Senior basketball official Ned Rainboth said at a recent game between the NCA's and CFB Trenton, "These fellows play good ball — hard ball.

"It's a rougher game than high school, but the speed isn't there. They've still got the skills, but it just takes them longer to get there."

Rainboth described the league's playing as "good recreational basketball," and expressed disappointment that no sponsor has come forward. "The officials have to be paid, so the boys all chip in."

The fellows are highly competitive about the game, but insist it's primarily for the fun of it all. After the games, they usually set off for their favorite watering hole, set up a few cool brews and talk about their game now and past. "It's a good way to keep together," says Moe Jeffrey.

New Life For Old Basketball Players

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — For five years the star of the local high school basketball team dribbled his way to success, earning praise as well as the dreamy-eyed glances of many a bobby-soxer.

And then the net was pulled from beneath his feet. He graduated from high school, and the pleasures of the basketball court were slowly fading away. What to do?

The hero could go to college and continue his fame. He could sadly retire his letter to a trophabilied closet or he could become a hermit and try to forget his days of glory.

Or he could continue with his days of wine and roses, gradually slowing down but enjoying still the triumphs and defeats with an adult basketball league.

But few, and far between are the sponsors who want to pay out a few dollars in support of these players, members of the eight-team Quinte Basketball League. Not to worry, though, for the players this is a chance to keep up their skills and enjoy a continuing rapport with other players.

Next end up putting out the bucks for their own gear, just to have a chance to continue.

One such unpersevered team, called the Not Called Anything' team, bears a fluctuating membership of between three and 14 players.

Oldest on the team is 43; youngest is 19. Several, such as former BCI player Mark Sheridan, Trenton's Jim Ransom and Moira's Rick Graham, are well-known in the area from their high school basketball days.

Two are teachers, one a chemist, another is a reporter, and two are ex - All Ontario Intermediate A players.

Moe Jeffrey, oldest member of the team, said of the Quinte Basketball Intermediate B) League: "Ours is a fun league. We still stay ser-

Quintes Down, Oaks Out

The Belleville Quintes are in last place, but things could be worse. The Oakville Oaks are no longer in the lead.

The Quintes' 5-3 verdict to Orillia Terriers Saturday night to drop their season record to 7-16, but the big news in the OHA Senior A Hockey League was the disbandment of the Oakville Oaks.

The Oaks, eighth and last in the league with a 5-16 mark' folded over the weekend. The team had been averaging 300 fans per game and would have required an average attendance of 1200 for the remainder of the season to finish in the black. Their final appearance of the year was an 11-5 loss to Owen Sound last Wednesday.

"There's a league meeting tomorrow and you can bet that we'll be trying to convince some players that they should come to Belleville," said Lionel Boily of the Quintes.

The local representatives were beaten Saturday night by the second place Terriers who salvaged a weekend split with Belleville after losing by a similar 5-3 count to the same team Friday.

Despite their only 14 players, the Quintes were in the game for almost the entire route. The teams were deadlocked at 1-1 following the first period before Orillia opened a 3-2 margin at the 40-minute mark.

Mike Draper had opened the scoring for Orillia at 4.29 of the first period but George Godson's tally with less than two minutes remaining in the frame squared accounts.

Jim Keon and Jim "Obie" O'Brien counted for the home team in the second period while defenceman Bob Fraymunds had an unassisted marker for Belleville.

Draper scored again early in the third period to give the Terriers a 4-3 lead but Ray Johnston's marker cut the lead to one goal. A tally by Gary Marsh at 16.07 of the period assured Orillia of the win.

Belleville outshot the winners unleashing 42 drives at Louis Levasseur, while Ron Jury was called upon to face 40 shots in the Quintes' net. The winners drew two of the game's three penalties.

Some Good News for Quintes

The Belleville Quintes have some good news and some bad news regarding the Royal Bank International Hockey Tournament, which features an exhibition game between themselves and the Moscow Dynamos next Friday.

First, the good news — there are only 100 seats still available at the Belleville Memorial Arena for their January 5th meeting with the Russians.

Intell Third In Gas House

The Intelligencer needed a win in Tuesday's Gas House hockey action to move into sole possession of third place. They did one better, however as they shut out Stewart Warner 3-0.

Larry Fritz, Bruce Symons, and Tim Hennessy netted goals for the newspaper men. Stewart Warner increased their loss record to 11 along with Rosebush Fuels.

The Fuellers lost their game last night 6-3, despite scoring the first goal of the contest against Cassidy Electrics. The electricians' victory moves them into a sixth place tie with Consolidation.

Chester Thompson and Joe Clarke led the Cassidy attack with two goals apiece. Tom Belnap and Doug James tallied the other two goals while Dave MacMullen (2) and Fred Vanoli scored for Stewart Warner.

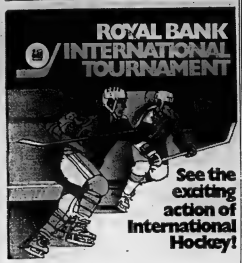
Allen Says Pardee Good for Redskins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Line-backer Jack Pardee had retired from professional football when he received a telephone call from George Allen, then head coach of Los Angeles Rams.

When Allen moved to Washington Redskins, he traded for Pardee, his defensive quarter-back.

The veteran, Allen says repeatedly, is the reason the Redskins' defence is one of the best in the National Football League.

Pardee was injured three games ago in a loss to Dallas Cowboys. Allen blamed a crack-back block thrown by Dallas wide receiver Lance Alworth for the injury.



"It's something designed to hurt a player and I don't think it has any place in football," Allen said.

The block is so named because the man throwing it cuts back sharply and hits his man, usually without being seen because he approaches from the blind side. There is no rule against it in the NFL.

"That's what comes from the all-righteous Tom Landry (Dallas coach), who is holier than thou and all-good," Pardee said.

Landry, naturally, defended the block.

"The block was designed as any other block, to heap get a man open," Landry said. "There was nothing vicious about it."

Nineteen Skiers Meet Death As Truck Hits New Mexico Bus

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP) — A truck loaded with cattle jackknifed on a narrow bridge near here and slammed into a chartered bus carrying a church youth group bound for a holiday ski outing and religious retreat. Authorities said 19 were killed, 16 injured.

The young people were from the Woodlawn Baptist Church in Austin, Tex.

Ambulance driver Harvey Silham said the bus "was hit hard enough so that the front end was pushed about halfway through the bus like an accordion. It was torn all to pieces."

The bus wrecked Tuesday night was the second of two school buses carrying the youth group.

The driver of the first bus said that after passing the truck he looked in the rear view mirror and saw the lights of the second bus flash and go out on the bridge.

"I stopped the bus and our leader Ron Killough ran back to see what happened," Roberts said. "I already knew. I stood up in the bus and made an announcement to the kids. I told them: 'You're going to see something you've never seen before in your life. If you can't stand to see your brothers and sisters mangled and possibly killed, don't get off the bus.

'Just pray.'"

Another ambulance driver said the scene "looked like a disaster area."

There were a lot of people down there trying to separate the living from the dead. The windows were all broken out of the bus. Fuel was all over the road.

Frank Stanley, a radio reporter from Clovis, said seats in the bus were torn from their moorings by the impact and the frame of the bus tore loose from the body.

Some of the injured weren't removed from the twisted and fused wreckage of the bus for as long as two hours after the accident. Neither vehicle burned. Traffic was blocked for about six hours.

The accident occurred as two buses carrying a total of about 87 persons crossed the bridge on U.S. 60-84 about 12 miles east of this small eastern New Mexico town. The span is only 25 feet long.

State police said the first bus passed the eastbound battle truck without incident. The truck then apparently struck the bridge railing and the trailer swung into the path of the bus.

The buses were heading for Vadito, a New Mexico ski area near a major Baptist assembly site, Glorieta.

Jews Handcuff Selves To Soviet Mission Gate

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Ten members of the Jewish Defence League (JDL) handcuffed themselves to the gate outside the Soviet mission to the United Nations Tuesday and promised a new wave of violent attacks against Soviet diplomats in the United States.

Police, slightly outnumbering the demonstrators, cut the handcuffs after half an hour and led the demonstrators to a police station across the street.

The protest was one of a long series of demonstrations against the Russian tax against all of people wishing to emigrate from the Soviet Union. The tax affects mostly Jews who wish to emigrate to Israel.

The leader of the demonstration, Dov Hiklind, said: "The Russian blood will flow. We are starting a new wave of attacks against Russians—this is only the beginning."

Hughes Jet Arrives In Britain

LONDON (AP) — An executive jet owned by Howard Hughes flew into Britain today as an official source reported the billionaire recluse was on his way here.

A convoy of limousines met the aircraft on the tarmac at London's Gatwick Airport but British immigration officials refused to confirm whether Hughes was among the passengers who disembarked.

Hughes, 68, was said to be seeking refuge in Britain after fleeing his reported hideaway in earthquake-shattered Managua, capital of Nicaragua.

A BBC report said he was thought to have flown to London from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Hughes' 10-seater Lockheed Jetstar touched down at Gatwick shortly after midnight.

Official sources said Hughes was coming to Britain without a passport and that American authorities here had been instructed from Washington to supply him with the necessary papers on arrival.

The American embassy in London was unable to confirm Hughes had arrived.

Olympic Star Denies Romance With Princess

LONDON (Reuter) — Princess Anne hit the headlines again today but over romance instead of fox hunting.

The popular press carried stories on her friendship with army Lieut. Mark Phillips, 24, an equestrian gold medallist at the Munich Olympics.

But any talks of romance was quickly put down.

Asked if he and the 22-year-old princess planned to get engaged, Phillips retorted: "It is absolute nonsense. There is no truth in it whatsoever."

He added: "Just because two people are seen about together two or three times does not mean they're getting engaged."

Princess Anne has been criticized recently by opponents of blood sports for riding with fox hounds—a couple of times in the company of the lieutenant.

Freight Cars Catch Fire

LA TUQUE, Que. (CP) — A minor derailment of a Canadian National freight train Tuesday night sparked a fire which damaged 35 cars near this community 80 miles northwest of Quebec City.

A railway spokesman said only the two diesels and the first four cars in the 95-car train went off the track but a fire engulfed 25 cars, including the derailed ones, and the locomotives. Most of the cars were hauled away. Eighteen of the burned cars carried gasoline and oil.

Cause of the fire and the derailment are not known and no one was reported injured.

The spokesman said it was not know how long the line, which runs from Quebec City to Northern Ontario, would be tied up.

Auto Prices Go Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has acquiesced in price increases announced by automobile makers in Canada after apparently fruitless attempts to persuade the companies to think again.

After weeks of negotiations with the so-called Big Three auto manufacturers—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—an announcement Tuesday in the name of Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie said only that GM and Ford had pledged not to make further wholesale price increases for 1973 models.

The companies also undertook to pursue in future years a government objective to bring Canadian car prices more into line with lower U.S. prices, the announcement said.

A department spokesman said that "we're sure Chrysler would undertake the same kind of commitment" as GM and Ford, but officials had been unable to reach Chrysler Canada authorities during the Christmas weekend.

Mr. Gillespie, appointed minister of industry, trade and commerce one month ago, had said earlier this month that he was trying to persuade the auto manufacturers to roll back the price increases.

He had referred to possible use of undefined measures beyond persuasion to get agreement from the companies.

Behind his efforts at persuasion was government policy, set by Mr. Gillespie's predecessor, Jean-Luc Pepin, to bring Canadian prices for North American cars closer to the lower U.S. prices for the same models.

Under the 1965 U.S.-Canada auto pact, whereby North American auto manufacturing has been integrated, the price gap had been narrowed to an average three to four per cent by 1970. But by this year, Canadian prices were outstripping U.S. prices by an average of about eight to nine per cent.

"In addition, the companies have accepted the government's objective of significantly reducing the differential in car prices between Canada and the United States."

The late-afternoon press release said the companies had undertaken to pursue the objective of a reduced price gap in future years. A narrowing of the price difference should benefit the consumer, the workers and the companies, it said.

Mr. Gillespie was quoted as saying that after discussions with the companies he was "pleased that the companies have acted in keeping with the objectives of the Canadian government and people."

In an evident reference to Chrysler, not mentioned by name in the announcement, the press release said it was expected that other manufacturers in Canada would agree to the same pledges on future pricing as GM and Ford.

After explaining that Chrysler authorities could not be reached during the Christmas weekend, an industry department official was asked whether the announcement had to be made Boxing Day—government offices were closed—for any specific reason.

The spokesman said the timing had been set by the minister.

Mr. Gillespie, holidaying in the Barbados, was unavailable for comment.

Lions Killed

BLAIR DRUMMOND, Scotland (AP) — Six young lions that escaped from a nearby wildlife park after a cleaner left a gate open were hunted down in the Perthshire countryside and shot dead.

More Economic Activity Needed to Meet Goals

OTTAWA (CP) — The pace of over-all economic activity will have to pick up to 1975 if the country is to meet the performance goals set last fall by the Economic Council of Canada, the government advisory body.

In its first clearly-defined set of economic objectives, the council said the country will need six-per-cent annual increases in over-all output for each of the next three years.

It also called for 3.1-per-cent annual increases in employment and no more than three-per-cent annual increases in the over-all price level.

The council said these and its other goals would bring the unemployment level down to 4.5 per cent of the labor force by 1975 from more than six per cent now.

What has the economy done in 1972?

The gross national product was running at an annual rate of $107.7 billion in the third quarter of the year and will approach $105 billion early in 1973, barring economic disaster.

But while these figures show impressive gains from the 1971 GNP of $93.1 billion, a large part of the increase has been inflationary. Discounting price inflation, output rose just 4.5 per cent in the first nine months.

Measured across the board spectrum of the national product, prices rose in nine months by about 3.3 per cent — more than what the Economic Council says Canada should experience for a full year. The consumer price index for November was 5.1 per cent higher than a year earlier.

From last April on, the underlying rate of unemployment remained well above six per cent of the labor force, touching 7.1 in September, and it was probably averaging 6.3 or more for the full year.

The number of people with jobs totalled almost 8.4 million in the fall, up about 2.6 per cent for the year.

The year 1972 was one in which the federal government's revision of the Income Tax Act took effect, including the imposition for the first time of income taxes on capital gains.

Most people will see the results of the new tax system when they make out their 1972 tax returns in the spring. But some authorities feel it may be several years more before the full effect of the new tax law on the economy will be determined.

Certainly, the federal treasury did not experience any shortage of funds in 1972. Buoyant tax revenues and attractive issues of Canada Savings Bonds and other bond issues kept the government's bankroll relatively flush.

The government announced towards the end of the year it will pump another $325 million to $375 million into job-creating winter works to boost employment opportunities.

Finance Minister John Turner also promised a new federal budget early in 1973 and was under opposition pressure to cut taxes to encourage economic growth.

Mr. Turner cut taxes for manufacturers in his first budget speech in the Commons last May 8. But he left unchanged a plan whereby a three-per-cent personal tax cut introduced in 1971 would run out Dec. 31.

Canada piled up a $646 million deficit in all its international transactions in goods and services during the first nine months of 1972, and could be on the way back to earlier years when annual deficits ran high.

There was a net inflow of more than $1.03 billion in foreign investment during the same nine months. With the Canadian dollar floating free of controls in the international exchange markets since 1970, the influx of funds pushed the Canadian dollar up to $1.02 in U.S. funds.

The exchange rate fell towards the end of the year as interest rates came down

U.S. Enters '73 Self-concerned

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations enters 1973 encouraged by markedly improving relations between the major world powers but doubtful about its own role in handling political disputes.

Although the 1972 session of the General Assembly proved ineffective in producing solutions to international problems, nearly every foreign minister who appeared before the UN in the year, referred to the lessening of tensions during the year.

The developments included

—New arms agreements between the United States and the Soviet Union;

—Warmer relations between the U.S. and China;

—Productive talks between West Germany and its Communist neighbors;

—Preparations for a European security conference;

—Negotiations between North and South Korea.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp of Canada told the UN that "more has been accomplished in this past year . . . than in any years since the organization was founded" toward removing the threat of war.

But there was a measure of frustration that almost all of these developments occurred outside the context of the UN. And there was continued unhappiness that the UN remained uninvolved in trying to bring peace to Indochina.

Many diplomats suggest that reason few actual agreements emerge from the UN is because of the radically-changed voting alignments since it was established at the end of the Second World War.

Although they say the UN remains useful for negotiations and as a meeting place, they believe it has become too unwieldy for decision-making because the new Afro-Asian majority does not reflect the world's reality of power.

As a result, the leading powers have moved outside the UN to solve their disagreements.

The ability of the Afro-Asian bloc to carry its way was indicated during this year's assembly in the vote to establish a new environment secretariat in Nairobi, Kenya. The Western members had wanted to set it up in Geneva.

The secretariat, which will be headed by Maurice Strong of Canada, was among the major achievements of the UN during 1972. It grew out of a UN conference on the environment held in Stockholm in June.

But the 1972 assembly produced little progress on the Middle East or disarmament and rejected Western calls for firm action against terrorism.

The United States continued its steady withdrawal from its previous UN leadership, giving its highest priority to winning a reduction in its share of the UN budget to 25 per cent from 31.5 per cent.

Prairie Town Has Special Sorrow, Truman Gave It Feeling of Security

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — In this prairie town, the passing of Harry Truman brings a special sorrow—he was their own.

"We felt so comfortable, all of us here in independence, knowing he was down the street in his big white house," said Mary Dowell, 57. "If you drove real slow down past his house on Truman Road, you could look in the north window at night and see him sitting there all alone, reading by the little lamp that was always lit in the study window.

"It gave you a feeling of security—you felt that no matter how much the world changed and seemed to get away from you as you grew older, that was one thing in your life that would stay the same."

Tuesday night the study window was dark. The former president's death had come at 8:50 a.m. EST that morning.

As the brilliant December sun faded away leaving only a soft lavender glow and a bitter chill, small clusters of people huddled on corners across the street from Truman's home.

"There never is and never can be anything like coming back home," Truman had said when he returned to Independence in 1953 after he left the White House.

"Harry was true people, he was one of us," said Willie Skalicup, a 64-year-old boiler stoker who credited Truman with getting him a job during the depression that kept food on his table.

Lester Osthoff sat at the soda fountain where Truman often stopped to visit friends. Now retired from the department store where Mrs. Truman used to order her clothes, Osthoff remembered, too.

"I hurt inside, knowing he's gone," Osthoff said. "America should hurt inside, too. He was a great man, a simple man who loved us all as neighbors and friends. He was our own."

Spokesmen of Allies of U.S. Praise Truman's Leadership

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leaders of nations allied with the United States during the last three decades eulogized former president Harry Truman today for his leadership in the aftermath of the Second World War.

Truman died Tuesday in a Kansas City hospital at the age of 88.

King Constantine of Greece, whose country was the chief beneficiary of the Truman doctrine, said it saved Greece from the greatest danger that ever threatened her."

Lord Avon, the former Anthony Eden and Sir Winston Churchill's foreign minister and successor as Britain's prime minister, called Truman "certainly one of the greatest presidents."

Prime Minister Trudeau said Truman is still remembered with affection by the Canadian people. "He exemplified to Canadians, American warm-heartedness and close family life."

The London Times recalled "his simple, unfussy approach" and commented:

"Americans still blame him for ills at home. Many among America's allies would rather affirm today that the Western world would have fared far worse without him."

Other comment included:

Queen Elizabeth: "He will always be remembered with gratitude for his part in the creation of the Marshall plan, which did so much to help Britain and the rest of Europe to recover from the ravages of war."

President Georges Pompidou of France: "France, which does not forget, the role the United States played in its rebuilding under the impetus of President Truman, feels deeply the sorrow of the American people."

David Ben-Gurion, Israeli elder statesman and former premier: No American president showed "such sympathy for Zionism and such friendship for the Jewish people."

Susumu Matsuoka, 54, bedridden from radiation exposure suffered in the atomic bombing of Hiroshima that killed his wife and three children: "I would like to express condolences to the people of the United States on President Truman's death. I hope mankind will not resort to the use of nuclear weapons again."

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam, Australia: "A very great president and a most distinguished American. The Marshall plan stands as one of the greatest and most generous acts of statesmanship of modern times."

Prime Minister Kakuel Tanaka of Japan: "The Japanese people will long remember Truman for his role in helping rebuild Japan from the ruins of war.

The Communist countries whose threats inspired much of Truman's foreign policies took little public note of his death.

Michener Praises Truman

OTTAWA (CP) — Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener Tuesday described former U.S. president Harry Truman as "a devoted servant of the United States of America and a courageous exponent of collective security as a way to peace in the difficult years after the Second World War."

In a message to President Nixon, Gov.-Gen. Michener said Canadians generally learned with sorrow of the death of Mr. Truman.

"We regret the loss of one of the few remaining leaders from that period of reconstruction and the loss of a very human and engaging friend," the Governor-General said.

Christmas Lonely

Galt Reporter

The greatest season of the year is less than two weeks away now.

It's the Yuletide season of Christmas and New Year merriment that will see families, relatives and friends get together for a variety of social events featuring everything from formal dinners and dances to a neighborly chat over a cup of piping hot coffee.

And yet, despite all the fun, excitement and warmth of the season — for some, it'll be just one eternal day after another.

For these people are the lonely.

They live alone; they have no relatives within reach; they have no neighbors or friends dropping in.

The information division of Statistics Canada informs us that more than 800,000 Canadians were living alone last year in their own self-contained dwelling units.

The figure, which does not include roomers or boarders in private homes, lodging homes or institutions, represented 13.4 percent of the six million households and nearly four per cent of the total population.

Many of these people are the lonely. And loneliness is about one of the worst things that can befall a person.

Trick of Walking Upside Down Learned Beneath Arctic Ice

TORONTO (CP) — Among the skills a team of underwater explorers picked up in the Arctic's Resolute Bay was walking upside down under the sea's ice covering.

Dr. Joe MacInnis, who has just returned from a month with the 20-man expedition, said: "At first it was freaky, like walking on the ceiling. Then, all of a sudden you were oriented. You really couldn't tell that you were upside down except that the bubbles were going to your feet instead of the other way."

The divers used the inverted ice - walk when they stirred up too much sediment on the sea bottom to see properly. Inflating their suits with air, they could rise to the surface, walk around and decide where they wanted to go next.

It was Dr. MacInnis's third trip to the arctic. This time the expedition constructed an acrylic diving station on the sea floor, the first that has been used in the polar sea.

The diving station is a transparent structure that holds a bubble of air. It lights up the surrounding water for 200 feet and serves as a resting place and workshop for the divers.

Dr. MacInnis telephoned Prime Minister Trudeau in Ottawa from the underwater station.

The call was transmitted by the Anik communications satellite.

Christmas Holiday Marred By 68 Accidental Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eleven years of fatality-free driving ended in Hespeler, Ont., Saturday as the community registered one of at least 68 accidental deaths across Canada during the four-day Christmas holiday period.

Jeffrey MacAllister, 20, of Preston, Ont., was killed when his car collided with a transport truck in a residential section of Hespeler.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed that 59 of the accidental deaths occurred between 6 p.m. Dec. 22 and midnight Monday night local times. At least nine others took place on Boxing Day.

Fifty-four of the deaths occurred in traffic, six in fires, three were drownings, two in snowmobile accidents, two resulted from asphyxiation and one was in an accidental shooting.

The Canadian Safety Council had predicted that between 50 and 55 drivers and pedestrians would die in traffic accidents in Canada during the holiday. Last year, 65 persons died on the long Christmas weekend.

Ontario had the most deaths during the holiday with 20—19 in traffic and a shooting, which occurred Saturday near Oshawa when Peter Pawluczek, 18, accidentally discharged his shotgun while climbing over a fence near his home, killing himself.

Quebec had 17 deaths, 14 of them in traffic, one in a snowmobile accident and two asphyxiations.

Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia each had seven deaths, with all of Saskatchewan's in traffic. Three of Nova Scotia's dead were killed in traffic, three drowned and one died in a fire.

Four of Alberta's six deaths were the result of traffic accidents. Two were caused by fires.

British Columbia reported five deaths, all in traffic.

In Manitoba, there were four deaths, one of them in traffic and three in fires.

New Brunswick registered a snowmobile death as well as one traffic fatality.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island reported no accidental deaths.

Hope's Farewell

Two Screens Latest Technique

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie theatres have offered everything from three dimensions to wrap-around screens, and it seemed that nothing new could be added. Now comes a movie with two images side by side.

It's called Wicked, Wicked, and theatre patrons will be getting two movies for the price of one.

The device is the idea of Richard Barr, veteran of film, simulcasting and television.

He told about his inspiration: "I was driving home from Newport one day after sailing my yacht. As I glanced from one side of the freeway to the other, I noticed how my mind was taking a picture over here, then another over there. Why not tell a film story with two simultaneous images.

"I played around with the idea for two years before putting anything on paper. Then I decided to try the double technique with a psycho-drama 'I owned, The Squirrel.'"

Barr produced his script, designing the action with careful balance between the two screens. He realized that the viewer could not absorb events and dialogue on both screens at once. So at most times there was an "active" side, where important things were happening, and a "passive" side, where the action and dialogue were limited.

"For instance, I have an old lady recounting how grandly she once lived; on the other screen we see that she had been a hooker," Barr said.

Four or five times during the script, Barr made 'the action full-screen "for shock value."

Barr shot the script, which concerns murder in a resort hotel, to his former boss at Warner Brothers, William Orr. They formed a company and took the project to MGM. Within 48 hours they had a go-ahead.

Wicked, Wicked was filmed in 48 days at the venerable Hotel Del Coronado near San Diego. Although he was actually shooting two complete films, Barr was able to keep the budget under $1.5 million. He figures the cost and shooting time was about 50 per cent more than they would have been for a normal film.

LONDON (Reuter) — American actress Jane Fonda's fiancé Tom Hayden was closely questioned by immigration officers when the couple arrived at London Airport Tuesday from Paris for a planned two-day visit.

During the two-hour delay friends made contact with British civil liberty campaigners about Hayden, a defendant in the Chicago Seven trial, who was eventually allowed restricted entry into Britain.

A home office spokesman said: "Jane Fonda was admitted as a normal visitor. Mr. Hayden asked to be admitted for two or three days and he was allowed seven."

The 36-year-old actress has announced that she plans to marry Hayden, 28, when her divorce from French film director Roger Vadim becomes final.

LONDON (AP) — The latest James Bond film Diamonds are Forever, and The Godfather were the biggest money makers at British motion picture theatres in 1972.

A survey by the entertainment industry paper, Cinema-TV Today, showed Wednesday that Diamonds are Forever had the best box office take, with The Godfather second. No earning figures were given since they are confidential.

The trade papers noted that The Godfather, unlike the widely-distributed Bond film, had been shown for less than half a year in Britain and at only a limited number of places.

The musical Fiddler on the Roof and Walt Disney's Bedknobs and Broomsticks tied for third.

Hugh Downs Returning

NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh Downs walked out of a lucrative career with the NBC television network after his last regular Today show on Oct. 11, 1971. He decamped for a year of "mulling around."

His idea of mulling was to write a book called Potential, lecture at Arizona State University and map plans to return to television, doing programs he dreamed up during the year's break.

Now he's slowly getting back into the swing of things as head of a production company based in Carefree, Ariz., a small new desert town which, is having a minitoom in film production.

At 51, Downs is tanned, fit and rested. He was a tired man when he left NBC after more than 20 years of association with the network.

Downs, a native of Akron, Ohio, started broadcasting in 1939 as staff announcer for station WLOK in Lima, Ohio.

It led to a broadcasting career that has included four lively years with Jack Paar on the Tonight show, nearly six years as host of Today and 10 years as host of the Concentration show.

He did Today and Concentration on the same days, yet somehow found time to do environmental documentaries for NBC. One of them the Everglades, won an Emmy award in 1971.

The projects he now is working on include film programs

Hovercraft Going North

TRENTON — Five Canadian Forces aircraft will be used to airlift a hovercraft to Tuktoyaktuk, Northwest Territories sometime in January.

The hovercraft, a Bell Aerospace Canada Voyageur, that has completed summer trials in fresh waters near CFB Trenton, will be dismantled and packed into five airportable loads for the flight to Tuktoyaktuk. There it will undergo rigorous arctic trials during 1973.

The airlift will be made by C-130 Hercules planes of Air Transport Command here.

Several federal government departments, including national defence, are interested in air cushion vehicle technology.

Espo Officer In Order of Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Phil Esposito, who scolded Canadians for lack of sportsmanship then helped spark Team Canada to a dramatic hockey victory over the Soviet Union, has been appointed an officer of the Order of Canada.

"All in all Phil Esposito is a very special kind of superstar," says a biography on the Boston Bruin star who will be entitled to add the initials OC after his name.

He is among 67 Canadians who Governor-General Roland Michener announced Friday have been appointed to the restructured Order of Canada in recognition of their outstanding achievements and service to their country or to humanity in general.

These include six appointments as companions, the exclusive top-ranking category in the order limited to a maximum of 150 persons at any time.

A total of 21 officers were named and 40 persons were appointed members in recognition of contributions to particular communities or to a profession or other grouping.

The order was restructured earlier this year to create the position of companion, which includes all past holders of the Order of Merit, and member.

Esposito already has been named winner of the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's most outstanding athlete in 1972 and topped the Canadian Press poll as the top male athlete for 1972.

When Team Canada lost to the Soviet team in Vancouver, meaning it would go to the U.S.S.R. with two losses, one win and a tie, Esposito blasted fans who booed the Canadian players.

In the Soviet Union he was the on-the-ice leader who helped the team come back to win the series in a dramatic fashion that was watched by the largest television audience in Canadian history.

He joins a distinguished group of Canadians on the list of new officers. They include Douglas Lloyd Campbell, former premier of Manitoba, Donald MacDonald, head of the Canadian Labor Congress, Dr. Jean Davey, director of medical teaching at Women's College Hospital in Toronto, L. Norman Smith, former president of the Ottawa Journal, and several authors and artists.

Mr. Davies, former editor of the Peterborough Examiner, was appointed the first master of Massey College for post-graduate work when it was created at the University of Toronto in 1963. He has been involved in the Stratford Shakespearean Festival and has a long list of published works and performed plays to his name.

He has won a variety of literary and other awards.

JOIN OUR WINNING TEAM

Our sales this year will break three records. Why? Because we have the finest line of cars and trucks for the money, competitive in receiving trade-ins, and a sales staff that offers their use of our complete line of service facilities. Our service department is now open 7 days a week to serve you. Our staff seeks to sell with integrity and service after the sale. Our sales staff wanted a newer, dignified showroom, and got it. Our sales staff wanted an up-to-date service department, and got it. If you are seeking a position with a dealership that has a winning form, with The President Choice, see us.

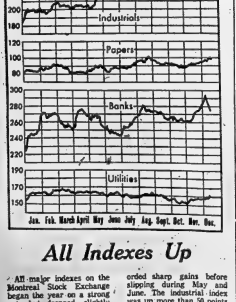
Indians Line Up For Phones

NEW DELHI (AP) — Think you've won the fight in India when you finally get a telephone? Not so. You still have to make the gadget work.



The average India — one without priorities enjoyed by doctors, journalists and the like — faces a wait of about a decade to get his permanent phone. Priority people count their wait in fewer years and count themselves lucky.

As of last March, the latest government figures available, there were 361,102 persons waiting for telephones in India, almost 84,000 in Bombay alone. The rest were divided equally among the New Delhi area, Calcutta and Madras. There are few phones in non-urban areas.

The explanation for why the phones don't work properly is not in the book, but it can be had quickly from the government.

It's the fault of an American contractor, they say, who provided the wrong kind of equipment under a long-term contract. "When we develop the technology for telephone exchanges, the service will get better," one spokesman said.

Maybe so, but a new type of exchange was installed recently in New Delhi, and immediately the service got worse.

All Indexes Up

All major indexes on the Montreal Stock Exchange began the year on a strong note but dropped slightly in March. April was also a down month with the exception of banks, which recorded sharp gains before slipping during May and June. The industrial index was up more than 50 points on the year while papers and utilities recorded fractional advances. (CP Newsmap)

Sheep and lambs 111: No sales.

Kingston Celebrates New Year's

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — This city will waste little time beginning its 300th birthday party celebrations.

At midnight Dec. 31, bells will peal, trumpets will sound and whistles will blow—and 20 churches will hold midnight services.

On New Year's Day, greetings to the city will be broadcast from Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener and there also will be congratulations from mayors and dignitaries across the country.

The bell at city hall will break a silence that has lasted from the 1930s and there will be a 13-gun salute from nine-pounders fired by members of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery Regiment, dressed in the uniforms of the 1870s.

And celebrations will last all year long.

Shopper Unwelcome By Stores

SEATTLE (AP) — Andrea Mangold has filled her shopping cart during the last two months in 13 stores where she's paid for hardly a thing.

Instead, two of the storemanagers have to pay close to $4 to safe toys discovered on the shelves by Mrs. Mangold. A mother of three, she is an unpaid consumer deputy under a pilot program for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Under the experiment, consumer volunteers in San Francisco, Chicago, Atlanta, Philadelphia and Seattle inspect stores to see if they're carrying any of some 800 toys banned as unsafe.

The Seattle office of the FDA said that, since the project was started Aug. 15, consumer deputies have checked 6,000 children's toys in 76 stores. One or more types of banned articles were found in 60 per cent of the stores, the FDA reports.

In a suburban discount house, Mrs. Mangold took less than an hour to fill her cart with toys she said could cause an infant to choke to death, seriously injure a baby's mouth or pinch and puncture a child's skin.

"Some of the managers will get down on their hands and knees checking toys with me," she said.

But that wasn't quite the case with two store managers who she said refused to remove the prohibited playthings. They will be visited by FDA inspectors and warned that continued sales of the offending items will be subject to action under the Hazardous Substances Act.

Mrs. Mangold said consumer deputies don't object to the list of toys known to be dangerous.

"I continually find toys that aren't on the list but that I find potentially dangerous to a child," she said.

"I pull them off the shelves and show them to the manager. Some take them and some won't. I pay for a toy like that and turn it over to the FDA for testing."

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Toronto stock market were mixed in active mid-morning trading today.

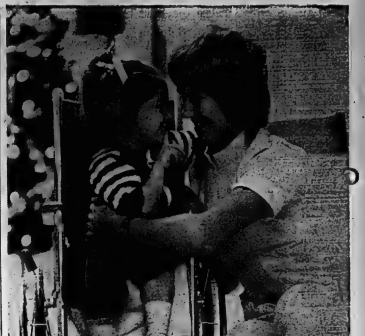
The industrial index, considered a major indicator of market trend, moved up .13 in 336.86 and western oils .10 to 272.36. Golds were off 1.36 to 86.07 and base metals .09 to 82.32.

Volume at 11 a.m. rose sharply in 3,134,000 compared with 842,000 shares traded at the same time Friday. Ram Petroleums Ltd. trade more than one million shares.

Oil refining, beverages, banks, steel and trust and loan were among sectors of the market recording gains while real estate, chemical, paper and forest and general manufacturing were down.

Advances were nearly double declines, 135 to 77, and 191 issues remained unchanged.

Imperial Oil was up ¼ to $49⅝. Murrit Photofax .40 to $4, White Pass Yukon ¾ to $11¼, Foodex Systems ¾ to $10¾ and Crush International ¾ to $15¼.



Dylex Ltd. slipped 1 to $22, Dome Petroleum ¾ to $42¼, Westcoast Transmission ¾ to $22¼ and BP Canada ¼ to $18¼.

Tara Exploration moved ahead ¼ to $36¼, Sherritt Gordon ¼ to $13¾, Hudson Bay Mining ¼ to $19¾, Ram Petroleums .32 to $3.15 and Numac Oil ¼ to $23¼.

Campbell Chibougamau declined .25 to $5.40, Malartic Gold .05 to 66 cents, Bankoro Mines .55 to $7.70, Asamera Oil ¼ to $12¾ and Canadian Homestead ¼ to $11.

She Got Home for Christmas

Bubbling over with Christmas spirit is Jennifer Still, 3-year-old patient at North York General hospital in Toronto. She shares a little happiness with Mrs. Freda Aldcroft, a member of the nursing staff. Born with dislocated hips, Jennifer has spent a great deal of time in hospital but made it out just in time for Christmas. (CP Photo)

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, DEC. 28

Aries (March 21-April 19): Much useful insight can be had from checking neglected records, starting from distant places, old friends and their stories.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Traditional approaches still have their uses and reasons for being. The main factor is doing the best work possible.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Romantic attachments are lively, can be chaotic. Stable family arrangements are a little quieter, more fun.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Upsetting the status quo in home and family affairs is the achievement in itself today, and a very satisfying one, at that.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Be sure an innovation is practical as well as interesting. Asking questions brings you interesting information for immediate use.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take the time to check what you hear —the details may be outdated, and you need a second opinion on most technical subjects.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A moment of temper or neglect could upset progress momentarily. Travel or tinkering tends to encounter difficulties.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Consult authorities, register a past formal choice. There's a point in being defensive. Your persuasive powers are near peak.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A disagreement pulls become permanent with almost no effort. Investments are better in plans than execution for the moment.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your efficiency is remarkable today, don't waste it on inessentials. Try collecting what is due you. Optimism is contagious.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are in for a few intellectual surprises now—some of them favorable. Fresh sources of information have promise.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Accept an invitation and what you have given it some thought, consider what would happen a little further along the way.

Spine Curvature Needs Care Now

By G.C. THORSESON MD

Dear Dr. Thoreson: I am 12 and have just started junior high. I went to a basic examination yesterday and he said I had a 30-per-cent curvature of the spine (scoliosis). He also told me I had to wear a Milwaukee brace 23 hours a day.

When my mother and I talked this over with my dad, he said he couldn't see me starting a new school, making new friends and having to wear this brace. You see, I am also diabetic and my dad says that problem is enough to cope with but maybe six months or a year from now I could wear the brace.

I would like your opinion. Wouldn't there be some way I could wear just a back brace that wouldn't come up around my neck, and I wouldn't have to wear it to school? Would there be any harm in waiting?—Miss L.

Young miss, you do have more than your fair share of problems, but these don't compound matters evenly.

An orthopedic specialist doesn't recommend a big brace if a small one will do just as well. He doesn't say 23 hours a day if a shorter time will do what needs to be done. And, believe me, he knows that it's no fun wearing the brace at all. He's seen many girls like you (younger and older) and he probably heard most of them ask about wearing a smaller brace, or walking six months.

But—and this is the important thing—he knows what happens when curvatures need to be corrected. At 12 a lot of correction is possible. By the middle or late teens much less correction is possible. And too—may be possible; sometimes by then the curvature is even more pronounced and fixed and can't be corrected at all.

I'd started when the doctor wanted me to, I'd be through with it by now.

I sympathize; I really do. But the sooner you start, the better chance you have of straightening that spine. The sooner you start, the less risk there is of having that curvature the rest of your life.

I know this isn't what you should hear. The facts, if better means come along, should start with the brace now, though it takes some convincing by the doctor to get you to start, it's a lot better than saying afterward, "If only I'd ..."

The bidding:

2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

Opening lead—four of spades.

Many contracts stand or fall depending on the opening lead. The defender saddled with the lead has only the bidding to help him and the 13 cards he sees to guide him to the best opening shot.

Despite the difficulties associated with a blind lead, the problem is essentially one of inference rather than guesswork. Correct conclusions can sometimes be reached — based on the information in hand — that must be regarded as highly reasonable.

The strangest clue to the best lead usually comes from the bidding. Declarer and partner, in the process of reaching their final contract, will normally reveal important details about their respective holdings.

Thus, in the present case, South describes a two-suited hand, powerful enough to insist on game. North's bidding throughout is negative and merely shows a preference for spades over hearts.

West, on lead, is looking at heart strength that might be neutralized if declarer is allowed to ruff his heart losers in dummy.

To protect his heart holding as far as possible, West should lead a trump. A good case can be made for leading the ace rather than a low trump, but the all-important point is that no other suit should be led.

Against a trump lead, South goes down. A trump continuation as soon as West is on lead again, settles declarer's hash. He loses a spade and three hearts.

But if West, through force of habit, selects the attractive-looking opening lead of the queen of diamonds instead of a trump, declarer easily makes his contract. He can ruff a heart in dummy and in that way acquire a tenth trick.sx

Tomorrow: Assumptions.

Heath and British Economy Face Crucial Tests in 1973

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Heath's Conservative government and the British economy both face crucial tests in 1973, a year which will go down in this country's history as the beginning of an epoch-making entry into the mainstream of European affairs.

The months ahead will be a period of all-important trial for Heath's relentless policy of steering Britain into the European Common Market.

Membership becomes a fact Jan. 1. But the market is certain to remain the issue in British politics—even if not on the same scale of bitterness as during the last 13 months.

Now comes the supreme testing time for the market idea, when actual events will prove or disprove the contentions made by opponents of entry that joining Europe would produce drastic new upward pressure on Britain's rising price levels.

The government's big push against inflation, begun in November, was in the form of a 90-day freeze on wages and prices to be followed by a more permanent set of steps designed to ensure that the inflationary surge stays within acceptable bounds.

Market entry oscillated to draw vehement attack in 1972. Opponents insisted it would mean, among other things, the end of Britain's traditional "cheap food" policy.

Moreover, it will be followed on April 1, 1973, by introduction here of the value-added tax, a levy applied to a wide variety of goods and services at each stage of their advance towards the point of consumer purchase.

The possibility that this tax, likely to be 10 per cent, would unleash further cost-of-living increases looms as a source of real worry for officials.

In December, they were also told by a blunt-speaking representative of British businessmen that the government's pledge of a five-per-cent growth rate was unreal since the supposed economic expansion was being fed by inflation and the floating of the pound.

The floating, billed as a temporary measure, produced in effect a 10-per-cent devaluation of the pound, as against the $2.60 exchange rate to which sterling was pegged before June 23.

If the surprise announcement of the floating left Britain's future Common Market partners flustered and somewhat incensed, Heath's treatment of his own Conservative backbenchers in other matters of policy has had a similarly upsetting effect on them. Maverick Tory Enoch Powell has not been alone of late in accusing the prime minister of treating rank-and-file members in cavalier fashion.

The result, in one instance was a back-bench revolt and parliamentary humiliation for the prime minister—the November defeat, by 275 votes to 240, of his government's proposed rules implementing the 1971 Immigration Act. But it did not mean the fall of the government.

Opponents of the rules argued they were an affront to Commonwealth connections with countries like Canada while granting preferential rights to citizens of Common Market countries who might come here after Jan. 1.

There were signs of general grassroots discontent with both the major political parties in the victories scored by the minority Liberals in two 1972 byelections—one in the northern city of Rochdale, the other in the south London suburban constituency of Sutton and Cheam.

Liberal Leader Jeremy Thorpe, whose parliamentary representation was increased to eight by the triumphs, hailed them as a major sign of a comeback "breakthrough" by the once-powerful party.

But the stormiest political events of 1972 centred on the Heath government's industrial Relations Act, an attempt to inject Conservative ideas of order into the complex, volatile arena of labor-management dealings.

That segment of public life was the chief headline-maker early in 1972, with the coalminers' strike of last winter causing electrical blackouts and other widespread dislocations and the summer stoppage by longshoremen further complicating the country's chronic economic problems.

Five militant trade unionists at one point preferred jail to recognizing the industrial relations court, set up as part of the attempt of the Industrial Relations Act to bring labor-management proceedings into a specially-administered framework of law.

At the 1972 conference of the opposition Labor party, any displays of thoroughgoing radicalism were brought successfully under control by former prime minister Harold Wilson, in his most convincing exhibition of political wizardry since his political heyday in the mid-1960s.

The Labor conference showed that Wilson was still a political force to be reckoned with despite the party's fall from power in 1970.

Average Weekly Pay Up In Manufacturing Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — The average weekly paycheque in the manufacturing industry, before taxes and other payroll deductions, rose five per cent in the first nine months of 1972.

But by the end of the year, all of the increase was consumed in rising prices, Statistics Canada figures show.

The Economic Council of Canada, in setting economic performance targets for the next three years, says that after-inflation and after-tax per-capita incomes should rise by about 4.7 per cent a year.

The council's goals are not to be read merely as a limitation on incomes increases. But the 4.7-per-cent figure is one which emerges from a carefully balanced assessment of what the economy as a whole is able to do and needs to do in the next three years to June.

Statisticians and economists find it difficult to measure wage rates, earnings, and other ways of categorizing incomes. Wage rates and salaries may rise, but so do taxes and inflation, which eat into both the amount of take-home pay, and the amount of goods and services the pay cheque will buy.

Wage rates, by the hour, week or month, bear a relation only in part to the amount of hourly, weekly or monthly earnings. Premium pay for overtime work is the rule in most industries, and during a period of economic recovery such as Canada has been experiencing, overtime work tends to expand.

The Bank of Canada makes an adjustment to data supplied by Statistics Canada to allow for seasonal factors that normally occur in industrial activity throughout the year.

It reports that in August, average weekly earnings in manufacturing amounted to $158.95, up 5.1 per cent from the start of the year. For a broader cross-section of all industry, the bank reports an increase of 3.4 per cent in eight months, to an average $157.28 a week.

But in that same eight-month period, the consumer price index—measuring the retail prices of more than 300 goods and services—rose 3.6 per cent. By the end of the year, the consumer price index was up about five per cent.

In other words, the gain in average weekly earnings made by the average industrial worker was almost exactly matched by rising prices. And the more rapid gain made by manufacturing workers was wiped out by the end of the year.

The Prices and Incomes Commission, set up with the powers of a royal commission in 1969 to try to slow down the price and wage climb, died a natural death at the end of August when its powers ran out. Its head, Dr. John Young, returned to teaching economics at the University of British Columbia.

But before going, he warned Ottawa and the country that the time may yet come when Canada will have to impose direct wage and price controls to curb inflation. They would only be workable, he said, if there is a strong national consensus that they would work and a will to make them work. He said that hadn't occurred while the commission existed.

It managed to get an agreement among businessmen not to raise their prices above cost increases for the year 1970. Labor leaders would not go along with the voluntary restraint, however, without a guarantee that all forms of income—including rents, interest and dividends—would also be frozen.

Dr. Young's organization left behind a nucleus of price and wage watchdogs who were absorbed into the department of consumer and corporate affairs. They are to maintain stand-by arrangements for controls if and when needed.

Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act
R.S.C. 1970, Ch. E-2

ONTARIO

PART I

Notice of Sittings for the Hearing of Representations

In November 1964, Parliament enacted a law called the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act. The statute lays down a principle of representation by population as nearly as may be accomplished. Every ten years an independent commission responsible for recommending the sizes of federal electoral districts – as well as their shapes and names – is appointed for each province.

Appointed to make the current revision in Ontario are the Honourable Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Chairman of the Commission; Roderick Lewis, Q.C., Clerk of the Legislative Assembly and Chief Election Officer for Ontario; Professor Walter S. Tarnopolsky, Vice President (Academic) York University; and Nelson Castonguay, Representation Commissioner for Canada.

Following this revision, Ontario will have ninety-one (91) members (three (3) more than at present), as determined in accordance with the provisions of section 51 of the British North America Act and the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act 1964-65 (now Revised Statutes of Canada 1970, Chapter E-2). Subject to what is stated below, the population of each electoral district in the province shall correspond as nearly as may be to the electoral quota for the province, that is to say, the quotient obtained by dividing the population of the province as ascertained by the 1971 Census (7,703,106) by the number of members of the House of Commons to be assigned to the province. The Ontario quotient is 84,649.

The Commission may depart from the strict application of the above rules where

(i) special geographic considerations, including in particular the sparsity, density or relative rate of growth of population of various regions of the province, the accessibility of such regions and the size or shape thereof, appear to the Commission to render such a departure necessary or desirable, or

(ii) any special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of various regions of the province appears to the Commission to render such a departure necessary or desirable, but in no case as a result of such departures shall the population of any electoral district in Ontario depart from the electoral quota for the province to a greater extent than twenty-five (25) per cent more (105,811) or twenty-five (25) per cent less (63,487).

The Commission has now concluded the first phase of its work. Published with this Notice is a map showing the proposed districts and their names, and a schedule describing the boundaries and indicating the population for each of these proposed districts.

In its statute, Parliament provided that each Commission hold Public Sittings to hear representations by interested persons with respect to the said districts. Accordingly, the Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario will sit for this purpose at the following times and places:

Toronto, Court No. 2, Federal Court of Canada, 8th Floor, 330 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Monday, February 5, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

Thunder Bay, Court Room No. 2, District Court House, 277 Cameron Street, Thunder Bay, Ontario, Thursday, February 8, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

London, Court Room, Faculty of Law, University of Western Ontario, London, Ontario, Tuesday, February 13, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

Windsor, Moot Court Room, Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, Windsor, Ontario, Thursday, February 15, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

Belleville, Court Room, Court House, Belleville, Ontario, Tuesday, February 20, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

Ottawa, Court Room, County Court House, 2 Daly Avenue (corner Nicholas and Daly) Ottawa 2, Ontario, Thursday, February 22, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

Welland, Court Room No. 2, Court House, Welland, Ontario, Monday, February 26, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

North Bay, Court Room, Court House, North Bay, Ontario, Wednesday, February 28, 1973, 9:30 a.m.

Parliament has provided in subsection 17(4) of the statute that:

"No representation shall be heard by a commission at any sittings held by it for the hearing of representations from interested persons unless notice in writing is given to the secretary to the commission within twenty-three days from the date of publication of the advertisement referred to in subsection (2), stating the name and address of the person by whom the representation is sought to be made and indicating concisely the nature of the representation and of the interest of such person."

Acting under section 16 of the Electoral Boundaries Act, the Commission has made rules governing sittings for the hearing of representations. They are appended to this Notice as Part II.

This is the advertisement referred to in subsection 17(2). Notices should be addressed to:

Brian S. McCool, Secretary
Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario
Room 326, 241 Jarvis Street
Toronto, Ontario.
M5B 2C3

Dated at the City of TORONTO, this twenty-seventh day of December 1972.

J. L. WILSON
Chairman, Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario.

PART II

Under and by virtue of the powers conferred by the ELECTORAL BOUNDARIES READJUSTMENT ACT, Chapter E-2, of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1970, and of all the other powers enabling them in this behalf, the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario hereby makes the following rules.

RULES

1. These rules may be cited as the Electoral Boundaries Commission Rules for Sittings for the Hearing of Representations, 1972.

2. In these rules, "Act" means the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, chapter E-2, of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1970.

3. Sittings shall be held in public, and representations shall be made thereat with due regard to formal procedure.

4. In the presentation of a representation, only one person shall be heard unless, in its sole discretion, the Commission decides otherwise.

5. a) Every person giving notice under subsection 17(4) of the Act, shall state the place at which he wishes to have his representation heard;

b) For the purpose of interpreting subsection 17(4) of the Act, it is understood that the twenty-three (23) day delay shall apply to the date of mailing of the written notice by the person wishing to be heard by the Commission. The postmark on the envelope containing the written notice shall be proof of mailing within the proper delay. If it appears to be impossible to determine the date of mailing, the Commission will have discretion as to the admissibility of the written notice and may, for such purpose, require from the sender a statement under oath.

6. If, when the written notice of a representation is received by the Secretary, the person signing the notice has not stated the place at which he wishes his representation to be heard, if time permits before the sitting, the Secretary shall ask that person at which one of the places set out in the advertisement he wishes it to be heard.

7. If, under rule 5, no request for the hearing of a representation is made in respect of any one or more places named in the advertisement, the Commission may cancel the sitting at such a place, giving notice of the cancellation by an advertisement published in a newspaper which circulates in the area where the sitting was scheduled, or by any other means calculated in its discretion to be effective.

8. (1) Two (2) members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum for the holding of a sitting to hear representations.

(2) If it appears to the Chairman of the Commission that a quorum cannot be present at a sitting at any place named in the advertisement, the Chairman may postpone that sitting to a later date, and the Secretary shall advise any person who has given notice under subsection 17(4) of his desire to have his representation heard, that the Commission will hear the representation at the later date named.

Brian S. McCool
Secretary.

NOTE: Address of the Secretary

OUR COMPARATIVE PRICING POLICY

Designed to protect our customers

All price comparisons refer to the prices within the preceding twelve months. We publish separate catalogues for different geographic zones to fairly equalize the cost of merchandise distribution.

REGULAR, WAS or WERE means that Simpsons-Sears has offered the identical merchandise in a previous catalogue issued in your geographic zone.

VALUE means that we have offered in a previous catalogue in your zone an item of identical quality, differing only in color, pattern, style or aesthetic design.

COMPARABLE QUALITY does not refer to any former catalogue price of Simpsons-Sears but means that we believe the item to be equal in quality to similar items generally available within the preceding twelve months. However, we cannot take into account pricing of similar items in every community.

Clock-timer and timed appliance outlet make small appliances, like a percolator, automatic

The amazing oven that is constantly at work to clean up those messy oven spatters as you bake or roast. With normal precautions, all you'll clean is the light bulb, racks and oven window. From time to time, you'll need to help with the major spillovers. Interior, exterior, drip bowls and broil pan are porcelain, so they're easy to clean. And what's more, the oven is fully automatic — clock-timer starts – cooks – stops oven at any preset time. Minute-Minder keeps tab on short timing jobs. You get quick warm-up with the 2 giant 8" elements plus all-day low, slow simmer with the 'True Simmer' element . . . '1001' settings in all. Controlled variable-broil gives you spatter-free broiling without moving oven racks. Large non-log oven window; no-drip recessed top. Full-width fluorescent-lit backguard; surface-element pilot lights indicate element is on. Abt. 30" w. x 27½" d. x 46½" high. 230-v., 60-cy. AC.

2 Speeds, 7 Automatic Programs: 2 Normal (color or whites), 2 Permanent-Press (color or whites) for 'no-irons'—cool-down period reduces wrinkles. Delicate for lingerie and synthetics. Prewash—to loosen stubborn stains and dirt. Spin-Only for hand-washables.

Cold Water Option changes any preset program to use cold water

Optional Extra Rinse leaves wash free from detergent residue

Rinse-Agent Dispenser releases rinse agent at proper time

Variable Water Level lets you use exact amount of water needed. Saves on water consumption.

Self-Cleaning Filter traps annoying lint and fuzz.

Safety Features: Lid safety switch stops machine if door is opened, pump guard keeps foreign objects from reaching pump and causing damage, top and lid of porcelain enamel that resists scratches and defies most household stains, acrylic finish cabinet. CSA approved Tested and approved by leaders of the Canadian carpet industry!

Without a doubt this is the most complete cleaner you can buy! Why? Because it handles all your cleaning needs . . . carpets, bare floors, upholstery, walls and dusting. There's a specialized attachment for each job. The Powermate carpet attachment is the big feature, with its separate motor driving the beater bar and brush. It teams up with powerful canister (moves 44 cu. ft. of air/min.) for unbeatable carpet cleaning. Deep-down dirt, dust, lint, even clinging animal hair are no match for its strength. It'll restore older carpets and keep new ones bright and free of damaging dirt. Gets under lower furniture than any upright could. Wedgwood Blue.

Deluxe Tools: dust brush; wide-mouth crevice tool; upholstery brush, bare-floor brush; 2 chromed steel wands; 6' oversize Dynaflex hose; 4 dust bags.

Cancer Brings Death To Lester B. Pearson

Lenny Williamson

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester Bowles Pearson, the quite, likable diplomat who won the Nobel Peace Prize and became prime minister, died Wednesday night, the victim of cancer.

The 75-year-old former Liberal party leader, prime minister from 1963 to 1968, died at 11:40 p.m. EST, just three days after he cut short a Florida vacation to return Christmas Eve. His condition deteriorated rapidly and throughout Wednesday he was in a coma caused by cancer of the brain.

He was operated on two years ago for a tumor that struck him his right eye, he had returned to hospital about a month ago for renewed treatments.

But the gravity of his condition was not known until he was flown home on a government aircraft with his wife, Maryon.

Mr. Pearson, whose personal popularity tended to transcend all political considerations, will be buried at Wakefield, Que.—an area he grew to love while at the prime ministerial summer home at nearby Harrington Lake—following a state funeral at Christ Church Anglican cathedral here.

The lying-in-state will begin at 10 a.m. EST Saturday, with the funeral from Christ Church Anglican Cathedral scheduled for 2 p.m. EST Sunday.

His death closed an era. It spanned the launching of the country's own foreign service in the 1920s, increasingly independent of traditional British ties, and Mr. Pearson's decision to provide Canada's own distinctive maple leaf flag, achieved in time for the country's 100th birthday in 1967.

For Other Stories on
L. B. Pearson,
See Pages 5, 13

It also included his forecast, well before it became a fact, of Canadian life, that relations with the United States would become increasingly complex, never again to be taken for granted.

Likeable, easy-going, able and self - deprecatingly witty, "Mike" Pearson was a household name with his ready grin and bow tie when in 1948 he quit the external affairs department he had joined in 1928 from the University of Toronto.

He ran as a Liberal candidate in the Ontario riding of Algoma East, and was named external affairs minister under Louis St. Laurent in the ensuring government.

Mr. St. Laurent, 90, and John Diefenbaker, 77, now are the only surviving former prime ministers. Mr. Diefenbaker still is the MP for Prince Albert, Sask.

Mr. Pearson—Mike to most people who knew him—travelled the world as a skilled and influential diplomat reflecting Canada's immediate post-war position as a power beyond its normal strength.

The Pearson—and Canadian—role was peace, a broker of some muscle amid the middle powers, strong in the councils of the new United Nations and then in the formation of NATO as a shield against further Soviet penetration in Europe.

It was his work in 1956 at the UN in forging a peace-keeping force after the Israel-Egypt war of that year that earned him the Nobel Peace Prize.

Domestically, his main political career began just 36 days after receiving that honor. The Liberal party named him to succeed Mr. St. Laurent as leader and he began a long struggle with Mr. Diefenbaker that saw him emerge in 1963 as prime minister for five years. But he never was master of a majority government.

But he emerged finally in 1963, after the 1962 Conservative minority win, as a minority prime minister. He was unsuccessful in 1965 in improving his Commons position substantially.

Those were hard Pearson-Diefenbaker campaigns, in which each leader faced often-bitter heckling.

It was typical of Maryon Pearson, who was no lover of politics, when she commented after an unruly Hamilton meeting in 1963: "I'm not always proud of my husband but I was tonight."

The diplomat was earning his spurs as a tougher political animal.

Politics for the sports-loving Pearson, who sometimes appeared to be more familiar with baseball or hockey statistics than the latest political readings, was spiced with some singular successes, some bitterness and some unprecedented infighting in which he and Mr. Diefenbaker held their own.

But through it all, privately and almost always publicly, Mr. Pearson retained the kind of homespun qualities that signified his background as the son of an Ontario minister where money was scarce but family affection was not.

His major fault, an opposition MP once told him in the Commons, was his inability "to be capable on occasion of being a bastard."

Saturation Raids Continued by U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers kept up saturation air attacks against the Hanoi and Haiphong areas today, and the U.S. command announced the loss of two more B-52 bombers and a big rescue helicopter.

Six men were reported missing in one of the B-52s, raising to at least 81 the total number of Americans missing, killed or captured in the air attack on the North Vietnamese heartland that began Dec. 18. Two other Americans were killed aboard a navy destroyer that was hit by shore fire.

North Vietnam said again that it would not yield to the heaviest air assaults of the war, which have left much of greater Hanoi and Haiphong in flames and rubble.

The North Vietnamese foreign ministry said waves of B-52 bombers and fighter-bombers carried out more "extermination" raids Wednesday night against many densely-populated areas, including Hanoi and Haiphong and their suburbs.

Novosti, a Soviet press agency, said in Moscow that its office in Hanoi was destroyed during a raid Wednesday. The agency said it did not know if any of its employees were killed or injured.

Hanoi said five more B-52 bombers were shot down, including four in the Hanoi area, and several airmen were captured.

The U.S. command said one B-52 was hit over North Vietnam and crashed early today near the Nakon Phanom Air Base in northeastern Thailand. The six crew members parachuted and were rescued.

Another B-52 was shot down in the Hanoi area Tuesday, the command said. The six crew members are listed as missing.

The air force helicopter, a Jolly Green Giant, crashed in Laos Wednesday after it was hit during a rescue operation in North Vietnam, the communique said. The crew was rescued.

Work Visas Needed
New Immigration Rules Announced

OTTAWA (CP) — New regulations aimed at controlling visitors to Canada were announced today by Immigration Minister Robert Andras.

Under the new rules, visitors to Canada who wish to work must obtain employment visas. Those who plan to stay in Canada longer than three months must register with an immigration officer.

The measures—effective Jan. 1, 1973—will prevent the loose force against "the unwarranted short-term use of foreign labor and introduce a measure of control over the long-term visitor," Mr. Andras said.

Visitors will be unable to obtain employment visas, he said, if there are Canadian or landed immigrant workers qualified and available for the specific job.

Applicants must report to an immigration officers at ports of entry immigration centres or at Canada missions abroad to register for extended visitor privileges or an employment visa.

Those already holding written authorization from a government officer to be in the country, obtained before Jan. 1, do not have to request that authorization expires.

Temporary employment in Canada can be prearranged through immigration officers abroad and Canadian employers will can arrange for temporary workers to enter Canada to fill a shortage.

Among those exempt from the new regulations are armed forces personnel, diplomats, foreign news correspondents, visiting businessmen, clergymen and members of professional sport teams and transport crews.

U.S. residents who commute daily to work in Canada will automatically get employment visas at the border.

Any violation of the rules will be punishable by a fine up to $500 and imprisonment for up to six months, or deportation.

Sport First Love Of Lester Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Mike Pearson loved sports and they nearly sidetracked his career as a diplomat who became prime minister.

Baseball ran in the family blood but he played, coached and later followed closely football, hockey and other athletics.

He inherited a passion for baseball, which he played in an Ontario semi-professional league, from his grandfather Pearson and from his father, a Methodist minister.

At Oxford as a student, he played rugger, hockey and lacrosse to the point where some of his teachers made gentle objections about the impact on his academics.

But as prime minister, he was a walking repository of baseball lore, once trading it with the late president John F. Kennedy at Hyannisport, Mass., and on other occasions with old sports buffs such as James (Cooley) Richardson, the New York Times when they met.

He rarely missed a Grey Cup contest and was at the first game of the Canada-U.S.S.R. hockey series in Montreal last September when the Soviets won 7-3.

He recounted in the first volume of his memoirs escorting his "frail, aging" and almost blind grandfather to a Toronto doubleheader in the International League park in 1912, and staying for the duration by mutual consent although "cold disapproval met them on their return. Mr. Pearson would have been aged 15.

Five Arab Terrorists Agree to Free Hostages at Bangkok

BANGKOK (AP) — Five Arab terrorists took over the Israeli embassy here today, seizing six hostages, but Thai government sources said the invaders agreed nine hours later to release the hostages in return for a safe conduct out of Thailand.

The hostages included Shimon Avirmor, Israeli ambassador to Cambodia.

Thai police entered the embassy tonight.

The government negotiated with Pan American World Airways to take the Arabs to their unknown destination.

The Arabs gained access to the compound to start the day's events. Two of them wore formal white tie and tails, as though they were going to attend today's investiture of Princess Ubolratanarn as heir to the Thai throne.

They were granted ready access and were joined by three other armed Arabs, who climbed a wall.

The invaders threatened to kill the hostages and blow up the embassy unless 26 Palestinian prisoners were released from Israeli prisons.

About 400 Thai police and army troops with dogs surrounded the compound.

The terrorists earlier had vowed to "fight to the end" rather than release the hostages.

The Thai government offered the Arabs safe conduct out of the country if they would release the hostages.

One report was that Thai officials and the Egyptian ambassador reached agreement with the Black September terrorists guaranteeing them safe passage if they released the hostages unharmed.

But Pan American had refused to carry the Arabs if they were armed, police said.

The Israeli government had said it would not submit to blackmail and release prisoners.

The two terrorists in white tie and tails walked through the embassy gate and "bowed and smiled to me," said Pte. Sunchai Pienkaew, a policeman and guard there.

Sunchai said he then saw two other men climb over a side wall of the embassy compound.

"They had leather-type jackets on that looked like bullet-proof jackets we use in the police force," he reported.

These two were carrying submachine-guns, and the two in evening dress apparently had guns under their coats.

Sunchai said the four men ordered him into the embassy building, rounded up all the Thai employees and shouted "Get Out" in English. Then the Thais fled, the Arabs locked the front door and shut all the windows.

Sunchai ran to a telephone outside the compound and called the local police station.

More than 300 police and troops hurried to the compound and surrounded the embassy building.

The Israeli government said five Israelis were being held inside, including First Secretary Nitzhan Hadass, his wife and the wife of a clerk.

The terrorists threw out two notes containing a list of the 26 Palestinians for whom freedom was demanded and seven other demands.

The other demands were not made public immediately.

The notes identified the terrorists as members of the Black September organization, the guerrilla group responsible for the Lod airport massacre last May and the attack on the Israeli Olympic team in Munich last summer.

One note, written in English, demanded that the prisoners be freed by 4 p.m. Friday (8 p.m. EST tonight) and flown to the Cairo airport.

"We shall do our efforts to keep the staff of the embassy now under hand safe, unless other sides practise violence, deceit or ignore our demands," the note said.

"Any violence or technical or political deceit will put an end to the lives of the staff under hand, a disaster that the local government will then shoulder."

Ambassador Amir was at Parliament House with the rest of the diplomatic corps for the royal investiture. He hurried back to the embassy, talked with Gen. Praphas Charusathien, the commander of the Thai army and police, and then telephoned his government in Jerusalem.

Gen. Praphas took command of the force surrounding the embassy.

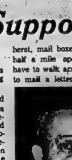
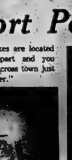
Most Support Postal Workers' Stand

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter



Canada's postal workers have come under fire during the past month.

The 28,000 postal clerks and letter carriers are waging a battle against government legislators for higher wages and better job security. In Toronto, they backed up their demands by staging a sudden walkout two weeks before Christmas just when the mail volume was hitting its annual peak.



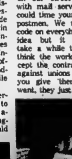
Next Wednesday the workers vote on a contract that would give them an additional 65 cents an hour by Dec. 31, 1973, bringing maximum hourly wages to $4.10 for carriers and $4.34 for clerks. For a 40-hour week, gross salaries would be $167.60 and $173.60. The negotiating team for the Council of Postal Unions urged rejection of the settlement proposal by a 6-4 vote.

Besides the contract dispute, there is also the question of service. A postal code — reputed to be the finest in the world — is now being introduced in communities across Canada. Officials maintain it will enable the post office to continue its high standard of delivery service while volumes of mail increase.

The Intelligencer asked persons in the Quinte region to give their opinions on Canada's postal system and suggest improvements they would like to see.

James Sopha, a maintenance worker residing at 215 Bridge St. West: "The people on our street are satisfied with the service. Why, you could time your watch by the postmen. We use the postal code on everything. It's a good idea but it will probably take a while to get going. I think the workers should accept the contract offer. I'm against unions because when you give them what they want, they just ask for more."

Brian Sager, a maintenance man at the Quinte Mall who lives in Shannonville: "I have no complaints about service. In Shannonville, we have to go to a central depot to pick up our mail.I know that postmen have to walk through rain and all sorts of conditions. But I think they should accept the contract. They're getting paid enough now, more than a lot of people working in plants."



Art Putnam, Marmora funeral director and manager of a furniture store: "I think postal workers are entitled to every cent they can get. You need at least $160 a week to live on these days. We have a family of three and $160 would only just be adequate. We are quite satisfied with mail service in Marmora. Sure we have our complaints but every community has its problems now and then."

Darlene Silliphant, a bookkeeper for two clothing chain stores in Belleville: "The postal workers should accept the contract. If they're not getting a reasonable wage, then they should strike. At $160 a week, I think they deserve it. We get letters from my mother-in-law in Saint John, N.B., in two days when that's good time. We make mail deliveries every noon hour on Front St. and I'm quite satisfied."

Phyllis Smucker of 259 Sidney St., whose husband is a member of the Canadian Armed Forces: "Lyle been involved with the civil service for 28 years so I know. These guys should go for more. Look at the responsibility they've got. They don't have the public depending on them. Postmen have to face dogs, the weather, all kinds of conditions. The service here is adequate. The carriers make it a point to deliver me a registered letter every two weeks and they're so friendly about it."

Wayne Landry, 18, a resident of Amherst, N.S., en route to Toronto: "Postal services are overpaid. Sure their jobs are boring but the situation is different from, say, General Motors where there's always a reason to strike. You can't have the government ripping off the people to pay them. My letters get where they're going and letters reach me. But in Amherst, mail boxes are located half a mile apart and you have to walk across town just to mail a letter."

OMB Hearing January 24

WELLINGTON (Staff) — Six letters opposing a sewerage system proposed for Wellington village have prompted Ontario Municipal Board hearing into the matter on Jan. 24 in the town hall.

The letters were filed with the board during a three-week period allowed for objection earlier this year. A petition has been circulated against the proposed sewerage system in recent weeks.

One member of the petition, Dr. R. A. Thomson, is opposed to the cost of the new installation and does not feel it is needed. He suggested septic cizzens in the village should install their own systems, making the annual exposes of a new sewerage system.

The estimated total cost of $1,159,000 for the system would be paid for by the federal and provincial governments, and the remainder would be involved for the village.

Wellington reeve Douglas Marvin said he feels septic tanks contribute to West Lake pollution and to pollution of local wells. The reeve observed inadequate sewage disposal facilities could have been the possible cause of a 10-day order by the board of health this summer requiring village residents to boil their water before use.

The reeve felt the new sewerage system is essential in the village if it is to be considered by the provincial government for geared to income housing.

Foxboro Kennel Gaining International Repute

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A Foxboro area couple has embarked on a campaign to improve the German Shepherd breed, with impressive results.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Ray Kiser's Mayfair Kennel at RR 1, Foxboro has captured an array of firsts in the last three years and is well on its way to becoming one of the most noteworthy in North America.

The German Shepherd Dog Club of Canada has awarded the Kisers the showmanship award for 1972 and named their kennel top breed for the year.

Detroit is a centre for German Shepherd breeding and the Kiser's stud, Champion Glucklich Von der Funfeld Eechen, better known as Lucky, is the 1971 and 1972 top stud dog of the club. Lucky's mate, five - year - old Champion Na-rak's Illa is top brood bitch in Detroit and was top brood bitch in Canada in 1970.

Not only are Illa and Lucky champion specimens — they are producing champions. Five of the seven pups in their first litter are champions, a rare occurence since one champion from a litter is the average.

"Our main purpose in breeding is to better the breed," says Mrs. Kiser. "Our main concern is temperament, next is conformation. If people couldn't appreciate one of our dogs at any time we wouldn't keep it."

The Kisers are fighting the popular concept of a German Shepherd as a vicious, untrustworthy animal. Their four dogs, two males and two bitches, are family pets as well as show dogs, and romp happily with the Kiser's 23-month-old daughter.

The couple's interest in German Shepherds goes back only six years, when they bought a female and trained her to take an Obedience Trial Champion title. With the purchase of a second dog a year later, they began breeding for conformation shows.

Then came Lucky and the winning continues at Lucky and Illa. A year-old puppy of the pair, Mayfair's Dax, is slated for both American and Canadian championships, "but you can't tell about a male until he's three years old," says Mrs. Kiser.

MOR

Dax, at only nine months, this year was declared the best Canadian bred German Shepherd puppy in a specialty all German Shepherd show in Burlington.

The Kisers intend to keep their breeding small and on a personal scale, with an eventual maximum of two stud dogs and two breeding bitches. At present they have only one litter a year, with most of the pups spoken for before the bitch is bred.

A kennel has arrived on the international scene when prominent breeders began buying its progeny and the Kisers are now in that position. Most of their litter pups were sold in Toronto and western Ontario, but as word of their gentle temperament got around, Quebec district pet lovers became willing to pay the price for a top dog.

Breeding dogs is strictly a hobby with the Kisers — the expense of showing their animals more than eats into any profit from sales.

"We travel every weekend, showing our dogs," says Mrs. Kiser.

They have gone as far as Pennsylvania to shows and at

Officers Installed

Allan Gibson, Plainfield, has been named Worshipful Master of the Foxboro Royal Black Preceptory No. 382 for 1973.

The election of officers for the Foxboro lodge was held following the business session of the regular December 7 meeting. Mr. Gibson succeeds Douglas Shaw as the lodge head.

Other officers elected were: Chris Lyons, deputy preceptor; Howard Elliott, chaplain; Garfield Evans, registrar; Earl Barker, secretary, registrar and Cecil Beverley, treasurer.

Others elected were: lecturers, Jack Chatten and Wilbert Chatten; trustees, Albert Alfred and Milton Crawford; standard bearers, Ed Mcilroy and Robert Rollins; purpuisvant, Stewart Goodfellow and Uzer, Jack Beair.

Committee members are Stanley Hayton, Robert Rollins, Eugene Kelly, Orville Rollins, George Goodfellow, Malcolm Lazier and Howard Elliott.

Alton Goodman presided over the election of officers, while the installation was conducted by Jesse Chatten. Stanley Hayton acted as marshall, and all shows in Ontario and the northern United States.

Once an animal has picked up enough points for championship, he or she continues to be shown in special classes a procedure known as "campaigning". This way, top dogs are kept before breeders eyes and are used by other breeders to improve their stock. Lucky, for instance, is the father of 161 puppies registered across Canada and the United States.

Ellis May Protest Boundary Changes

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Progressive Conservative Jack Ellis — likely the last MP for Hastings — contemplates protesting part of proposed electoral shuffle that effectively ends his riding.

His discontent hinges on two electoral blocs: Sidney township and a cluster of neighboring communities at the constituency's core — Madoc, Marmora, Deloro.

Mr. Ellis indicates he will voice his protest Feb. 20 when the federal electoral boundaries commission for Ontario meets in Belleville to hear arguments against proposed resolutions of Quinte-area constituencies.

The new boundaries would split Hastings County south of Highway 7, joining a fairly populous Five-township sector with Prince Edward County to form a new Prince Edward Hastings riding.

At present, Sidney township, although a Hastings County municipality, is in the present riding of Prince Edward - Hastings, a constituency which angles from Lake Ontario through Northumberland County. Current proposals call for the township to remain within a new riding of Northumberland.

"It just doesn't make sense," said Mr. Ellis as he scanned yesterday's published proposals for the new boundaries. "I can't see Sidney township being left out of any Prince Edward - Hastings that would include the five lower townships."

He said if he could get support from Mr. Hees and Sidney electorate "I would see if we couldn't change that. Sidney should belong to Hastings not Northumberland."

The township also includes Trenton, Hastings County's second-biggest urban centre. But, the town was "another question" upon which he would not comment until after talking with Mr. Hees.

Mr. Ellis said he also was "most unhappy" about proposed redistribution of Madoc, Marmora and Deloro outside the new riding.

The former Belleville mayor, who won his senior government spurs in Hastings riding for the first time in last October's national election, had campaigned vigorously in the constituency's northern townships — an area to which, as a city politician, his electoral orientation was an unknown factor.

The hard work involved before and since October was reflected in initial reaction to the redistribution proposals.

Mr. Ellis said he's sorry to lose the northern townships. "I've made many friends in the past few months in that area. I've travelled to it extensively and have become involved in their problems."

He was also disappointed at the disappearance of a "historic Hastings" riding.

It came at a time when the province had indicated re-evaluation of the county's "excellent" local government system with a proposal to add five Northumberland townships to Hastings with regionalization of Oshawa-Cobourg municipalities.

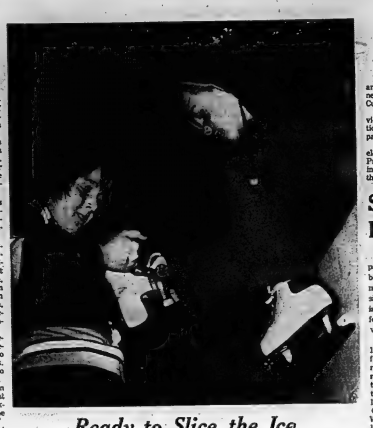
Parties to Confer On Redistribution

Proposed realignment of Quinte-area federal constituencies should bring local political parties hurriedly together in the near future.

If any have objections they must define their protests in less than two months. The boundary commission responsible for the proposed shuffles meets in Belleville, Feb. 20.

Robert Treyne, Hastings Liberal Association president said yesterday he would call a meeting quickly of organization officers to discuss proposed abolition of the riding and integration of Belleville-area townships with Prince Edward County into a new Prince Edward-Hastings constituency.

The new boundaries also will be on the schedule when Liberals in the present Prince Edward-Hastings riding meet in Batawa next month, said George Cunningham, candidate in 1968 and 1972 national elections. Some of the riding would be redistributed into a Northumberland constituency.



Meantime Jack Ellis, Hastings MP, says his riding organization holds its annual meeting in Madoc Jan. 31 — and "what approach we take" will undoubtedly be discussed.

Mr. Ellis also wants the new boundaries approved before another election or left alone.

"I don't know how you can be expected to run an election — if indeed there is to be one in the reasonably near future — knowing that the riding is going to be shifted afterwards," he just doesn't make sense."

But, indicates Mr. Temple, such has happened before — and recently.

Redistribution of Hastings South into Hastings was first proposed in 1964, says the former Liberal MP. There was a general election in 1965, still in Hastings South, which didn't officially disappear until the 1968 election.

Ready to Slice the Ice

Tim Green, 10, helps eight - year - old playmate Michael Sagriff, with blades before practice session of upcoming Rotary Skatathon. Both minor hockey players are among about 3,000 youngsters expected to take part in two-day fund-raising program at city rinks organized by Belleville Rotarians.

3,000 Skaters Expected

Right now, if they started simultaneously sharpening all the skates promised Belleville's latest community fund-raiser, the noise level would probably shatter every ice cube in the city.

Not that blades are the biggest worry.

What's preoccupying organizers of Belleville Rotary's mass Skatathon is a sharp response to fund raising.

The event begins tomorrow and, for two days, will fill the ice at both Belleville Memorial Arena and Dick Ellis Rink with maybe close to 3,000 young skaters.

Ranging in age anywhere from six years to the teens, the participants are skating for pledges which will be shared between the organizations they represent and Rotary.

For the events, Rotary brought together 17 different community and sports groups — including minor hockey and ball leagues, scouts, guides, clubs, the Quinte Figure Skating Club.

The young skaters were given responsibility for finding sponsors who could pledge from a penny to a nickel for each lap they skated.

Yesterday, Rotarian Glynn Reynolds, organizational chairman for the skatathon, was not certain how much had been pledged so far.

"I'm hopeful about it — but it all depends on the enthusiasm of the individual youngsters in getting donations. I think a lot of people have not yet been canvassed and it's entirely possible," he said.

He urged any skaters who had not called on potential donors to make an eleventh-hour effort.

Skaters are permitted a maximum of 60 laps, and participating organizations receive 65 per cent of the gross net. The remaining 35 per cent is retained by Rotary — which pays all expenses — for its community projects.

No exact target has been set, although the event is modelled on a similar fund-raising program at Woodbridge near Toronto.

Last year, Woodbridge Rotarians grossed $40,000 from a skatathon, said Mr. Reynolds.

The Skatathon gets under way on both ice surfaces at 8 a.m., lasting through 6 p.m. both nights at Memorial Arena, with a 3 p.m. shutoff time for Friday only at Dick Ellis Rink.

Apartment Fire Damage $5,000

Fire in a 330 Coleman St. St. apartment destroyed part of a kitchen floor and a baby's bed early this morning.

The tenants, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lower, were in Ottawa for the Christmas holiday.

Firemen were called to the wooden frame building just after 1 a.m. and discovered the floor of an upper apartment on fire near the stove and in a hallway. They were forced to crack three holes in the floor to allow water to reach the flames.

A crib and curtains situated near the fire were also damaged. Fire officials estimate repairs will cost about $5,000.

Investigators suspect the blaze began when a heavy duty power line carrying electricity into the apartment exploded between the floor and the ceiling of the unit below.

The building, owned by Gerald Villiger where it is vacant, was insured.

Liberals Welcome Change

Redistribution of Quinte-area ridings means a "whole new ball game" for George Cunningham.

The Liberal campaigner obviously intends pitching politics in any new electoral ball park with typical relish.

And, for the Belleville - area electorate in the proposed new Prince Edward - Hastings riding — if it materializes — the Cunningham presence should add new zest to politics.

The Trenton high school history teacher, who lives in Ameliasburgh township, has twice campaigned in what is the present Prince Edward-Hastings — in 1968 and last October. He lost both times, but against the stiffest opposition — incumbent George Hees, top national Progressive Conservative. His 1972 campaign emerged as probably the most vigorously - organized in all three Quinte-district ridings.

If the proposed redistribution goes through, linking all Prince Edward County into the Belleville - area mainland "we're most certainly going to have a completely new ball game," said Mr. Cunningham yesterday.

"And at this time, I'm definitely interested in being a candidate."

While the proposed reshuffle of riding boundaries would call for realignment of political organizing he could see "nothing the matter" with the new constituency alignments.

"I've always firmly believed we should be tied to the Bay of Quinte area," said Mr. Cunningham.

The reaction also is tinged with regrets: Much hard work building up contacts and friendships in former campaign grounds in Trenton, Batawa, the eastern township of Northumberland, would all be sheared off.

And there's also the likelihood that supporters and workers in the proposed, new Northumberland riding would feel let down after years of organizational building.

Mr. Cunningham admits to a reluctance to turn away from such ties so easily.

Nonetheless, he says, he feels strongly that a candidate should live in the riding where he seeks election.

The new realignment would also eliminate confusion among many electors in the Belleville - Trenton area.

Much of Northumberland is oriented more to the county of Quinte area toward Cobourg, noted Mr. Cunningham. Often, during campaigns this created "tremendous confusion" in Northumberland voters who thought candidates were campaigning in the wrong riding.

The Hastings bloc of the proposed new riding roughly conforms to the old Hastings South constituency, distributed out of existence in 1968.

Sign Bylaw Postponed

TRENTON — A bylaw passed five-years ago, prohibiting the hanging of signs more than 18 inches from the side of any commercial building, should have gone into effect January 1, 1973, but it won't.

By a motion passed at the 1972 Trenton town council's final session Wednesday night, the date of effectiveness has been postponed for three months. This action was taken in direct response to a letter from Canadian Tire Corporation local manager W. G. Adams, requesting a delay until a new store on the corner of Dundas and Ontario Streets is finished sometime in March.

During the past five years, dozens of merchants have removed their overhanging signs, and replaced them with ones that stand flush to the walls of their business. Most of those who haven't, have been advised that legal action would be taken should the signs not be down by Jan. 1.

Wednesday night, town clerk Arden Royce informed council the Bank of Nova Scotia's new sign won't be delivered until Jan. 15, and they too have verbally inquired as to a possible extension. Clerk O. W. Larry said the Centre Theatre, that received permission to leave its structurally - connected marquee standing, has not yet complied with requests to place its CENTRE sign flush with the building.

Councillor Stan Ketcheson said he felt the Canadian Tire request was reasonable in light of the fact that construction of the new store had been held up for about a year. The motion, passed by council, was seconded by Councillor George Greer.

Councillor George Brown insisted the right to leave signs hanging until March should be granted to all others who faced the January deadline.

Commenting on the whole matter, Councillor Paul Tripp said the bylaw is now an "open ended contract.

"It's not fair to those people who have moved," he said.

Delegates To Report

PICTON (Staff) — Two Prince Edward County delegates to a recent National Farmers' Union conference in Winnipeg will make reports of their trip to members of NFU local 333 at a special meeting on January 13.

Kenneth Marlatt, president of NFU local 333 and local secretary Heather Banfield spent five days at the convention held at the Winnipeg Inn and joined in NFU policy debates there. Also attending from Prince Edward County was farmer Howard Weese representing a sister local. Miss Banfield represented local 333 while Mr. Marlatt served as a delegate at large.

Miss Banfield said today the conference focused on debates of NFU policies for the future with emphasis on certified collective bargaining. She said the present marketing board is responsible to the government but NFU members want power to transfer this responsibility to the farmers who could then ratify decisions.

The first step toward achieving this goal lies in gaining the membership of 60 per cent of the producers of a certain commodity. The NFU then would become the bargaining agent for that commodity, according to Miss Banfield. She explained this action would be comparable to steps recently taken in New Brunswick among potato producers there.

By gaining 50 per cent plus one of the producers of all commodities the NFU could become the bargaining agent of the farmer.

Harry Truman

Harry Truman, whose death occurred at the weekend, will be remembered not only as a man who confounded the political pundits but as a leader whose decisiveness and resolution changed the course of history.

The former U.S. president understood the lessons of the past. Above all, he understood the folly of weakness in international affairs. It was this capacity for meeting every challenge head-on that led him to make one fateful decision after another.

Truman ordered the atom-bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, hastening the end of the war with Japan, he blunted the Soviet blockade of Berlin with an airlift and he poured further aid into western European recovery with the Marshall Plan. He also ordered American forces into Korea to stop the Communist invasion there, a move that brought other allied countries into the conflict under United Nations auspices.

But the man from Missouri knew the necessity of caution also. Thus, when the legendary General Douglas MacArthur, in command of the UN force, planned to extend the war into China itself, following the entry of Chinese forces into the fray, Truman ordered his dismissal.

All this is now history and there is much more that might be said of this extraordinary personality. But suffice it to say that here was a man of humble background who rose to the highest office in the land, in the same way that Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon did. The question has been asked, was he a great man? Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson answers this in his memoirs: "If he was not a great man," he wrote, "he was the greatest little man."

Hit by Quake

The fate of Managua, the capital of Nicaragua, is one that has become all too common over the years in various earthquake-prone areas of the world.

In terms of social disruption it may be viewed in two ways: as the tragedy that it is, bringing death and destruction, or as a stroke of fate, an act of God, call it what you will, that serves as a balancing factor where population is concerned.

The number of deaths is not known for certain, but many did perish and many more may say with Alice Duer Miller that "any man's death diminisheth me, for I am involved in mankind. . ." we can see also in this dread occurrence, as in others before it, the hand of some power beyond our human control.

There have been the familiar facets of an earthquake's aftermath — the outpouring of sympathy and the arrival of relief supplies from various countries. But as has often happened these are building up while red tape and lack of transport hinder their distribution. The country's strong man president, General Samoza, looks a competent enough man who addressed Hasties English with a North American accent, but it sounds also as if, dictator or the "strong-man" that he has been described, he is a prisoner of his own bureaucracy.

There has been looting and some people have been shot, while others, understandably, have helped themselves to relief supplies and got away with it.

Let us hope that law and order and normal life will be restored soon and that those in physical distress will receive the food and medical supplies they need. In Canada we are not called upon to experience such horror, although British Columbians are undergoing perilous enough days of heavy rain, with resulting subsidence and inconvenience. And large though our social wellbeing and affluence are matched by climate and terrain with which we can all cope by the exercise of due caution.

He Chose London

It would be interesting to know how billionaire recluse Howard Hughes decides on a new place of residence.

In Nicaragua's capital when the earthquake struck there, Mr. Hughes may have decided against say Vancouver on the premise that "you can never go back" — who knows, he may have heard it was raining there!

He cannot have said to himself, "Oh to be in England now that April's here," but for some reason or other, Mr. Hughes did choose wintry London.

Since Mr. Hughes apparently stays in his hotel suite most of the time anyway, it likely matters little where he stays. London is central and if he ever does venture out, it is of course one of the world's most interesting cities.

Questions of Ideology and Expediency
International Re-Alignments Mark End of Another Year

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The year draws to a close with a rash of diplomatic recognition between Communist countries and non-Communist states.

The most important is the basic recognition agreement between West Germany, more properly the Federal Republic of West Germany and East Germany, more accurately, the German Democratic Republic.

This agreement permits diplomatic recognition of each, "automatic exchange of ambassadors, opens the way for mutual talks on trade and technical exchanges—most of all makes easy the flow of Germans between the two countries to visit families.

Like the Canadian recognition of The People's Republic of China in 1970, the recognition of Communist East Germany by one country has opened the gates for others.

Switzerland, Austria and Sweden, immediately followed the German Democratic Republic as soon as the treaty had been signed between the two Germanies.

And in Ottawa, Prime Minister Trudeau who has made closer relations with Communist countries part of his foreign policy by opening an embassy in Peking, says Canada will recognize the East German regime sometime next year.

This is a far cry from the year, about a decade ago, when this columnist phoned the department of external affairs requesting the names of East German cabinet members in anticipation of a visit to the Canadian state only to be told, "we cannot supply you with the names because as far as the government is concerned, what you call the German Democratic Republic does not officially exist."

So much for the silliness of the diplomats who with Communist China, legalistically insisted the government of 700 million human beings didn't exist because we hadn't recognized it!

In Southeast Asia, in spite of the resumption of the Vietnam war, north and south Korea, just as bitter enemies twenty years ago as are North and South Vietnam today, began talking last summer through the Red Cross organizations of both nations.

And further south, Australia and New Zealand under new Labor regimes have already announced diplomatic relations between themselves and The People's Republic of China—with Australian diplomats also meeting with representatives of the East German foreign ministry about future exchange of embassies, probably in early 1975.

In the Caribbean, the efforts by some of the Commonwealth Caribbean countries to bring Cuba back in the fold culminated on Dec. 12, with diplomatic recognition between Guyana and Cuba.

An earlier joint communique between Guyana, Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Jamaica said these countries would commence procedures to open trade and diplomatic ties with Castro's isolated, revolutionary island.

Guyana had already become a centre for Communist-bloc interest in the Caribbean, since Peking has a trade mission in Georgetown and has made large loans to the Guyanese regime for industrialization purposes.

All this activity is good, closing historic, and ideological gaps between world states. As is so often the case with East-West relations, while harmonious activities are under way at one level, bitter and even warlike ones continue at another.

The resumption of the Vietnam war has taken place in the midst of all these diplomatic manoeuvrings. Sadly involved the United States less than 2 years after President Nixon's personal efforts to open the long-closed door between the United States and Washington —a door which could easily close again as China's North Vietnamese ally endures air attacks.

The Letter of the Law: Is It Being Compromised?

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

William Pitt said that where law ends tyranny begins.

He might have added that to meddle with the law is to invite tyranny.

This may seem melodramatic. But nevertheless it is true. And it is the reason for today's piece, which otherwise might seem perhaps not worth writing about.

For it is about some meddling with the law which has been going on here.

One of our procedures for making law is the order-in-council.

These orders are acts of government, of the cabinet.

They are on secondary matters which don't merit approval of the main legislative body (though you can get an argument that some of them do).

Many of them are quite routine. Appointments, granting of timber limits and that type of thing. But others are regulatory, such as setting speed limits, and imposing restrictions on the public.

As actions of government they should, of course, be fully public.

But as laws which regulate the public it is imperative they be so.

You would think this is so elementary it would be religiously accepted.

Yet over the years here there have been problems with getting access to orders.

At one time they weren't even made available. This was corrected and they now are posted in the office of the clerk of the cabinet.

But even so there still is a lack of appreciation of their real nature and their significance in our system.

For some orders (at least those naming salaries) still are not made public. And there can be hanky-panky, that looks much like political hanky-panky, with others.

Thus a few days ago a reporter phoned the clerk of the cabinet, J. J. Young, to see how quickly he could dig out the order authorizing the Workmen's Compensation Board to make a deal for a land lease and a new building with Fidelity Trust of Hamilton.

The reporter had seen the order on this now controversial transaction when it was first posted a year ago.

Mr. Young said the order could be quickly dug out but said "it will have to check with Carl Brannan though before I can show it to you." Mr. Brannan is secretary of the cabinet.

A short while later Mr. Brannan contacted the reporter, before he had had a chance to contact Mr. Young, to see if the order was available. And when asked by what authority he had been giving instructions to hold back orders he said Mr. Young had misunderstood him. There was no question, however, that he had given some instructions to Mr. Young.

And if he actually wasn't showing disrespect to the law he at least wasn't showing sufficient respect for it.

If this had been the only occasion of its kind perhaps I would not mention it. But it wasn't.

The possibility of entering a float in the February Festival of one-act plays to be staged by the Central Ontario Drama League was discussed at a recent meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild. If such action is taken, it was decided that "Overlaid", written by Robertson Davies, would be the local organization's selection to be shown in Toronto.

A. J. K. Griffiths, formerly of Northern Electric's Belleville plant, who was closely associated with local groups before being transferred to Montreal, has been appointed central district sales manager of the company, with headquarters in Toronto.

Since Dec. 9, the rental of any housing accommodation being rented for the first time is required to be fixed by the local Rental Committee, under an order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Applications to have a rate set in such cases may be made by a landlord at any time before making a lease, but in any event not later than 30 days after the making of the first lease.

Butter has joined tea, coffee and sugar as a rationed food commodity with each Canadian restricted to a one-half pound per week. Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced the rationing order, which follows a period of recurring butter shortages, "has been forced upon the people generally because of thoughtlessness and selfish action or a relatively small section of the community," Mr. Gordon said.

The members of the staff at the local exchange of the Bell Telephone Co. gave a dinner at the Quinte Cafe in honor of E. L. Mowbray, a member of the staff, who will leave shortly to assume a position in the Kingston office of the company. Eighteen members of the staff were present during the evening and W. B. Doolittle read an address to Mr. Mowbray and presented him with a handsome ring on behalf of the staff.

UN University Soon to Be Adopted

The Christian Science Monitor

There is a lot to be said for the plan for a United Nations university which now seems certain of adoption by the General Assembly this month.

The university will have no central campus but will consist of a network of postgraduate research and training schools around the world. We hope some of the schools will be operating by 1975.

Funding will come mainly from voluntary contributions from governments and private sources, including foundations and other universities.

The students will research questions concerning mankind as a whole, ranging from human rights to the impact on the world of scientific developments. In the words of a spokesman for UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, they will study "concrete problems which transcend national boundaries."

The university will be of particular benefit to third world nations and will open the way to valuable contacts and exchanges between scholars from both industrialized and developing countries.

Japan and 13 other countries sponsored the resolution setting up the university, which instructs Mr. Waldheim to appoint a founding committee to draft a charter by next fall. The General Assembly's Economic Committee overwhelmingly endorsed the resolution by a vote of 86-to-eight with three abstentions. Not surprisingly the Soviet Union voted against, arguing that the project was premature, that the cost was unpredictable and that anyway the proposed university's functions were already being carried out by existing institutions.

The idea for a UN university was first proposed by former Secretary-General U Thant in 1969, but his plan for a central institution with undergraduates and a "world" curriculum" was considered unwieldy and impractical.

The new project is more modest but has a better chance of succeeding.

Spain recognized the independence of Mexico 100 years ago today—in 1853—more than 40 years after Mexicans had first defied the rule of the mother country. But, after surviving war with the United States and civil war, Mexico was occupied by French troops, who had placed an Austrian prince on the throne as emperor. Elected president, Benito Juarez got American pressure to bring the French to withdraw troops in 1867 and the country's development as a republic was assured.

1945—Canadians captured Ortona, Italy, after nine days of costly street fighting.

1933—U.S. treasury called in all gold coin and bullion.

1908—84,000 died in Messina earthquake.

1863—Chewing gum patented by William Semple, Mt. Vernon, O.

1822—St. Francis de Sales died.

1965—Westminster Abbey was founded by Edward the Confessor.

Picasso's Startling Admission

Pablo Picasso — as quoted by The War Cry

From the moment that art ceases to be the food that feeds the individual, the artist can use his talents to perform all the tricks of the intellectual charlatan. Most people can no longer today expect to receive consolation and exultation from art.

The refined, the rich, the professional de — noblings, the "distillers of the quintessence," desire only the peculiar, the sensational, the eccentric, the scandalous in today's art. And I, myself, since the advent of cubism, have fed these fellows what they wanted and watched these critics with all the ridiculous ideas that have passed through my head.

The less they understand them, the more they adore me. Through amusing myself with all these absurd forces, I became celebrated and very rapidly. For a painter, celebrity means sales and consequent affluence. Today, as you know, I am celebrated, I am rich.

But when I am alone, I do not have the effrontery to consider myself an artist at all— not in the grand old meaning of the word. Giotto, Titian, Rembrandt, Goya were great painters—I am only a public clown — a mountebank.

I have understood my time and have exploited the imbecility, the vanity, the greed of contemporary man. It is a bitter confession, this confession of mine, more painful than it is severe. But at least and at last it does have the merit of being honest.

Animal Licence

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I am writing concerning an article written in a recent issue of The Intelligencer. In that article, it stated that Middle-Bay Park residents and the Canadian Forces would have to be paying licences for their cats as well as dogs.

I agree with this bylaw and think the Belleville city council should consider this as one solution to lessen the number of stray cats in the Belleville and surrounding area. If people had to start paying licences for every kind of pet they owned, it just might cut down the overflow at the Ontario Humane Society, encouraging people to take better care of their animals.

I do disagree, however, with the statement made that "Apparently tags are unsuitable for the average cat, so owners will be issued with just a receipt." What good is a receipt? If people go to the bother of buying licences for their animals at least they will be purchasing out of it! If their cat happens to get lost there would be a greater sense of finality in it if there was a tag around its neck. It wouldn't take a cat long to get used to a tag.

I believe when any council makes such a decision, it should not only think strictly of the economics of the matter, but also how it might be of benefit to people and animals.

Natives Tire Of Researchers

Ottawa Journal

Take note of the Eskimo who complained to a sociology conference at Inuvik: "The average Eskimo family consists of two children, a sociologist and an anthropologist."

That resentment of other races against investigating white scholars among them surfaced at the annual meeting in Toronto of the American Anthropological Association. Eskimos, Indians, New Guinea tribesmen and many others are tiring of researchers who enter their communities and homes and put the "natives" under coolly detached studies.

The writings of a Boas, Mead or Levi-Strauss have, to the credit of anthropology, expanded men's knowledge of one another. And a widened appreciation of human genius was afforded by anthropologists of the National Museums of Man when they recently sponsored the West Coast Indian Seances at the National Arts Centre. Even so, the irritation of Indians who attended the Toronto meeting, and spoke their minds about the omnipresent anthropologists, is understandable.

Pearson Liked Fun

Memories of Mike Provoke Chuckles

OTTAWA (CP) — As a reporter, travelling throughout Canada with then prime minister Lester Pearson, I required constant lip-biting to refrain from calling him "Mike." In the light-hearted banderings often occurred on his aircraft, "Mr. Prime Minister" just didn't seem natural to him.

When his wife, Maryon, was told of this constant concern, she assured the reporter: "Don't worry about it, he wouldn't even notice."

Away from the daily pressures of his East Block office, Mr. Pearson was a reporter's delight—a relaxed, modest man who would frequently drop down on the next aircraft seat, let his face break into that boyish grin, and provide you with stories from the past.

They were invariably light-hearted stories, and he was just as invariably the butt of his own jokes. He would never open his book, return to his seat, and go on sleeping.

The small staff accompanying him on these flights—which usually included one "pool" reporter—were just as relaxed, since Mr. Pearson made such few demands.

"Do you think the prime minister would object if I smoked a cigar on the plane?" a reporter once inquired of an aide.

"I'll check," said the aide went back to where Mrs. Pearson was sitting.

"No, she doesn't mind," he reported back.

"But is the prime minister, . . .

"Oh, he couldn't care less."

He was one of the world's most relaxed fliers, despite his self-deprecating stories about his fearful days in the Royal Flying Corps.

"I guess I would have been okay if I had just missed the hydro pole," he used to say about his First World War crash that put him in a Britis' hospital.

Told the worst part of it was that my aunt would write me t' say how proud she was that I was in hospital with all thos other war heroes.

My fellow on my right sid was an army blacksmith wh had been kicked by a horse The chap on my left had bee hit by a London bus. I had hit a pole." Ironically, Mr. Pearso was later hit by a bus himself.

When Mr. Pearson told thi story, his face would redden ir merriment, his eyes woul crinkle and he would shake with laughter.

One afternoon, back in 1964 Mr. Pearson, a small staff and one reporter, took off from Ottawa's Uplands airport in a government Jetstar, and in the middle of the steep climb from the runway there was a vicious banging on the underside of the plane.

"Sounds like someone wants to get the relaxed prime minister to the other passengers and if them turning decidedly white.

It turned out the landing gear had refused to retract, and there was no way of knowing whether the wheels would ever lock down.

The pilot decided to jettison all the fuel and return to Uplands, hopeful the wheels were secured.

"Watch the hydro poles," said Mr. Pearson, then he went back to his book, and didn't even bother looking up as the jet, surrounded by fire engines, made a perfect landing.

When he was to show some dis comfort later that night when, using a slower alternate plane, he arrived in Calgary at 3 a.m., instead of 9 p.m., for the annual stampede. He had used repeated messages ahead that he was not to be officially met at that hour, that he would quietly go to the hotel.

When his plane arrived, there were some 200 people, all in white cowboy hats, standing on the tarmac in the rain.

"God, look at them," he told the prime minister. "This is ridiculous, staying up this late just to meet me."

"And I suppose they'll make us wear one of those damn sits."

They did, and he smiled wanly.

He never did like big receptions unnecessarily. Only thing hat made him appear more uncomfortable were those embarrassed introductions that would sometimes hear about himself.

After one particularly flowery one by a civic official, Mr. Pearson, relaxing with a drink in his plane, referred to him as being "big in heart, but small in research."

To get his wit, one had to listen closely.—His best remarks were often more thoughts that happened to find their way into quiet words.

Returning from Washington one night, Mr. Pearson was recalling his earlier-to-day talks with president Eisenhower. He was generally satisfied, except for one subject—it's now forgotten—which, it turned out, Mr. Eisenhower had never heard about.

One Canadian official thought that was shocking. Mr. Pearson, looking out the plane's window, gave one of those little-boy looks. "Yes, you would think his caddy would at least have mentioned it to him."

On a trip to Calgary one time, the lone reporter travelling with the Pearsons was given a hotel room, about two doors away, and the entire corridor was cordoned off by security men.

The reporter didn't check in until about midnight, long after the prime minister and his wife had gone to bed. But his discovered his room had been freshly painted—the smell was awful—and the window was painted shut.

Soon banging resulted, and the police entered to complain. "If you keep this up you'll wake the prime minister." The banging became more discreet, but there was one terrible creaking sound when a wooden contbanger, being used as a lever, s splintered in all directions.

Need a hand? A blistered prime minister was there to help.

But he didn't need to. His offer unleashed enough security enthusiasm to lift the entire hotel.

Anytime," Mr. Pearson said, as he headed for bed.

Mike's Main Support Was Retiring Wife

OTTAWA (CP) — Through Lester Pearson's 20 years of politics, his wife, Maryon, was always by his side—never hiding her distaste for public life, but never wavering in her unstinting devotion to her husband.

"She would have every right to complain," Mr. Pearson once said.

"When she married me, she expected a quiet life as the wife of a history teacher, and I think she married me to get through her final year. She did get through that year, but how she got through the last, 40 I'll never know."

Close friends were later to observe that Mrs. Pearson was only got through those 40 years, but she helped her husband immeasurably along the way.

As the wife of a travelling diplomat, sometimes tart, wit often generated some criticism from the vote-conscious hierarchy of the Liberal party. She was close to her, particularly Mr. Pearson, appreciated her brightness and brilliance, of her contributions.

In the first volume of his unfinished memoirs, the former prime minister wrote this about his wife: "Without her love and help, her cheerful and wise acceptance of more than half the burden of our partnership, I would never have reached a position where I would be writing this story."

Mrs. Pearson, through her husband's years in public life, was frequently misunderstood. Her disarming honesty was not the traditional approach in public life, her sometimes wry humor was frequently misinterpreted, and her obvious discomfort in large crowds tended to upset party organizers.

Only close to Mr. Pearson could she relax, and only there could she find the comfort he received from his wife.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Federation des Magasins Coop, a Quebec consumer group, charged Wednesday independent grocery stores show that none of the 13 top-selling brands of orange juice is 100 per cent pure as advertised on their labels.

The group said in a statement a breakdown of an analysis carried out at the University of Montreal's Applied Sciences Research Centre also showed none of the 13 brands met federal food and drug specifications of a minimum of one-half gram of total acidity per litre.

Pearson Lauded By Political Foes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The death of former prime minister Lester Bowles Pearson, who won Canada's first Nobel Peace Prize, brought a flood of tributes today from Canadians in all walks of life.

Most echoed the words of Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield who said the death came as a personal loss.

"The death of Mr. Pearson is a matter of personal loss for me as well as it is for Canadians of all political persuasions who knew him, respected and liked him," Mr. Stanfield said in a brief statement.

"There were many aspects to his life but to me he will be remembered most as a man who devoted his efforts to bringing people together and removing the causes of misunderstanding."

Senator Paul Martin said: "I mourn him as a dear and good friend.

"We are all saddened by the passing of Mike Pearson. Mike was a dedicated prime minister and public servant and worked hard for conciliation and international co-operation. . . .

Canada mourns a devoted and dedicated son.

John Diefenbaker, one of the first public figures to comment on Mr. Pearson's death, expressed sadness at the passing of his political opponent.

"Whether in the field of diplomacy or politics, he was a happy warrior," said Mr. Diefenbaker who preceded Mr. Pearson as prime minister.

Their acquaintance spanned 50 years, from the day they first met in San Francisco in 1945.

Mr. Diefenbaker extended sympathy and that of his wife Olive to Mrs. Pearson and the Pearsons' family.

He said all Canadians would feel the passing of a man greatly devoted to his country and to humanity.

Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba said the former prime minister was "an exemplary Canadian. I always did think very fondly of him."

He was "one who, in terms of personality, was a very good prime minister, not one to let the office make him arrogant. That was a shining quality of his."

President Norman Turner of the Manitoba Liberal Party said he was "deeply sorry to hear of his passing."

Provincial leaders across the country expressed their sense of loss.

Liberal Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island said: "We Prince Edward Islanders naturally mourn the passing of a great statesman."

"He served Canada well," said Premier William Davis of Ontario.

"History records few people as distinguished. He was a soldier and a pilot, university professor, diplomat, cabinet minister and our prime minister—truly a man of peace. . . .

Canada has lost a truly great statesman, said Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed. His "quality of leadership was recognized throughout the world. . . . I know that all Albertans join me in extending deepest sympathy to Mrs. Pearson and the family."

"His accomplishments will go down in history . . . a Canadian flag, medicare, pension plan, his many contributions to NATO and the United Nations," said Alberta Liberal Leader Bob Russell.

LESTER PEARSON

Senator Harry Hays, Mr. Pearson's agriculture minister for three years, said from his Calgary home:

"He was one of the greatest men I have ever known—a great humanitarian, a kind, thoughtful man. He had great loyalty and never forgot people who helped him.

"He thought about everybody. He thought about people more than anyone else I have ever known."

"He was a good leader, a good peacemaker and a good friend who belonged not alone to Canada but to all decent men," said Canadian-born economist John Kenneth Galbraith, attending a meeting of the American Economic Association in Toronto, of which he is president.

"I wonder what higher praise one can give?"

Life Challenges All Growth in All Dimensions

By DORIS CLARK

She was beautiful. She was popular. She was capable. But she was 35 — and there's the rub!

It was a surprise when she said she was afraid of old age. Being beautiful and capable and popular isn't all roses. Especially when a girl has come to count on these things for success. Then when she sees youth slipping away, what has she to back it all up? What can a person substitute for beauty of face and limb?

There's the challenge. You have to grow in all dimensions — not just physical. How does St. Luke put it? "In wisdom and in stature, and in favor with God and man".

Then every age and stage of life presents a new panorama — a new chance to make something special of where we are at.

Dear Doris: How come men have so much power? You see a lot of marriages going on the rocks because of the pride and bobbed-up hair business.

I have sex problems myself in marriage. I have always been willing to go for help but if I suggest it to my husband, "Maybe you could be wrong, too," he'll laugh it off, saying I don't know enough about sex.

But isn't there such a thing as men who expect too much of sex?

Please answer my question fair and square as you are my only hope. Then I have learned a lot from reading your column. — A Disgusted Wife

Dear Disgusted: Sex is something two people have to agree about or it is a failure. Some men expect too much; some women settle for too little. The truth lies somewhere in between and every couple has to discover what is right for them.

But this leaves no room for a dominating, too - demanding male; nor for a female who fails to respond. Or vice versa. Perhaps it is true that you could learn more; but as could he — and I'm not whistling Dixie!

Perhaps even at this late date you could read a book about it and get help. I'll send you the names of reading I recommend.

Dear Doris: The verse about John Brown did strike a responsive chord. I memorized these four verses many years ago to help me "like the folks I could not love"! Written words have always been my main inspiration. I have memorized many poems over my 53 years.

There was a poem I heard recited once, called "The Trimmings On The Rosary" and I found it delightful. It was an emigrant's fond musings on the little prayers his mother tacked on to each decade of the rosary as they, as a family, said their nightly prayers.

If you ever run across this rather endearing poem, I would much appreciate a copy. — Trimmings On The Rosary

Dear Trimmings: I'd love to read it too; and hope it will find its way to us. Thank you; and several others for the complete John Brown poem.

(There's always something to do about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris, a Canadian social worker, is a step in the right direction. Write to her in care of this newspaper.)

Bird Feeders Brighten Your Home Gardens

Many home gardens look drab during the winter months. A bird feeder in the yard, near a convenient window, can add a touch of brightness as well as being interesting and educational says R. A. Fleming, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

During the early winter months, birds feed on the weed seeds in fields and back gardens. But as the snow piles up, these sources of food are buried. A feeder will attract many different birds such as blue jays, chickadees, cardinals, jenkos and possibly some that you haven't seen before.

A mixture of feeds helps the birds through the winter. Suet, rabbits, any of the cereal grains, corn or sunflower seed are bound to attract a wide variety of birds. There are also several mixtures of wild bird seeds available.

If you plan to set the feeder on a steel or wooden post, make sure the feeder is about 6 feet off the ground. Squirrels also like the feeds and will "take over" your feeder. Steel poles are excellent to prevent this, since they cannot get a grip. If you use a wooden pole, fasten a sheet - metal cone around the pole about 5 feet up, so they cannot climb any further.

Besides the interesting winter birds, your feeder will attract sparrows. Do not discourage them because they'll be around next spring eating insects and garden pests when things begin to grow again.

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENT FOR SASKATCHEWAN

Consumers' Association of Canada reports that the Saskatchewan Government is preparing to establish a Department of the Environment. This department will be in full responsibility for the development of environmental policies and control regulations. CAC headquarters is located at 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa.

Quick Gourmet Meals With Convenience Foods

Unexpected dinner guests will pose no problem if you keep some canned and frozen foods on hand. They are easy to store and, teamed with the right ingredients, they get you through any cooking emergency.

With a can of cream of shrimp soup and a couple of packages of frozen crab meat you can prepare a gourmet dish in minutes. Quick crab in shrimp sauce is easily made in one saucepan by heating together the cream of shrimp soup, light cream, sherry, minced onion, basil, frozen crab meat and Tabasco pepper sauce for a special lift.

Quick crab in shrimp sauce is a creamy, full flavored dish rich in hearty chunks of crab meat. Serve it in pastry shells or over hot cooked rice or toast points. Tabasco pepper sauce gives this dish extra zip. It's an all-important ingredient in quick, gourmet cooking.

Ham pot pies are another fast main dish that you can whip up with ingredients you may already have on hand. Just mix together cream of asparagus soup, cottage cheese, milk, diced ham, frozen mixed vegetables, thyme and Tabasco pepper sauce and turn into individual size baking dishes. Top each dish with a refrigerated biscuit and bake. In no time at all, you're ready to serve and enjoy a delicious hot lunch or dinner.

QUICK CRAB IN SHRIMP SAUCE

1 can (10½-oz.) condensed cream of shrimp soup
¼ cup milk or light cream
2 tbsps. sherry
½ tsp. instant minced onion
¼ tsp. dried leaf basil
¼ tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce
2 pkgs. (6-oz. each) frozen crab meat, thawed

In large saucepan mix together undiluted soup, milk, cream, onion, basil and Tabasco. Add crab meat. Heat, stirring frequently. Serve in baked frozen pastryshells or over hot cooked rice or toast points.

YIELD: 4 servings.

HAM POT PIES

1 can (10½-oz.) condensed cream of asparagus soup
½ cup creamed cottage cheese
¼ cup milk
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 pkge. (10 oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked
½ tsp. dried leaf thyme
¼ tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce
1 pkge. (8-oz.) refrigerated biscuits

In bowl mix together undiluted soup, cottage cheese, milk, ham, vegetables, thyme and Tabasco. Turn into individual 8-oz. casseroles or custard cups. Top each dish with a biscuit. Bake in 425 degree oven 15 to 20 min. Bake remaining biscuits according to package directions.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Brusse' Sprouts Enhance Your New Year's Dinner

Complement your New Year turkey with fine edible little cabbage, the Brussels sprout. Fresh or frozen, these tiny cabbages are traditional with many families at this time of the year.

Food specialists of the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food, suggest you choose Brussels sprouts with firm compact heads and bright green color. Withered or yellow leaves indicate poor quality. The sprouts should be stored in a plastic bag in the refrigerator crisper until they are used.

Allow 1 qt. or 1¼-lbs. for six servings. To prepare fresh sprouts, trim and make two crosswise cuts in the stem end. Wash thoroughly in cold salted water, and drain. Cook uncovered in boiling salted water until just tender (about 15 to 20 min.).

Brussels sprouts are delicious served with butter, but for the New Year menu try these variations:

— hot, drained sprouts tossed with French or Italian dressing, or crisp crumbled bacon and sauteed mushrooms or buttered crumbs.

— or topped with melted blue cheese and butter, or a Cheddar cheese sauce.

Resolutions Suggested For Weight-watchers

The aftermath of so many holiday parties and feasts often produces a renewed determination to "do something about my shape" in the New Year.

Adelaida Daniels, pioneer in weight reduction in Canada, suggests the following easy-to-remember resolutions for mealtime behavior:

1. Eat slowly. Meals last longer and food is more enjoyable. Try to finish at the same time as everyone else but without that extra helping.

2. Put your knife and fork down between bites and rest your hands on your lap. Without those weapons actively searching for morsels, you cannot keep up a constant exchange between your plate and your mouth.

3. Divide your dinner into courses, no matter how small — juice or consomme — salad — main dish — dessert — beverage. You'll leave the table feeling you have had a full course meal. Skipping appetizers, salads and desserts is not sensible eating and gives you the unhappy feeling that you are depriving yourself.

4. Choose foods for their nutritional values. Some snacks contain as many calories as complete dinners, but lack the nutrients and staying power of a decent meal. Well chosen meals tend to prevent the refrigerator door from swinging open between meals.

"One last tip," Mrs. Daniels says, "If you are worried that you'll forget your high resolves and slip up on a special occasion, wear a heavy ring on your eating hand. Every time your eye catches it flashing toward your face, you'll be reminded by your conscience.

"What you eat is only part of the answer to weight reduction," she maintains, "the other part comes from being properly tr ined. Most people have to be continually motivated to keep their New Year's resolutions beyond the first week in January."

FIRE ESCAPE

During the winter season the risk of home fires increases. If fire strikes, a window may be the easiest and quickest escape route for members of the family on the ground floor of the home. Consumers' Association of Canada reminds you to break the window with a chair or other heavy object, shielding your face from flying glass. Then run a large object — a hook or a man's shoe — around the edges to remove jagged pieces of glass. CAC headquarters is located at 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa.

Leather making has revived in Belleville. Tom Walters specializes in leather belts with a unique thong stitch, and fedora hats. This artist said the future of leather will be mostly due to the "improved our environment campaigns", Tom's costs are cheaper than commercial products and now, setting a leather making hobby is economical and rewarding.

Unique Fedora Hats and Belts Created by Leather Hobbyist

Though Tom Walters sells his leather work only to a Belleville boutique, he is considering setting up his own shop. Tom has worked with leather for three years and this past Christmas helped realize his plan. Many of his friends requested orders for the special leather belts, watch bands and leather fedora hats.

Thong work and quality are Tom's leather work specialities. His standard, "If I won't wear it, then, I won't sell it," also has set a precedence for his friends' purchases to buying commercially. Tom has no pattern or design. Except for purses, a doodle chosen by a friend, decides the finished leather work.

"I usually get my ideas from other people's styles. If I see something I like, then, I try to make it," said Tom. That's how his leatherwork began, he just decided to make his own belt. From there, a watch band, hat and wallets were created. Tom hopefully plans to make a cowhide coat.

With his leather tools in front of him, Tom sets out to create a monumental effect in his unique leather work. By means of sponge dying the basic red and brown shades, then overlaying these colors and the finishing thong work, Tom creates a unique leather belt for $5.

While making a leather belt for a friend, Tom estimated 20 minutes to finish this garment.

This artist went on to describe the various leather he uses. There's garment leather; light-weight, and belt leather. If possible, Tom purchases a whole leather hide. It's cheaper by the bulk. The estimated cost is around $40 or $50 whereas a square foot of leather hide costs $1.85 or $2.1

From the basic leather hide, which is a natural tan color, Tom uses: an edger to even the leather; leather punch; utility razor knife; leather dye; usually the basic browns and reds; leather lace for Tom's leather thongs and saddle soap which gives the final touch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey

Cannifton Couple Honor 60 Years of Marriage

December 18 marked the 60th wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey, Cannifton.

Is there a secret to a union of 60 years? The Baileys say that it is working together. Or as Mrs. Bailey put it, "I helped him and he helped me."

The couple first met when Mrs. Bailey, now 80, was walking home from school and noticed Mr. Bailey, now 83 years old, who was working as a blacksmith. Six years later they were married.

The Baileys farmed for 40 years in Roslin, and then moved to Cannifton 12 years ago. They have three children, Carman and, Gerald, Roslin, and Mrs. Winifred Fenlon, Tyendinaga. They have nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Congratulations were received from Prime Minister Trudeau, Robert Stanfield, Jack Ellis, MP; William Davis, Premier of Ontario, and W. Ross Macdonald, Ontario Lieutenant-Governor. A plaque was received from the Calvary a chandelier from family members with many good wishes.

Toys Evaluated and Shown For December Guild Meet

Toy cost, research, evaluation and recommendations highlighted the December meeting of the Women's Study Guild in the home of Mrs. G. E. Hayter.

Mrs. J. R. Reynolds gave an appropriate reading entitled "Kid Stuff". Mrs. R. Leach, Mrs. Mildred Armstrong, Mrs. L. Lemon, Mrs. Wishart Mrs. Reid and Miss J. Tickell contributed their messages and toys during program. It was noted that well-chosen toys stimulate children's curiosity, present a challenge and effect learning concentration.

Toys were then introduced during this part of the program for the different age groups.

Favorite toys and books of by-gone years were distributed.

Prominent people in history such as President Roosevelt, Napoleon, and Queen Victoria and the toys in their lives were mentioned.

The Canadian Toy Testing Council was also discussed which consists of volunteer parents and an advisory council of teachers and psychologists who recommend toys in an annually published list which gives categories, ratings, approximate price and age level.

The Annual Toy Fair in Montreal was also discussed where toys are tested for design, function, durability, play value, safety and price.

Following the program, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Layton served lunch.

Mrs. L. Fortin, president, conducted the short business meeting prior to the program. It was noted that the Vanier Institute of the Family will be the topic for the New Year's first program.

Eleanor Roosevelt Highlighted

Mrs. C. Holmes was the guest speaker at the December meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. Arnold Mitchell.

Mrs. Holmes told of the book written by the late Eleanor Roosevelt which contained her favorite Christmas stories.

Mrs. E. Fleming, president, read a poem Christmas Card Magic.

A letter was read from the Home Economist for Hastings County, Mrs. Elaine Summers telling of the Homemaking course for 4-H Club girls for spring 1973.

A Christmas program planned by Mrs. A. Grills and Mrs. A. Mitchell was also part of the itinerary.

Mrs. E. Darling gave her thoughts on the motto "The world is so full of a number of things, that we should be happy as kings."

New Poinsettias Feature Traditional Blooms

Two hundred potted poinsettias, massed on the grand stairway and in the foyer of the Parliament Buildings in Toronto formed a glowing backdrop for the Civil Service Choir concerts which mark this festive season. These spectacular Ontario-grown traditional blooms were prime examples of the new varieties of poinsettia now available.

Until a few years ago, anyone who bought a poinsettia expected to see the colorful bracts drop after a few days. Now, says R. W. Crawford, the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, the poinsettia is known as the Christmas flower that blooms until Mother's Day.

The new varieties have more flowers on shorter stems and bloom for weeks instead of days. The plants can also be kept and used in the summer, and given the right care, will bloom a second time.

Frantz Hegg, a Norwegian plant breeder is responsible for the new developments in poinsettia. The Canadian Ornamental Plant Foundation, in co-operation with Flowers Canada, has introduced and promoted the new strain of poinsettia. They come in a variety of colors, from white or pink to deep red.

Over one million poinsettia were grown in Ontario last year from cuttings taken from imported parent plants. The poinsettia have surpassed all greenhouse-grown flowers in popularity and production in the last few years.

Poinsettia are easy to keep in the home if you follow these few simple rules:

(1) Place the plant away from drafts, or excessive heat in moderate sunlight, at a room temperature of 70 deg.

(2) Poinsettia can be watered from the top or bottom but they should never be allowed to dry out, especially during the peak blooming period.

Cactus Care Tips

The Christmas cactus is a popular, long-lived plant available throughout the year. There are types that bloom during the winter and spring, says John Hughes, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

For Christmas flowering the plant is exposed to short days beginning Sept. 1. Total darkness, of 12 to 14 hours each night at a temperature under 65 degrees is required. Buds will not form at temperatures over 70 degrees, even with long nights. Kept at 55 degrees Christmas cactus will flower regardless of length of day.

When the flower buds begin to show color, the short day, long night treatment can be discontinued. Set the plant in a window with a high light intensity and cool temperature.

Christmas cactus requires extra water during the flowering period, but afterwards the plant should be kept on the dry side until new shoots form.

'Blue Birds' Honor Couple With Flower Arrangement

PICTON — The Blue Bird class of Cherry Valley presented a flower arrangement to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brummell along with other community gifts at their recent diamond wedding anniversary celebration. Bouquets of roses were also presented to Mr. and Mrs. Brummell from their family. Mrs. Willard Metcalfe and Mrs. George Welsh, on behalf of Cherry Valley, presented a candelabra and flower vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Brummell were at home in family and friends during the afternoon and evening. The bride of 60 years received an orchid corsage while her husband received a carnation.

Mrs. Annie Williams of Picton, their bridesmaid and the bridegroom's sister was present. Mrs. Williams was assisted by Mrs. Emma Chapman, the bride's sister in pouring tea at the tea table which was centred with an arrangement of gladioli, large white 'mums and orchids flanked by white tapers in triple silver candelabra. Other servers were the couple's daughter, velyn, Mrs. Ralph Dodds and their daughters-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Brummell and Mrs. Keith Brummell.

Their son, Keith, retiring Reeve of Athol Township, looked after the guest book while their second son, Clarence, received the guests.

The family also entertained at an evening dinner in Cherry Valley Church hall with the Blue Bird Class serving dinner. The cake was ceremoniously cut by Mr. and Mrs. Brummell.

Congratulations were received from the Queen, Prime Minister Trudeau, Ontario Lieutenant-Governor, W. Ross MacDonald, Premier William Davis, Hon. George Hees MP and James Taylor MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox.

ALBERTA FIGHTS BACK

Litter is still a problem everywhere. Consumers' Association of Canada reports the introduction of a Litter Act by the Alberta Government. This legislation enables the courts to impose fines of up to $100 for a first offence, a minimum of $200 for a second offence and $500 for a third or subsequent offences. There is also provision for maximum jail sentences of 5, 15 and 90 days upon conviction. CAC headquarters is located at 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONNELL

Has Women's Lib shaken up men?

11-27

NO. It is true that men—and women—are so conscious of the current secret on women's rights that they hesitate to make a move without seeing if it will mark them as "sexist, male chauvinist." Yet most men who have always acted as if women and men were equal human beings have not been imbibited by Women's Lib. They look upon the Movement as being something they "can live with" since they have always practiced its loftiest principles.

Should bright kids be pushed ahead?

NOW unless teachers and school guidance counselors determine that that is best for children who are brighter than their contemporaries. Sometimes when a child who can learn more easily than his classmates is pushed ahead, he is overwhelmed by the knowledge that he is being put in a class with older pupils. He may then lose his eagerness to learn simply because he feels that he is being penalized for something beyond his control.

Can a loving wife be selfish?

NO. Selfish love doesn't mean a person must be without faults. A wife, for instance, can be unduly selfish as far as her material wants are concerned; and, strangely enough, when it comes to loving her husband and working for a happy marriage, a wife can be both selfish and unselfish. She selfishly wants to be happy and, at the same time, she unselfishly works to achieve that happiness through her husband's happiness.

Ann Landers
Birth Dates Not Essential For Stone Cutters to Know

Dear Ann Landers: Mom's leg is finally healed. Thank you, Ann. Since younger sister died a few months ago and we buried her beside Pop, I've taken the best off she has been in the family Plot.

This dear aunt never married and never revealed her age. She looked youthful and was so proud of her good looks. Last year this darling woman took a wonderful new job and gave her her age as 10 years younger than she actually was. Now the stone cutter wants to know what to put on the grave marker as the date of her birth. What should Mom say?

One of the problems is that Mom and her sister were actually five years apart. If my mom gives the age my aunt claimed, there will be, for all eternity, 15 years difference between them.

Please, put your brains in our heads today.—Need An Answer

Dear Need: Tell the stone cutter to record only the date of her death. It is not essential that the birth date be on the marker.

Dear Ann Landers: I wrote you several weeks ago about a problem I was having with a girl. I had asked her to marry me although she was only 18. (I am 22). She was the most mature and sensible girl of 18 I've ever met. She told me she cared for me but she was not ready to settle down. I was deeply hurt and asked you what to do.

Your advice was to cool it and stop pressuring her. Then you suggested that I take out other girls and encourage her to date other fellows.

It was hard for me to take that advice but I did. I am writing to you without question the superior sex.

I am a husband who would gladly go through a pregnancy and the labor rather than put my wife through it again. Why? Not because I want to spare her the pain, but because I want to spare myself the torture of hearing how lousy she feels for whole nine months and how much she suffered in the labor room. Our little boy is three years old now and she is still talking about it. Lately she has been pestering me to get her pregnant again and I hate to think of it. What should I do?—Reluctant Dragon

Dear Drag: Aw, go on. Make the girl happy. Until you can get Mother Nature to reverse the charges, it will be ever thus.

Dear Friend: Your letter gives me an opportunity to say once again that true love doesn't konk you on the head like a chunk of home plaster. It must develop and grow, one day at a time. In a genuine love relationship, each allows the other freedom and breathing space. There are no demands and no ultimatums. No one feels threatened or suffocated. Your new approach is much more mature and I'm sure the girl views you in a vastly different light. Congratulations on growing up.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a woman wrote to you and described what a terrible time she had giving birth to her baby. Her husband was playing poker and refused to leave the game because "he was stuck."

She went on to say that no man in the world would go through labor pains the second time, and she stated categorically that women are more stoical than men, that they stand up under duress better and are

Morris Hopes Homecoming Not Happy One for Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eugene (Mercury) Morris, speedy son of a Pittsburgh truck driver, is going home.

"Call it going back, not going home," Morris said Wednesday. "My memories of Pittsburgh are mostly cold and hard, unhappy involving some kind of struggle."

Morris, who became a 1,000-yard runner in the National Football League this year, is again braced for "some kind of struggle."

He and the rest of the undefeated Miami Dolphins meet the lucky-and-good Steelers in Sunday's American Conference championship game at Three Rivers Stadium.

"I didn't identify too much with the Steelers when I was growing up in Pittsburgh. Still don't identify with losers," he said. "But, things have changed with the Steelers since I moved away."

Morris voiced respect for the AFC Central Division winners.

"It will take a maximum effort for us to beat the Steelers and get back to the Super Bowl," he said.

Morris left Pittsburgh at age 18 for college before joining the Dolphins three seasons ago.

Until this fall, Morris played sparingly and was hampered by injuries. Finally, cast in a three-man ground attack with Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick, his back changed. When the season ended Dec. 17, he had 991 yards.

A few days later, eager Dolphin publicists found a new angle. They recalled a play from earlier in the season when Mercury had been charged with a nine-yard loss.

Nine yards . . . the magic number for 1,000.

NFL officials were consulted and, after reviewing films, decided that quarterback Earl Morrall had executed a pog pitchout on the play in question. They said Mercury never had possession of the ball.

Morris was given nine extra yards, and 1,000 yards.

Houston Stuns Lakers, Worried About Bucks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Houston Rockets had stunned Los Angeles Lakers by 32 points, but winning coach Tex Winter was worried, thinking it might be a bad omen for the next game.

"This score will be bad for us when Milwaukee reads it," said Winter after his Rockets had demolished the injury-plagued National Basketball Association champions 136-104 Wednesday night.

The Rockets try for their sixth victory in a row against Friday night, against the Bucks in Milwaukee.

In the only other game Wednesday night, Atlanta Hawks edged Philadelphia 76ers 121-120 on Don May's 10-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

Mike Newlin led the Rockets with 24 points, while Jack Marin and Jimmy Walker had 23 apiece. Gail Goodrich netted 27 points and Jerry West 24 for the Lakers, who played without Elgin Baylor, forward Jim McMillian and Happy Hairston.

Lou Hudson paced Atlanta with 34 points, while Pete Maravich added 25. Leroy Ellis and Fred Carter each had 24 for the "Birs, who suffered their 10st straight loss and 24th set-back in 27 games.

Jones Sets Sights On Olympic Opponent

NEW YORK (AP) — He wanted to cry but he couldn't. He wanted to quit boxing but he couldn't. He wanted to turn pro, but decided he couldn't—not until he had settled an old score.

"All I've thought about the last three months is getting that Russian," said Reggie Jones. "I've got to beat that Russian."

The chance may come next month.

Jones, 21-year-old former Marine lance corporal out of Newark, N.J., was the victim, in the opinion of many observers, of one of boxing's greatest injustices in the Munich Olympics last summer when he dropped a decision to Russia's Valeri Tregubov in a first-round light middleweight match.

Jones battered Tregubov from one corner to the other, opening a gash over the Russian's eye and leaving his features looking like a pound of fresh-ground hamburger.

The crowd yelled "robbery" and stomped its feet in wild protest when a five-man international panel of judges gave the Russian a 4-to-1 vote.

American TV viewers were outraged. Commentators called it the greatest robbery since the Brink's holdup. Six years later, they still do.

"I couldn't believe it," Jones said. "I was so upset I wanted to cry but I knew I couldn't cry on television. I held it in. I was so disgusted I thought I would quit. Finally, I decided I'd wait for another chance."

That chance is expected when a picked American ring squad meets the Russian Olympian team in three bouts at Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 30 and Feb. 1.

"I understand the Russians are bringing three different teams," Jones said. "Tregubov is going to be one or one of them. If not, I'll take it out on another Russian — just a Russian."

"I felt miserable after the fight," the trim, black athlete said.

"I never thought I'd fight again. I was ashamed to come home empty-handed.

Then I started getting telegrams and letters from people who had seen the fight on television. There were hundreds of them. And they're still coming in. Everywhere I go people recognize me and tell me how I won the fight. I couldn't let all those people down.

Jones said he hadn't had a fight since his loss to the Russian but added:

"I see his face every time I punch a bag or get in a sparring match. It's something I can't forget."

Jones said after fighting the Russians he plans to turn pro—probably in April as a middleweight.

"I weigh 161 now, I can get down to 147 if I have to."

PRICES UNDER REVIEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal price commission is reviewing the National Football League's ticket prices for postseason playoff and championship games. There have been complaints that ticket prices are higher than for regular season games. Prices for the Washington Redskins-Dallas Cowboys game this Sunday range from $12 to $17. Regular-season game prices range from $7 to $12.

Track Records May Tumble At Saskatoon Indoor Meet

SASKATOON (CP) — Long-standing records in the high jump and pole vault will be threatened during the annual Knights of Columbus Indoor Games beginning here Friday.

Pat Matzdorf, holder of the world record, will join five second-foot jumpers in a shot at the games mark of 7-1 ¼ set here in 1968 by Renaldo Brown of California. The 17-1 record set by Bob Seagren in the 1968 pole vault will be challenged by four who have cleared 17 feet.

In seven previous mid-winter track meetings here, the seven-foot high jump barrier has been reached or surpassed 11 times. Games organizers are confident the record set by Brown, a former member of the United States Olympic team, will be cleared.

Matzdorf is the favorite. He has cleared 7-4¼ for his record, far ahead of anyone else in the field. But another American, Dwight Stones, who cleared 7-3 in the Munich Olympics, is here to test Matzdorf.

Matzdorf injured himself in the United States Olympic trials and did not qualify for Munich. He established his world record at Berkeley, Calif., in a 1971 dual meet between the United States and Russia, where he exceeded the former record held by Valri Brumel of Russia by one half-inch.

Canadian challenges for Matzdorf and Stones will be provided by Claude Ferrange of Montreal and three Aniversity of British Columbia students—Rick Cuttell, John Beers and John Hawkins. All three represented Canada in the 1972 Olympics.

Hawkins, a back-flipper, was the first Canadian to clear seven feet. He soared 7-1¼ in a pre-Olympic meet in Berlin for his personal best and cleared seven feet and a fraction at Munich, where he finished ninth.

Beers holds the Canadian record at 7-1¾. Cuttell and Ferrange share the Canadian indoor record at 6-11. Ferrange set his standard here a year ago in the Canadian senior, open high jump. The next day, invited to enter the invitational high jump, he cleared 6-10 to finish third.

Canada's best pole vaulter, Bruce Simpson, also will be here, facing three top-level pole vaulters.

The biggest name is carried by Bob Richards Jr., whose father, Rev. Bob Richards, won Olympic victories for the United States in 1952 and 1956. Richards Jr., cleared 16-6 five times in 1971 and 17 feet twice earlier this year.

Richards is travelling with Tom Blair, a team-mate in the Pacific Coast Track Club. Blair, 21, has a personal best of 17-3¾. Another Pacific Coast Track Club ace is Steve Smith, who has cleared a whopping 16-1. Personal best for Simpson is the Canadian record, 17-3¾.

Relays, sprints, middle-distance events and an attractive invitational shot-put event involving two of the best in the world—Olympians George Woods and Al Feuerbach of the United States—also are scheduled in the two-day event. Woods and Feuerbach are among the only four in the world who have made 70 feet in their specialty.

Grey Beats Blue

MONTGOMRY, Ala. (AP) — Don Strock of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, who gained more yardage than any other United States college back this year, led the South to a 27-15 victory over the North all-stars Wednesday night in the annual Blue-Grey college football game.

Defensive back Ken Phares of Mississippi State put the Greys in front less than a minute after the game began. Phares intercepted a pass from Tony Adams of Utah State and ran it back 34 yards for a touchdown. He intercepted another to halt the Yankees in the fourth quarter.

The Blue all-stars never caught up although they took the Rebels by surprise with two during fourth-down plays, which normally would have punted, and with an on-side kick which gave the North the ball.

Adams, who ranked just behind Strock nationally in total offence during the regular season, put together one scoring drive and climaxed it with a 15-yard touchdown pass to Doug Winslow of Drake in the first period. But most of the time, the Utah State quarterback found Southerners in the way of his passes.

Sweeps Winner Retires at 20

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three Canadians were big winners Wednesday in the Irish Sweepstakes and, as word of their $298,500 winnings reached them, one went into hiding, another couldn't believe it and the third confirmed his "retirement" at the age of 20.

All told, Canadians reaped a sterling harvest in excess of $628,000.

Five had tickets on second-place finisher Comedy of Errors and won $46,500 each and a British Columbia man had a ticket worth $93,000 on third-place finisher Brendon's Road. Forty-two others receive $576 each for drawing tickets on the 10 unplaced horses and Hardboy, who was scratched shortly before the race.

But it was Captain Christy, who ran away with the Irish Sweeps Hurdle at Leopardstown near Dublin, who brought three Canadians the big money.

Kenneth MacLeod of Vancouver, one of two B.C. residents who won the top prize, said Wednesday he had a premonition he might win and retired from his job the day his ticket was drawn.

Mr. MacLeod, 20, quit his job as a mill worker to begin a university commerce course. He had been working to earn tuition, but said he "retired the day I got the news on the ticket."

He plans to invest his money after a celebration, he said.

The other B.C. winner, Eileen Mellor, a 26-year-old laboratory worker from Duncan, went straight into hiding. Her father said he would be in her "bad books" if he disclosed her whereabouts.

In Winnipeg Rita Dennis, a 46-year-old nurse, couldn't believe the news. After considering the prospects, she said she might buy a car, but added she wouldn't quit work because "I like my job."

Ken Fuller of Newmarket, Ont.; Ena Jordon of Toronto, who gave an alternate address as Bronte, Ont.; Jean Parrington, Toronto; Reg Ward, Shebrooke, Ont.; and an entry signed Bennett and Family, St. George's, Nfld., all had tickets on the second-place horse.

...Don Robb of Port Hardy, B.C., held a ticket on third-place finisher Brendon's Road.

Cable TV Sold

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has approved the sale of Allview Cable Service Ltd. of St. Thomas, Ont., to Cablevision Ltd.

Cablevision Ltd., which operates cable television systems in a number of Canadian cities, including Toronto, has promised to carry out improvements that should result in better service for the residents of St. Thomas.

CMA Is Asked to Test Would-be Acupuncturists

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Cho Yuk Leung, a physicist and researcher at the University of Western Ontario, says the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) should set up a special board of doctors and competent acupuncturists to examine the qualifications of persons wishing to practise acupuncture.

Dr. Leung, a practising acupuncturist, is involved in acupuncture research with Dr. W. E. Spoerel, head of the department of anesthesia at the university. In the joint research project, patients are being treated with acupuncture in a special pain clinic at Victoria Hospital here.

Acupuncture is an ancient Chinese therapy of placing needles in certain parts of the body to anesthetize and stimulate natural repair of the [illegible] functioning portion of the body.

Dr. Leung said [illegible] could occur with persons "taking a few lessons and calling themselves acupuncturists."

"What I want is not to fight the medical association, but to enlist their collaboration to promote the study in recognition of acupuncture for the benefit of all those who suffer from sickness."

Policeman Charged With Bootlegging

OSHAWA (CP) — An Oshawa police constable, his 28-year-old son and another man have been charged with bootlegging and running a common gaming house in nearby Whitby.

Constable Cyril Smith, 52, a veteran of more than 20 years on the force, also has been charged under the Ontario Police Act with conduct likely to bring disrespect to a police force.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1972

Letter Carriers Postpone Slowdown

The threat of a mail slowdown by Belleville letter carriers has been postponed for at least three weeks.

The postman said Dec. 7 they would work to rule unless a proposed plan to use taxis for reaching route starting points was withdrawn by post office management. They said the dispute is internal and not related to national contract negotiations.

Jim Campbell, president of Local 61, Letter Carriers of Canada, said this morning the 33 postmen will wait until management attempts to implement the plan before taking action. The program is not scheduled to go into effect until the middle of January.

"We haven't heard anything from management," said Mr. Campbell. "We'll have to wait until they do something before we do anything."

Meanwhile, all postal workers have been provided copies of the conciliation report outlining a proposed contract between management and labor.

Mr. Campbell said that at the present time, the contract will be voted on next Wednesday — in of greater concern to local letter carriers than the tacit issue.

Flood Plain Study Free for Trenton

TRENTON — A flood plain study on the Trent River near Trenton will commence some time in the new year, but won't cost the town a cent, a letter from the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority informed town council Wednesday night.

The letter, from authority secretary-treasurer W. T. Lawson, advised council the ministry of natural resources will conduct the study, which includes an examination to determine those portions of the Trent requiring dredging.

At a council meeting also in November, town deputy clerk Arden Royce was instructed to look into the question of the ministry conducting a survey directly aimed at two areas near the town that are flooded each spring.

In 1968, residents of the Wooler Road area wrote to council requesting action preventing annual spring runoff waters that created "a serious hazard to the settlement area" because of clogged ditches. Councillor Paul Trigo in November of this year reminded council the matter had still been unresolved although town employees had been authorized to investigate and recommend a solution.

In order to curb the runoff, the ministry will survey Maynew Creek and its tributaries.

Property west of Hannah Park, owned by Wasil Sidor and business partner Gerald Weaver, is earmarked for a 13.5-hone subdivision but cannot be developed because of water problems. Mr. Sidor claims the land remains designated "hazard land" because of water seepage coming from a town-installed four - foot storm sewer nearby.

Mr. Sumner, the Weaver-Sidor partnership advised the town legal action would be taken if the drainage was not stopped.

It is this area that constitutes a second part of the ministry flood plain survey.

When it begins, interested parties will be notified so that ministry engineers can meet with them.

Three Hurt In Collision

PICTON (Staff) — A Prince Edward county couple and a Deseronto motorist were seriously injured early last night in a head-on collision on Highway 49 immediately north of the Lake Ontario Cement plant.

Robert Byers, 61, of RR2, Picton, driver of one of the cars, sustained fractured ribs, a broken jaw and a broken ankle in the accident. His wife, Eleanor, a passenger in the vehicle, received two leg fractures and fractured wrists.

Driver of the second car, 57-year-old Oron Oliver of Deseronto, received chest and spinal injuries. All were taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

Christmas Aftermath

For most people Christmas is a time of peace and contentment. But for garbage collectors, it can be one big headache. Stacks of wrapping paper, boxes and turkey leftovers line the city streets, such as this pile ready to be picked up on Sidney St. Quinte Sanitation Services collectors will be working extra hard this week and next to dispose of the debris.

Slow Learners to Benefit From Project Help Scheme

Federal funds have materialized the inspiration of a city couple into a working reality to assist young Bellevillians with learning disabilities.

Lyle and Mary Sutherland hardly got a fifth of the funding they requested for their Project Help.

But, they feel no chagrin. The $28,000 Local Initiatives Program grant their idea won from federal officials must be the start of a future, broader program throughout Hastings County, they say.

And, anyway, says Mr. Sutherland, principal of S.S. Mackenzie Bowell public school, the reduced LIP grant is closer to the original conception of Project Help.

Preempting the idea is a problem which has been bothering him some time as an educator: It's impossible for a teacher with a classroom of students to find time for the extra attention often needed by youngsters with learning impediments. School boards are handicapped in meeting the combined needs of tight budgets.

Parn - professionals with various job disciplines — including community college child education graduates, nursery school teachers, people with varied skills benefiting youngsters — could provide such individual attention without disturbing classroom schedules, he believed.

But how to finance such a project was the poser — until the Sutherlands read newspaper reports on LIP.

Mrs. Sutherland last year also had some working experience with the federal program — designed to match unemployed people with community benefit. When the couple moved up north Hastings from Montreal, Mrs. Sutherland — a former child-care teacher in Quebec social agency — helped with a Bancroft nursery school funded by LIP cash.

Within the LIP framework, really seemed a reasonable prospect. The county school administration backed it providing "fantastic co-operation," Canada Manpower, which processes LIP submissions on a local level, was also enthusiastic.

So much so, say the Sutherlands, it was suggested they expand their original project outside Belleville to include all schools in the county.

Manpower's Belleville centre had more than 100 qualified personnel registered "literally crying for work — and there is a need county-wide for this kind of undertaking," says Mrs. Sutherland.

So, the final submission outlined an ambitious program that would have hired 47 people and cost $122,000. The $28,000 approved by LIP officials will create 10 jobs. As a result, Project Help contracts to its originators' initial plan — to operate in a cluster of city public schools. They are in the Centennial Secondary School associated school group and number about 30.

But there are other schools that also should receive some attention, believes Mrs. Sutherland, now project supervisor.

She sees the reduced grant as "a starting point" and is "thankful we got it — period."

Her teacher husband has the same reaction: "We're going to have to take it as a pilot project — something on which to make a strong recommendation for the future."

A Belleville Hurrah!

This was how Bellevillians last saw Lester Pearson close up — the congenial campaigner. The time was 1965, the former prime minister's final election bid saw him address 2,000 at city hall in one of the last meetings before voters gave him a second mandate as national leader.

City's Condolences Go to Pearsons

A city hall telegram extending the sympathy of Bellevillians on the death of Lester Pearson was sent the former prime minister's family today.

The condolence was drafted by Mayor Russell Scott who credited Mr. Pearson as the man who "put Canada on the map of the modern world."

Similar tributes came from Belleville - area personalities who had personally known Mr. Pearson in public life — a career that ended with his death in Ottawa late last night.

Bellevillians came in contact with Mr. Pearson during the political campaigning phase of his lengthy public service.

He last visited the city on Nov. 6, 1965 — one of his last stops on the election tour that resulted the Liberal leader to his second successive term as prime minister.

That day, a crowd of more than 2,000 jammed Front St. in front of city hall. Something new — now commonplace — in such public events was then raising an ugly head for the first time: Threats of violence.

Mr. Pearson arrived in Belleville after a bomb scare in Montreal and a threat on his life in Fredericton — incidents which evoked heavy security precautions.

Yet the crowd went unnoticed as the typical warmth of the Pearson personality projected itself. At one point he even admonished hard-pressed police as they moved in against excited youngsters trying to reach him.

His congeniality, combined with his serious contributions to Canadian affairs, ranked high in the tributes paid to him today by those who had known him in various stages of his career.

Robert Temple, Liberal MP for South Hastings with the first Pearson government returned in 1963, recalled his former leader as "one of the most honorable, honest and capable people I've ever known. . . . During his tenure as prime minister, I think that more constructive legislation was passed than any other time I can think of."

Frank Follwell, who served as Liberal MP in South Hastings through 1949-1957, a time when Mr. Pearson was already a leading global diplomat and external affairs minister, said him "one of the greatest Canadians . . . one of the greatest foreign affairs ministers in our history". Mr. Pearson would be remembered for his dedication to Canadian identity and "getting a Canadian flag approved. . . ."

Lee Grills, former Conservative MP for South Hastings and Hastings, knew him during the crucial period from the late 1950s, when Mr. Pearson, new Liberal leader was reorganizing a party shattered by the Diefenbaker sweep, to eventually emerge as prime minister. He recalled Mr. Pearson as "very congenial, friendly" a statesman who made "Canada's mark in the world — and he will long be remembered for that."

Mayor Scott said Mr. Pearson was "better known throughout the world than any Canadian ever was. He put the country on the map . . . and made it a nation in which world respect and world recognition."

Police Car Catches Fire

Police work can be hot and heavy.

A constable returning from patrol duty Wednesday afternoon parked his car in the provincial police parking lot on North Front St. Moments later he notices smoke pouring from under the hood of his 1972 Ford.

The officer grabbed a portable fire extinguisher and rushed to put out the fire. The Belleville Fire Department was also notified but the flames were out by the time they arrived.

The fire apparently started around the battery. Only damage was to the wiring.

$52,000 in Grants Announced

Bay Ice Not Safe

Two youngsters out for a stroll on the Bay of Quinte Wednesday afternoon caused a stir among Belleville safety authorities.

Firefighters from the Belleville Fire Department, along with officers from the city and provincial police, rushed to the waterfront when the boys, both in their mid-teens, were spotted heading for the Bay Bridge.

Police used a siren to get the boys' attention before deputy fire chief Robert Emerson hailed them on a loudspeaker.

Mr. Emerson said the two, Leo Casselman of 190 Dundas St. East and Bruce Goodall of 34 Charlotte St., had become scared on the ice and did not know where to come in. They were guided to shore behind the Four Seasons Hotel.

Police chief Douglas Crosbie has issued a warning to stay off the ice. The boys reported seeing several cracks, probably due to underwater currents and the lack of a prolonged cold spell this winter.

Belleville district United Community Services has produced one of two imaginative community programs which have qualified for federal Local Initiatives Program grants totalling $52,000.

The UCS grant of $24,200 will create eight jobs in a leadership development project involving voluntary community services.

The funds will help propagate the spirit of voluntary involvement in community service, says UCS director Isidore Cooperman.

A grant of almost $28,000 goes to Project Help — a program initiated by a Belleville couple to assist children with learning disabilities in city-area schools. It will create 10 jobs.

Approval of both projects — which meet LIP guidelines of providing work while benefiting the community at large — was confirmed yesterday by Jack Ellis, MP Hastings.

Grants requested in both submissions were reduced on final approval.

Project Help originally had applied for $122,000 for a staff of 47 people to work in Hastings County schools.

The UCS grant, less ambitious in its request for federal cash, nonetheless was trimmed down from an initial request for $38,000 to make 13 jobs.

With the cash, the UCS will create a task force to sek out and list all possible opportunities for, community service and individuals with the personal qualities of leadership. Both projects would, then be contacted. The individuals will be trained in leadership and their numbers matched to the service opportunities revealed by the search team.

People of all age groups and backgrounds will be involved. Community service leaders will be sought in the high schools, among senior citizens, says Mr. Cooperman.

Specifically, there is a serious need to involve more elderly people in such undertakings, he says.

"This business of retirement is one of the most serious we have in community living. It's our feeling there are many people retired who have a lot of time on their hands and are absolutely unprepared for it."

The success of the LIP-funded project would broaden the scope of voluntary service in the community, he indicates. Such an approach fills a lack that otherwise could result in more — and costlier — governmenin undertakings.

"If we lose the spirit of the volunteer doing community service, the government would have to do 10 times as much," says the UCS director.

The idea is not to lose the value of the individual who has something to offer."

Project Goes Through

Mary and Lyle Sutherland get good word from Jack Ellis, (left), MP Hastings, that $28,000 Local Initiatives Program grant has been approved for their Project Help. The scheme involves assisting school children with learning disabilities.

Post Office Complex Opponents Battle On

TRENTON — Opponents of the development of Trenton's former post office site for a combined municipal office - parking garage complex have not hung up their battle swords as town council learned at its final session of 1972 Wednesday night.

Contractor On the Job

TRENTON (Staff) — Despite the threat of a possible appeal of the Ontario Municipal Board's approval of construction of a combined municipal office - parking garage complex in downtown Trenton workmen at 9 a.m. today began breaking ground.

Trenton council learned opponents to the project are prepared to go before the Ontario Court of Appeal with either section 95 of the Municipal Act or the Judicial Review Procedure Act.

A contract was signed by the retiring council on Wednesday, Dec. 20 with the Trenton construction firm Mirron-Wiggers Ltd. for construction of the complex, estimated to cost $380,000.

Those prepared to appeal the decision learned that any action taken on construction would be deemed premature and liable to be set aside.

A letter from former town councillor and Trenton lawyer, as well as a dispute over Councillor George Brown not being able to attend a special session of council last Wednesday for the signing of a construction contract.

Councillor M. "Ted" Parker referred to the Lange letter as a "last minute trap" of those in opposition and said council was "wasting time this evening" discussing the merits of the case.

Town clerk O. W. Larry, answering a question from Mayor Duncan McDonald, said the contract with Mirron-Wiggers Construction to begin groundwork this week, was signed "in good faith" and if work were to halt, legal action for costs incurred, could be taken against the town.

Councillor Tripp said that Lange and associates, if they start action, should be left.

Councillor Asiz, the only member not to receive a standing ovation, referred to the matter as a "railroading".

Although it was not based on any legal opinion, many at council felt a reversal of the OMB decision could come only from the Ontario Cabinet.

The town, soon to be in the hands of an almost entirely new council, must wait to see what action will be taken by those opposed to the project.

Judge Asks More Data for Recount

Belleville resident Clarence Young, who earlier this month questioned the accuracy of vote totals in the December 4 municipal election, will have until Thursday, Jan. 4, to file any additional affidavits he feels necessary to establish his right to an official recount.

This was the decision this morning of Lennox and Addington County Judge Gerald F. Smith of Napanee, who heard Mr. Young's application in the judge's chambers at the county of Hastings administration building in Belleville.

In adjourning the hearing, Judge Smith gave Mr. Young until 12 noon Jan. 4 to file any additional, affidavits he considers necessary to ordered the court clerk to accept Mr. Young's $100 deposit.

Judge Smith ruled the matter could be brought before him again on two days' written notice.

Mr. Young based his application for a recount of the December 4 municipal vote on alleged discrepancies between the original totals announced the night of the election and the revised totals declared on Dec. 7.

In the initial totals given out at city hall, Stu Meeks and Alderman E.A. Orr headed the polls in the Dec. 7 totals, Mr. Meeks was dropped to fourth and Mr. Orr to fifth. Alderman Orr dropped from second to sixth place in the 15-seat aldermanic race. Mr. Meeks dropped about 1,500 votes as a result of the second count, while Mr. Orr dropped about 900 votes.

Three other aldermanic candidates, George Segoura, George Murray and Alex Marajuris, who lost out in their bids for election also had their vote totals reduced by final tabulations released from city hall.

City Clerk Adam Stalker blamed the missing votes on a speed and pressure of election night tabulation and suggested the error might have occurred as a result of failure to clear adding machine totals.

In his filed affidavit Mr. Young said the discrepancy was a serious one and said it appeared there was some error in the procedure for counting the votes.

Liquor Vote Recount Set

NAPANEE — Residents of this town will have to wait until some time in February to learn whether or not they will be able to buy liquor in a lounge.

Lennox and Addington County Judge Gerald Smith has announced that a recount of votes on the liquor referendum held during the municipal election Dec. 4 will take place Feb. 19 at the county court house.

The recount was requested by Richelieu Hotel owner Gordon Hutchison in his also president of the Napanee and District Hotel Association. He originally asked town council to include two liquor questions on the municipal ballot.

The right to sell liquor by the measure in licensed dining lounge with meals was won by a 62 per cent yes vote.

The right to sell liquor in a lounge was also won by a 62 per cent of the voters were in favor. A 60 per cent vote is required to carry a liquor referendum. As few as six votes picked up in a recount could swing the question to the 60 per cent required to make sale of liquor in a lounge legal.

Mr. Hutchison has charged that many of the people counting ballots at the polling stations were confused over what constituted a spoiled ballot. As a result, he said, some unspoiled ballots were uncounted.

Napanee last voted on a liquor referendum and defeated both questions in 1968. The town has four hotels, none licensed to serve liquor.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, DEC. 29

Aries (March 21-April 19): This is the last day of the year for technical financial changes, time for final planned adjustment, closing of accounts, etc.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Clear the decks wherever you can. Don't be surprised at finding something you've overlooked that has to be caught in haste.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Claim what is yours if you've ever going to. The word you get in response may be worth a hundred at some other time.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): It's a lucky sort of day, in which you attract the sort of experience you merit. There's credit from an old hindrance.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Co-operation is available on all sides, the likely predicament being that the day is too short for all the visits you'd like to make.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Home and property tend to bring added income. Your long-term diligence pays off in intangibles as well as useful material fact.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Comes now the moment of truth: You are at whatever level you have earned, and you owe it to yourself to begin broader planning.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are apt to be burdened with knowledge you'd just as soon not have. Your friends have much to say on all subjects.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get out of public view. Your connections come up with interesting possibilities for distinct profit and entertainment.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Second thoughts are the order of the day, with various bits of information arriving late or just now being recognized.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Get out and go, seek assistance from official sources, arbiters, experts. You can evaluate later what you've gathered early.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): This seems to be a day for important contacts, even familiar portant contacts, even familiar story have a new thought to offer.

'Power for People' Advocate Retiring

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Gordon Merritt Shrum, a dedicated dam builder who advocated a different kind of "power to the people," retires Sunday as chairman of the provincially owned British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority.

Dr. Shrum, 76, has spent 11 years at the helm of the huge power corporation, organizing the construction of massive projects such as the Columbia and Peace River developments, walking a tightrope over a hotbed of politicians, environmentalists and other critics.

But he was his own man and quarrelled frequently and loudly with Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his Social Credit administration, as well as his co-chairman, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, who preceded him into retirement in 1969 after sharing the top job at hydro with Dr. Shrum for 10 years.

The victory of the New Democratic Party over Social Credit in the Aug. 30 B.C. election made Dr. Shrum's retirement inevitable. The New Democrats have already named his successor—David Cass-Beggs, chairman of Manitoba Hydro.

Dr. Shrum says he has no complaints and he's even turned down the generous severance allowance offered him by Premier Dave Barrett.

"I think I have been good to me—I didn't want squirting to do with severance pay."

Instead, he'll get by on a pension from the University of B.C., where he taught prior to joining hydro.

The Premier Bennett tabbed him in 1961 to run the newly-expropriated B.C. Hydro, which by that time was mired in court actions and financially unable to move into the big leagues of hydro-electric power generation.

Mr. Bennett was looking for a man capable of implementing his visions of massive power projects, and Dr. Shrum's first task was to get the 5750 million Peace River project off the ground.

"When Bennett appointed me, I walked in and said to the staff: 'Whatever it is you are doing, just keep doing it and I'll try to catch up.' In some cases I never did," he said.

Just 30 days after he moved into his new office, he worked colors and the finishing thong Tom's leather thongs and sa

Opening lead—two of spades.

To be a successful declarer, one must make assumptions during the play. Often these assumptions are based more on hope than on probability since there is not much point in playing a hand on the basis that the cards are divided so that you cannot make the contract.

Here is a sample of the theory at work. Let's say you're in four hearts and West leads a low spade. East wins with the ace and returns the nine, your jack losing to the king. Back comes a spade, which you ruff, and the question is how to play the hand.

Ordinarily, you would lead a heart to the king and finesse the jack on the way back, but this would be the wrong play to make here.

It is right to lead a heart to the king, but it is wrong to finesse the jack. Instead, you should go up with the ace. As the cards lie, this unaccustomed play succeeds beautifully because the ace catches the queen and East later shows up with the ace of clubs — but how in the world are you supposed to know that playing for the drop is better than playing for the finesse?

The answer is that you have no chance for the contract unless East has the ace of clubs and, once you make this assumption, you cannot also play East for the queen of hearts.

It is conceivable that East would have passed third hand holding the A-Q-10-9-5 of spades and the ace of clubs, but it is inconceivable that he would have passed had he also held the queen of hearts. It is therefore proper to assume that West has the queen and on that basis reject the finesse as a hopeless gesture.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

More Work For Moore

Mike Carp of the St. Michael's Buzzers slides into Bobcat goalie Bob Moore in Wednesday's Metro Junior B hockey contest at the Belleville Memorial Arena. Belleville defencemen David Flesch and Tim Yohn watch the action along with Sam Taggerta of St. Michael's. The Bobcats won the game 8-5.

Midgets Two-for-Three at Orillia

Belleville's Blake Kerr Impegial midgets lost their first-round hockey match against North Bay 4-2 Tuesday, but won both of Wednesday's games in the "B" championship series at the Orillia Invitational Midget Hockey Tournament.

The Imperial's are in the tourney without backup goalie Don Thompson as his playing card wasn't approved by OMHA officials in Toronto, according to Blake Kerr's manager Jerry Murphy. Jeff Merrill is goaltending for the Belleville team.

Murphy said that otherwise the players are in good shape having suffered only minor injuries during their three games.

After their North Bay confrontation in which Gary Thompson and Eric Powell netted Belleville's only two goals the Imperials met Ajax midgets Wednesday morning.

The Belleville team captured their first victory with a 7-5 scoreboard matchup. Powell netted two goals against Ajax while teammates Mike Crawford, Peter Crawford, Wayne Clapp, Mark Foster and John Murphy each added single tallies.

In the Imperial's Wednesday afternoon game against Orillia, the Belleville midgets jumped to a three-goal lead and to edge the home team 3-2. Steve Kirby beat Orillia goalie Danny Danyluk between the pads to add a scoreboard marker to John Murphy's and Roger Chapman tallies.

Trenton Team Holds Reunion

Trenton's 1969-70 all-Ontario juvenile finalists will be re-united this Sunday.

The former Junior Ranks stars will play an exhibition game against the Trenton Selects. Offensive stars of that team included brothers Ted and Terry Brown, along with linemate Ken Danyluchuk. Another standout was Bill Cormier, who performed last season with the Belleville Bobcats' Junine B team.

Game time will be 12 noon at the Trenton Memorial Arena.

Saints Unbeaten At Queen's

The Quinte Saints marched unbeaten through the first day of competition in the Queen's Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The Saints defeated three high school opponents to remain, with RCVI of Kingston, as the only undefeated teams in the competition. The two teams were slated to meet this morning with the winners advancing to the tournament final and the losers dropping into the "B" section of the double elimination tourney.

Quinte opened with 48-22 win over Cornwall and followed with a 43-28 victory over York Mills before edging Kingston's LaSalle by a 44-38 margin in their third game Monday.

The final game is slated for 4 p.m. today at the Queen's University athletic complex.

Buzzers Pay Price For Jr. B Penalties

The Belleville Bobcats won their Metro Junior "B" hockey game 8-3 Wednesday night, but not without the unwilling help of their opponents, Toronto St. Michael's Buzzers.

The last place Toronto club spent most of the second period in the penalty box allowing the Bobcats a man advantage through the latter part of the frame.

The Bobcats did not shy away from the power play allsatlies as Ron Foster flipped the puck by alternate goalie Mike Brown's glove side as Neil Turner screened the Buzzer netminder.

St. Mike's defenseman Paul Richard was sitting in the penalty box under a five minute fighting penalty along with Bobcats' sparring partner Mike Watt. Richard also received a match penalty as knocked down and injured a linesman during the altercation before the Toronto net.

Just as the Watt - Richard contest began, Mark Coates took an assist from juvenile call-up Jim Richardson to put the puck past starting goalie Paul Ronan for the Bobcats' 4-3 go-ahead goal. Richardson scored Belleville's other second frame power play goal as he drove the puck into the corner of the St. Mike's net from point. Tim Yohn, who saw duty on the Bobcats' penalty killing team, earned his third of a game total of four assists on Richardson's tally.

The major disturbance of the game, however, took place between Belleville winger Paul Lavender and Buzzer goalie Paul Ronan. Lavender man oeuvred into position in front of the Toronto net where defenseman Mike Murray started to dislodge him. Ronan took over for his defenseman with a fighting penalty and a game misconduct as a result. Lavender earned roughing and fighting penalties for his efforts.

Alternate goalie Brown was brought in to finish the remainder of the game, but was unable to keep out all 25 of Belleville's third period shots. Richardson married his second on the scoreboard while Cat defenseman Dave Flesch tallied with a Coates' assisted drive from point.

First period goalgetters for the fourth place Bobcats were Watt, and Cousins who evened up the score on earlier goals by Buzzers' Sam Taggerta and Greg Croke. Lavender tallied another to balance Mike Carp's marking and end the period 3-3. Croke and Carp added another goal apiece in the third period.

Bobcat coach Moe Hunter attributed the victory to "an all-round team effort," but singled out Peter Semke, Richardson, and Ken Holmes as having "skated well for us tonight." The coach accounting for the goals by the Toronto team did add that "the defense were rushing too much, and were losing the puck to them.

"We're still playing the puck too much," said Hunter, "but we're getting better at taking the man out."

Jauch Gets Extension As Edmonton Coach

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos Wednesday gave three years to build a "complete" Western Football Conference team.

"We made major strides in 1972, but we still have a long way to go," Jauch told a news conference after the Eskimos announced they had ripped up his existing three-year contract—which still had a year to run—and replaced it with a new three-year pact. No salary figures were disclosed.

The Eskimos won 10 of 16 games in 1972—the first time since 1961 they have won that many games—and finished second in the WFC to Winnipeg Blue Bombers. They lost to Saskatchewan in a sudden-death semi-final.

Jauch, who will be 35 in February, is the youngest head coach in the Canadian Football League. He assumed his position in 1969 after four years as an Edmonton assistant and was the CFL's coach-of-the-year award in his first season. He will be led the Eskimos in the playoffs with a seven-game winning streak.

Jauch began his coaching career with the Junior Rods in Winnipeg in 1962, the year after his playing career was ended by a leg injury. He was a coach at Iowa University for two years and joined the Eskimos in 1965.

In his playing days, Jauch, a native of Mendota, Ill., was a halfback for Iowa University and Winnipeg.

Jauch announced he has rehired the three assistant coaches he credits with patching up the Eskimos through an injury-filled 1972 campaign—Babe Caccia, Vic Rapp and Urban Bowman.

Caccia is the Eskimos' line co-ordinator. Rapp is in charge of the offensive unit and Bowman handles the defensive contingent.

Terriers Beat Sweden 8-4

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Orillia Terriers scored four goals in the first period, two by left winger Gerrie Vaughan, and went on to defeat Timra of Sweden 8-4 in an international exhibition hockey game Wednesday night.

The Terriers, second in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, outshot Timra 46-25 before 2,304 fans.

It was the first game in Canada for Timra, which is taking part in a 15-game tournament with two other European clubs—Moscow and Czechoslovakia—and three Senior OHA teams.

The Terriers outshot Timra IV-3 in the first period and out-scored the visitors 4-1. Orillia led 6-3 at the end of the second.

Grant Moore, Ron Clarke, Terry O'Brien, Mike Draper, Claire Alexander and Henry Monteith got the other Orillia goals. Alex Soderberg, with two, and Olle Ahman and Hakn Pettersson were the Swedish marksmen.

Referee Blair Graham of Toronto called 16 minor penalties, 11 to Orillia. Sweden scored two power-play goals and Orillia one.

The tournament, which ends Dec. 3, resumes tonight in Galt, with Prague taking on Galt and Moscow Selects play a 3 game in the tournament Friday night against Kingston Aces.

Schoenfield Injured

BUFFALO (CP) — Jim Schoenfeld, Buffalo Sabres' outstanding rookie, is under doctor's observation Wednesday with a mild concussion.

The rugged Schoenfeld sustained the injury at Los Angeles last Saturday when, according to team officials, he struck his head on the boards during a National Hockey League game with the Kings.

The first-year defenceman is believed to have suffered the injury while scrapping with the Kings' Dan Maloney.

The Kings won the game 2-0.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Player-coach Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets, the former National Hockey League star who jumped to the World Hockey Association this season, was named unanimously today to the West Division's starting lineup for the WHA All-Star game Jan. 6 at Quebec City.

BOBBY HULL

Defencemen Larry Hornung of Winnipeg and Bart Crashley of Los Angeles Sharks also were selected unanimously to the starting team in balloting by the league's players, it was announced by WHA president Gary L. Davidson.

Teaming with Hull on the starting forward line will be centre Christian Bordeleau of Winnipeg and right wing Wayne Connelly of Minnesota Fighting Saints. Ernie Wakely of Winnipeg was chosen the starting goalie, giving the first-place Jets four players in the West's opening lineup for its game against the best from the East.

Alberta's fifth-place Oilers placed four players on the second team, including goaltender Jack Norris, defenceman Allan Hamilton, centre Jim Harrison and right wing Bob Wall. Completing the second team were defencemen Gerry Odrowski of Los Angeles and left wing Norm Beaudin of Winnipeg.

Others named to the squad were goalie Mike Curran of Minnesota, defencemen Terry Ball of Minnesota and Ron Anderson of Chicago Cougars, centres Gordon Labossiere of Houston Aeros and Ted Hampson of Minnesota, right wingers Gary Veneruzzo and Mike Byers of Los Angeles, and left wingers Ted Taylor of Houston and Jan Popiel of Chicago.

Nick Mickoski, Hull's assistant at Winnipeg, will coach the West team.

Bruins, Stars Gain Ground

By LLOYD JOHNSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins and Minnesota North Stars continued their relentless pursuit of the leaders in the Eastern and Western Divisions of the National Hockey League Wednesday night.

The Bruins, 3-1 winners over the stubborn Atlanta Flames, and the North Stars, who trimmed over Montreal Canadiens 3-2, were doubly rewarded.

Boston moved to within a single point of the eastern leaders, while Minnesota is three points behind the Hawks, who lost 5-3 to St. Louis Blues in the west.

In other matches, Buffalo Sabres closed to within two points of third-place New York Rangers in the east by defeating the Rangers 4-1, Pittsburgh Penguins moved into a fifth-place tie with Atlanta in the west by tying Toronto Maple Leafs 3-3, Los Angeles Kings defeated New York Islanders 4-1 and California Golden Seals held Philadelphia Flyers to a 2-2 tie.

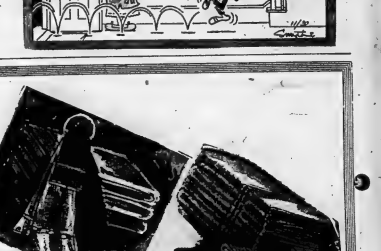
The Leafs emerged 19 points off fourth and last playoff position now occupied by the Sabres.

The Bruins wrapped up their victory with three second-period goals by Wayne Cashman, Fred Stanfield and Johnny Bucyk. Curt Bennett ruined a shutout bid by Boston goalie John Adams with a goal midway through the third period before a capacity crowd of 15,078 at the Omni in Atlanta.

Centre Gary Unger scored two goals—his 17th and 18th of the season—and earned three assists to power the Blues to victory over Chicago.

Unger set up Mike Murphy for a pair of goals and Jack Egers for one. He made a brilliant rink-length rush in the second period for the winning goal. Jim Pappin, Chico Maki and Dan Maloney were the Chicago goal-getters.

The Sabres posted their third win in as many starts this season against the Rangers. They got off to a fast start on first-period goals by Rene Robert and Jim Lorentz. Buffalo went ahead 4-0 in the second as Don Luce and Gil Perreault connected.



Buffalo goalie Dave Dryden blocked 32 shots, but lost his shutout at 14:39 of the third, when Bruce MacGregor scored for New York.

The defeat in Minnesota snapped a six-game unbeaten streak for Montreal and extended Minnesota's undefeated string on home ice to 13 games.

Danny Grant put North Stars ahead in the first period and Barrie Gibbs converted Dennis Hextall's pass for a 2-0 lead. Guy Lafleur cut the margin in the second but veteran Dean Prentice beat Canadiens' goalie Ken Dryden with a 40 foot shot to restore Minnesota's two-goal edge at 3:28 of the third.

Frank Mahovlich's goal, with 3½ minutes remaining put Montreal within reach again and coach Scotty Bowman removed Dryden from the net with 52 seconds left in favor of a sixth attacker.

But Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago held his ground with the help of sound work by his defencemen to preserve the victory. Maniago was struck on his face mask by a hard shot by Montreal forward Yvan Cournoyer, but shook off the blow.

Canada vs Italy

TORONTO (CP) — An all-star team from the city's Canadian-Italian Hockey League has been given permission for an exhibition tour of Germany and Italy in January.

The team, which leaves Jan. 4, has received approval from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the International Ice Hockey Federation, Leo Jancevik, president of the league, said Wednesday.

A similar team in 1966 did not receive the sanctions of the CAHA and IIHF. The Canadian team played four games in Italy that trip, winning three and holding the Italian national club to a 3-3 tie.

This year the Canadian-Italian all-stars will play three games at Lahr, West Germany, against Canadian Forces teams and four games in Italy.

Accompanying the players will be coach Lou Fontinato, a former National Hockey League star with New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens, and Toronto alderman Joe Piccinni.

The league lineup has been bolstered by Joe and John Cecchini of Timmins and Don Pagnutti, Albert Bertuzzi and Paul Tazo of Sudbury.

The schedule calls for games at Lahr Jan. 5, 6 and 7 followed by games at Merano, Jan. 11; Bolzano, Jan. 13; Ortesi, Jan. 15 and Brunico Jan. 17.

They will play another game in West Germany Jan. 21 before returning home.

Mays Set for One More Year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Home run the holding, old-fielder Willie Mays of New York Mets says he's "sure I have it in me to play at least one more year."

Mays, now 41, will start his 21st major league baseball season when spring training begins.

Since San Francisco Giants traded him to the Mets last May, he has spent only a few weeks at his 18-room house in Atherton, an affluent suburb.

3 WAYS TO GET RID OF FAT

Most doctors agree that to lose weight and not regain it, diet alone is not the answer. In the January issue of Reader's Digest, you'll read the divergent views of three doctors. A pediatrician states the case for diet plus exercise programs. A heart specialist suggests that in many cases, exercise alone can conquer obesity. And a psychiatrist describes an effective new method called behavioral therapy. To decide on the approach that will work best for you, read THREE WAYS TO GET RID OF FAT — one of 35 articles and features in the January Reader's Digest. CP News Roundup

Stranded Pilot Stamped Greeting

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont. (CP) — Gary Prouty didn't lose his Christmas spirit even though he was stranded with an expectant mother on a remote lake in northwestern Ontario for three days.

The 23-year-old pilot made an emergency landing Christmas Eve when a cylinder in his Norseman bush plane blew out at 3,500 feet.

When he and Elizabeth Anderson, 20, of Kasabonika were found Wednesday their rescuers were greeted with two messages which Gary stamped out with snowshoes beside the aircraft.

They read: Merry Christmas and May Day.

"We were about five miles out of Pickle Lake when the cylinder blew," he said after eating some poached eggs and bacon. "Oil splattered on the windshield and caught fire but I was able to get it out by putting the nose down.

"I made four spirals over Ochig Lake and parked the plane in the middle of the lake where somebody could see it."

He said it was pretty hectic at first because it got dark 45 minutes after they landed.

"I set up camp under a big spruce and we didn't eat until the next day. Elizabeth was scared at first but she got better on the second day."

He said they had enough rations—chicken noodle soup, chocolate bars and tea—to last 35 to 40 days but the real worry was that the girl was expecting a child Jan. 8.

"We only had one sleeping bag so we took turns—each of us trying to grab about two hours sleep. It was well below zero that first night.

"I think I could have snowshoed to Pickle Lake but I didn't want to leave Elizabeth alone—not with her expecting so soon."

Another aircraft—a Cessna 180 owned by Bearskin Lake Airways of Big Trout Lake—also is missing since Christmas Eve.

The pilot, Robert Hastie, and his passenger, Blain Sparrow, both of Saskatoon, were on a route to Big Trout from Pickle Crow.

"When I took off from Pickle, they were just getting ready to leave," said Mr. Prouty. "In fact they helped me get off."

The search for the Cessna is being conducted by more than 30 aircraft, including several from air-sea rescue units in Trenton, Ont., and Winnipeg.

"I spent most of my time cutting wood," said Mr. Prouty. "I've never cut as much wood in all my life."

When he got back to Sioux Lookout he went straight to a restaurant for the poached eggs and then went home.

Goes Home

TORONTO (CP) — Marxist scholar Istvan Meszaros will return today to his family in Britain, and probably will drop an appeal against a deportation order, his lawyer said Wednesday.

The lawyer, Paul Copeland, said Prof. Meszaros decided to fly back to Britain after a telephone conversation Sunday with Immigration Minister Robert Andras which Prof. Meszaros described as "very friendly."

Study Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — The Economic Council of Canada has launched a study of the labor force to discover the causes and extent of unemployment in Canada, it was announced Wednesday.

"This study is necessary and urgent in the council's view, if policies to reduce Canada's unemployment are to be maintained and be effective," the council said in a news release.

Won't Buy Jet

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Premier William Davis has shelved plans to buy a $1.65-million jet aircraft for government use because of fear of a public outcry against frivolous spending.

The newspaper says Mr. Davis will continue to charter jets at $600 an hour when needed.

Many Drinking

TORONTO (CP) — Statistics released Wednesday show 31 per cent of drivers killed in Ontario traffic accidents in 1971 had been impaired by alcohol and another 15 per cent had been drinking.

Traffic fatalities increased 15 per cent over 1970. There were 1,709 deaths in 1,469 fatal collisions.

Grants Go Up

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will increase operating grants for its sheltered workshops Jan. 1, Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, said Wednesday.

Paid to Spy

TORONTO (CP) — William John Beattie, once leader of the Canadian Nazi party, said Wednesday provincial police turned him into a paid informer, spying on ultra-right wing groups in Ontario.

Mr. Beattie, who once was jailed for placing swastika emblems on the horses of Jews living in Metropolitan Toronto, said in an interview that he has publicly renounced his Nazi leanings and wants to lead a normal life, but the provincial police "won't let me."

A provincial police spokesman said Mr. Beattie was a "volunteer informant and was paid $15 a week toward his room and board in Toronto for the past four or five weeks." The spokesman added that Mr. Beattie had since quit and no longer was being paid.

Appeal Lost

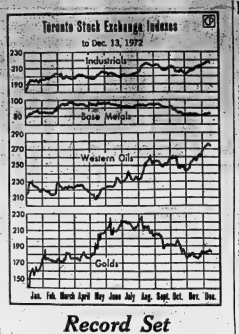
TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal upheld Wednesday a conviction against two Toronto men found guilty of tapping a union's telephone line in October, 1971.

Barry Chapman, 34, a Metropolitan Toronto police officer at the time and Richard Grange, 28, president of Canadian Driver Pool Ltd., were fined $500 each when convicted last March of conspiring to effect an unlawful purpose by tapping a telephone line.

Bad Luck

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — When bad luck strikes the Christianson family, it's Barrie, it strikes in bunches.

William Christianson, 41, suffered a severe heart attack Dec. 17 while on his way to a university extension course in Orillia.



While driving to visit her husband Dec. 20, Mrs. Christianson collided with a parked car and had to be treated in hospital.

Then on Dec. 26, the taxi carrying Mrs. Christianson and her son home from the hospital after visiting Mr. Christianson collided with two other cars. Mrs. Christianson was returned to hospital for treatment of a pinched leg nerve.

Strike Looms

TORONTO (CP) — A slim majority of employees have rejected a food chain store's offer that might have ended a six-week strike by 225 workers at the firm's warehousing operations here.

Hugh Buchanan, director of the Ontario section of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees Union, said Wednesday the offer by Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. was a take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum. It was made during a mediation session last week.

Record Set

The Toronto markets industrial index, considered a major indicator of market trends, rose to a record close in December after recovering from a slump in late October. The western oil index was also up sharply for the year while gold recorded moderate gains and base metals remained about even with the previous year's close. (CP Newsmap)

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Toronto stock market were moderately higher in light mid-morning trading today.

The industrial index, considered a major indicator of market trends, was up .48 to 219.84, golds .12 to 187.28, base metals .23 to 88.61 and western oils .56 to 271.73.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 513,000 shares compared with 2.1 million Wednesday when there was heavy trading in shares and rights of Ram Pete following an open market distribution.

The New York market was closed today following the death of former president Harry S Truman.

At Toronto, beverage, trust and loan, food processing and communication stocks were among sectors of the market recording gains while merchandising, oil refining, steel and utility issues were lower.

Advances outnumbered declines 115 to 78 while 179 issues remained unchanged.

Democrats Urge Anti-war Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — A country-wide campaign to mobilize public opposition in the United States to the bombing of North Vietnam was urged today by 18 Democratic members of the House of Representatives.

They sent a letter to Robert Strauss, newly-elected chairman of the Democratic party, asking him to convene a special session of the party's national committee to organize the campaign.

The group also wants the Democratic caucus in the House to go on record against the bombing and in favor of a peace treaty between the U.S. and North Vietnam when the caucus meets Tuesday before the opening of the new Congress.

In another development, Senator William Saxbe renounced his support of President Nixon's Vietnam war policies, saying the president "appears to have lost his senses."

The Ohio Republican said in an interview with the Cleveland Plain Dealer that he now will support anti-war efforts in Congress because of the renewed bombing of North Vietnam.

Saxbe, a member of the Senate armed services committee, has supported Nixon's handling of the war for the last four years.

He said today the president's bombing order exhibited flagrance and irresponsibility."

Saxbe added: "I have followed President Nixon through all his convolutions and specious reasoning, but he appears to have lost his senses on this."

The 18 anti-war Democrats in the House sent a letter to Speaker Carl Albert, urging him to support their cause in the caucus.

Albert told a reporter Wednesday he favored post-opposing any anti-war action by Congress until it has had a chance to hear administration leaders explain the reasons for the breakdown of peace negotiations and the renewed heavy bombing of North Vietnam.

Albert's comment has stirred strong opposition among anti-war Democrats. Some of them are threatening to vote against him when he seeks reconsideration as Speaker at the Jan. 3 caucus.

A number of anti-war resolutions are being prepared for presentation to the caucus, ranging from expressions of disapproval of President Nixon's policies to demands that Congress cut off U.S. funds for the war.

The caucus is being held for the primary purpose of electing party officers and adopting rules for the 93rd Congress, which starts Wednesday.

Export Growth Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie predicts that stronger export markets and increased business spending will speed economic growth in 1973.

But, in his year-end review and outlook for the new year, he says Canada "will still be confronted with problems and uncertainties of challenging proportions."

The minister based his optimism mostly on prospects for higher spending by businessmen.

"After two years in which Canada has been moving up towards a more rapid tempo or business activity, the scene now appears set for a substantial advance in 1973," he said in the press release.

Business investment "has strengthened moderately" and the recovery is expected to gain in momentum during the year," though he said its contribution to growth in 1972 "has been comparatively modest."

Managua's Rebuilding Is Studied

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Experts began a study today of the feasibility of rebuilding earthquake-shattered Managua on its present site.

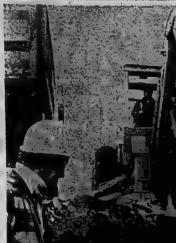
Teams of geologists and seismologists arrived from the United States Thursday as specialists from Mexico and Venezuela announced preliminary findings.

Demolition crews were still dynamiting and bulldozing in the downtown area next to Lake Managua, clearing it of damaged structures and the rubble of buildings and homes that were flattened in seconds by the severe quake early Saturday. An estimated 2,000 to 5,000 persons were killed and 20,000 seriously injured.

Although Managua has been hit twice in 40 years by murderous earthquakes, a group of Mexican experts led by Dr. Cinna Lomnitz reported to Nicaraguan authorities that there was no need to relocate their capital city.

"Most of the city is located on hard volcanic tuff—solid stuff," said Lomnitz, director of the department of seismology at the University of Mexico. "Its subsoil is somewhat like that of Mexico City, for instance."

Tuff is fragmentary volcanic rock.



He said the damage was so great because the epicentre of the quake was right underneath the city.

"It was like a direct hit by a bomb," he explained.

The Mexican experts suggested that the damaged area be turned into a park or "green zone."

An estimated 15,000 persons were still roaming the city centre despite its designation as an "emergency" or "contaminated" area and orders to evacuate it.

Shooting was heard Thursday as national guard patrols tried to drive off looters, but it appeared that mostly they were shooting over their heads.

Italy 'Insists' Raids Be Halted

ROME (Reuter) — The Italian government called on the United States today to stop the bombing of North Vietnam and resume peace negotiations.

A cabinet meeting instructed Foreign Minister Giuseppe Medici to "renew his insistence that the bombing stop, a government announcement said.

Fire Bombs Wreck Centres Of Small Towns

BELFAST (AP) — Bombs exploded on both sides of the border between Northern Ireland and the Irish republic Thursday night, killing two teen-agers and shattering the centre of two small towns in the republic.

Police said a 100-pound bomb hidden in a car with Northern Ireland licence plates exploded on the main street of Belturbet, about 75 miles northwest of Dublin and two miles from the border.

It killed Geraldine Reilly, 15, an apprentice hairdresser waiting at a cafe to buy fish and chips for her family, and Patrick Sarsey, 18, making a call in a phone booth. At least 14 cars were wrecked and 30 buildings damaged.

Another explosion occurred about 10 miles east of Clones, which Protestant terrorists claim is a base for Irish Republican Army raids across the border into Northern Ireland.

The blast knocked down telephone poles and blew in doors and windows within 100 yards, but nobody was hurt.

Hanoi Raids in Tenth Day

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command announced today the loss of four more planes, including another B-52, and 12 more flyers as the air blitz against the Hanoi-Haiphong area continued.

The command's announcement raised acknowledged American losses in the air attack to 27 aircraft and 93 airmen missing, killed or captured in less than two weeks. Fifteen of the downed planes were eight-jet B-52s.

The command maintained its blackout on other information concerning the raids and also refused to say whether there would be a repetition for New Year's of the 36-hour Christmas halt in air operations against North Vietnam.

The Viet Cong has declared a 24-hour ceasefire in South Viet-first week of the aerial campaign, but it has given no details on the raids this week. More than 1,400 strikes were flown by fighter-bombers and B-52 heavy bombers during the first week, the command said.

The news of the aircraft losses came as American planes bombed the northern heartland for the 10th day in raids the command said were "ongoing" despite some reports another bombing pause was imminent.

Reports from Hanoi said the attacks were intensifying.

From Hanoi, a Swedish embassy report to Stockholm said the capital area was hit Thursday by the heaviest bombardment yet.

A Soviet correspondent there said the bombing was turning Hanoi into a city of ruins.

Rain, Snow Expected

TORONTO (CP) — Freezing rain and snow are expected to sweep all of Ontario today as a storm in Colorado draws warm air from the southwest United States into contact with cold air over the province.

The weather office warned early today that the Metropolitan Toronto area may receive two to four inches of snow tonight mixed with freezing rain.

The snowfall east and north of Toronto is expected to exceed four inches before Saturday evening.

Weather

Synopsis: Temperatures dipped to 20 below in many northeastern Ontario localities overnight. Elsewhere the mild westerlies over the province recorded temperatures nearly 40 degrees warmer under a persistent cloud cover. A storm moving out of the Colorado Rockies by day will bring snow, rain and freezing rain, accompanied by strong winds, today and Saturday.

Police Protest Report Saying Most Corrupt

NEW YORK (Reuter) — A furious New York City police force cried foul today after an official report alleged that a sizable majority of the 30,000 men in uniform had indulged in corrupt practices.

The report, prepared by a commission headed by former Wall Street lawyer Whitman Knapp, alleged that high police officials ignored the corruption which ranged from lifting through dead men's pockets to acting as armed guards for dope dealers.

Mayor John V. Lindsay praised the report, even though it was highly critical of two of his former aides and the city council president, but the head of the association representing policemen denounced the document.

Robert McKiernan, president of the Policemen's Benevolent Association, called Knapp a "liar" and said his report was "a fairy tale concocted in a treehouse and told by thieves and fools."

Four Arab Terrorists Flown to Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — A special Thai Airways DC-8 jet liner carrying four Arab terrorists who seized the Israeli embassy in Bangkok and held six hostages for almost 19 hours landed at Cairo airport today amid heavy security precautions.

Also aboard the plane were eight Thai officials, including two cabinet ministers, who agreed to accompany the Palestinian Arabs in exchange for release of the Israelis.

Moustafa el Emawy, Egyptian ambassador to Thailand, who helped negotiate the release of the hostages, accompanied the prominent Thai officials.

The plane refuelled at Karachi and reached Cairo early this afternoon. The Egyptians made the plane land some distance from the terminal and told reporters they could not interview the terrorists.

A representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization said he did not know if the Egyptian government would turn over the terrorists to him.

The Arabs had vowed to die with their hostages if Israel did not release 36 Arab and Japanese terrorists it holds prisoner.

The Israeli government rejected the demand, maintaining its position that any concession to terrorism breeds more terrorism.

The Arabs gave up after negotiating all night.

Ruth Hadass, a hostage along with her husband, Nitzan, the embassy's first secretary, clutched a wine glass and danced as she shouted in Hebrew: "I didn't know it was so good to be alive."

Premier Golda Meir and the Israeli government expressed "deep admiration and gratitude to the government of Thailand" for its handling of the matter.

The four Arabs and the 36 terrorists whose release they sought were all members of Black September, the Palestinian Arab organization responsible for the slaying of 11 Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics and the massacre at Israel's international airport last May. It is financed by the oil-rich Libyan government.

The four Arabs invaded the Israeli embassy Thursday while the King of Thailand's only son, Prince Vajralongkorn, was being invested as crown prince at a ceremony in Parliament House. Two of the terrorists posed as diplomats returning from the ceremony in white tie and tails to get past the Thai guard at the embassy gate. The other two scaled the wall.

Armed with sub-machine-guns and grenades, the four entered the embassy building and took the six Israelis inside as hostages.

Mac Smith Named Dispute Negotiator

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Lambton County Board of Education announced Thursday night that a new negotiator has entered the contract dispute between the board and nearly 300 secondary school teachers who plan to resign Monday if their demands are not met.

He is Mac Smith of Belleville, a member of the Hastings County Board of Education. Mr. Smith, a member of the Ontario Trustees Council, was recommended as negotiator by Education Minister Thomas Wells.

Last-ditch negotiations in an attempt to avert a teacher walkout were to begin here this afternoon.

Talks broke down Dec. 19 when the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation and the board couldn't agree on salaries and a demand by teachers for non-monetary issues first.

The major issue is a teacher demand for a contract-guarantee committee to study the number of teachers to be hired by the board.

The board maintains this would encroach on its future requests by teachers to have a greater say in the number of teachers to be hired. Other issues are salaries and fringe benefits.

Clarence Wilkinson, chairman of the board, said nothing has changed in the dispute in which 677 of the board's 577 teachers have threatened to resign.

He outlined plans to open the schools to students on a voluntary basis Jan. 2, using about 300 volunteers including teachers who have not submitted their resignations.

He said an advertisement in a Toronto newspaper has resulted in 60 applications for teaching positions but not all of the applicants were qualified. None have been accepted.

The board has also advertised locally for volunteer teachers who will be paid $36 a day.

Children Prefer Parents to Toys

NEW YORK (AP) — Steven Caney lectured on the merit of the refrigerator carton at Harvard, developed his own article on the guilty parent syndrome and is the only father in the neighborhood who has kids knock on his door and ask, "May I come in and play with you?"

No modern day Pied Piper, Caney, 31, is a toy consultant, lecturer and designer of the Boston Children's Museum, who has discovered that in most instances children don't want toys, they want to play with their parents.

The father of three-year-old Noah and six-year-old Jennifer, Caney realized he was as much a part of the guilty parent syndrome as the next parent, always stopping at the airport to buy a toy so he wouldn't come home empty-handed.

A year ago, he stopped bringing home toys and announced, "I brought you me." Sometimes he spiced the surprise with presents of old bottle caps or other scraps from which he and the children could together construct toys.

Caney has discovered more than 200 foolproof toys that even the most unmechanical parents and children can make. He's put 32 of them into Steven Caney's Toy Book, published recently by Workman Publishing Co.

Caney believes more parents would try to make toys with their children but are afraid they will become instructions are difficult. He guarantees that his are foolproof.

Caney, who has developed the toys with 26 kids from his Cambridge, Mass., neighborhood, says there are not necessarily right or wrong ways for constructing his toys.

For example, one boat invented by 13-year-old Rick Gorkin is a milk carton cut on the diagonal to form two pontoons. A paper plate sliced in half is the sail. If the child puts the plate too far forward or too far back it doesn't matter, the boat still sails.

None of the toys required expensive materials.

A construction set requires only peas and toothpicks, and a soap bubble kit can be made from dishwashing detergent and water. The wand can be a straw cut in halves or, for the person who wants to make six bubbles at once, a plastic six-pack holder.

Caney says his all-time most successful toy and the one which he includes in the book's dedication is a refrigerator carton.

When he noticed delivery men taking away the carton that a new refrigerator came in, Caney stopped the amazed men and demanded his box. In the days to come the box became a school, a library, grocery store and fire engine.

Gold Price Buoys Hope Of Miners

BASIN, Mont. (AP) — The glitter of gold has been more in the eye than in the pocket of Delbert (Slap) Bullock in the last 10 years.

Working his own diggings, Bullock is one of a dying breed —a hard-rock miner. Now he figures that, after years of just getting by, his Crystal Mine is about to pay off.

Bullock is perhaps typical of hundreds of miners and prospectors throughout the American West who hold claims on mining properties that were abandoned years ago.

But, with the price of gold rising slowly, individual prospectors from New Mexico to Alaska and from California to South Dakota are becoming interested and, in some cases, are reopening long-closed mine shafts or pouring more money into existing small operations.

Gold now is bringing about $60 to $63 a troy ounce, far above the $35 price that the U.S. government fixed so long to maintain.

Although gold is the glamorous metal, others such as silver, lead and copper are the workhorses of most small mines and pay for the smelting.

Singing Posts Branching Out

PICTON (Staff) — Norman Post, leader of The Singing Post Family twanged his first tunes on a giftwrapped guitar and strummed to stardom in an Amelissburgh township Centennial talent contest.

The country and western musician who performs regularly with his daughters, Joanne, 19, Debbie, 15, and son Kenny, 18, learned to pay on his brother's guitar as a youngster. His music lessons began the moment his brother let the guitar out of sight and ended abruptly the moment he returned. Despite these interruptions Norman Post became a talented musician and vocalist.

The Singing Post Family debuted in 1967 in a township talent contest, winning first place. Their appearance led to invitations to entertain at a variety of local gatherings especially municipal banquets. The deputy reeve of Amelasburg for several years, Mr. Post and his family played and sang for many county events.

Eventually a cross country jamboree was organized and regular shows featuring The Post Family were staged throughout the Quinte area. Lead guitar for the group was Billie Walker of South Bay.

Today the Singing Post Family has recorded six albums on the Marathon label and Norman Post is swiftly establishing himself as a country and western song writer.

Last summer the Posts toured the Maritime provinces and appeared in eight shows with country and western star Gordie Tapp. The group also has travelled in western Canada and sings frequently in Toronto and Campbellford. The Singing Post Family is promoted through a Toronto agent, Bert Milford, who is a former resident of Picton.

Joanne Post this year performed in Wheeling, West Virginia. She has recently recorded her own album, It's a Lovely, Lovely World.

One of Norman Post's most popular compositions is a tune titled My Prince Edward County Home. This song of the county has been sung by the group on many tours and reflects the family's long and close connection with Prince Edward.

Mr. Post was born in Prince Edward County and his forefathers received part of the original land grant in Amelasburgh township. He has served on county council and for the past two years as chairman of the social services committee. The deputy reeve is retiring from municipal politics this month to devote more time to his musical career.

Terry Sprague, a Big Island man who acts as press agent for the Post Family, here is writing a biography of the group and emphasizes their showmanship. He said the Posts this month made an appearance at the Napanee Regional Detention Centre and added they perform each weekend at many centres in eastern Ontario.

On New Year's Eve they will entertain at the council hall at Tyendinaga Reserve. Last night the group performed their performances with a New Year's show at the Prince Edward County home for the aged.

Norman Post is employed as a stationary engineer at the Ontario School for the Deaf, His daughter, Debbie and his son Kenny both attend school while Joanne has already made singing a full-time career.

Vicki Arnold and Friend Boo Enjoy Daily Outing

Mallard Takes Over Pool

PICTON (Staff) — A Christmas guest at the Church St. residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Arnold yesterday made a big splash during an icy plunge in the outdoor pool.

Boo, a Mallard drake recuperating from a wing injury, has adopted the wading pool as a water therapy unit and paddles in it regularly.

The handsome wild duck was found by neighbors of the Arnolds after he had been injured and was unable to fly. He was given to the Picton family now nursing him back to health.

Boo has become the special responsibility of the Arnolds' teenaged daughter Vicki, who daily fills his pool and supervises his swims. The drake also has cultivated the friendship of Vicki's bay saddle mare Trinity and at night shares a stable with the horse. He is slowly regaining strength but still requires protective care especially in procuring food.

Boo waddles to his bath with loud quacks, as members of the Arnold family turn an outdoor faucet to fill the pool. When the duck is recovered he will be returned to his natural habitat.

Engineer Dies

County engineer for Lennox and Addington since 1954, Alexander Moffat died suddenly Wednesday in hospital at Napanee. He was 52.

An engineering graduate from Queen's University, Mr. Moffat was a member of the Association of Professional Engineers.

He is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Joyce and five children.

Aged Entertained

The Singing Post Family is making the holiday rounds. Last night they were at the Prince Edward County Home for the Aged. From the left: Kenny, Debbie, founder Norman Post and Joanne.

Driver Dies Of Injuries

PICTON (Staff) — A Desoronto man involved in a head-on collision on Highway 62 north of Lake Ontario Cement Plant Wednesday night, died yesterday afternoon in Kingston General Hospital.

Dead is Oron Oliver, 57, of 117 Main Street, Desoronto, driver of one of the vehicles. He had been rushed to hospital with chest and spinal injuries sustained in the crash.

Also in the hospital are Robert Byers, 61, of RR 2, Picton, suffered fractures of his jaw, ribs and ankle and is listed in fair condition in Kingston General Hospital. His wife, Eleanor was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital with a fractured wrist and broken leg.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said no decision concerning an inquest has been made as yet.

Income Tax Problems Get Long-distance Aid

Sorting through your income tax returns this year will be as easy as picking up your telephone, due to a new service announced Thursday by the Minister of National Revenue.

A Zenith telephone number will allow out - of - town residents to call at no charge, any one of the 28 tax offices across the country for information regarding problems in the return.

John Lennen, public relations officer for the Belleville office claimed this service would permit 67 per cent of the country's population to phone for help where in the past they would be paying long distance telephone charges.

The long distance callers for the Belleville office will be in the area of 80.4 per cent of the total of people serviced by the local branch.

Mr. Lennen said the service was not designed to allow clients to fill out the entire form over the telephone, but to sort out any spot problems.

The tax department is the first government office to institute the system.

The out - of - town caller contacts the operator, giving her the Zenith 0-4000 number. She will then place the call to the closest tax office, at no charge to the caller.

Local callers will still use the regular office telephone number, 962-8611.

Mr. Lennen said tax forms will be in the mail shortly, provided parliamentary approval comes for the new form this year. Deadline for completion will be April 30.

The income tax department suggests if each person reads the guide packed with the tax form, there should be no problems though the form looks larger this year.

Most people will not have to complete the entire form, said Mr. Lennen. If a client reads the guide, it will tell him what sections of the form are pertinent to him.

Trenton Bell Rates Are Due for A Boost

TRENTON — By the start of next week, Bell Telephone will be ringing up some extra dollars for its till as basic monthly telephone rate increases go into effect at the Trenton exchange.

The increase, ordered by the Canadian Transport Commission, will bring rates into line with those charged in other Bell exchanges carrying a similar number of customers.

Customers on a multi-party resident's service will be paying an additional 30 centsexcess a month.

Two-party residence service will jump 20 cents and private line customers will pay an extra 25 cents.

Reason for the hike, given by local Bell Canada manager Robert Carleton, rests with the increasing number of telephones on the Trenton exchange.

The present CTC-approved rate group structure bases rates on the total count of telephones that can be reached without a long distance charge. Rates are lowest in calling areas with 2,000 telephones or fewer. They are highest in those areas with more than 2.75 million phones.

Drinking Drivers Weekend Hazard

New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday this year but the Dominion Automobile Association still does not predict a decline in traffic deaths, one of which will involve drinking drivers.

Belleville licensed rooms and special function halls will both be open, with no mention made, nods of parties going on all night.

To combat party-goers who drink and drive, the DAA and the Canada Safety Council have joined forces with city drivers as possible.

All available personnel will be on patrol and taxi companies have called in as many drivers as possible.

Belleville police say New Year's here is generally more out than Christmas and they are hoping the trend continues.

Meanwhile, motorists who plan to drink are being urged to take taxis or let someone not drinking take the wheel. Those who are on the road should drive defensively, always being careful of the other driver who may have had one too many.

Lester B. Pearson

The news stories tell much about the man and the diplomat — Lester Bowles Pearson — whose death has occurred.

They illumine much of the life and times of one of Canada's most distinguished personalities — a man who set out as a career diplomat and became Prime Minister.

Canadians will remember Pearson the man, with his quiet, self-deprecating humor, his feel for politics, his sense of history, his abiding belief in peace, reinforced by such practical diplomacy as the United Nations peacekeeping force in the Gaza Strip which was his brainchild and which earned him the Nobel Prize for peace.

Mr. Pearson was one of the most approachable of men. Yet he commanded respect and while he did not relish the heat and battle of parliamentary debate he nevertheless weathered some of the most stormy periods in Canadian political history.

The furore over the flag comes to mind of course, as well as many another confrontation in the House with his arch rival, John Diefenbaker, then leader of the Opposition, still the member for Prince Albert, and today one of the many paying tribute to the memory of "Mike" Pearson.

A man of many parts, there were Pearson the baseball fan and latterly Pearson the university head — he was Chancellor of Carleton University — and Pearson the writer. He had been writing his memoirs, completing volume 2 and was well into succeeding volumes when his health deteriorated rapidly, just after the start of a Florida vacation. It was said he was suffering from fatigue from his university and writing tasks, as well as the cancer that had afflicted him earlier and in recent days spread swiftly and inexorably.

Lester Bowles Pearson made his mark on our still comparatively young country. He will be remembered for himself, as well as for his service to Canada and his efforts on behalf of world order and decency.

Electoral Boundaries

It is too early yet to determine the full implications of the electoral boundary redistribution proposals as revealed on Wednesday and which ultimately could mean changes on the political scene in the Quinte region.

Redistribution of seats will not affect an election before late 1973 and meantime public hearings on the proposed changes are scheduled in number of centres, including Belleville on February 20.

As with any trend toward change, what is proposed here cannot be expected to become official without thorough discussion and there will be room now until the middle of next month for this purpose, culminating with the public hearing.

Nor can the proposed changes be expected to please fully with those members of parliament whose constituencies will be affected. But then change, under the impetus of population growth, is very much in the air so that what we are witnessing is not unexpected.

It is like a house-clean job, a tidying up process — if not a straightforward exercise in mathematics following which the electoral boundary lines should be secure for another decade or so.

Shadow World

We imagine there was no sadder reading, other than the events in Vietnam and Ulster, in recent days than the results of that survey in Time Magazine, showing the incidence of liquor, tobacco and drug use among teenagers and even younger fry in the Maritime community — and by inference other small towns throughout Canada.

The findings were interesting though in what they had to say of the typical drug user. A poor academic record, finishing an organized activities and unstable family life were cited as being conducive to familiarity with the narcotics scene.

Some of our young people of course have been into the shadow world for some years, so that it is idle to express undue surprise. That it seems to be a factor in all communities though, of whatever size, is disturbing.

One hopeful sign is the fact that 70 per cent of the students feel that drug education should be introduced into the school system before Grade 7. That so large a percentage sees a need for such information is encouraging. We could go far toward reducing usage of these substances and steering the young people into more desirable paths.

UK Press Conference Remark

There Are "English Separatists" Too Says PM

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — What with Parti Quebecois leader Rene Levesque and the terrorist Quebec Liberation Front the whole world must be aware there are separatists in French-Canada.

But separatists in English-Canada?

Apparently.

You have it on the word of no less reliable authority than Prime Minister Trudeau.

The revelation emerges in the transcript from the Prime Minister's office of a press conference.

It might have escaped unnoticed if there had not been in this official transcript, for the other parts of Canada.

Replied the Prime Minister in part: ". . .I feel very pleased that the brand of Canadianism that we have been talking about in Canada, which is essentially based on the equality of the two languages, but which does not mean that everyone must speak them both, but which does mean that every citizen does have the right to communicate with the federal government in the official languages of his choice, I feel that this policy has been vindicated by the vote in Quebec.

"Now, what the consequences of that have been on separatists in English-speaking Canada is that you (the questioner) did not mention but which no doubt also exist — is very hard to speculate because the causes of our electoral reverses in English-speaking Canada are many.

"I am sure that bilingualism had to do with it in some areas, but in other areas it could be for matters as different as unemployment, inflation, welfare abuse, immigration and so on and so on . . .

While the Prime Minister was careful not to geographically pin-point the English - speaking separatists, a couple of his supporters have given him a hand.

One of them, Murray McBride Liberal MP badly beaten in the Eastern Ontario constituency of Lisark-Renfrew-Carleton one of the "bedroom" suburbs of the National Capital, in the bitterness of defeat did not call them actually "separatists," but only "stupid bigots".

He went on the public record as saying he was "ashamed of being an English Canadian," and said he particularly was "getting to apologies to the Prime Minister for the red-necked bigotry" of those English-speaking constituents who voted against him.

It was a "straight anti-French anti-Quebec vote," he said — putting it in the context of his own hand — that lost the government so many votes and so many seats.

Then, as you may or may not know, he was confirmed, in some degree, by Energy Mines and Resources Minister Donald Macdonald, who in the post-election disappointment of near defeat by the government, lashed out in anger at the bigories, as he suggested they were, who had voted against him in Toronto's plush ridings of Rosedale.

He called them other names too, more than broadly hinting, like Murray McBride, that they were reactionary rednecks.

But he had the good grace, in cooler and more calmly considered moments the morning after, to subtract to publicly apologize.

Wasn't it odd, though, of the Prime Minister's press to speak about separatism, to have commended Quebec for "vindicating" government policies while rebuking unidentified sections of English-Canada for what he charged were "no doubt separatists"?

But there it is in black and white on the printed records of the Prime Minister's office.

In pursuit of peace

A Fascist Is A Fascist And All That

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Probably the best-preserved word from the Second World War and the years immediately before it, is "Fascist."

In our time, every agent of authority which offends us is labelled Fascist. These include the police, "Fascist pigs," the old-fashioned and reactionary school principal, "pip-squeak Fascist, right-wing politicians like Gov. George Wallace, a "neo-Fascist."

I have even heard an economist refer to fellow economists in government, who set monetary and fiscal policies as, "fiscal Fascists."

Curiously, the last survivor of the major Fascist leaders of the 1940s, Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, is not a Fascist and never was Authoritarian yes, but not a Fascist. Franco's power base has been church, army and for a time the semi-fascist Falange or Falanx Party, the Spanish version of political Fascism.

The same is true of Portugal's President Caetano who is no Fascist, but nevertheless runs a modified version of the corporate state which was perfected under Mussolini and his Italian Fascist State.

The largest postwar success of this classic Fascism of the 1930s and 1940s was in Argentina under former President Juan Domingo Peron. The once dynamic and physically powerful Peron had learned all about Fascism, Italian-style, when he was Argentine military attache in Rome at the end of the Mussolini years.

But the Peronista version of Fascism was different again from the European ones. Peron built his base on loyal army units and the Argentine working class who he dubbed, "the shirtless ones."

Peron gave emphasis to the superiority of Argentina in Latin America, by emphasizing the cult of the nation, another European Fascist input.

Today, latest Peronismo is still the most dynamic force in chaotic Argentine. But its nature appears to be more Marxist or influenced by Castro-Cuban ideas, than by old-fashioned Fascism.

This import of European Fascist ideas into the Western Hemisphere was, and is, a definable phenomenon.

But what are we to say about the modern and indiscriminate use of the word Fascist, borrowed from the world of international politics?

First, that it should be abandoned as an epithet of anger. The Canadian policeman doing his job in a traffic snarl is hardly a Fascist. That implies he is intensely fascist, believes in the superiority of the Canadian race (and there is no such thing), beats up Jews.

There is no application to right-wing and hard-line politicians often is less than accurate. Most of these individuals are more opportunistic than politicized. Labelling them as latter-day Hitlers and Mussolinis, merely gives them more prestige in the eyes of their misguided followers.

Legitimate neo-Fascist regimes have emerged since the war, legitimate in the sense they appear familiar to the classic Fascist governments, civilian and military of Austria, Hungary, Spain, Italy and Portugal of the 1930s and 1940s."

The five-year-old military rule of the Greek colonels has many overtones of neo-fascism, belief in the cult of the state, emphasizing patriotical values of land and history. So do certain military regimes in Middle Eastern and South East Asian countries.

But the policeman as Fascist. Take care.

The Bureaucracy: The Government Even Has Own Telephone Book

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

This is YOUR government. It can be clumsy.

Toronto has a multitude of government departments and agencies and more than 20,000 civil servants.

A separate phone book for the government is necessary in fact you can say it is almost vital.

This year there have been massive internal changes.

Not only have the names of most departments been changed but senior personnel have been switched with abandon.

The last phone book was issued in March.

It was supposedly a temporary directory.

In June assurance was given a new one would be ready by mid-August at the latest.

Mid-August turned out to be a few days ago.

The department responsible, government services (formerly public works) is probably the most bureaucratic of all.

Its second level of management is notable for its size.

In the way of bureaucracies, the longer it lives the more it digs in and the worse it gets.

It can be blind.

We are referring to the end of our fresh fruit season.

The season of glorious peaches, plums, cherries and grapes.

But at your centre of government it's not the end. For here the season never started.

During all its life the menu in the member's dining room in the main parliament building listed just two fruits.

Grapefruit or orange slices. From Mexico, of course. And is

And it can be greedy.

You know (or do you) that when you buy booze you are still buying 10 per cent water.

That old innovation of Mackenzie King's still is flourishing.

King, of course, decided during the war that it would be a good thing if the country were more temperate.

(It also would be good politics for him.)

So his government ordered that liquor couldn't be sold over a certain strength.

This meant that most brands had to be weakened about 10 per cent.

After the war complete control over liquor was returned to the provinces.

But they never brought liquor back to strength, or at least Ontario didn't and apparently most of the others are following along.

The liquor now is mostly weakened at the distilleries.

But at LCBO headquarters in Front Street there still is one operation where the commissioners' personal touch are brought in in casks, are bottled —and watered.

Dr. Shulman's Penchant Is Controversy

Kingston Whig-Standard

Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP Member of the Ontario Legislature, has caused successive Conservative governments in this province more embarrassment than any other dozen MPPs. He is obsessed and is preternaturally keen nose for the special dealing which goes on behind government facades and, fortunately, he happens to have the financial means which not only permit him to conduct his investigations but also give him an enviable personal independence. When he was Metro Coroner, for instance, he uncovered several unsatisfactory situations involving official procedure and was eventually fired for his pains.

But Dr. Shulman has a fatal flaw — he is impetuous and too often fails to make his case impregnable against the scrutiny of legal and political talent which Queen's Park can muster against him. His latest venture involves an allegation he made concerning the Attorney-General, Dalton Bales. Dr. Shulman has been trying to make an issue of violence and irregular practices in the construction industry in the Toronto area. He said in a recent speech in the Legislature that Mr. Bales was seen at a Conservative fundraising party given by an officer of a lathing firm which had been convicted of price-fixing.

Inferentially Dr. Shulman had based his allegation on the word of only one informant, Max Chikofsky, a private detective who had been working for him for some time.

English Language In Quebec

Quebec L'Action: Because the French-Canadians have, for a long time, been the victims of the fanaticism of a certain Anglophone element, many of them thought that in emancipating Quebec, the French homeland of Canada it should turn fanaticism against our English-language compatriots. From this point of view have been born many unrealistic and even at times ridicus which advocate forbidding all use of the English language in Quebec, including schools and businesses. To believe those who support this vengeance theory even the teaching of English as a second language should be halted.

Reflection and logic lead us to more realistic and less radical solutions which are more advantageous for our people. A Quebec where no one knows English as a second language any more would become a ghetto, an enclave isolated from all parts of the world, even the rest of the people on the North American continent. By brutally condemning this language, which two centuries of fanaticism has taught us how to fight—to detest in some cases—we would have broken the cultural, social and economic ties that link us to 200 million Anglophones who surround us, we would have been severely condemned isolated French communities in other provinces to be subjected to the vengeance of our adversaries. Such a move would be against all historical logic.

But this regressive thinking only exists in the minds of some narrow-minded persons. For several years now, more acceptable and modified reasoning has been proposed. Those who have set themselves up as leaders dedicated to the defence of French, in Quebec have recognized the necessity of English as a second language and the importance of pronounced study of the subject in our schools a working knowledge of this language.

CP News Roundup

Aircraft Wreckage Spotted

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont. (CP) — The wreckage of a light aircraft, missing since Dec. 24 on a flight between Pickle Lake and Big Trout Lake was spotted Thursday, 10 miles south of its destination.

A spokesman for Canadian Forces air-sea rescue said there was no sign of life around the downed Cessna 180 bush plane, which was carrying the pilot and one passenger.

The wreckage was spotted by a civilian aircraft taking part in the search. The spokesman said the search plane was unable to land because of dense bush in the area.

Order Locators

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department will require most Canadian registered aircraft to carry electronic locator transmitters (ELTs) to help searchers find downed planes, it was announced Thursday.

Delay Suit

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Liberal Party caucus has decided to suspend legal action against Manitoba Hydro pending the outcome of action filed against Hydro by the community of South Indian Lake. Liberal House Leader Gordon Johnston said Thursday.

Mr. Johnston, MLA for Portage La Prairie, said the Liberal party has assembled a group of lawyers who have agreed to donate their services to stop Hydro's plans to divert the Churchill River and raise the level of Southern Indian Lake.

Crime Falls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime statistics compiled by the FBI for the first nine months of 1972 revealed Thursday that Buffalo was the only large city in New York state with an increase in major crimes.

Drew 'Steady'

TORONTO (CP) — The condition of George Drew, 75-year-old former leader of the national Progressive Conservative party, is "steady," a Wellesley Hospital spokesman said early today.

"His condition is steady, he is not listed as critical," the spokesman said.

Crash Kills 3

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Three men were killed Thursday when their single-engine airplane crashed on Powell Lake about 75 miles west of Thunder Bay.

Dead are the pilot, Anthony Joseph Massaro, 44, of Thunder Bay; Cecil Arthur Zade, 45, of Thunder Bay and Albert Rowe, 40, of Little Current, Ont.

Santa Charged

PORT ELGIN, Ont. (CP) — Robert Wilson, 39, a local pilot who substituted for a team of reindeer and a Santa Claus over the town, has been charged under the federal Aeronautics Act with low flying.

Wilson was charged by RCMP and is to appear in Owen Sound provincial court Jan. 31.

Milk Goes Up

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Four dairies have announced Thursday a two-cent a quart price increase in the price of milk effective Jan. 1.

A quart of homogenized milk will cost 38 cents and 3-per-cent milk will cost 37 cents.

Log-unrolling Operation

Sheets of wood only one-tenth of an inch thick are peeled from logs at plant of Burlington Northern's Plum Creek Lumber Company at Columbia Falls, Mont. Operator Bob Rholetter sends logs through the 32-ton wood lathe at an average of 200 per hour. The sheets are glued together under pressure to produce sheets of plywood. (CP Photo)

Onus Shifted To Visitors

OTTAWA (CP) — New immigration regulations which will permit visitors to Canada to work temporarily were announced Thursday by Immigration Minister Robert Andras.

The new regulations—effective Jan. 1, 1973—will permit visitors to Canada to apply for temporary employment visas if they intend to work. Those who plan to stay in Canada longer, must register with an immigration officer when they enter the country or when they decide to extend their stay.

The new regulations still depend on the honesty of individuals coming into the country to state how long they intend to stay and whether they have plans to work.

Mr. Andras, in announcing the new measures, said the legal onus had been effectively shifted on to the visitor—he is now required by law to declare his intentions when entering the country.

Mr. Andras said previously the responsibility for deciding whether an individual entering Canada was indeed a tourist rested on the immigration officer at the point of entry to the country.

Temporary employment in Canada can be pre-arranged through immigration officers abroad, and Canadian employers can still arrange for temporary workers to enter Canada to fill a shortage. Employers will have to attest to manpower officers that the job cannot be filled by a suitable and available Canadian.

Windsor Sisters Lived In Refuse-filled Home

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Windsor woman was in satisfactory condition in hospital today while city departments and social agencies pondered whether her refuse-filled home could be made liveable again.

Police said Alice Watkins, 62, was found by ambulance attendants last week in the attic of her two-storey home.

The house had "wall-to-wall" garbage and human excrement and was inhabited by Miss Watkins, two sisters and about 30 cats and rats, they said.

The refuse was piled to half the height of the staircase in the house, located only two blocks from the city's main business district.

"The front door would only open about a quarter of the way said ambulance man Barry Logan, the first man on the scene, in an interview.

"We crawled in and had to dig our way through to an upstairs room—an attic—where we found the woman. She had arthritis and couldn't move."

One of the sisters, Esther, was in the hospital at the time, suffering from infected bites from cats and rats, but has since been released and is staying at a downtown hotel with the third sister, Maudie.

"The three sisters own the house.

Gordon Pastorius, the city's chief building inspector, said in an interview Thursday a decision would be made on whether repairs could bring the house up to city standards.

He said repairs may be made by the Windsor Coalition for Development, a government-funded organization designed to help people meet minimum housing standards.

Judge's Order to Wed Ruins Things for Pair

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto man, told by a judge he must marry the woman he has been living with if he is to be allowed to visit his children by a previous marriage, said Thursday he will appeal the decision.

Robert Parkinson asked for definite rights to see his two children after he divorced his wife in September after 17 years of marriage.

Mr. Justice Peter Wright ruled Dec. 13 that Mr. Parkinson might have right of access to the children every third weekend starting Jan. 5, 1973. "If the respondents in the petition are then married to each other."

Mr. Parkinson and Aurora Melli, the co-respondent in his divorce, had intended to wed, said Mr. Parkinson, "but now the judge insisting on it has ruined that."

The two say they are content living with one another and care for their own daughter.

"Miss Melli thinks the only reason I want to marry her now is just so that I can see my children," Mr. Parkinson said.

"The judge's order has put me in a position where I can't marry Bob," said Miss Melli.

"He's condemned me to marry . . . whether I want to or not. It's the first step to another divorce."

Hanging Ban Likely to Stay

OTTAWA (CP) — A five-year trial suspension of the death penalty for most murders ends Friday and MPs soon will have a chance to deliver their verdict or reserve judgment.

Extension of the ban, which applied to all murders except those of policemen and prison guards, is considered by many observers here to be the most likely step for Parliament.

Since the trial suspension began in 1967, even murderers of peace officers have had sentences commuted from execution and, there have been no hangings since December, 1962.

With expiration of the test period, the law reverts to its position before the proclamation of the test.

Pearson Will Rest in Grave He Picked Thirty Years Ago

OTTAWA (CP) Leaders around the world paid tribute to Lester Pearson Thursday as plans were made to bury the former prime minister, statesman and diplomat in a simple, country cemetery plot he chose 30 years ago in the Gatineau Hills north of Ottawa.

Burial services will follow a televised state funeral Sunday from Christ Anglican Church Cathedral in downtown Ottawa, a few blocks from Parliament Hill where he spent 19 years as Liberal party leader and five as prime minister.

The Nobel Prize winner, who died late Wednesday from cancer of the liver, will lie in state Saturday in the Hall of Honor inside the main entrance of the Centre Block on Parliament Hill.

His coffin, draped in the red maple leaf flag he made the emblem of Canada, will be flanked by a military guard of honor.

The funeral Sunday will be ecumenical, conducted by Most. Rev. W. J. Hudson, Archbishop of Ottawa.

Later, the coffin will be borne to a small cemetery overlooking the Gatineau River near Wakefield, Que., where Mr. Pearson and two of his longtime colleagues and friends decided about 30 years to be buried.

Mr. Pearson, Hume Wrong and Norman Robertson, all members of the external affairs planning staff, paid $10 each for plots in the rustic burial spaces.

"They were impressed by the beauty of it," recalled James McCook a retired member of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, who knew Mr. Pearson well.

Mr. Wrong, who died in the early 1950s, and Mr. Robertson, who died four years ago, are both buried there.

Flags were dropped to half mast and the Parliament building archway draped in black Thursday in preparation for the funeral.

Tributes streamed in throughout the day, characterizing Mr. Pearson as a gentle and amiable man who contributed much to Canada and the cause of world peace.

Kurt Waldheim, secretary-general of the United Nations, described him as "one of the great international statesmen of our time" and said he would be long remembered as one of the chief figures in the formative years of the UN.

"I join with you and the government and the people of Canada in mourning the passing of this most distinguished statesman." Mr. Waldheim said in a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau.

Mr. Trudeau, on a Christmas vacation in British Columbia when Mr. Pearson's death occurred, was preparing to return to Ottawa.

In a statement, Mr. Trudeau praised his predecessor's work as a diplomat and government leader but said there was another element of equal dimension.

"That is Mike Pearson the man, the human being of warmth, of humor, of friendliness. The man who had, in the words of the Nobel citation 'a strong faith in the final victory of the good forces of life.'"

President Nixon said in Washington that Canada had lost a great leader and the United States a firm friend.

"The record of his accomplishments as an outstanding post war leader has few equals."

Tributes also came from Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank Group; U.S. Secretary of State William F. Rogers, Prime Minister Heath of Great Britain, The Queen. Prime Minister Manley of Jamaica, Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel of Belgium, the Norwegian Parliament's Nobel Prize committee, Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith and Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany.

Pearson Took Canada From Isolationism

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. (Mike) Pearson was—first, last and most essentially—an internationalist.

More than any other individual, he was responsible for hauling Canada out of the tendency toward isolationism that had reigned in the Mackenzie King era.

Through Mr. Pearson, millions in other countries got their first impressions of Canada and the kind of people Canadians are.

As external affairs minister and later prime minister, he moved about the world stage with aplomb, self-assurance and unfailing good humor. He was on first-name terms with the giants of his time.

The facets of the Canadian personality that he most consistently projected were optimism and youth, tinged with boyish cheerfulness, flair and a wide, ready, infectious grin behind enhance the image.

But there was also a heavy strain of pragmatism in his makeup and in the approach which Canada, under his leadership, took to world affairs.

Probably his greatest attribute as a diplomat and statesman was an ability to look at problems in perspective, without ideological blinkers.

This wasn't always easy at the height of the cold war, the period when he was most active in the international sphere.

Mr. Pearson's greatest attainment as an international statesman came through his work at the United Nations. He was a member of the Canadian delegation to the San Francisco founding conference in 1945, and served a term as president of the UN General Assembly in 1952-53.

He was twice blackballed by the Soviet Union, in 1948 and 1953, as a prospective secretary-general.

A New Year's Message

The New Year is traditionally a time to look to the future . . . it appears large and perhaps a little fearsome since we can only guess what it holds in store for us. Looking back at other years we can remember all too clearly, events which marred the lives of our friends and families, both on the highways and in the home . . . the most cruel of all misfortunes since many could be avoided.

Do be careful and have a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

This is the wish of Joe and Tom Raycroft.

In a profession that offers mental stimulation and satisfaction, Sidney Murray, barrister and solicitor, feels that women have much to contribute to the law field.

Practicing Law Presents Challenge and Variety

Challenging, stimulating and interesting are a few of the adjectives Sidney Murray, Belleville's only woman lawyer, applies to her profession.

Mrs. Murray, who is 27, attended public school in Belleville, Bishop's University in Quebec, and then the University of Toronto Law School for three years.

She articled in a small law firm for a year and took a six month bar admission course. Mrs. Murray adds though, a lawyer's learning never ends.

Established in Belleville since April, Sidney Murray practices general law, dealing with divorce cases, provincial and family court cases and real estate among others.

Choosing law as a profession requires a basic interest in people and the situations they get into and "lots of patience". The main purpose of a lawyer should be, Mrs. Murray, feels, to help people solve their problems. There is the added satisfaction of knowing the ins and out's of the law.

"It's like doing a jig saw puzzle sometimes. It's a mental exercise that produces a self-satisfaction when you've finished."

Mrs. Murray explains that many people fear lawyers because their services are seldom required and they are associated with high rates. There's also much about the law that the general public is unaware of, according to Mrs. Murray, that they often seek out a lawyer after someting has happened. A little advice from the law before signing a contract might save an individual a lot of trouble.

Law was thought of to be a man's profession. But Sidney Murray has found no discriminatory feelings. Attitudes are based on the lawyer's reputation rather than whether one is male or female.

She feels that law is certainly an interesting field for women and that they have a lot to contribute. It's a professsion that one may re-enter-lish after raising a family. This profession also offers plenty of individual leeway.

A lawyer discovers many different aspects to one situation, It's continually challenging and therefore rewarding.

As for being Belleville's sole female barrister and solicitor, Sidney Murray adds, "It's sort of fun being the only woman around."

Social and Personal.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

Rev. A. L. Sutherland performed the December 16 wedding ceremony in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church when Florence Edith of Belleville exchanged vows with Gordon Crake. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Meagher were attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Crake are now residing at 52 Baldwin St., Belleville.

Yule Cantata At Bethesda

An evening of interest to people of White Lake, Madoc and vicinity was held on Sunday evening at Bethesda United Church, when the Young Peoples' Choir rendered their cantata "Thanks Be To God". A large crowd was in attendance and the church was beautifully decorated with evergreen boughs, poinsettias, gold wreaths, and lighted tree.

The Nativity scene was portrayed with Mary and Joseph played by Kathleen Ash and her Brother Charles, who were seated beside the Babe and cradle complete with lighted star.

The 17 choir members in white gowns, rendered the cantata. Duet parts were taken by Dorothy Ann Ash and Christine Stevens with Rev. Heard as narrator. Carols and scriptures were enjoyed during the service and a solo was sung by Mrs. Goldie McIlroy. This number was composed by Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth of R.R. 1, Stirling.

Mrs. Reginald Haggerty was pianist and Mrs. Goldie McIlroy directed the cantata. At the conclusion, Rev. Heard invited everyone to enjoy a social time in the church basement with Rev. and Mrs. Heard as hosts.

Drive Snowmobiles Carefully

Outdoor sports provide many people with a great deal of pleasure during the long winter months. Snowmobilers are enthusiastic about getting out in the fresh air and zipping along over open fields. Unfortunately, some of them forget that snowmobiles can damage lawns, and brake small trees and shrubs, says D. B. McNeill, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Where possible, avoid running your snowmobile on a lawn area. The compaction of the snow will often form ice that will smother the grass. Petroleum products spilled on the lawn will also kill the grass, so don't service your machine on the lawn.

Avoid running over small trees and shrubs. This may bend or break their branches. While the plants will recover in most cases, they will be set back for a year or two.

Snowmobiling can be great fun, but operators should remember that healthy lawns and well-grown trees give for healthy skin car. Cooked spinach with butter added to suit your taste was recommended for acne problems. The iron in spinach is necessary for skin health.

This cosmetician never recommends soap. It clogs pores which leads to blackheads.

Moisturizers and creams help equalize the Ph skin factor. A balanced Ph factor leads to healthier skin.

For eye care, a nightly cream was advised to prevent wrinkles.

Lip care is also important.

Austria Has Initiated Female Emancipation

VIENNA (AP) — The Austrian justice ministry thinks that if Herr Mueller marries Frau President Schmidt, they should have the choice of being known thenceforth as Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt.

A ministry brochure says the principle of sex equality is insufficiently met when the woman is obliged to take the husband's surname. It suggests there should be a law to permit them to choose either the man's or the woman's as their future family name.

The brochure fails to say when a draft bill might be submitted to Parliament. The consensus here seems to be that few, if any, newlyweds would decide on taking the bride's family name as matters are now.

However, the proposal Indicates that male supremacy in Austria, based upon old laws which many regard as patriarchal, is breaking down.

Austria's Socialist party made such centuries-old laws a target when it came to power in 1970. The opposition People's party has countered with proposals of its own, including a 12-point program by its woman's branch for a "second emancipation" of women.

Most proposals derive from the fact that Austrian men are no longer the sole breadwinners in the family. As a result, women have been demanding a bigger say in running the family and bringing up the children.

In fact, men may be in for such things as yearly leaves of absence to look after babies if wives want to hold jobs. This was another suggestion of the People's party women's organization.

Although considered a rather "theoretical issue" by law experts who believe the number of women wishing to turn over home chores to husbands to be extremely small, the justice ministry in its proposals left nothing to chance.

It said whenever a husband and wife could not decide who should be the provider, the one best suited by vocational training, former employment and the labor market situation would have to start working.

While most Austrian men seem unconcerned that their power might be crumbling, some warned that women should go slow with the call for equality.

At a recent conference on social security of women, Gerhard Weissenberg, the president of the Main Association of Social Security Agencies, noted that a woman with the double function of housewife and job-holder, already had a number of advantages over a man as far as social law was concerned.

A woman is entitled to retire at the age of 60 compared with the 65 years a man has to reach before he can draw a pension.

All women, regardless of whether they are employed, profit from the social security payments their husbands make.

Widows are entitled to 60 per cent of their late husbands' pensions and even receive pension without cuts in addition to pensions from former employment.

A columnist of Austria's mass circulation paper Kronenzeitung suggested women, in order to assure full equality of the sexes, should be drafted into the army, too.

Skin Health and Beauty Need Daily Cleansing and Care

Pollution and weather factors are more harmful to the skin than make-up, according to Mrs. Nancy McCormack, Belleville cosmetician. Daily skin care achieves healthier complexions.

Mrs. McCormack gave several important tips for women who care about their skin today and how it will look tomorrow.

Moisturizer applied daily, creams used nightly, minimal sweets and lots of drinking water can improve the health of your complexion.

"These tips won't give you overnight results, but I guarantee maybe in a week or two, your skin will be healthier. Healthy skin, looks good and that feels good.

Women of all ages should care about their skin. There are three different skin ceti types: body, face and eye. The neck usually shows a woman's age easiest. Some women forget this skin needs moisturizers also.

Oily, dry and oily-dry are basic skin types. Cleansers, astringents, toners, fresheners and grains were suggested for cleaning the face. But, the skin type should relate to the cleanser. A person with dry skin should never use strong astringents, for then there is an oily area on the face.

Spinach was recommended

Diefenbachias Oooops!

Originally, dieffenbachia came from the West Indies and South America. Many Ontario greenhouses are now propagating these plants because of the demand for them as house plants, says John Hughes, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

As with many foliage plants, there is a wide variety within the dieffenbachia family. The exotica variety can be used as accent-plants in dish or bottle gardens or as large specimen plants, depending on the size they are allowed to attain. The leaves are olive green and splashed with creamy white. The amoena variety is a large type used for specimen purposes. Its leaves are a deep emerald green with regular white markings extending out from the midrib. Specimen plants are at their best at about two feet. If they become too tall they may appear unbalanced. Both varieties hold their lower leaves well.

Dieffenbachias are easy to cultivate and grow best in shaded windows with subdued light. Avoid exposing them to bright sunshine. Like other foliage plants, a slightly acid soil with plenty of peat moss is necessary for good normal growth. The soil should be kept moist but not waterlogged. Large plants will benefit from occasional feeding with a balanced fertilizer.

Ann Landers
Thoughts On Time Bring Ideas On Life and Love

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to teen-agers to stay off beds, but they end up in them was good. But why did you have to say that the peak of male potency is at age 17? Now it sounds like anybody who has passed his 20th birthday is over the hill.

Our 16-year-old son has talked about little else ever since that column appeared. Last night he jokingly asked me if I had applied for looping in the old folks home. And then he added, "I hope you don't go into a depression next years, Dad, when I reach my sexual peak and you are 25 years beyond yours."

I pretended not to hear the cheap crack, but it bothered me plenty. If you can thi... a good answer for this smart-mouth kid of mine, I'd appreciate it.—Indignant in Indiana

Dear Indig: Your smart-mouth kid doesn't deserve an answer. He deserves to be ignored. That statistics refers to sexual potency (Kinsey Report) but there and plenty of other factors that might make a 42-year-old man more desirable sexually than a 17-year-old boy, for example, maturity and experience.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a 16-year-old daughter who is causing me a lot of grief. It isn't that she is wild or hard to get along with. It's a more bothersome feeling—something I can't explain. It's... what she is thinking—or doing. For example, I am almost sure she shoplifted a dress. All indications point to it.

To begin with, she lied about how much she paid for it. When I saw the dress I knew it cost at least three times what she said. What's more, she didn't have even the amount she said she had paid for it. When I asked her for a receipt she said she lost it. She couldn't remember what happened to the price tag.

Should I come right out and ask her if she stole the dress? Or should I keep my eye on her for evidence of future thefts?—Sleepless Nights in Wisconsin

Dear S.N.: I agree that all signs point to shoplifting, but you don't have to be told that she did not steal the dress and you dare not take that chance. Keep your eyes open and if you see anything else that looks like a shoplifted item, lift down your daughter and inside of that predetermined sign that the item was purchased. If she is unable to prove it, ask her to take you to the store and verify her statement. If she then confesses, you must insist that she return the item in your presence.

Dear Ann Landers: You did it again—another stupid answer to the woman who wanted to know what to do about a minister whose car was parked in the widow's driveway every other day even though her husband had been dead over a year. Your answer was simple. It was "Mind your own business." You sound like a broken record.

Why don't you tell this minister is knoodlin' around the congregation has the right to quiz him. We had one of those high flyers a few years back and by the time we got through with shenanigans he had so much of the trouble we have less than you account that we almost lost our building.

So please don't be telling people that unless they can prove anything they should keep quiet. By the time they can prove it, it's too late.—N.C.:

Dear N.C.: The advice stands. Better to be safe than sorry. A car in the driveway is not evidence that there is his noodlin' going on inside.

Christmas Turkey Leftovers

TURKEY STROGANOFF

(Serves 8-10 people)

¼ cup butter or margarine
2-3 cup chicken extract
4 to 5-lbs. cooked turkey pieces
3 cups turkey broth
1 can (6-oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 can (4-oz.) pimento, drained and diced
3 tbsp. chopped chives
2 cups sour cream
10 cups hot cooked noodles
Finely chopped parsley and chopped crystallized ginger

In a large skillet or saucepan melt butter, stir in chicken extract. Gradually stir in turkey broth. Cook while stirring over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Add mushrooms, pimento, chives and turkey. Simmer until bubbly. Stir in sour cream. Reheat but do not boil. Add salt and pepper to taste. Arrange noodles in a ring in a chafing dish. Fill centre with stroganoff. Sprinkle noodles with parsley and turkey with ginger.

TURKEY A LA KING

(Serves 4 people)

1 green onion, finely chopped
2 tbsp. finely chopped celery
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
2 tbsp. chicken extract
1½ cups milk
¼ cup leftover turkey
½ cup peas

Saute onion and celery in butter or margarine in saucepan, until transparent and golden. Blend chicken extract with ½ cup of the milk. Add milk and extract mixture, along with remainder of the milk to the onion and celery. Heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and comes to a boil. Simmer for about 3 min. Add peas and turkey and heat. Serve on toast points or in patty shells.

Candyman Presented

A gold candyman oscar was presented to Mrs. Pat Hasselfelt for her outstanding effort in masterminding the production and sale of over 2300 candymen at the December meeting of the St. Columba Church Presbyterian Women.

A delicious turkey dinner was also included at the meeting. Marna Devolin, Kathy Ballard and Doreen Cook prepared the feast with assistance from Mrs. Nancy Burke, president. One of the nicest surprises was that three members of the Young Peoples washed the dishes afterwards which added to the joy of the evening.

The Worship service gave a Christmas message which was followed by an old fashioned carol singsong.

Last minute details for the Christmas Sharing Basket, the gift to Armagh and also to the Mental Health Christmas Fund were discussed during the business.

All St. Columba Church women are welcome to join this group in the new year and attend the regular meetings held the third Monday of every month.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Should Pop train his Little Legs...

ONLY if his ball-playing son asked him; and, even then, the boy should set the pace. For instance, if the youngster cannot scoop up ground balls as easily as Dad thinks he should, the boy should be the one to suggest that he needs practice in that area. If the father keeps his son in the field all day trying to scoop up hopped balls, the boy might think his dad is concentrating too much on his weak points.

Is mental illness looked down upon?

NO; at least not the way it used to be regarded not so very long ago. Mental illness today is recognized for what it is: an affliction that can be successfully treated in many instances. Yet, some individuals still have "hangups" with a mental patient. They can feel sympathy for someone who breaks a leg or has to undergo an operation, but many people simply cannot have compassion toward someone who needs mental treatment.

Must worry be kept from a wife?

NO! If a husband is concerned about his job or career, he ought to talk it over with his wife before she hears about it in other ways. A husband, for instance, who knows of a big shakeup at his company can help her cope with the worry until something definite happens. Yet, unconsciously his attitude toward the possible trouble could change him subtly—enough for his wife to think that something worse than losing his job is in the wind.

Snowthrower Replaces Old-fashioned Shovel

In central Ontario, there are about 75 days each winter, on which the snow accumulation is over 1 inch, with an average snowfall of about 35 inches. For homeowners, it is not usually this accumulation that causes problems, but the drifting and piling up of snow due to the wind and slush. Snowthrowers and tractor-plows can help solve this problem, says R. W. Irwin, School of Engineering, University of Guelph.

Electric snowthrowers are available in widths 12 to 18 inches. Under ideal conditions they'll "discharge about 225 shovelful per minute." Manufacturers powered by gasoline motors range in size from about 22 to 28 inches. Both types are adjustable for height. Check the equipment to make sure it is suited to the surface to be cleaned. Some types of throwers will make gouges in asphalt driveways.

When the major problem is drifting or packed snow, snowthrowers do not really ease the job of clearing snow. Snow fencing located upwind from the area and at right angles to the prevailing wind will help reduce drifting. Don't walk to clean out your driveway; it is easier on you and the machine if there is only 4 to 6 inches of snow on the ground at a time.

A homeowner who has a small tractor for cutting grass can also use it during the winter, says Prof. Irwin. A 36 inch blade is available for the front of the tractor to plow the snow. Snow clearing will take a lot of power, and to be effective the tractor should be at least 7 hp. Anyone wanting to use a larger blade should remember that power requirements will increase. When power width is doubled, the power has to be 4 times more powerful to operate efficiently.

Emergency snow removal equipment is only used a few times each year and should be serviced regularly for reliable winter operation. An improperly serviced machine can be almost impossible to start in cold weather. Homeowners may also find the equipment difficult to store, as that it is convenient, but out of the way.

If you plan to install new asphalt on your driveway you might want to look into heating cables for snow removal. When in use for an hour, cables will melt snow at about 1 inch per hour at temperatures above 10 deg. F. Heating cable requires 25 watts per square foot to be efficient. If all else fails, you can try a long-handled shovel.

Doris Advises Smiling, It Can't Hurt You!

By DORIS CLARK

Once there was a comedian who asked a sourpuss, "How much do you charge to curdle a bottle of milk?"

Did you notice that one of the children's wishes in our Christmas message was to "give happiness to the people that have not smiled"?

Walk along the street and look at the sober faces you meet. Walk into a coffee bar and be served by a girl who hardly looks your way, has to be asked, "How much?" and makes you feel as much of an automaton as she seems.

Ask directions of a crosseyed — well, cross-faced, anyway — boy who points in a general direction with nary a word.

Makes you feel as if the whole world carries a chip on its shoulder.

Don't be part of it. For Heaven's sake, smile!

Dear Doris: I would be most grateful for any information you can give me as to where I might obtain books in North America on radiesthesia... Therese

Dear Therese: This is a fascinating subject, and has to do with the theory that we all radiate vibrations and receive them. Some people can do very special things, like finding a source of water with a divining rod, others can radiate heat from their hands which brings about healing on the injured body of another human.

I recently read a book about it: Health, Healing and Radiation. It is by Dr. M. Ash, published in 1962. I was able to borrow it from the lending library of Spiritual Frontiers Fellowship in the United States. But you might find it in your own public library, or another book on the same subject.

Dear Doris: I have a "beauty" problem which I don't know who to turn to for help.

I have a dark ring around my eyes which is very embarrassing when I wear clothes open at the neck. The ring is quite dark and quite shows. I have tried to cover it with make-up, but this does not help and another thing, the make-up rubs off on my clothes.

Doris, I'm very embarrassed about this. Is there any type of make-up that does not rub onto clothing that I could use or what do you suggest? We live in a small town and I do not know who to ask for help. — Embarrassed

Dear Embarrassed: I'm guessing you notice it more than anyone else does. Heaps of people have differences in skin tone between face and neck. Yet these things worry them.

What you need is not a cream-type foundation, but a liquid that dries on. Such is far less likely to rub off; it hardens like a coat of paint. Several cosmetic firms provide them.

When you are wearing low necks, go in for the choker-style necklaces, like the dog collars or broad velvet, ribbons; or a three-strand pearl choker. But high collars and turtle necks are good now, so wear them when you can.

(Doris keeps in contact with knowledgeable specialists in many fields — medicine, law, religion. Some questions require a fee. Write to her, in care of this newspaper, for the kind of help you need, enclosing an eight - cent - stamped, self - addressed envelope for private reply.)

Turkey Leftovers Avoided

Homemakers often wonder what size of turkey to purchase. Food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food, suggest that a turkey suited to your needs and avoid large quantities of leftovers.

For turkeys weighing 12 pounds or over, allow approximately ¾-¾ of a pound of ready - to - cook weight for each serving. For turkeys under, 12 pounds, allow ¾-1 lb. for each serving. Since the actual number of servings depends upon cooking and carving skill as well as size of the serving, it is wise to use only of a pound as a general guide. Using this calculation, a 12-lb. turkey will yield about 16 servings; or serve 8 people for dinner, allow half of them "seconds" and leave just enough for sandwiches or a casserole.

It is generally not recommended to count on leftovers for days to come as leftover turkey meat should be used within 1 to 2 days. Leftovers can be frozen, of course, and properly packaged will keep for about 1 month. Kept longer than this, frozen turkey often has an "off - flavor."

To freeze, remove meat from the carcass and wrap it in heavy-duty aluminum foil, polyethylene film, or laminated freezer paper. Using a drug store wrap, press out air and seal the package with freezer tape (along fold and over the folded ends). Label the contents, date and use within 1 month.

Leftover Recipes

APRICOT-BAKED CHICKEN

(Serves 4 - 6 people)

15-oz. tin apricots
¼ cup chicken extract
1 cup stuffing, rolled fine
¼ cup butter or margarine
4-6 chicken pieces
Preheat oven to 375 degrees melt butter or margarine in a 9" x 13" baking pan. Drain apricots; dip chicken pieces in apricot syrup, then in mixture of crumbs and chicken extract. Place chicken pieces skin-side down, in butter in casserole. Bake for 30 min. Remove casserole from oven; turn chicken pieces and pour apricot syrup over them. Return to oven for another 30 halves for last 10 min.

SEAFOOD NEWBURG

(Yield 8 servings)

4 tbsps. butter or margarine
⅛ cup chicken extract
6 cups milk
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. paprika
4 egg yolks
¼ cup sherry
4 cups canned or cooked seafood (shelled shrimp, lobster, crab or tuna, cut in pieces)
2 tbsps. sherry — optional

Melt butter in saucepan; blend in chicken extract. Gradually add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add salt and paprika. Quickly stir a small amount of the hot mixture into slightly-beaten egg yolk; return to remaining sauce and cook 2 min. longer. Remove from heat; stir in A-1 Sauce, sherry and shrimp. Heat to serving temperature. Serve on toast.

Keep the Fun In Snowmobiling...Know and Obey These Cardinal Rules of

SNOWMOBILE SAFETY

Snowmobiling is Canada's newest fun-filled winter pastime. There are hazards, however, if snowmobiles are operated in an unsafe manner. The Canada Safety Council believes most accidents can be avoided if the operators of snow machines will follow a few simple rules of safety.

The businesses displayed on this page are concerned with snowmobile safety, and today present this page of Do's and Don'ts for snowmobile operators as a public service. They hope their efforts will help maintain snowmobiling as a safe form of winter recreation.

DON'T

- Never jump a snow bank before first finding out what may be on the other side. You may be jumping into the path of another snowmobile, onto a group of playing children, or into the middle of a highway.
- Snowmobiling brings many new winter freedoms. Damaging private property is not one of them. DON'T cut fences or trample shrubs. Get permission to use private property for snowmobiling.
- DON'T leave your key in the ignition. It's an invitation to theft and a danger to unsupervised children and adjacent property if your snowmobile is an electric-start model. The ease of electric starting is simple, even for a child.
- Never operate a snowmobile at night without adequate lighting. You may collide with another snowmobile, person or fixed object. Make sure your snowmobile lighting is in top condition and carry spare bulbs in case of an emergency.

DON'T

- DON'T attempt to cross a river or lake without checking the thickness of the ice. Ask people acquainted with the area if you've never crossed before.
- DON'T use a railroad right-of-way. You can't hear a train coming above the noise of your own machine. When crossing tracks, shut off your machine so you can listen for approaching trains. Then cross at a 90-degree angle.
- DON'T be a show-off. And remember, snowmobilers and skiers DON'T mix on the same slopes.
- DON'T panic if the throttle on your machine sticks. Check it before you start out. If it should become stuck, just turn off the key and let the machine comes to a safe stops.

DON'T

If the back of your machine should become stuck in the deep snow, do not put your hands or feet near the track while it is driving in attempting to free your machine. Simply lift out the back end of the snowmobile and drive it out while kneeling with one leg on the seat and pushing off with your free leg. Or push the machine out by the handlebars while standing next to it and squeezing the throttle lightly.

DO

- DO obtain operating instructions.
- A DO position is sitting down with both feet inside the cab but not locked into the footboards.
- A DO for bumpy terrain is to place one knee on the seat for better balance.
- DO play safe with children aboard. Go more slowly with young passengers. And never let children snowmobile alone.
- DO use a tow bar when pulling a trailer. Rigid hitches prevent tailgate collisions on sudden stops.
- DO check your lights before night lake crossings at night and don't break new trails.
- DO make sure when driving that the snowmobile is properly secured on its trailer. Then protect it with a bright cover.
- DO travel with extreme caution in unknown areas. Watch ahead for obstacles and follow trails that have already been marked.

DON'T

DON'T tail-gate. Maintain a safe distance between your machine and the one in front of you. And here's trouble . . . DON'T cut across another's right-of-way. If in doubt, throttle down or stop.

DO

Come to a complete stop before crossing any street or highway. Cross only at a 90-degree angle to the roadway, and remember that traffic always has the right of way. Some provinces may require a driver's licence or have regulated on the age of an operator who can legally cross the roadway. Again, we suggest thorough knowledge of local regulations. If you are travelling with a companion it is always added safety insurance to have one person watch for traffic while the other person crosses with the snowmobile.

Some Final Words ...

1. Know your snowmobile. Keep it well-maintained. In thawing weather, clear the track of slush by lifting machine free of the ground and spinning track. Regular checks with your dealer are a good investment.
2. Another reminder: snowmobiling on ice can be hazardous. Never cross a lake or stream without first knowing the ice condition. Moving water thins the ice from below. Make sure it can support both you and your snowmobile.
3. On safari, always travel with others. Do not attempt a long trip that may be beyond your capacity. Always let others know your destination and expected arrival time. Carry emergency supplies: flares, snowshoes, first aid kit, a map, an axe, extra fuel, waterproof matches and rations. As in swimming safety, use the "buddy system".
4. Join your local snowmobile club. Learn everything you need to know from experts.
5. Liquor and snowmobiling are a poor mix. Leave the former alone.
6. The second biggest known cause of snowmobiling fatalities is collisions with cars, while collisions with other snowmobiles have produced many injuries. Caution, common sense and courtesy can eliminate a majority of these accidents. Practice these three Cs.
7. The most common cause of snowmobiling injuries is unknown terrain. Following marked trails is the best way to avoid this problem.

Federal Initiatives Award Makes Deseronto Clinic Real

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

DESERONTO — This Bay of Quinte town has come up with a formula to cure 3 years-long medical care short ages.

The basic prescription: A healthy dose of community spirit, supplemented by senior government assistance.

As a result, this Centre of 1,800 — service core for maybe another 8,000 in a surrounding three-county rural area — will have its own medical centre operating by early next summer.

The project took its final step to reality yesterday with approval of a $34,000 federal Local Initiatives Program award.

By last night the man who will be its first physician — Dr. David Miller — hurried here to complete blueprints plans with professional building designers and members of the Deseronto Lions Club, architects of the over-all venture which produced the centre they say was needed for years.

Last night's conference was a happy culmination to a series of events that evolved like this:

For years, one doctor has borne the burden of providing local medical service here.

The pressing requirement for more doctors saw the community plagued by provincial health authorities as one of Ontario's areas desperately in need of more physicians.

It was a problem that lingered unsolved until a day two years ago. That's when Reeve Lyons, who also is a Lions Club member, read in the service- club magazine praise from an Ontario health official for a Lions Club which had raised funds for a medical centre. The expenditure, said the official, met a more urgent need than money spent on more traditional recreation projects like playgrounds, swimming pools.

The implication caught his imagination. He invited the ministry officer to address Deseronto Lions. The enthusiasm for solving a medical problem proved infectious.

The club then began running jamborees and barbecues earmarking the proceeds for a someday similar centre in Deseronto. Meantime the idea spread further afield throughout the community. Donations were pledged by other local groups and individuals toward the $50,000 estimated cost of building a centre.

Then, this year, the club applied for an LIP grant through the Napanee Canada Manpower Centre.

Meantime, Dr. Miller, 27-year-old graduate internist at Dalhousie University in the Maritimes — one of the physicians on the ministry's designated - area roster — selected Deseronto from 12 possible sites in the province.

With the scheme gathering momentum, a site was purchased at the town's east end and basic designs drafted by the Belleville branch of a Toronto architectural firm.

Deseronto's lone bank — the Bank of Commerce — agreed to loan the cash difference between money raised by the club and the cost estimate, says Lions treasurer Harry Hands.

Yesterday's good news from

Deseronto To Protest Rate Hike

Deseronto town council has voted to support the Association of Municipalities of Ontario in its efforts to block Bell Canada's application for increased telephone service rates.

Similar action has been taken by several other municipalities in Belleville's city council at its last meeting decided to make no official protest against the requested increases.

Meet First Tuesday

TRENTON — The inaugural ceremonies for 4 o.h town council and the Public Utilities Commission will be held at 11 a.m. January 2 in the auditorium of the Trenton Community Gardens.

It is expected that the new council, consisting of Mayor-Duncan McDonald, Council-lors George Greer, Dr. Robert Patrick, Dr. John Boon, Ronald Price, Peter DeGroot and Edward Todd, will hold a special council meeting sometime next week, if not on the night of Jan. 2.

LIP officials cinched realisation of the project.

Work should now begin almost immediately — perhaps in the next week — in order to met the May 31 deadline which is a basic condition of the federal program, says Mr. Rands.

The centre will be designed to provide space for two doctors, a dentist and a dispensary — the town is without a dentist and drugstore at present.

Once the project is operating Dr. Miller is confident it will attract another practitioner.

"I think the prospects in the next six months to a year are excellent for having another physician," Dr. Miller, who will open practice at the centre some time in June, said last night.

The young physician made a hurried trip to Toronto, where he is vacationing with parents and his wife Lynn — to scrutinize centre blueprints drawn by building plainsmen from the Belleville office of Greer and Galloway.

Among the reasons for his settling on Deseronto is the "interest and vitality of the people to do something about the lack of medical care in the area," he said.

With the LIP grant Mr. Rands was confident his club could meet the cost commitment with the community response the Lions' enthusiasm had instigated.

But work must commence almost immediately.

Not only does the LIP grant expire May 31, winter has arrived, compounding construction technicians. The project creates 18 jobs for local workers — thus meeting fundamental LIP requirements: To make winter work beneficial to the community, the club treasurer said.

As a community knox, he believed it one of the more beneficial LIP projects in the Quinte area.

Reeve Lyons agrees. The town serves an area that includes Tyendinaga township and the Tyendinaga Mohawk reserve in Hastings, Sophiasburgh township across the Bay of Quinte in Prince Edward and Richmond township in Lennox and Addington.

Total population involved would run as high as 18,000, he estimated.

One doctor was in "no position" to meet the medical needs of such a large and scattered population, he said.

"This really was one of the things that prompted us to pursue this," explained the reeve.

Shape of Things to Come?

Draftsman Dave Humm touches up architect's drawing of what Trenton's parking garage and municipal office complex will look like when completed. Ground was broken Friday as construction of the $381,000 structure began. Opponents of the building project threaten to appeal OMB approval of the project announced last week.

Kiwanians Lease Pool for Year

Powerful financial backing, bank loans and legal negotiations have created a Belleville business designed to make absolutely no profit.

The Quinte Kiwanis Club of Belleville, longtime sponsor of instructional swim programs, has leased the Black Hawk Motor Inn (north Front Street) swimming pool to provide seven-days-a-week, round - the - year swimming.

Until now, the club has held 20-week courses of winter swimming instruction. This latest step will place complete responsibility of pool use in the club's hands. Motel residents will receive no special privileges as in the previous weekend rental basis.

As outlined in a several page lease contract, the club will pay a monthly rental charge of $800, janitorial and supply costs and generally maintain the facility. In return, to partially recoup costs, the club will rent out the pool at $4 an hour, well below competitors' costs of $10 - $20 an hour.

Area schools (public and secondary) and separate schools are chief targets of the club as patrons for the new service. A spokesman said at Thursday night's meeting, "the bulk of day-time hours will be devoted to school use."

Schools from across the Quinte area will take part in the offer. A special meeting will be held in King George Public School, Jan. 11 for representatives of interested schools.

Other community groups will be invited to use pool facilities in the evenings under certain conditions.

Any group pays the standard rental fee but cannot charge its own members to make a profit; groups must provide their own supervision (life guarding) and "leave it as you found it" will be insisted upon by a board of directors who will govern the new service.

The Inn will still be responsible for utility costs such as gas, heat and water and will handle water cleaning. The Inn will also be responsible for certain upgrading jobs of the pool's electrical system.

Total cost to the club will be in the neighborhood of $3,200 each month. A substantial portion of this bill will be handled by the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund, whose representatives were also present at Thursday night's meeting to witness contract signing.

The remainder of the costs will be absorbed by profits derived from the club's own swim instruction program scheduled to begin late in January.

A $2,800 filter system had to be bought by the club. To get things on the road a bank loan was negotiated for the first two months of operation.

If the Inn wishes to withdraw from the contract within the first 12-month lease, two months notice must be given plus 100 percent re-imbursement of the filter cost.

The Kiwanis Club has the option to renew the lease for an additional 12 months. If they elect to do this, an autograph will be required agreement of the filter cost will be paid for over 12 monthly payments from the Inn.

When all the bills are paid, the club wants to be neither in the red or the black.

"We don't want to lose money on the service but on the other hand, if we find we are making money we will lower costs to the public to arrive at a break even point," said Murray Workman, Kiwanis member and chief organizer.

A number of free public swims will also be offered in the program.

The carnival will be formally opened Feb. 1 with a torch light parade.

No-profit Business Started

The Quinte Kiwanis Club of Belleville has gone full-time in its sponsoring of pool activities, using the Black Hawk Pool on North Front Street. Debbie Baptie, representing the Black Hawk Motor Inn, shows Kiwanis president Elvin Carr where to sign contracts for the one-year lease while Ted Branton, president of the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund watches. The Yardmen are providing substantial financial backing for the program.

Carnival Shaping Up

Movement is picking up for Belleville's Winter Carnival, scheduled for the first week-end of February.

Off to a slow, hesitant start in the fall, committees have sprung up, proposing events to the major carnival coordinating committee and proceeding with final details.

Playing a somewhat different role this year, the carnival committee — in the words of chairman Ed McClure, "is not deciding what must be scheduled, rather taking the available resources and co-ordinating a smooth four-day carnival."

Well past the stage of "do you think we should do this?" the steadily growing group of organizers attending regular meetings are ironing out last minute details in established events.

Although there are some changes, such as length of the carnival which lasted an entire week last year; many features of past carnivals will be retained, offering a more concentrated itinerary of activity, said Burrows and Frost Insurance agent Mr. McClure.

Snow machine rides, bonfire, high school hockey tournaments, dances and a beer fest will make returns.

An "attractive addition," to be included in this year's winter get-together will be sleigh and cutter rides, sponsored by Belleville's senior residents.

As in all other sponsoring committees, the senior citizens will be responsible for completely setting up their fete of the winter showcase. In their case they will have to find real, old cutters and horses.

Not a carnival to cool the feet and frost the nose, there will be lots of appeal for the indoor enthusiast with a Klondike Ball, the beer fest and the pancake breakfast which has become an integral part of the city's carnivals.

"We aren't blowing our (organizers') horns," said McClure. "We are trying to put on a very human carnival with nothing in store except fun for the people who come out. If people don't come and participate, there will not be a carnival."

Toques (red with a white stripe) are selling for $2 and buttons are going for 25 cents.

Engrams will be on the street soon, hailing the winter carnival which will centre it's activities about Zwick's Island, including the sled dog races.

Final Touches

Reviewing blueprints of new Deseronto medical centre last night were (from left) Carl Beattie, Lions Club president; Dr. David Miller and Peter Anderson, Belleville manager of architects Greer and Galloway. Service club initiated project to give town more medical care coverage which has won federal Local Initiatives Program grant.

Mother Pleads Guilty To Defrauding Province

A mother of seven pleaded guilty in Provincial Court Thursday to defrauding the Ontario government of $1,350 in welfare allowances.

Mrs. Eleanor Faye Davis, 6 Janlin Cr., was remanded out of custody until Jan. 23, 1973, while a pre-sentence report is prepared for Judge J. D. Clendenning.

The woman, who applied for assistance on grounds of desertion, said that from December, 1971, to April, 1972, she accepted five cheques for $280 each from the family benefits branch of the ministry of community and social services.

But Corporal Ronald Roberts, a member of the Ontario Provincial Police Anti Rackets Squad, testified that her husband, Gregory Davis, visited the house on numerous occasions during that period.

Many of the visits were to pick up unemployment insurance cheques — the first cashed Nov. 28, 1971 — sent to Mrs. Davis's address.

D. F. McKee, executive officer in the family benefits branch, said Mrs. Davis first applied for welfare in September, 1970. She was denied assistance because her husband, who left in July, had not been out of the house for the required three months.

The following March, she was given her first cheque for $390 to provide an allowance and health benefits for her and her family. On June 2, 1971, and March 3, 1972, a government inspector visited her home but was told there had been no change in Mrs. Davis's marital status.

During the period she was on welfare, Mrs. Davis purchased $1,800 worth of goods from Cherney's Fur Centre World in Belleville Plaza. She had paid off $1,200 when the

Lake Ice Still Risky

TWEED (Special) — Lakes in the Tweed district are still not entirely safe for snowmobiling and ice fishing, the ministry of natural resources indicates.

In the southern part of the Quinte district lakes and rivers are still unsafe. Maximaw Lake is still open in the centre and is considered unsafe for fishing and pedestrian traffic.

In Bancroft there is 2½ inches of snow on the ground and pedestrians can walk on the lakes with extreme care. The extreme care warning also applies to White Lake, in Dacre, Flavin and Palmer Rapids area ice on lakes can be traversed "with caution".

Fighter Fined

A Belleville man who took part in a Front St. fight Dec. 22 was fined $50 in Provincial Court Thursday.

Richard Mundorff, 20, of Foster Ave. pleaded guilty to causing a public disturbance.

Two city police officers who broke up the scuffle outside the City Hotel said Mundorff had been drinking.

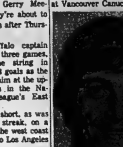
Sabres Crush Chicago

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If opposing teams thought they finally had Gerry Meehan's number, they're about to change their minds after Thursday night.



The lanky Buffalo captain went scoreless for three games, ending a 17-game string in which he scored 18 goals as the Sabres took dead aim at the upper-bracket teams in the National Hockey League's East Division.

They were cut short, as was Meehan's scoring streak, on a two-game trip to the west coast last week, losing to Los Angeles and California.

The Sabres recovered their winning ways back east, against New York Rangers, but Meehan's touch appeared to have vanished until the third period Thursday night when he beat Chicago goaltender Gary Smith three times en route to an 8-3 win over the Black Hawks.

It was the only game scheduled.

Tonight marks an unusually heavy 10-game program with four games—Toronto Maple Leafs at Pittsburgh Penguins, New York Islanders at California Golden Seals, Boston Bruins at Minnesota North Stars and Philadelphia Flyers at Vancouver Canucks.

RENE ROBERT

The win at Buffalo stretched the Sabres unbeaten home ice string this season to 18, including 16 victories, and moved them into a third-place tie with the Rangers, four points behind Boston and five back of the leading Canadiens.

The Sabres were held in close check in the opening 40 minutes by the West Division-leading Black Hawks and led only 3-2 heading into the final period.

Then the Buffalo offence, that had held a 25-16 shot advantage in the first two periods, turned on the firepower with 23 shots at Smith to four by Chicago and beating the Black Hawk goalie for vitumanswered goals.

Rene Robert scored twice for the winners with Tracy Pratt, Larry Mickey and Steve Atkinson adding the others. J.P. Bordeleau and Lou Angotti beat Dave Dryden to give the Hawks a 2-1 first-period lead.

Meehan, a former Toronto chattel, had a mediocre career with the Leafs and Philadelphia and Punch Imlach took him in the 1970 expansion draft and appointed him captain early in the 1971-72 season.

A few eyebrows were raised at the time in view of the then 25-year-old centre's erratic play.

Meehan, however, has responded to the leadership burdens. His 22 goals in 37 games is just two shy of his total career high in Buffalo's first year when he played in 77 games.

Webster Regains Touch

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two years ago they were hailing Tom Webster in Detroit as the Red Wings' saviour, a gifted young shooter who could thread the eye of a needle.

Now, two teams and a near-crippling back injury later, Webster continues to display the knack for scoring that has earned him the nickname, Hawkeye.

The 24-year-old winger from Kirkland Lake, Ont., scored two goals Thursday night to lead New England Whalers to a 5-3 win over Quebec City Nordiques.

The two goals gave Webster the World Hockey Association scoring lead with 30.

In other games, Chicago Cougars trimmed Philadelphia Flyers 6-3 in a contest of division tailenders and Minnesota Fighting Saints stopped Los Angeles Sharks 4-2.

Minnesota and the Sharks battle again tonight at Los Angeles while New England entertains Houston Aeros and Quebec visits Cleveland Crusaders.

Webster, who led the National Hockey League Red Wings in goal scoring with 30 in 1970-71, saw action in only 12 games last year—five with Detroit and seven with California Golden Seals.

He was being counted on heavily by the Seals for this season, having successfully recovered from surgery, and his pledging WHA opened a new world of affluence for Webster after several other California players.

Tim Sheehy, Larry Pleau and Ted Green also scored for the Whalers who carried a 3-0 lead into the third period when Greg Gendron, J. C. Tremblay and Alain Caron notched Les Nordiques goals against Bruce Landon before 7,391 Quebec fans.

Rosaire Paiement, with two, paced Chicago's offence, but it was brilliant netminding by veteran Jim McLeod that preserved the win.

McLeod faced 41 shots, 18 on the first period, to stifle the Philadelphia shooters who were limited to goals by Danny Lawson, Andre Lacroix and Don Herriman.

Jan Popiel, Larry Mavety, Rick Morris and Bob Sicinski added the other goals against Blazers' goalie Bernie Parent in the 7,100 Chicago fans.

There were 7,106 on hand at Los Angeles to watch the Fighting Saints open up a 3-0 lead then coast to victory over the Sharks.

George Morrison led the victorious with two goals, the others going to Ted Hampson and Bill Klatt. Tom Service and Gary Veneruso tallied for Los Angeles.

Third Period Rally Gives Czechs Win

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Czechoslovakia scored five third-period goals to come from behind and defeat Galt Hornets 8-5 in an international - exhibition hockey tournament game Thursday night.

The Hornets, leaders of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, held a 2-1 lead after the first period and a 4-3 edge after two periods.

But the experienced Czechoslovakians including 12 members of the Czechoslovakian national team, pulled ahead scoring two goals 31 seconds apart in the third period.

Czechoslovakia now has won two games without a loss in the 15-game tournament that includes teams from Moscow, Sweden and three OHA teams.

Galt was playing its first game in the tournament before 2,761 fans.

Julius Haas and Richard Farda each scored twice for Czechoslovakia with the other goals going to Josef Golonka, Jaroslav Brucelik, Milan Kajkl and Bohuslav Ebermann.

The Galt marksmen were Howie Dietrich, Vance Miller, Bill Hway, Pete Brennan and John Beechey.

Sonny Pennington in the Hornets' nets faced 45 shots, 21 in the second period. Galt managed 26 shots on goal.

The tournament resumes tonight with Sweden playing in Kingston and Russia playing Czechoslovakia in Toronto.

The 25-game undefeated streak of Toronto Marlboros went down the drain Thursday night as Peterborough Petes blanked them 4-0 in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The third-place Petes got some sharp goaltending from rookie Frank Salive in manhandling the Marlies before 4,818 fans at Peterborough.

At London, the Knights blasted 62 shots at goaltenders Doug Nowels and Dennis Rigoni to defeat Sudbury Wolves 11-2 before 2,266 fans.

For the Petes, it was the second time this season they have won at home against the Marlboros. The first was a 3-4 decision Oct. 12 which handed Toronto its first loss after six games.

In fact, Peterborough has taken five of eight points from Toronto with the help of a tie in two games at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The defeat was Toronto's first since Oct. 15, when the club lost 4-3 to London Knights, and its third in 34 starts. The Marlboros have 56 points, 10 more than Ottawa 67s, and 11 ahead of Peterborough.

Toronto had 19 wins and six ties during the streak which broke the previous OHA Junior undefeated record of 18 games, shared by three other teams.

Salive, playing his fourth straight game in goal since being called up from Pembroke of the Central Junior A League, stopped 31 shots for his first shutout. He has allowed five goals in helping Peterborough win five consecutive games.

Bill Eve, Doug Gibson, Rick Chinnick and Jim Johnston shared the Peterborough goals as the Petes fired 27 shots at netminder Mike Palmateer.

In London, Terry Martin, Dennis Ververgaert and Reg Thomas each picked up five points to strengthen Knights' hold on fourth place. London has 33 points, three more than St. Catharines Black Hawks, and 12 behind Peterborough.

Gardiner Nets Three

HALIFAX (CP) — Dave Gardiner rapped in three goals to lead Nova Scotia Voyageurs to a 4-0 win over Rochester Americans in American Hockey League action here Thursday night.

Gardiner scored what proved to be the winning goal in the opening minutes of the game while killing off a two-minute charging penalty received by team-mate Yvon Lambert.

Lambert got the team's second goal at 4:32 of the second period and a little more than two minutes later Gardiner got his second goal of the game.

Gardiner rounded out the scoring at 15:10 of the second period.

Nova Scotia outshot Rochester 32-22 in a low-key game played before 2,892 fans. Only seven penalties were called in the contest, including majors for fighting to Bob Mc— of Nova Scotia and Richard Graham of Rochester in the third period.

Are Oaks Free Agents?

TORONTO (CP) — A committee of the Ontario Hockey Association will determine whether 20 players with the defunct Oakville Oaks of the OHA Senior Series will become free agents.

The OHA met Thursday with representatives of the Oaks and the eight remaining teams in the league to determine the players' status.

The Oaks folded during the weekend after only nine players showed up for a game at Kingston Friday night.

The Oaks had accumulated some $13,000 in debts and it was decided to shelve operations for the current season when two Oakville businessmen, who had considered taking over the financially-plagued Oaks, pulled out.

Oakville was represented at the meeting by club presidents Gerry Hare and vice-president Russ Fife.

No date was given when the committee was to report back to the OHA.

During the meeting, which was presided over by past president Tubby Schmalz, the senior league convenor, games involving Oakville were re-scheduled up to Jan. 1, including a game tonight at Belleville in which Brantford now will be the opposition.

Perreault Gains Ground

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In the National Hockey League's only game Thursday night, Buffalo's Gilbert Perreault counted two assists in the Sabres 8-3 conquest of Chicago Black Hawks in Buffalo. He now has 49 points on 17 goals and 32 assists to put him in sole possession of third place in the league scoring race. Perreault's linemates Richard Martin and Rene Robert each scored a goal to give them totals of 24 and 21 goals respectively for the season.

East Meets West In Deaf Olympic Trials

The western Canadian basketball representatives in the Federation of the Silent Sports National Finals came into Belleville's action at OSD with a 2-1 edge over the Ontario-Quebec team.

The best 4 five series between the two teams will decide Canada's basketball representation at the 13th World Games for the Deaf to be held in Malmo, Sweden, in July, '73.

Though Bill Conley's eastern team won Wednesday's opener 35-32, the western dribblers, coached by Sidney Brooker of British Columbia, took the following two by narrow margins to earn a 2-1 lead in the series. The western representatives are composed mainly of players from Alberta and British Columbia.

The west defeated the eastern team, coached by Belleville's Conley, 73-62 in the first contest and 57-43 in the second.

The heirs-manship of the National team for the World games will go to the coach of the team which wins the series.

Helping to choose the best players in the tournament will be Harvey Bradley, formerly of California and now resident councillor at the Ontario School for the Deaf in Milton. The better players from the losing team will be added to the victorious squad to complement the Canadian Olympic representatives.

"We're not just looking for the best players. We want players who have ability, but also those who can get along with their teammates and have the will to win. Some players think that scoring points is enough, even if they don't win," said Bradley.

Fate of Oaks' Players As Yet Undecided

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Editor

Can falling Oaks help the Belleville Quintes?

At this stage of the game, it doesn't appear too likely according to team representative Lionel Bodry who attended a special meeting of the OHA Senior A league Thursday to discuss the plight of the now defunct Oakville Oaks.

"We don't know what will happen to the Oakville players. They were put on the floor, but neither was passed," said Bodry. The matter will now be passed to a league sub-committee.

The problem that came closest to being accepted was that the players would be declared free agents, but would remain Oakville property on a "gentlemen's agreement" basis. The Oakville team had indicated that they would like to retain the league next season.

If the players were declared free agents, the Quintes could pick up help from that direction. However, the long travelled distance would be working against Belleville in their bid to entice top stars from the Oaks.

Apparently, Hank Monteith has said that there are only two teams in the league that he won't play for and you can guess which three they might be," noted Bodry, Kingston, Belleville and Owen Sound would represent the greatest travelling distance for Oakville players.

While geographics would appear to work in favor of teams like Brantford, Orillia and Galt there is another factor concerned "with sighing players. "We have already had to turn down a couple of signed players and in order to add more, you have to leave some open cards. We've got two of those left and I imagine most other teams would be in the same boat, so it's unlikely that any club can pick up many of the Oakville players," advised Lionel.

Points already accumulated against Oakville will stand and the remainder of the schedule will be filled by other teams meeting their commitments. In the case of the Quintes that means additional home and home series with the Brantford Forresters and the Galt Hornets.

The Quintes, who were slated to play Oakville in a 9 p.m. meeting tonight at the Belleville Memorial Arena, will face the Brantford Forresters instead.

There will be one major addition to the Belleville roster, defenceman Frank Sawyer. The 24-year-old rear guard played senior hockey in Saint John, New Brunswick, last season and had performed in three games for the Quintes this season before retiring to prepare for a Christmas trip. The loss of defenceman Greg Marchen, injured while playing for Kingston Aces against the Moncrow Dynamos, has necessitated Sawyer's re-activation.

He will be used along with Bodry, Bob Edmunds and Dan Creighton to fill the Quintes defence complement.

Inconsistency Kills Quinte In Queens Tournament

Quinte Saints paid the price for inconsistency in the second day of the Queen's Invitational basketball tournament Thursday.

After sailing through three unbeaten games Wednesday, the Saints were beaten twice yesterday to drop them out of the double elimination tournament.

We finished up at 18-30 the first day and then had to be back for a 9.30 game the next morning, which made the travelling difficult," acknowledged Quinte coach Jim Burray, "but you can't use that for an excuse. LaSalle played four games Thursday and they beat us. We were just too inconsistent. We'd get ahead of a team and then instead of finishing them off, we'd let them come back."

Quinte faced KCVI Thursday morning in a battle of the tournament's only unbeaten teams and took a 41-27 pasting from the Kingston school. "We were tied 19-19 at the half, but our shooting was terrible in the second half. We were missing four shots, everything," explained Quinte coach.

In their afternoon contest the Saints lost 48-41 to LaSalle, a team that they had beaten 44-38 the previous day. Terry Collins hooped 14 points in a losing cause to leave scorer Meagher adding another 12. Murray named the pair as his most consistent performers in the tourney.

In the championship game KCVI edged LaSalle 45-44 for the title.

Blake Kerr Ousted From Orillia Tourney

Blake Kerr Imperial midgets went into Thursday morning's game against Kitchener in the ninth annual Orillia Invitational Midget Hockey tournament with a 2-1 record and came out with a 7-5 loss and disqualification from the "B" championship series.

The Imperials went into Thursday's game off two victories — Ajax, whom they defeated 7-5, and Orillia, who lost to the Belleville team 3-2.

The Kitchener contest started badly for the Imperials according to coach Rob Burrowes. "With a couple of minutes into the game, the score was 2-0 for them, and right after that another went in."

Following a scoreless second period the Imperials went into the third facing a 3-0 deficit. But the Belleville team "came back a long way" according to Burrowes, as they picked up five goals in the final frame. At one point, the Imperials led 5-4 but Kitchener tied it and went ahead 6-5.

Coach Burrowes pulled goalie Jeff Merrill in the final minute in an attempt to capture a tie and an overtime period, but the attempt failed as "a Kitchener player went by Jeff as was skating off the ice and scored. Jeff tried to stop him, but he couldn't in time."

"I felt that we outplayed them," said Burrowes, "but mental lapses gave them the goals."

Hotelmen Tighten Quinte Standings

Belvedere Hotel tightened up the league standings Thursday night as they mounted a scoring spree to down Reid's victory over Central Taxi. Belvedere no longer trail the standings as they tied Central for third behind front running Reid's and Teachers who control first place with 14 points.

Doug Hallam beat the cabbie's goalie Ken Genereaux, for two goals last night, while assisting on two others. John "Shaker" Baker, who added on three goals, joined teammates Elmer Cain, Bob Henderson, Ron Urch, Larry Potter, Frank Pinder and Paul Mackam in scoring on the cabbie netminder.

Wayne Brown and Tom Pierce scored Central's only markups.

In other Quinte League action, Teachers evened out their series with Reid's Dairy 2-2 as they edged the dairymen 4-3. Brian MacKenzie and Bob Crawford netted the winning goals by Dave Seeddon and Al Mott to earn two tallies from Reid's goalie John Gunter. Denny Tompkins worked the Teacher's netting for two goals while Ron Pointer added a single markup.

Teams Enjoy U.S. Tourney

Two Belleville teams went south for the Snowbelt and came back through a storm Thursday night with two victorious under their belts.

The McIlroy - Maines bantam minor all - stars and the house league Dairy Queen pee wee majors came back from the Snowbelt International Invitational Hockey Tournament at Canandaigua having defeated their Hamilton, New York, and Cazenovia opponents once and tied them once.

"In the past," said Dairy Queen coach John Kennedy, "Cazenovia had tournaments with Montreal, but this year they decided to ask Ontario. It was just a small tourney, not big, and the boys relaxed and enjoyed themselves."

The boys had a wonderful time," said Ozzi Bell, coach of the McIlroy-Maines bantams. "It was a good experience for the young lads."

McIlroy-Maines opened the tourney with a 6-4 tie with Cazenovia Tuesday while the Dairy Queen pee wee entry also evened out the scoring with the host team at 5-5.

Randy Bell, Dave McBride and Bob Crawford netted the bantam tallies while Allan Kuntesky, Jeff Runciman, Barry Inwood, Keith Ward and Barry Vance tallied for Dairy Queen.

Vance's tie-up goal came with two seconds remaining on a slap shot from inside the blue line.

In Wednesday's action at the Colgate University rink, Dairy Queen defeated Hamilton 10-0 while the Belleville bantams' took the New York team 9-1.

Runciman and Inwood led the scoring with two goals apiece while Mike Lamirande, Dale Clark, Vance, John Rae, Greg McEachern, and Paul Pukanich worked one each past the American's goalie.

The McIlroy - Maines athletes came from Paul Nicolaidis. Howie Coons, McBride, Doug Shaw, Bell, Jeff Gow, John Glassford, Randy Hutchington and Bob Crawford.

Death Removes Links with Past

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada lost through death in 1972 some links with her historic past.

Joan Montgomerie-Bell died in Calgary Jan. 28 at the age of 95. She was the last surviving child of Col. James F. MacLeod who in 1874 led a United Fort MacLeod in Alberta, first outpost of constituted authority in the West. He was then an assistant commissioner of the North West Mounted Police which became the RCMP. Canada blossomed into the great General Motors of Canada industry in Oshawa a product 300,000 cars a year. Col. Sam, as he was known, was the country's automobile pioneer.

Death took some others who won world fame for Canada. Ogo von J. Allen Harris, who died at the age of 72. He was renowned as designer of the clement Illinium. Dr. Colin MacLeod died in Britain at the age of 61. He discovered in 1944 that DNA—the code by which living cells reproduce themselves—is the prime determinant of heredity.

Jack Kent Cooke won the Diamond Scalls at Henley in Britain in 1935, died in Toronto at the age of 66. George Young, only swimmer to complete the 20-mile marathon between Catalina Island and the California mainland, died in Niagara Falls, Ont., at 63. In 1950 he was named Canadian swimmer of the half-century in a poll conducted by The Canadian Press.

Some other figures who flashed briefly into the news. Michael Sifton, a historical legal battle against Imperial Oil and Canadian Pacific Railway over mineral gas rights on his property at Leduc, Alta. He died in Edmonton at 67. Charlie Chow ran a Chinese restaurant in Northern Ontario, Kirkland Lake at 86 it was shown that wise investments had made him a millionaire.

A few wielded considerable power. Frank Hall, Chief Magistrate during 1967-68 for all rail workers caused waves by operating trains, died at 78. He won improvements in working conditions for railway men and led them through a bitter, 11-day countrywide strike in 1950.

Robert A. Brown Jr., who headed the last of Canada's big independently-owned, oil firms, died at 58. He controlled the huge Home Oil Co. which entered political controversy when the federal government successfully blocked its proposed sale to American interests. It was finally taken over by Consumers Gas of Canada in 1971.

The business world lost Henry Nathanson, 81, pioneer in the Canadian motion picture business, and F. William Nicks, 65, chairman and chief executive officer of the Bank of Nova Scotia; George Maxwell (Max) Ball, chairman of FP Publications Ltd., died at the age of 76.

In journalism and broadcasting there was Steve Major, 74, who had been editor-in-chief and managing editor of Montreal La Presse. He was president of The Canadian Press, Canada's national news-gathering co-operative, during 1959-61.

Roger Ferguson, dean of Canadian sports writers, died at 71. He wrote a sports column for Montreal Star and before that was sports editor of the now-defunct Montreal Herald.

The field of arts and letters lost Alan H. Jarvis, sculptor and historian, who died at 57. He had once been director of the National Gallery of Canada and left that post amid controversy.

Deaths among the clergy included that of Rev. Ian Bennett, 86, the Presbyterian minister who baptized Princess Margriet, third child of Queen Juliana. She was born to Princess Juliana, now queen of the Netherlands, in wartime Ottawa.

Most Rev. John Dixon, former Anglican archbishop of Montreal and metropolitan of Canada, died at 84. Most Rev. Joseph A. O'Sullivan, former Roman Catholic archbishop of Kingston, died at 76. Very Rev. James A. Munro, former moderator of the United Church, died at 72 when he died.

F. Phillipe Brais, who died at 77, was Canada's most famous lawyers. He had once been Liberal MP for Bellechasse, Que., legislative council which was abolished in 1958. Marcel Faribault, QC, author and Conservative constitutional expert, was 63.

Jack Arthur, Canada's most popular entertainers was 67 when he died. Singer with the Don Messer TV show, who was 61 when he died. Ted Reynolds, broadcaster and orchestra leader and singer on TV, was 50 when he died.

Norman McKibbon, 88, was lost to the sport of the international field when he died at 88 but he was best known as promoter of the Dumbells, the vaudeville troupe who took their acts behind front line battlefields of the First World War to the stage at home in Canada.

In sport, Dr. George H. Gilbert, 82, was Canada's oldest living Olympic gold medallist when he died at 84.

Dr. Gilbert claimed two football veterans, Dr. Thomas C. Clark, who played in the 1912 Grey Cup football game and was dean of Hamilton pediatrics, was 82 when he died. Dr. Harry L. Batstone, 72, was one of the original members of the Canadian Football Hall of Fame.

Bill Ezinicki, five times winner of the Vezina Trophy as best goalie in the National Hockey League and player for seven seasons with Montreal Canadiens, died at 57. Doug Bentley, member of the Hockey Hall of Fame, died at 56. Walter (Turk) Broda, once a goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs, was 58 at his death.

New Device Traps Pollutants in Auto

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A research firm here has developed a device to trap pollutants inside an automobile engine.

M. R. S. Development Holdings says its emission control liquidizer, a closed-circuit cooling system, collected six ounces of pollutants in one hour from a car at idling speed.

Albert Z. Morin, president of Trans-Continental Purification Research and Development Ltd., who invented the liquidizer, claims it will eliminate toxic heat emission from the exhaust system; allow for the replacement of the present metal exhaust system with a plastic type; and remove a potential explosion hazard inherent in the old exhausts.

He says when raw exhaust gases from an internal combustion engine enter the closed-circuit cooling system, the temperature of the gases is reduced to 33 degrees Centigrade from 275 degrees. "This reduction in heat enables the device's filtering system to effectively trap the solid pollutants in the discharge," says Mr. Morin.

Soot, carbon and condensed gaseous vapors are thus prevented from escaping into the atmosphere.

Tests show that gas discharged has less than 1 per cent carbon monoxide content and undetectable hydro-carbon content.

The liquidizer, in eliminating the need for a high-temperature engine temperature, prevents the formation of nitrogen oxides and reduces smog formation.

Since exhaust gases are cooled as soon as they leave the manifold, the need for a heat-retardation and costs rising the rate of profit return in the pulp and paper industry, while improved over 1971, is in the two- to three-per-cent range, considered far too low to attract new investment to build new capacity to meet demand.

—Early in 1971, about 80 per cent of Canada's pulp and paper firms began negotiations with unions for new labor contracts.

The comeback in the pulp and paper industry has been reflected in the improved performance of the industry's shares on the stock exchanges.

Quebec producers, which account for about 40 per cent of Canadian newsprint production, expect profit to be near the per cent of sales, up from one per cent during the slump year of 1971.

To improve the profit picture, the industry is looking for a reduction in corporate taxes, which are higher in Canada than in the U.S. or Scandinavia, and adjustments in freight rates to make them more equitable with transportation costs in the U.S.

However, U.S. price controls are outside the influence of revenues from Canadian companies. Although they are not bound by the controls, Canadian firms are likely must remain competitive.

Newsprint Production On Upward Trend

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian newsprint producers experienced a substantial increase in 1972 as demand began an upward trend which industry executives feel will be maintained through 1973 and into 1974.

Production in 1972 was expected to be 97 per cent of capacity—marching the first year of growth since 1969—and next year it is expected to reach 92 to 94 per cent.

And unlike 1971, when the industry operated at only 81 per cent of capacity, there were no plant shut-downs, layoffs or cutbacks.

The improvement is attributed to a resurgence in demand in Canada and the United States, which purchases about 70 per cent of Canadian newsprint shipments.

Newsprint accounts for about 45 per cent of Canadian pulp and paper production in tons, and is considered the prime indicator of the industry's performance.

A. D. Hamilton, chairman of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said recently that newsprint demand in the U.S. in the next two years should increase about three per cent annually.

He said it was in March 1955 a ton, has been held down in part because of U.S. price controls. Some Canadian producers felt the price should be about $180.

—With stiff price competi-

in the U.S. has announced a Feb. 1 increase in price is $189 a ton, but Canadian producers say this is not enough.

"An increase in the order of about $20 will be needed within the next few months," one marketing vice-president said, but he doubted it would come. He said $189 is likely to be the base price for 1973.

Newsprint demand varies sharply from month to month, and any short-term rush could cause a temporary supply squeeze. No new capacity is planned in Canada in the next two years.

In the case of wages, Canadian companies note that controls in the U.S. keep wage increases at about five per cent but add that there are no limits in Canada.

Labor Scene Facing Tough Bargaining Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The outlook on the labor-management front is for tough bargaining and potential disruption—in major transport services and bell-wether manufacturing industries.

Due for renewal in 1973 are work contracts governing the pay and employment conditions of rail and air transport workers, automobile and paper makers, miners and smelters.

The New Year opens with a dispute directed - from the old: 26,000 postal workers are on work Jan. 8 on a contract settlement proposed before Christmas by a conciliation board. Postal unions there have already recommended rejection.

While points of potential friction in 1973 are many, the year would have to produce unprecedented trouble to match the magnitude of labor-management disputes in 1972.

The year saw a record number of man-days lost to industrial dispute. Parliament forced an end to separate, protracted dock strikes in Quebec and British Columbia. Garbagemen withdrew service in Canada's three biggest cities. And public servants in Quebec staged the biggest strike in Canadian history.

Among major contracts to be renewed in 1973 are those of railway and airline workers.

Contract talks have already begun between railways and seven unions representing rail shopcraft, their old contract expires Dec. 31.

Other rail contracts that must be renewed are those of 2,700 CP Rail locomotive engineers and other workers in CP's Western and Atlantic regions. Their current contracts expire at midnight March 25 and 1,150 CP Air machinists April 30.

The airline pilots are expected to press anew in contract talks for security arrangements that will help prevent blackings.

Air service employees in the federal government, including 1,800 air traffic employees and 2,500 maintenance technicians, also have contracts expiring—the technicians July 29, and traffic employees Dec. 31, 1973.

Strikes by air traffic controllers and maintenance employed air travel in Canada early in 1972.

Among the major industrial contracts to be negotiated this year are those for nearly 30,000 auto workers employed by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The majority of the tough-bargaining auto workers are employed in Ontario although some are in Quebec.

Other significant contracts to be negotiated are those for paperworkers in B.C., Newfoundland and Quebec; miners at Thompson, Man.; Quebec aluminum workers; General Electric workers in Ontario, and clothing workers in Montreal and Winnipeg.

Wages in 1972 piled up record losses—about seven million man-days and boosted strikes and lockouts involving $30,000 workers or more to 23 from 11 the year before. A major share of the man-days lost was due to walkouts by about 300,000 Quebec public employees in March, April and May.

Unemployment remained unmet in Quebec were protests against the attempt of court sentences handed down to Marcel Pepin, president of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU); Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, and Yvon Charbonneau of the Quebec Teachers' Corporation.

The three were given the sentences for advising strikers to disobey a court injunction ordering them to return to work.

The Quebec upheaval led to a split in the CNTU as 60,000 workers followed former CNTU vice-president Paul Emilien Delpe, treasurer Jacques Dion and service director Amedee Daigle into a new congress—Central des Syndicates Democratiques (CSD).

Dock strikes that tied up Quebec and British Columbia in the summer led federal back-to-work legislation by Parliament July 7 and Sept. 7 respectively.

Separate garbage strikes in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver, late-night cut of rolling refuse in heaps on the streets before workers and city managers agreed to terms.

Among the work stoppages included strikes by Ontario and Quebec hydro workers, a lockout by B.C. construction employers of 30,000 workers, and a three-week strike by 28,000 B.C. loggers.

On the legislative front, Parliament passed amendments to the Canada Labor Code which included a controversial section providing re-negotiation of work contracts in some cases when changes in production methods threaten jobs.

The federal government raised the minimum wage rate for workers under its jurisdiction by $1 cents to $1.80 an hour. B.C.'s increased by 10 cents to $1.85 and Ontario's minimum is due to increase to $1.80 from $1.65 Feb.

Steelers Show Confidence

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "We'll beat the Miami Dolphins," Terry Bradshaw said, a glucose tube dangling from his left arm at Divine Providence Hospital.

"Miami's a heck of a team, but there's no reason they should beat Pittsburgh. Steelers."

That kind of confidence abounds in Pittsburgh and Steeler players already talk of their trip to the Super Bowl. The Dolphins' 15-0 record seems to scare nobody.

With Bradshaw, the Pittsburgh quarterback, there's nothing but victorious thoughts even though he was flattened temporarily Thursday by a 36-hour virus.

The Dolphins, champions of the Eastern Division, meet Central Division king Pittsburgh Sunday for the National Football League's American Conference title at Three Rivers Stadium.

Miami's flies here today for final preparations.

"I'll tell you about Miami's defence," said Bradshaw, adjusting his huge eyeglasses.

"They're terrible, dirty. But, I'm sure we can prove the ball . . . and put some points on the board."

Bradshaw said he "spent the whole night (Wednesday) in the bathroom, sicker than a dog." Then, at 8 a.m., his wife called the Steelers' trainer.

Terry was in the hospital by noon.

"I'm not missing a thing," he said.

"Wednesday was O-Day (of-fence) and I got in all my work. Thursday is D-Day (defence) and they didn't need me, anyway."

Three years ago, Bradshaw was drafted No. 1 out of Louisiana Tech and received a bruising introduction to pro football on a 1-13 Steeler team.

"I'll tell you, from 1-13 to 13-1 is a glorious feeling," he said. "But we're not stopping now. Miami's good, but we'll beat them."

Staubach's Scrambling Doesn't Worry Allen

WASHINGTON (AP) — "If you do the right things on defence, anybody can be playing quarterback and it won't much matter," Washington coach George Allen said.

Allen said Thursday he believed his Redskins would be facing Craig Morton Sunday in the game to decide the National Conference's entry into Super Bowl VII. But he figured wrong.

A few hours after the Redskins finished their closed workout, Dallas Cowboys announced they would go with quarterback Roger Staubach in the National Football League game at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

The fact that Staubach, more of a threat to run, would start in place of Morton, prone to stay in the pocket, didn't concern the Redskins' coach.

"We are not preparing differently for either of them," Allen said.

Allen, who sprung a five-man front line on Green Bay to topple the Packer's running game, also said he didn't expect any surprises from the Dallas defence.

"We've played them twice this year and we pretty much know what they've got," he said. "It's just a matter of dealing with it."

Washington defensive tackle Bill Brundige didn't share his coach's lack of concern over Staubach's selection.

"I'd rather be facing Morton," Brundige said. "Staubach's more of a scrambler and I just don't like to run too much."

"We have to play more tenacious and we've got to contain him. And we really can't use that five-man line as effectively against him."

Morton, who took over Dallas' signal calling when Staubach suffered a pre-season injury, directed the Cowboys to a 10-4 record, one game behind Washington in the East Division, and two touchdowns with the NFC's wildcard berth.

But it was Staubach who got Dallas past San Francisco and into Sunday's game. He replaced Morton in the fourth quarter last Saturday and, trailing by 16 points, brought the Cowboys within range of a Toni Fritsch field goal, then passed for two touchdowns to beat the 49ers, 30-28.

"You can't go into a game thinking 'we've got to protect the pass' or 'we've got to stop the run,'" Allen said. "Or you're going to get burned.

"It's like a batter who goes up to the plate worrying about the knuckle ball. He watches three fast balls go by for strikes and goes back to the dugout still waiting for the knuckler."

Bullets Hold First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's first-place position in the National Basketball Association's Central Division balanced precariously on the rim of the basket twice in the final moments of the Bullets' game against second-place Atlwalkpoed Buffalo Braves 107-65.

Both times, the ball fell without going through the hoop and Baltimore hung on for a 112-111 victory over the second-place Hawks to move 1½ games ahead of Atlanta.

Elsewhere, New York Knicks walkpoed Buffalo Braves 107-88, Milwaukee Bucks defeated Detroit Pistons 115-91 and Golden State Warriors beat Cleveland Cavaliers 118-105.

The Hawks pulled to within one point of the Bullets at 110-109 with 15 seconds left on a basket by Lou Hudson, who have 25 points. Pete Maravich and then Hudson both missed short jump shots that would have put Atlanta ahead.

Baltimore finally grabbed a rebound and Phil Chenier dropped in a layup with four seconds left for the game's 30 points.

Walt Frazier's 19 points led New York.

Beavers Edge Laval

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sherbrooke Beavers scored a goal with just under four minutes left in the game to eke out a 3-4 win over Laval Nationals in Quebec Major Junior A Hockey League action Thursday night.

In the only other scheduled league game, Shawinigan Bruins overcame a 3-0 deficit and scored five straight goals to down Montreal Red, White and Blue 5-3.

Sherbrooke's Francois Rochon scored three goals while Renaud Perron and Marc Laboisse added singles. Bernard Rochelieau, Mike Haramis, Denis Martel and Andre Perreault scored for Laval.

The victory moved Sherbrooke into a tie with Sorel Black Hawks for fifth place in the standings, each with 27 points. The Beavers have a game in hand.

At Shawinigan, Jean Bernier scored twice while Guy Delbec, Onil Leclerc and Alain Lessard added single goals for the Bruins. Andre St. Laurent scored two goals and Jean-Pierre Germain once for Montreal.

The victory moved the Bruins into third place in the standings with 35 points, two ahead of Laval.

League action resumes tonight with league-leading Cornwall Royals playing the Rangers at Drummondville, Shawinigan Bruins at Quebec City to challenge the second-place Remparts, Trois-Rivieres Ducs in Sherbrooke to meet the Beavers and Sorel Black Hawks visiting Montreal Red, White and Blue.

WHAT IS NOW
THE FASTEST-SELLING
ACCOMMODATION IN ONTARIO??

Condominium Townhouses
What Else? ? ? Every one of the 3 bedrooms in Ontario Condominium Townhouses are selling faster than attractive one-storey bungalows. Why? Because they offer two-bath projects for less than you'd pay for a one-bath. We now have two such projects for sale — and anyone earning $5,000.00 and over with down payments starting at $711.00. Get on the bandwagon. Now is the time to make your move. Let us show you these projects now.

CENTRE HALL

ADULT NON-FICTION
ALL ABOUT BIKES AND BICYCLING CARE, REPAIR, AND SAFETY — ADL Max
How to ride, purchase and maintain your cycle plus a list of cycling clubs and magazines. Good line drawings and diagrams aid the interpretation of the text.
GUIDE TO ENTERTAINING — Better Homes and Gardens. All sorts of helpful ideas, for newcomers and experienced hostesses alike. Buffets, dinners, entertaining on short notice, etiquette, winter parties, cocktail parties, etc. Seems like quite a useful book.
ADULT FICTION
STRANGERS IN COMFORT — Gaffney, Peggy Hodge, Jack Aiken
Marian Freeche, an abandoned wife in the mid-thirties, is a lady companion to sometimes difficult young Stella on a tour of Greece. Odd things happen, not accidental, and if it wasn't for the nice attentive professor, . .For women patrons who will enjoy the enthrallment.
THE DEATH OF ATTILA — Haliard, Cecil. If you are a historical fiction fan, this well-paced exciting evocation of a barbaric age in middle Europe with its vividly brings to life the full dramatic effect will be greatly appreciated. By the author of the popular THE SUN FALLS.
THE TEMPTATION OF JACK ORKNEY and Other Stories — Lessing, Doris
Twelve stories and a novella by a master storyteller round out the collection of complex, emotional and intellectual tales. It's rich with irony, warmth and clear-headedness their variety is amazing.
A STORY LIKE THE WIND — Van der Post, Laurens. — Having long descriptive passages, with little dialogue or action, concerns the story of European, Bushman and his coming to terms with life in the African subcontinent. By the author of the LOST WORLD OF THE KALAHARI BUSHMEN, this too, shows his strong love and concern for the land and peoples.
SNOWBIRE — Whitney, Phyllis A. — Whitney, in the setting of our craftman Miss Whitney has written, In the Poconos, Linda Earle takes a job as hostess and runs into all sorts of mystery doings in the McCabe family, owners of the resort she initially enjoyable for women patrons.

REPRESENTED CANADA

Canadian artists Gershon Iskowitz and Walter Redinger, who recently appeared on Channel 4's showcase series, both represented Canada last summer at the Venice Biennale art festival.

Strikes Set Record

A record number of man-days lost to labor-management disputes, 7 million, is forecast for 1972. The New Year opens with dispute inherited from the old; 28,000 postal workers are to vote on Jan. 3 on a contract settlement. The outlook on the labor - management front is for tough bargaining potential disruption — in major transport services and manufacturing industries. (CP Newsmap)

Diplomacy Initiatives Stole 1972 Spotlight

By DAVID NICHOLSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A sudden sprint toward peace in Vietnam late in the year and a marked lessening of tension between the major powers gave a measure of hope during 1972 in a world still haunted by bitter sectarian fighting in Ireland.

The year also saw an alarming rise in terrorist acts in which innocent civilians were the main victims. It also saw what may have been the last time in this century that man walked on the surface of the moon.

The peace talks came during a year which saw a flurry of international diplomatic manoeuvrings highlighted by visits to China and the Soviet Union by President Richard Nixon of the United States. Nixon said the trips had "changed the world."

Despite wide differences that remained between East and West, the visits produced solid agreements on disarmament, international security and trade.

The first firm indication of an imminent settlement in Vietnam came during Nixon's successful re-election campaign when his chief security adviser, Henry Kissinger, proclaimed that "peace is at hand."

Despite apparent accord between Washington and Hanoi on most of the ceasefire terms, the United States encountered difficulties with South Vietnam, which feared its position would be weakened by concessions to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

A fresh round of talks began in Paris and, although progress seemed agonizingly slow, the U.S. made clear that Saigon's reservations would not be allowed to block an agreement.

One major question still unresolved was how effectively a ceasefire could be supervised.

Nixon's visit to China in February was the first by an American president since the Communists won control of the mainland in 1949. It reflected a growing U.S. awareness of China's developing international influence.

Nixon met Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai and the communique that followed acknowledged the differences that separated the two countries but also contained a pledge of peace.

Nixon's China visit was followed three months later by summit meetings in Moscow with Soviet leaders. These resulted in a wide range of agreements, including one limiting the development of

Driver Must Know Licence Is Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario motorist cannot be convicted of driving while his licence is suspended unless he knows of the suspension, the Ontario Court of Appeal has ruled.

The court, in a decision made public Thursday, overthrew four convictions against Daniel Finn of Toronto, who had testified he did not know his licence had been suspended.

The transport department uses registered mail to notify motorists of suspensions but in Finn's case there was no evidence that notification had been sent him.

defensive missiles.

In Europe, new agreements were signed by the leaders of the two Germanies, while progress in Asia could be seen in resumed relations between China and Japan and talks between North and South Korea.

Nixon's international summitry undoubtedly helped contribute to his smashing re-election victory over Democrat George McGovern in November. McGovern, a relative unknown at the beginning of the year, captured his party's presidential nomination after impressive showings in a string of state primary elections. But his campaign was damaged by the revelation shortly after his nomination that his vice-presidential running-mate, Senator Thomas Eagleton, had undergone extensive psychiatric care.

Although Nixon did little active campaigning, the size of his triumph was among the largest in recent U.S. political history.

In other elections, Chancellor Willy Brandt was re-elected in West Germany while Labor party gains took power in Australia and New Zealand.

Violence remained a recurring nightmare in Northern Ireland as the Irish Republican Army pressed its campaign to reunite the north with the Irish republic to the south.

Spurred by the growing IRA attacks as well as swelling hard-line Protestant reaction, Britain took over direct control of Northern Ireland in March but all efforts to bring peace proved elusive.

The arrest in Dublin late in the year of Sean MacStiofain, leader of the IRA's militant provisional wing, signalled a new crackdown on the guerillas in both Ulster and the republic.

As the year's death toll passed the 450 mark late in the year, Britain indicated it planned a major policy statement early in the new year on its plans for Ulster.

The slaughter of 11 Israeli athletes at the Olympic Games in Munich by a group of Arab guerrillas and the killing of 26 persons at the Tel Aviv airport by three Japanese working for the Arabs prompted worldwide concern over the growth of international terrorism.

A group of Arab commandos invaded the Israeli Olympic quarters in September, killing two team members on the spot. The nine others, as well as five of the Arabs and a policemen, died in a shoot-out at a nearby airport.

Airplane hijackings, for political and extortionist reasons, continued unchecked but hopes for international action against terrorism and aerial piracy faded when a group of Non-aligned countries at the United Nations blocked anything more than a study of the question.

Israeli wrath over Arab terrorism led to several cross-border raids against her Arab neighbors, but no sustained hostilities erupted during the year.

The no-war, no-peace stalemate continued as the Arabs unofficially united at a new war while Israel pressed forward with its program of establishing new settlements in the area it won in the 1967 war.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat expelled 20,000 Soviet military advisers from his country in July, saying Russia had not lived up to its arms commitments.

The United States ended its Apollo series of manned moon flights with two missions. Four years of manned exploration contributed a wealth of new lunar information, but the U.S. said it has no plans for a new series and there were predictions that the next such flights might not be made until the end of the century.

Britain, Ireland and Denmark all prepared for their entry into the expanded European Common Market in 1973 but voters in Norway rejected market membership for their country.

While readying for its new European role, Britain was hit by long strikes by coal miners and dock workers. A state of emergency was declared before either could be ended.

Gen. Idi Amin of Uganda ordered all Asians holding British passports out of the African country. Many left for Britain but other countries, including Canada and the United States, accepted some.

The most severe earthquake in Iran in five years claimed more than 4,000 lives in the worst disaster of 1972. In others, 464 miners were trapped after an explosion in a coal mine in Rhodesia; more than 450 persons drowned in floods in the Philippines; sudden flooding took 227 lives in Rapid City, S.D.; and a tornado storm Agnes claimed 116 lives after cutting a wide swath through the eastern U.S.

Plane crashes also took a heavy toll. The loss of one Soviet airliner near Moscow killed 176 persons and the crash of another near Berlin claimed 156. Britain had its worst air crash in June when 118 died as a jet went down near London and 115 perished in the crash of an Alitalia craft in Sicily.

Students Play At Business

TORONTO (CP) — Thousands of Ontario secondary school students are getting a first-hand look into "big business" operations.

The Business Game sponsored by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario and International Computers of Canada Ltd., gives students an opportunity to manipulate millions of dollars while running imaginary companies.

A computer keeps track of each "company's" progress. Students are given complete power in making company decisions including stock transactions, pricing and sales policy.

A chartered accountant sits in each team of students as an adviser but all final decisions are made by the students themselves.

About 7,000 pupils from 200 Ontario schools are competing in the game which will end with a final round in June in Toronto. The winners — the ones with the most prosperous company — receive a trophy.

"The game allows students' businessmen to borrow money to expand their operations or to sell assets if the need arises," the institute says. "Interest is earned on invested funds and taxes are paid from profits."

The institute started the game four years ago with 17 Toronto high schools and plans to expand even further in future years.

Federal-provincial Dealings Went Well in Past Year

OTTAWA (CP) — In the complex field of federal-provincial relations officials here say that 1972 was the most productive year in history.

Yet, it seems that every time one problem is solved at least two more are created.

The long-smouldering issue of drafting a new Canadian constitution to redefine federal-provincial powers faded further into the background during 1972, despite the March report of a joint Commons — Senate committee recommending revisions.

But while there was less publicity on federal-provincial activities, there were actually more meetings, and more decisions, than ever before. By the end of the year there had been some 30 federal-provincial meetings at the ministerial or deputy ministerial level, and an estimated 300 federal-provincial committees and sub-committees were in existence.

And a new entity—multiculturalism—emerged in the future. After the first tri-level conference of federal, provincial and municipal politicians and officials in November, it appeared certain that the big municipalities would revert to their old denominator, role as "creatures of the provinces."

While the Toronto conference stopped short of endorsing a permanent structure to deal with issues, it was agreed there would be another tri-level conference this year. All the conference did was carefully lay the groundwork for a relationship among the three levels of government.

"It is not a big step forward," said Toronto Chairman Albert Campbell, "but ... changes in government come very slowly so we are thankful for small mercies."

The emergence of municipalities as a political force in 1972 may prove to be the biggest development of traditional federal-provincial relations.

Within days of that first, and apparently successful Toronto conference, Claude Lanois, secretary-general of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities said municipalities would like a voice on agencies like the Canadian transport commission and the International Joint Commission.

It may be a slow process. With the exception of Manitoba, none of the provincial governments appeared willing to bring municipalities into any permanent machinery involving the federal government. A brief endorsed by the nine other provinces said the provincial governments must continue to play the leading role in the municipal sphere.

Meanwhile, as municipalities inched toward a greater role in domestic government affairs, Ottawa was fully occupied with the provinces, which appeared to be uniting on many major issues.

Quebec, which used to be isolated in its frequent disagreements with the federal government, discovered in 1972 that it could sit back and let other provinces do the arguing.

When all 10 provincial premiers met in Halifax last August, it was Ontario and Alberta that led the fight for a bigger share of total tax revenue and less federal involvement in social security fields.

Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa found himself in the comfortable position of endorsing the position of other provinces on many issues. Even when coastal provinces held claim to offshore mineral rights, Mr. Bourassa was able to let the four Atlantic Provinces do most of the talking.

The Quebec premier recently said that his government will place a priority on cultural matters over economic ones in future talks with Ottawa.

One of these "cultural matters" involves cable television — and legislation to bring this under provincial control has been before the Quebec legislature for nearly a year.

Now, as a result of a November conference in Quebec City, all provinces have decided to "seek agreement on a set of principles governing provincial action." In the field. Officials here say there may be a united provincial stand on these principles when provincial ministers responsible for communication met again in April.

While federal officials talk of the great productivity of 1972, it was difficult to point to any breakthroughs in such areas as financial arrangements, social security, or even offshore mineral rights. In fact, there are probably more areas of contention than a year ago, including such new issues as Alberta's request for a greater say in the export of natural resources.

But what they are able to point to is a greatly improved consultative process, which has probably eliminated many irritants before they surface publicly.

Tuna Nets Kill Many Dolphins

DETROIT (AP) — "Boycott the Audubon Society."

That's the slogan on bumper stickers being sold by the Detroit Audubon Society as part of an effort to bring public pressure against the killing of dolphins by tuna fishermen.

The society and other conservationists are urging the boycott of tuna products because, they say, as many dolphins are being killed in tuna nets that they have become an endangered species.

Many commercial fishermen have long been known to encircle schools of porpoises — which are actually dolphins — with a net that is towed by a ship in narrowing circles until the tuna are encased in the loop.

The method yields large catches, but critics claim large numbers of dolphins are trapped along with the tuna. Spokesmen for the tuna industry insist the fishermen are doing everything they can to avoid killing the dolphins.

The recently passed federal Marine Mammal Protection Act includes some regulation of the killing of other sea mammals, but specifically excludes the dolphin.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, DEC. 30

Aries (March 21-April 19): The brightest idea now is to get done with whatever you must do so early and then organize unhurried.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Spread the work as well as the rewards for doing it, get coverage on all fronts. Social activity flows readily, enjoy it.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Be tactful but get others to join you in getting a move on! It's time and for some things overtime. Pursue romantic aspirations.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Today promises a generally pleasant atmosphere. Gather your friends and neighbors for fun, share your favorite pastimes.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): As you make the most of a good day, look ahead and see how much you have going for you, what lack you've had in getting the Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Younger people around you bring both cheer and a new puzzle to solve. Parties naturally crowned the business efforts.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Now that it's both weekend and the year's end, there may be people handy who are not normally accessible.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A touch of showmanship hurts nobody, and spur of the moment ventures have a better than usual probability of success.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec 21): Being yourself and being in an appropriate place doing the sensible things attracts interesting personal rewards.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There are good ideas in plenty going the rounds now. You can sort them out better if you are making some travels of your own.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Talents you didn't fully appreciate come to the surface naturally when you extend yourself to please others.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Your energy and will to be creative should be thoroughly expressed. Crowd into the day all that you can.

Ford Will Not Share In Urban Transit Test

TORONTO (CP) — Ford of Canada will not participate in building a prototype of an advanced urban transit system for display at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto next August, Roy F. Bennett, company president said Thursday.

This leaves two firms, Hawker Siddeley Canada Ltd., subsidiary of a British firm, and Krauss-Maffei AG of Munich, Germany, to construct a system that could serve as the basis of the intermediate mass transit system Premier William Davis has proposed for Toronto, Ottawa and Hamilton.

Gordon Carton, Ontario transport minister, said Ford could not meet the speed and capacity requirements the ministry is calling for.

Mr. Bennett said the company's action should not be misconstrued as any dissatisfaction with the government program. He said Ford will be looking for an opportunity to participate in Ontario urban transit programs as they develop."

Following the CNE display, one of the companies will be chosen to build a demonstration track and vehicles that will be in operation in 1974.

Government requirements call for a running speed of 50 miles an hour and a capacity of 20,000 passengers an hour.

In October, Mr. Davis announced the province is willing to spend $1.36 billion in the next decade to develop alternatives to expressways and subways.

Bidding Quiz

You have the following hand, neither side vulnerable:

♠K3 ♥AQ73 ♦J74 ♣KQ1085

1. Partner bids One Heart, you respond One heart, and partner rebids Two Hearts. What would you bid now?

2. Partner bids One Heart, you respond Three Clubs, partner bids Three Diamonds, and when you respond Three Hearts he bids Four Hearts. What would you bid now?

3. You deal and bid One Club, partner responds One Diamond, you bid One Heart, and partner responds Three Notrump. What would you bid now?

4. You deal and bid One Club, partner responds Two Spades, you bid Three Hearts, and partner responds Four Spades. What would you bid now?

5. Six clubs. Partner indicates 18 or 19 points by his jump to four notrump. You also should therefore bid a slam, knowing the combined point count comes to at least 33. As your hand may be expected to provide one or perhaps ruffing tricks, it is better to bid six clubs than five notrump, though the chances are that partner can make either contract.

2. Pass. You have already made a jump-shift, showing 17 or more points, and partner has shown no interest whatever in a slam. Therefore, with nothing further to add to your story, you should pass. Change the king of spades to the ace and you would owe partner one more bid, preferably four spades.

Partner cannot surely has a minimum opening bid on this sequence. He may have one of these three hands:

1. ♠4 7 6 ♥10 6 5 3 ♦A K Q 8 7 ♣A
2. ♠A Q ♥K 9 8 4 ♦Q 10 8 5 4 ♣7
3. ♠K Q 9 ♥J 8 5 4 ♦A Q 9 7 ♣J 4

3. Four notrump. No suit has been agreed upon as trump, this is not Blackwood—it is merely an invitation to a slam. Ordinarily, partner will have 16 or 17 points for his jump to three notrump (two notrump would have shown 13 to 15). Partner will usually pass four notrump, but if he has exceptionally good values he will continue towards a slam.

4. Six spades. The K-9 are more than ample support for a fifth spade, has been bid twice. You certainly have the values represented by your three aces, a possible shade more, and the only real question is whether partner has the wherewithal to carry on if a slam is imminent, but the next move must come voluntarily from partner.

Tomorrow: Vanishing trick.

Immigrants Too Numerous To Absorb Says Economist

TORONTO (CP) — Since 1967 Canada has had more immigrants than the working force can cope with, William R. Dymond, a University of Ottawa professor, said Thursday.

He said the federal government's Canadian Manpower Centres (CMC) are not as successful at finding jobs for the unemployed as older job-locating methods.

Dr. Dymond, a former official of the department of manpower and immigration, told a meeting of the United Social Science Association here that while CMC was approached by 75 per cent of all job hunters, only 11 per cent were successful, compared with ratios of up to 27 per cent by other means.

Canada's manpower policy had been influenced by political and institutional pressures, he said.

"In the early '60s, immigration certainly contributed to meeting labor market pressures. Since 1967 there has probably been certain immigration than the labor market would absorb and so it may very well have added to unemployment while playing only a marginal role in meeting job shortages."

Dr. Dymond, now an economist and manpower specialist, said federal manpower policies should be integrated with overall social and economic policies for the 1970s.

He claimed that millions of dollars are being spent on adult retraining for jobs that exist for only a small proportion of the graduates.

He was speaking at one of the meetings of the American Economic Association conference which about 8,000 government, business and academic economists from all areas of North America are attending.

Earlier, Canadian-born economist John Kenneth Galbraith, AEC president, said that if peace talks to end the Vietnam war are not concluded, the United States and the world will have been victims of "one of the really great frauds of history."

He called the war "barbarous and insane." He and other leading members of the association signed a statement protesting the resumption of bombing. He said they did so in a personal capacity and not as members of the AEC.

Contradictory views on the benefits of multinational corporations were heard at a joint meeting of AEF and the American Finance Association.

Prof. A. E. Safarian of the University of Toronto said the presence of such corporations is apt to generate net economic benefits for the host country, depending on taxes, competition and regulation. But Andrew F. Brimmer, a member of the board of governors of the U.S. federal reserve system, said he had found that multinational banks contribute significantly to monetary instability in the U.S.

He said opposition to some features of multinational corporation behavior has grown to the extent that Congress is likely to act against them in its coming session.

H. Ian Macdonald, Ontario deputy treasurer, told a panel on fiscal federalism in Canada and the U.S. that the provinces will inevitably obtain a larger share of Canadian income tax revenues purely in response to their responsibility to finance essential public services.

He said that whether this takes the form of orderly provincial tax increases to match federal tax cuts or haphazard tax rises will depend on the position of the federal government in current tax-sharing negotiations.

He said the Ontario government believes the federal government does not actually require all the tax room it already occupies.

"At the same time that the provincial-municipal sector has been hard-pressed to finance existing programs, the surplus taxing power in the hands of the federal government has been employed to initiate a whole raft of new programs, many of which the Ontario government considers of secondary importance to provincial-municipal needs."

Alberta to Collect All Drink Containers

EDMONTON (CP) — All refillable and non-refillable soft drink bottles and cans, plus liquor and wine bottles, are worth cash Monday in Alberta when a streamlined beverage container return system becomes effective.

The new system, designed to eliminate snags in the year-old refillable-only refund program, will utilize retailers and 120 universal bottle depots to make return of beverage bottles and cans easier.

Retailers will be required by law to accept all refillable soft drink containers of the type they market. They will have to take up to 60 bottles or cans a day a person instead of the current 24 a day.

Another requirement is that retailers prominently display a formal notice telling customers the locations of two universal depots where non-refillable containers may be delivered. Vending machines must carry similar notices.

Environment Minister Bill Yurko, one of the architects of the new system, says beer bottles will be the only beverage containers not accepted at universal depots. They will be returned to Alberta Brewers' agents depots which have had a 90-per-cent return in the past.

The new system also requires retailers to pay cash for returns and not ask that refunds be taken out in merchandise.

As an incentive for retailers, beverage manufacturers will have to pay a one-cent-a-container handling charge to stores returning containers.

Mr. Yurko says universal depots could be profitable businesses. He estimates that a depot in Edmonton or Calgary could receive as much as $50,000 in one year on one-cent handling charges. The system would directly employ 211 persons.

He says there could be 300 million beverage containers eligible for refund in one year.

The makers of Pepsi Cola and Coca-Cola are included in the new system. Previously, their products were not accepted at bottle return centres.

Mr. Yurko says the idea of the one-cent handling charge is to have a trend toward refillable bottles, without banning non-refillables. Large chain stores would be watched closely to see if they were trying to get out of handling refunds or ceasing to sell refillable bottles.

"If there is any tendency to get 'out of returnable, refillable bottles, and into one-way containers, then they (retailers) can expect we will react in a meaningful way."

If retailers tried to beat the system, he said, they could be declared universal depots and be required to handle all containers they sell, refillable or not.

Seventy-one per cent of Canada's present power needs are met by energy generated from water power.

Stimulant Drugs Strictly Controlled

OTTAWA (CP) — Details of regulations concerning control of amphetamines and two related nervous-system stimulants were released Thursday by Health Minister Marc Lalonde.

The regulations, which go into effect Monday, allow doctors to use the drugs only for six medically-approved conditions.

The six conditions were described are:

1. Narcolepsy, a condition in which an individual shows an uncontrollable tendency to fall asleep without warning.

2. Hyperkinetic disorders in children, in which there is uncontrolled overactivity pattern often associated with minimal brain damage.

3. Some forms of mental retardation associated with brain dysfunction.

4. Epilepsy.

5. Parkinson's disease.

6. Hypotensive (low blood pressure) states associated with anesthesia.

The use of the drugs was worked out by two medical committees appointed jointly by the federal health department and the Canadian Medical Association (CMA), which had been carrying on an educational campaign to prevent amphetamine abuse for several years.

The conditions for which amphetamine, phenmetrazine and phendimetrazin still may be

Federal Aid Is Pledged For Legal Aid Systems

OTTAWA (CP) — Agreements to provide federal subsidies for legal aid systems in Quebec and British Columbia and for a crime compensation plan in British Columbia were signed by representatives of the three governments here Thursday.

Justice Minister Otto Lang said in a statement that the agreements are the first to be signed since the announcement last August of the federal government's intension to offer financial assistance for legal aid.

They also represent the first formal commitment by the federal government to ensure that any person in Canada who runs afoul of federal criminal law will be able to obtain the services of a lawyer for his defence.

Similar agreements are being sought with the remaining eight provinces and the Yukon Territory, Mr. Lang said.

Californian Bill Keeps Reporters Sources Secret

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Regan signed a bill Thursday closing a major loophole in California's law protecting reporters from being forced to disclose confidential news sources.

The bill blocks grand juries and other bodies with subpoena powers from holding reporters in contempt for refusing to disclose their sources.

The law, effective the first week in March, applies to editors, publishers, reporters and any other persons working for newspapers, news services, press agencies and broadcast media.

California already has a law protecting the confidentiality of news sources, but it does not specify that reporters are immune from subpoenas. It provides that they cannot be forced to testify in court trials.

Nixon Halts Bombing Talks Resume Jan. 8

Chou Meets Viet Cong Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ordered a halt to the bombing of North Vietnamese industrial heartland around Hanoi and Haiphong and Henry Kissinger's secret Paris peace talks with the North Vietnamese will resume Jan. 8, the White House said today.

The order marks an end to the heaviest bombing of the war which began above the 20th parallel Dec. 18. The United States has acknowledged the loss of 27 aircraft and 33 airmen killed, captured or missing since it began.

Deputy press secretary Gerald Warren said the president ordered suspension of bombing raids above the 20th parallel "as soon as it was clear serious negotiations could be resumed."

Kissinger's private negotiations with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho and the head of the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris, Xuan Thuy, will be resuming after a halt of nearly one month. The talks broke off Dec. 13 and Nixon began the heaviest bombing of the war on Dec. 18.

Warren said technical talks between experts from both sides will resume Jan. 2. These lower level talks have continued sporadically since Kissinger's sessions reached an impasse.

The White House spokesman refused to say whether Nixon's bombing halt order could be taken effect. But indications were that it had—or that it would soon.

"The president has ordered that all bombing be discontinued above the 20th parallel as long as serious negotiations are under way," Warren said in his brief announcement.

Hanoi had insisted upon such a bombing halt before talks could resume. When asked whether Nixon had received a signal from Hanoi that the Communists were ready to start their negotiating stance, Warren responded that he could not discuss the content of discussions with the other side.

He also referred to Kissinger's statement Dec. 16 when the presidential adviser said he would remain in contact with Hanoi and that talks could resume when the other side was ready to meet for serious negotiations.

The White House stressed that the bombing halt applies only above the 20th parallel. This means that the Hanoi and Haiphong heartland will again be free of U.S. air attacks, but lower portions of North Vietnam will still be subject to bombardment.

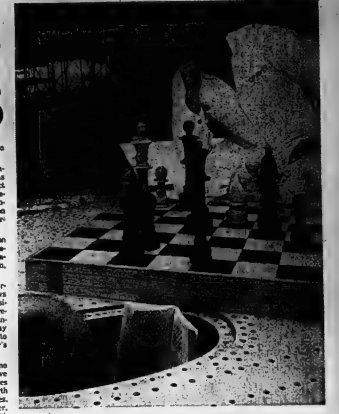
Kissinger, who has been vacationing on the West Coast, has been in daily telephone contact with the president and will return to Washington for "extensive conversations" with Nixon before heading for Paris, Warren said.

Heading the U.S. delegation to the technical talks which resume Tuesday will be Ambassador-at-large William Sullivan, Warren said.

The announcement at the hurriedly-called White House news conference came as the president was at his Camp David, retreat in the Maryland mountains, where he went Thursday and where he is expected to stay until after the New Year's holiday.

Prior to Dec. 18, there was no bombing or naval gunfire above the 20th parallel, which includes Hanoi and Haiphong, North Vietnam's two major cities. Heavy U.S. B-52 raids, however, were carried out below the 20th parallel.

In other words, North Vietnam is not demanding a full bombing halt, but only a cutoff of the raids in the heavily populated areas where Hanoi claims thousands of civilians have been killed since Dec. 18.



The aerial blitz ordered by Nixon was said to be aimed at total destruction of North Vietnam's industrial heartland, and some U.S. officials are reported to feel this largely has been accomplished.

But the North Vietnamese have been known in the past to rebuild quickly. Thus far, they have not shown outward signs of backing under the massive American air assaults hitting them daily.

The U.S. command refused to say whether bombing already had been halted under the 20th parallel or to comment on an announcement by the South Vietnamese foreign ministry of a 24-hour cease fire for the New Year, beginning at 6 p.m. Saigon time Sunday.

The Viet Cong also have declared a new cease-fire, scheduled to start five hours before Saigon's.

The U.S. command would say only that air operations continued against North Vietnam during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today (7 p.m. EST Friday).

Chess Nuts at Play

Chess Rules Revised

This Sounds Like Vodka Plot To Upset Poor Bobby Fischer

QUEBEC (CP) — "Decimate and cheers" goes the cry and a new version of a once-sober sport is born.

Bored with the conventional approach to chess, Quebec City architect William Boisse has added a drinking man's spirit to the game.

He has designed ceramic chess pieces which double as drinking glasses, each varying according to size and strategic worth.

Players fill their pieces before each game with liquor, taking into account opponents' tastes, capacity and tolerance.

Then when a piece is taken in play, the player who takes it must drink the contents.

A sobering pre-game thought: Each side can have 26 ounces of booze on the board.

More Than Half Passengers Survive

First Jumbo Jet Crash Plunges 167 Into Swamp

MIAMI (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines TriStar carrying 167 persons crashed into the Everglades late Friday night, spilling men and women into the murky waters of the swamp. Authorities said more than half of those aboard survived the crash, the first fatal accident involving the new breed of Jumbo jets.

The U.S. Coast Guard said 93 survivors were pulled from the wreckage, water and muck by rescuers laboring in darkness in the desolate and virtually inaccessible morass.

The search for the living and the dead continued past dawn today.

The big wide-bodied Lockheed L-1011 was en route from New York to Miami when it crashed just before midnight Friday night, 17 miles northwest of Miami International Airport. The cause of the crash was not known. An eastern spokesman said there was no word from the pilot.

Helicopters and volunteer drivers of airboats—shallow draft craft that skim over the swamp—were pressed into the difficult rescue effort.

"It's the worst thing I've ever seen in my life," said Bill Hodges of Miami, a coast guard helicopter pilot. "Bodies were all over the place.

"Just two pieces of the plane were intact, the tail and a section of the cabin," Hodges said. "The rest of the plane was in a thousand pieces.

"Everywhere we tried to land there were bodies."

Frank Borman, the astronaut who now is an Eastern vice-president, flew to the scene to help direct recover work in the knee-deep water. He described the survivors as exceptionally calm as they waited for helicopter and boats to ferry them from the scene.

Rescuers set up a command post at nearby Miccosukee Indian village. The Indians who live in the alligator-infested swamp helped in the rescue, but the tribal council refused to let them bring the injured or dead into the settlement.

Police said the Indian leaders explained that their religious beliefs dictate that a building must be destroyed if someone dies in it.

Passengers said there was no warning.

Martin Siminerio, 32, of Long Island, N.Y., one of the survivors said there was no word from the pilot, no explosion and almost no warning before the plane hit.

"The plane was flying fine," he said. "We just went down slightly and then came back up. I thought nothing of it. The next thing we knew we hit."

The plane slammed into a marsh about eight miles north of the Tamiami Trail, a state highway that cuts through the Everglades from Miami to Florida's west coast.

Despite its nearness to the road, the wreckage was accessible only by helicopter, swamp buggies and shallow-draft airboats driven by airplane propellers.

Orders Disobeyed

Black September To Try Terrorists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (CP) — Four Palestinian Arab guerrillas who seized the Israeli embassy in Bangkok then released six hostages and flew to Cairo, will be tried by the Black September organization for violating orders, a Lebanese newspaper reported today.

The newspaper Al Moharrer, which has close connections with the guerrilla movement, said the four will be tried by a "revolutionary court" as soon as they return to their base.

It did not say where the base is. The guerrillas arrived in Cairo Friday.

Sources connected with the Black September group were quoted as saying four commandos had clear instructions to blow up the embassy in Thailand and the hostages if their demand for the release of 36 guerrillas from Israeli prisons was not met. Then they were to surrender to Thai authorities, the paper said.

"Only under exceptional circumstances were the group to fly out of Bangkok, but with their hostages, to a pre-assigned destination," Al Moharrer quoted Black September sources as saying.

The report hinted that pres sure by Egypt may have been a major factor that made the four guerrillas abandon their mission.

The Egyptian ambassador to Thailand, Mustafa el Essawy, played a major role in negotiations led to the release of the six Israeli hostages in exchange for safe conduct to Cairo for the commandos.

Another Beirut newspaper noted Essawy probably was "the first Egyptian diplomat ever to cross the threshold of an Israeli embassy." It said his success struck a responsive chord in Israel that could contribute to detente in the Middle East.

Dief Says Tax Cut Is Likely

SASKATOON (CP) — John Diefenbaker says he believes federal taxation will be "considerably" reduced by the Liberal minority government when Parliament opens in the new year.

The former Conservative prime minister told a news conference he does not think the Liberal government will go ahead with" reintroduction of the three-per-cent surtax effective Jan. 1. "Despite the fact that during the campaign the finance minister said they would."

"I can see the farmers receiving things they never would have received but for the election results."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberal government will propose legislation which the New Democratic Party will be able to support "come hell or high water."

"I think the NDP realize that if they join in defeating the government and there's an election, there won't be enough left for rent in the NDP across the country."

U.S. Slaps Swedes For Raid Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP — Provoked by Swedish criticism of renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, the United States has told Sweden not to send its ambassador-designate to Washington "at this time."

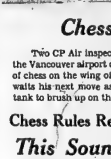
State department sources said Friday has the rebuff resulted primarily from Sweden's harsh public criticism of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Sweden had planned to send as its new ambassador Yngve Stadler, senior chief of the Socialist newspaper Arbetarbladet and also a member of the Swedish parliament.

In Stockholm, Prime Minister Olof Palme refused to comment as did the Swedish foreign ministry.

Last Saturday, Palme compared American bombing of North Vietnam to Nazi mass secres in the Second World War. Following the remarks, acting State Secretary U. Alexis Johnson immediately summoned the acting Swedish ambassador, Hubert de Besche, to the state department and delivered what was described by sources as the bluntest protest ever given to a Swedish diplomat.

The Nixon administration also has shown its displeasure with Sweden by keeping the U.S. embassy without an ambassador for six months since Jerome H. Holland left the post and also by recalling charge d'affaires John C. Guthrie to Washington.



The U.S. embassy is now headed by the No. 3 officer, Arthur Olson.

Italian Ransomed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine urban guerrillas released an Italian executive of a subsidiary of a U.S. firm unharmed Friday night after collecting ransom of more than $500,000, a company spokesman said. Russo, 46, employed by Standard Electric Argentina, a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., was set free on a suburban road.

Krakatau Rumbles

JAKARTA (AP) — A team of volcanologists have been sent to Mount Krakatau, west of Java, to investigate reports of heightened rumbles and smoke shooting 492 feet from the volcano's mouth. Krakatau erupted on Aug. 27, 1883, blowing half of Karakatau Island apart. The explosion was heard 2,500 miles away, and it tidal waves killed 35,000.

London Flu Strikes

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Influenza this winter has struck at least 15 states, but only three areas apparently are having any prolonged bout with the bug, reports the Centre for Disease Control (CDC). The CDC said Friday that widespread outbreaks of the London flu, a new strain believed to the same virus family as Hong Kong flu, have been reported in New York City, Baltimore and Santa Clara County south of San Francisco.

Cleanup Promised

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The Sydney Steel Corp. has officially promised the Sydney city council that it will clean up its air, water and noise pollution. The corporation released Friday the text of a brief presented to the city council Dec. 14 in which Administration Manager Malcolm Turner outlined the Crown corporation's clean-up program.

Fair Trade

JERUSALEM (AP) — Four Arab terrorists who held six Israelis hostage in Bangkok had envy That money with them, so they bought U.S. dollars from their captives, one of the freed hostages said Friday. "They asked very nicely so we handed over our wallets, said Shim Avivnor, Israeli ambassador to Cambodia. "But they insisted on a fair trade, and we sat exchanging bank note against bank note."

Sinn Fein Head Held In Dublin

BELFAST (AP) — British troops and guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army pounced on each other in a bitter-fat duel in Belfast Friday night that ended with 11 suspected IRA members in jail and one captured terrorist leader snatched from his hospital bed by his men.

In Dublin, police special branch agents pounced on Ruty O'Brady, 40-year-old president of Sinn Fein, political arm of the IRA's provisional faction that is battling the British in Northern Ireland.

He was taken to Bridewell jail for interrogation and held under Offences Against the State Act.

O'Brady was grabbed by detectives in a Dublin street after Prime Minister Jack Lynch, alarmed by three terror bombings in towns along the Irish republic's frontier with Northern Ireland Thursday, tightened up his sporadic crackdown against the IRA.

But O'Brady's arrest seemed to trigger a sudden surge of guerrilla and army activity in bomb-scorred Belfast.

Seven men armed with submachine guns burst into the Lagan Valley Hospital in Lisburn on Belfast's western outskirts, and snatched 26-year-old James Brown, the commander of the provisionals' 1st Battalion operating in the flashpoint Catholic, Andersonstown district.

People Reflect on Year

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

What does the year hold in the street remember of the past 12 months as 1972 fades into the past?

Belleville-area dwellers questioned yesterday, were consistent in their recollections of highlights in the past year, mentioning the municipal election and general prosperity the city has made in 1972.

One woman shopper, her arms loaded with sales specials, paused for a moment from her shopping to say Belleville was getting too large.

"I don't like to see this. You can lose your identity with all the regional approach, especially in our schools."

It remains to be seen, she said, if a woman mayor will be the best thing for the city.

"Mayor-elect Robin Jeffrey has the confidence in the city and the area to make the right decisions," she said.

Walter Morrow, a Frankford resident who has kept a weather eye on the city for the 35 years he has been a farmer in the area.

Retired now, Mr. Morrow comes to town for shopping needs.

"The highlight of the last year for me was the federal election," said Mr. Mogrow. "I'm sorry it turned out the way it did though."

Mr. Morrow said he would have liked one party or the other to have the working majority it needs to run an effective government.

"It is not that important to me which party it is, just as long as they can work well," he said.

The situation now needs another election — and that is going to cost money, he said.

"One thing that hasn't changed in the past year is doctors still won't come and see me at home," he said.

"They don't make house calls anymore but tell you to come to the hospital."

"We lost our mayor. That is the single most important thing that has happened in the last year," says J. S. Masterman.

"I never knew him (Mayor Harold Scott) that well but I saw the improvements a lot of people in the city made in ways thought he was a real gentleman.

"I would have liked the election to have gone differently but what can you do!" he asked.

Ossie Mann, sales representative with Sherwin Williams company sees Belleville as the hub of major development in the next few years.

"Generally speaking, the highlight of the year would have to be the progress Belleville has made commercially," he said.

"The only other thing is I feel badly about the result of the federal election."

Fred Charles, Sidney township said in his reflections of the past year, "reads were the highlight."

"The only thing that irks me is they have been slow in getting work done, particularly with the Highway 2."

Mr. Charles claimed low unemployment figures and the expansion of the city as a whole were key things in the past year.

"Just everything in general," said Mrs. Goldie McKinney of her impressions. "The traffic situation is better and the shopping facilities are lovely."

The city is growing both in population and in size and the figures are so much better now with construction completed, she said.

Organization Reduces Snowmobile Protests

PICTON (Staff) — Organized snowmobiling in Prince Edward County has reduced the number of complaints against snow machines received by the Picton police department.

Police police Sgt. Scott Hele said yesterday most snowmobilers are using a country trail near the town limits this winter and few residents have complained of excessive noise or annoyance by snowmobilers.

He observed local clubs such as the Picton Bay Snow Riders offer a police service of their own and members have made a great contribution toward safe snowmobiling. All members of the group make an effort to return to their homes by 11 p.m. after an evening of trail riding in order to avoid noise complaints from neighbors.

Canadian Protests Over Bombing Grow

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Intensified United States bombing of North Vietnam in the last two weeks has sparked criticism from Canada as in other parts of the world.

Church leaders, political figures and others have appealed to Prime Minister Trudeau to urge President Nixon to abandon the heavy air raids.

Eight days ago, the prime minister told reporters: "We have always felt the bombing was the wrong way to bring the war to an end."

However, Mr. Trudeau said that peace was still possible "and I think it would be wrong for us to . . . put our nose into it and to try and make any negotiations any more difficult."

In a statement issued Friday, Walter Gordon, a former federal Liberal finance minister, termed the bombings "truly barbarous," adding that as yet Canada has given no firm condemnation of the U.S. activities.

"There will be those who will say that Canada should not interfere in the affairs of other countries, especially of the United States," Mr. Gordon said. "But surely in this case, if we are revolted by the wholesale slaughter, if we believe that Western civilization is on trial, it is our duty to protest."

A group of war veterans in Western Canada, decided recently to hold their own protest against the U.S. bombing and Canada's failure "to stop supplying war materials to the United States."

Gerald McKinney, a 10-year army veteran from Portage la Prairie, said the veterans decided to send their war medals to Gov. Gen. Michener.

The British Columbia government today Mr. Trudeau's Friday night to protest to Mr. Nixon "the continued mass bombing of North Vietnam's major cities."

Eileen Daily, acting premier while Premier Dave Barrett is on holiday, said in a telegram to the prime minister: "We ask you to convey to President Nixon . . . the revulsion of the civilized people around the world at the spectacle of the world's most powerful military power systematically destroying the economy of one of the world's poorer nations and at the same time perpetuating the needless slaughter of men, women and children . . ."

Also in B.C., Barry Mather (NDP, Surrey-White Rock) asked Prime Minister Trudeau in a telegram to urge President Nixon to halt the "Christmas slaughter" of North Vietnamese. The telegram asked the prime minister to convey to the president the "grave concern" of Canadians.

In Ottawa, Reuben Baetz, executive director of the Canadian Council on Social Development, appealed to Mr. Nixon to "stop immediately the wanton human slaughter and suffering created through renewed bombing of North Vietnam."

Two Canadian church leaders also sent a telegram to the U.S. president, demanding an immediate end to the bombing.

In the telegram, Most Rev. E. W. Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, and Rev. N. Bruce McLeod, moderator of the United Church of Canada, said: "In the name of God we beseech you to act now."

County Council Musters New Faces

Election defeats and retirements from municipal life have contributed heavily toward the number of new faces on Hastings county council in 1972.

But death also has left its mark on this year's council, resulting in replacements to fill out the balance of 1972 terms.

During the year, no less than three county reeves died — one as the result of accident and two from heart attacks.

Late last winter Hungerford township reeve B. Clarence Grahame died after suffering a heart attack.

Then in October Delmont Card, reeve of McClure, Wicklow and Bangor, along with his wife, was killed in an auto accident north of Bancroft.

Just before Christmas Charles Gordanier, reeve of Deloro, died as result of a heart attack at Oshawa.

In Hungerford and also in McClure replacements were named to complete the unexpired terms of the two deceased reeves and since then elections have been held for 1973 councils.

But, for Deloro, Reeve Gordanier had already been re-elected for the next two years.

Appointment of a new reeve will have to wait until after the 1973 inaugural council meeting slated for January 8. Any member of the 1973 Deloro council — Douglas Lynch, Alphonse Clements, Dennis Coleman or Edward Galloway — may be appointed as reeve, following which the council may select another councillor.

Long-time Alderman Dies in Belleville

Former city alderman with 17 years' service at city hall over a 20-year period, Harold J. Armstrong, 26 Lime Street, died Friday afternoon at Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 80th year.

Mr. Armstrong was first elected to city council in 1930 and won re - election continuously from 1940 until 1956 when he retired from municipal life.

For many years Mr. Armstrong served as chairman of the public works committee in the era before Belleville adopted the present city manager form of government.

Born at Milford in Prince Edward County, Mr. Armstrong was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong and had lived in Belleville for the past 69 years.

He was a long - time employee of Canada Northern Railway with which he had served for more than 50 years. He retired in 1958 as yard supervisor.

He was a member of Christ Church and also belonged to Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. and A.M.

Along with his wife, the former Nellie Fletcher, he is survived by two daughters, Miss Nora Armstrong at home and Mrs. John (Bernice) Anderson of Belleville, four grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

A brother, Samuel, lives at Cherry Valley and a sister, Mrs. Firman (Emily) Pulver, lives at Demorestville. Two brothers, William and John predeceased him.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home with visiting hours from two to nine p.m. Sunday. The funeral will be held Tuesday with service at the funeral home at 1.30 p.m. conducted by Canon R. B. D. Wright. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Obituary

MRS. MAURICE BELL

Mrs. Maude Ann Bell, 68 Emily Street, Stirling, died in Belleville General Hospital Friday.

In her 63rd year, she was born in Johnstown and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Munn.

She had lived in Stirling for the past 36 years and before that in Trenton.

She is survived by her husband, Maurice Bell, and sons Robert, of Toronto, and William of Stirling.

She was a member of St. Paul's United Church and was a leader of the Stirling Rangers.

The funeral service will be held at the Hoyle Funeral Home, Dec. 31 at 2 p.m.

Rev. John May will conduct the service, with entombment in Stirling cemetery.

Tops In Mine Safety

MARMORA — Marmoraton Mining Company was recently awarded the Provincial Safety Council's First Place Award for the best safety record in surface mining in Canada and the U.S. in competition with 17 other companies.

The award, covering the period July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1972, Marmoraton's record for "no disabling injuries" began Nov. 6, 1969 and has reached 1,850,000 man hours.

Physical Fitness Now Big Business

TORONTO (CP) — Physical fitness is getting to be big business in Toronto.

More and more people are interested in keeping the body trim and investment in facilities for the flabby businessman and others is running into millions of dollars annually.

Experts in the field give a variety of reasons for the renewed interest. A general impression is that it's a combination of more leisure time and increasing affluence.

Downtown executives apparently are finding that lunchtime workouts give them something to look forward to during the job.

The newest fitness emporium is one of the most luxurious. It costs an $850 initiation fee plus $270 annually to join the Cambridge Club in a new hotel just across the street from the hall and running track. The capacity of 1,000 members is expected to be reached within a year.

"The medical societies are making a big point of this because heart attacks are a prime killer," said managing director James Bentley. "The accent is on the cardio-vascular system and physical fitness strengthens the heart and lungs to enable a person to handle stress better."

Alexander C. (Sandy) McIntyre, 31, left the insurance business to set up a downtown health centre 30 years ago, is thinking of building another one and said there is room for two or three more in the downtown section.

Among the most recent to enter the field is Robert Tisdenberg, real estate broker and chartered accountant, who is a partner in a Toronto firm. It caters to guests courts and physical fitness facilities in North York.

It doesn't bother him that another racquets club is about to open across the street from his own establishment.

Ten years ago, he recalled, there were only three clubs here with indoor tennis facilities. He estimates there are a dozen now.

Mr. Eisenberg said some people spend between $2,000 and $3,000 a year in health clubs. But others pay as little as $150 or $250 at some clubs, and much less than that using public facilities.

Douglas MacLennan, associate director of the Canadian Institute in Don Mills, estimated there are more than 75 health clubs in Metro Toronto.

IN MEMORIAM

BOWES — In memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Bowes, who passed away Dec. 31, 1971.

In tears we saw you sinking,
In silence watched you fade away.
Our hearts were almost broken,
When you were called to rest.
You were not ours to keep forever,
We gave fully free from pain.
We miss you more than words,
To suffer that again.

Sadly missed by daughter Shirley, son-in-law Thomas, grandchildren Cheryl and Ernest.

BOWES — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Alfred Bowes, who passed away Jan. 4, 1971.

The year has quickly passed,
Memories fade with time,
But memories cherished, remain at last,
The world's a lonelier place,
Without you dear father,
Dad, as silence you suffered, in peace you died.
You left your home so empty,
no more.
Sadly missed by daughter Shirley, son-in-law Thomas, grandchildren Cheryl and Ernest.

WESSELS — In loving memory of our dear dad,
Wonderful memories we have of dad,
Who in his life was tender and kind,
Always in our hearts a memory find,
To love, to cherish, to never forget,
Are memories we cherish and will not regret,
God bless you dad, you're not forgotten,
— Always remembered by daughters Elsie and Marion.

WESSELS — In loving memory of our dear father,
It is sad to walk alone,
Through life's path we roam,
Dear memories are our treasure,
While the years of life divide,
Loving thoughts will always linger,
Dear father by your side.
— Always remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife Pearl.

ARBUTHNE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away Jan. 1, 1971.
Agnes Hrivna who passed away January 1, 1971.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's a lonelier place,
Without you dear,
Dad, as silence you suffered, in patience you died.
You left your home so empty,
no more.
Sadly missed by daughter Betty Ann, son-in-law Doug and grandson Douglas Jr.

LOCKLATNEY — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away January 1st, 1972.
Sadly missed by her loving wife, daughter and sons in law and family.
Years and time, in her heart and memory,
Beautiful memories she left behind,
Lovingly remembered by Stan, John and Debbie Reynolds.

MARSHALL — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Edith, who passed away on December 31, 1971.
Sadly missed but beautiful memories left behind.

Requiem

Snow-covered branches and rolling hillsides frame the spot, by the two headstones in the foreground, where Lester Pearson will be buried. The quiet cemetery is located in the Gatineau Hills near Wakefield, Que., not far from Ottawa and close to Harrington Lake, the prime minister's summer residence. Mr. Pearson's state funeral will be held Sunday.

PM Is Likely to Make Changes in His Office

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is expected to make significant changes in the organization of his own office as a result of the Oct. 30 general election.

"There won't be any mass movement of bodies," one source predicts, "but it's going to be a different type of operation."

One of the effects, sources say, will have the prime ministers more accessible to cabinet ministers and other Liberal MPs, and more reliant on them for political advice. The regional desks he established following the 1968 election may continue in operation, but with less significant roles.

When Mr. Trudeau established these four desks, the idea was to have sensitive advisers keep a close watch on developments, thinking, and problems in the various parts of the country.

The desk teams were headed by Dave Thomson, who resigned after the election to go into private industry in Alberta. He had announced his decision to do this well before the election.

So far as anyone is aware, no one at East Block official there has been no effort made to find a replacement. And the major role of desk personnel now, he added, seems to be that of travel agents arranging prime ministerial trips to various regions of Canada.

Since the election there has been little activity in this area.

Establishment of the desks annoyed some MPs, who felt they were being bypassed and that Mr. Trudeau was depending too much on non-elected advice. The job of an MP, they argued, was to take the views of their people to government.

It also was argued that the bigger organizational structure erected by the prime minister in his own office made it difficult for the MPs to reach him.

Sources say Mr. Trudeau appears to feel there was some breakdown in communications between his office and the people during the election campaign and that a better campaign approach could have been devised if elected representatives had a greater say in the matter.

The source who predicted there wouldn't be any mass movement of bodies, said the duties of many people likely would be altered, and that several resignations could be expected.

Flags Signal Distress

Managuans Fight for Food

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (Reuter) — Managuans shoved, elbowed and kicked each other in a fight for relief rations as red flags indicating the presence of starving people sprouted above the stricken city.

Armed soldiers, including one who kicked at several line jumpers and another who shouted and banged the butt of his rifle on a table in warning, restored order Friday at the relief distribution centre.

The people were struggling to get their rations before supplies ran out at the centre in a red brick tin-roofed schoolhouse.

At one stage a bespectacled man shouted to the men handing out food: "There is no more left for us because you handed everything to your relatives and friends through the backdoor."

Meanwhile, red flags of distress, signalling the presence of starving people to passing food trucks, fluttered from road landing daily with food, clothing and medicine. Food shipments were coming by sea, he added.

New Board Will Hear Appeal

SARNIA (CP) — Judge R. S. Hetherington of Huron County has been appointed chairman of a three-man board of reference to hear a former Sarnia high school teacher's appeal against his dismissal.

Education Minister Thomas Wells made the appointment after a previous board of reference headed by Judge R. A. Carscallen of Lampton County was ordered disbanded by the divisional court of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Special provincial legislation was enacted to allow Mr. Wells to form a new board.

The appeal of English teacher Joe Thompson will be heard in public on orders of the divisional court. The previous board met in July behind closed doors.

Mr. Thompson was given 11 reasons for his dismissal, including failure to turn examination papers over to the school principal and digressing from the approved course of studies. He has been on welfare since his contract expired Aug. 31.

Turn Pair Over To U.S. Police

DUTTON, Ont. (CP) — Two men wanted in Detroit for questioning in connection with the killing of a policeman were returned under escort by two Detroit homicide detectives to the United States Friday night.

Ralph Brisker and Dwight Sayers, both 26, were arrested by provincial police Thursday night at a service station on Highway 401 near this community 39 miles west of St. Thomas.

Detroit police said the two men, who returned voluntarily, will be questioned in connection with the Dec. 27 slaying of Detroit police officer Robert Bradford Jr., 25. William Dooley, 28, another officer, was wounded and is in serious condition.

Police would not say whether the two men were sought as suspects or witnesses, but indicated they will be allowed to go home after questioning.

Casket Lies in Hall of Honor

Pearson Is Back on Parliament Hill

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester Pearson was back on Parliament Hill for the last time today, his flag-covered casket silent in the Hall of Honor, while Canadians from all walks of life paid tribute to the former prime minister.

The 75-year-old Nobel Prize winner, who guided government through a difficult 1963-68 period, is to be buried in the Gatineau Hills Sunday after a state funeral in downtown Christ Church Cathedral.

As his casket lay beneath the stone arches in Parliament, tributes continued to pour in from around the world, all of them remembering Mr. Pearson's life-long efforts on behalf of peace, his warm humanity, his humor and his humility.

His external affairs minister from 1948 to 1957 he was one of the world's most renowned diplomats, winning the Nobel Prize for his work in establishing a 1956 Middle East peacekeeping force.

He died of cancer in his Rockcliffe home Wednesday night, three days after cutting short a Florida vacation which followed earlier hospital treatment.

The first official ceremony was at 10 a.m. today, after the Pearson family was left alone with the casket for 25 minutes.

Four members of the armed forces were assigned to cover the casket with the maple leaf flag Mr. Pearson introduced while prime minister.

Traditionally, the casket would be flag-draped when put in position, but the secretary of state's department said the draping ceremony was "a special recognition of Mr. Pearson's contribution in giving the country a new flag."

Until 11 p.m. tonight, Canadians were to be permitted into the Hall of Honor, a wide stone corridor directly ahead of Parliament's main entrance. A representative of the armed forces, one from the RCMP and one each of the Commons and Senate protective staffs were appointed guards.

The hall will be open to the public again Sunday from 9 a.m. until noon. At 1 p.m. the casket will be removed while a 50-man guard of honor from the armed forces presents a general salute to the First World War flyer. The RCMP band will play a musical salute.

The procession to the cathedral, about six blocks away, will be headed by a 25-man mounted escort from the RCMP, followed by a 50-member military escort on foot.

The central band of the Canadian Armed Forces will march next, followed by about 30 honorary pall bearers, including Prime Minister Trudeau. The hearse will be next, with an eight-man RCMP contingent walking beside it. Behind will come four military insignia bearers, carrying Mr. Pearson's decorations, including his Nobel Peace Prize.

The family will follow in cars.

The funeral service for Mr. Pearson, a member of the United Church of Canada and son of a Methodist minister, will be ecumenical and bilingual. Clerks of the Anglican, United and Roman Catholic churches will take part and members of other denominations and religions are invited guests.

The eulogy will be given by Very Rev. A. B. B. Moore, of Toronto, former moderator of the United Church and a personal friend.

At the Pearson family's request, the main hymn for the 50-minute service is Lead On, O King Eternal.

Organist Godfrey Hewitt will play hymns by J. S. Bach at the opening and close of the service, and the choir will sing two psalms, the 23rd—"The Lord is my Shepherd"—and the 121st, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. . ."

An anthem is based on a verse from the Book of Revelation—"Blessed are the dead . . . that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

There are about 700 seats in the main church and another 500 in an adjoining hall where the service will be shared on television.

Visiting dignitaries, friends of the family, members of Parliament and other officials will be given first priority with any remaining seats open to the public.

The service will be televised, and, at the request of the family, the funeral will be filmed by the National Film Board.

Toward 1973

We may hope for a happy new year although none of us can be too sure 1973 will bring any such thing.

There may or may not be peace in Vietnam. The psychological moment — when the politicians were talking of peace being at hand — passed recently and a sinister new dimension, that can only be viewed as a deterioration of a once-hopeful situation, has been introduced.

The renewed American bombing of the Hanoi and Haiphong areas is a matter of deep gravity, for it threatens to undo months of negotiations and what seemed like a growing measure of accord, while heaping death and destruction on innocents and military objectives alike.

If by some remote chance the air assault should encourage a resumption of negotiations and, perhaps even more unlikely, bring an end to the hostilities, history may consider it worthwhile. But as of now such an issue to what must be regarded as badly-conceived strategy does not seem possible. Rather, humanity is the poorer for the bombing — as it has been all along, we would add, for the belligerence and cruelty of both sides. For if there are civilian deaths from U.S. bombs, we think also of a recent picture of a young man keeping watch over the body of his 20-year-old sister, a burning candle beside her, in the hut that is their home. She died in a Viet Cong rocket attack on suburban Saigon.

Other areas of the world and other societies remain in torment also — the Middle East and Northern Ireland come to mind of course, but children, women and children, moreover know only hunger and primitive living conditions. The new state of Bangladesh (formerly East Pakistan) is such a place. In our own affluent society there are situations to which many of us simply turn a blind eye, or are so close to them that we take them for granted, our awareness mechanisms simply not registering. We are thinking of the institutions under which some of our native peoples are obliged to live: terrible housing, alcoholism, boredom and despair being the main ingredients.

Thus, on our otherwise highly-organized planet the picture, as we enter 1973, is not altogether encouraging. It may be that things could scarcely become worse, given the various manifestations of man's inhumanity to man in the recent past. The perpetrators of such outrages labor under the delusion that they draw our attention to other social evils, real or imagined, but in the event, they merely repel, leaving a sense of hopelessness and disgust.

At this stage of our evolution humanity should have espoused a better way of solving its differences. We have the United Nations, but it is an organization largely powerless against the latter-day extremism of individuals and groups. Things may get worse before they are better and even then the prospects for a more civilized world are a matter for conjecture. However, if we really do want a happy new year, the one certain common denominator is that we must all work for it.

Never Say Die

A Belfast friend who is a contralto with the beleaguered city's Philharmonic Society says that "despite the awful troubles here, we still manage to sing and partake in some lovely concerts — and also the Queen's (University, Belfast) Festival concerts in November."

It is courage and spirit like this, as well as money and social reform that one day, hopefully, will bring better days to this city of nearly half-a-million and to the rest of Northern Ireland similarly affected by terrorist violence.

Election's Impact on Cabinet Men

Press No Longer Personna Non Grata in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — A couple of reasonably well-known newspapermen were ushered into the office of Ontario Liberal Caucus Chairman Norman Cafik and stood there waiting while he chatted on the phone, punching buttons to bring in one call after another.

Finally he was through, and crashing the receiver, looked up and said; "Yeah!"

They started asking him a few questions about the caucus meeting he was convening, and he answered, quite conversationally.

Then suddenly, something seemed to click: "Hey," he said, making an observation more than asking a question, "you guys are newspapermen!"

Both newsmen were veterans of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, one of them having covered every government and opprime minister since the days of William Lyon Mackenzie King.

They simply had not thought it necessary to introduce themselves to Norman Cafik, taking it for granted that the Ontario caucus chairman would know who them by sight and even name, having bumped into them often enough.

For he had been around Parliament Hill for more than four years, coming to Ottawa first as a freshman Liberal backbencher the 1968 election.

When he burst out in surprise that his two visitors were newspapermen, they wondered who had he thought they were when they first were ushered into his office?

A couple of freshmen Liberal MPs he had not yet had time to meet?

Emissaries from the Prime Minister's office?

Bagmen from Treasury Board President Drury?

But when the two newsmen thought about it later, it did not seem at all strange that they should have entered Norman Cafik's office unrecognized.

For in the last 4½ years of Prime Minister Trudeau's regime, all but a few, very few members of the cabinet managed to cut themselves off from the press.

They took their cue from the Prime Minister who said it all concerning his opinion of newsmen, when in London he spoke of the "crummy press".

He remained aloof and disdainful and his attitude made it clear to the Liberals that somehow the press was to be held in low esteem if not always open contempt and its representatives regarded as undesirables to be avoided.

With the Prime Minister before the election so clearly in command — since the vote he has confessed to learning some lessons — all but the precious few rugged individuals of the cabinet fell meekly into line.

And of course, the ambitious members of the government backbench, all with their eyes fixed and hearts set on promotion to ministerial secretary status or the cabinet itself, dutifully took the cue.

So through those 4½-years, the members of the government from the Prime Minister on down to the lowliest of the Commons ranks, more and more kept their distance.

Then during, and especially after the election campaign, there were resentful murmurs that somehow the press was to blame for the massive knockoff of votes that brought the government so close to a big brink of defeat and left it in the most precarious minority position any administration of memory ever has found itself.

One or two of the more perceptive and independently outspoken members of the cabinet who do their own thinking and do not always toe the Prime Minister's line have been heard to enquire of some trusted newspapermen "what's happened?"

Now with the public's election aware of the distance the government more and more was keeping from the press, but they were not certain as to the reasons.

They did not realize that, where once a newsman could get through to a cabinet minister by phone if the need were urgent enough, it had been becoming more and more difficult, if at times, not impossible.

The ministers usually were "in conference," "at a meeting," or simply "unavailable".

Now with the public's election rebuke of the government still stinging, they are suddenly asking the press "Where have you been?"

But the gulf had become wide enough that Norman Cafik, after more than four years, has to say, in surprise, "you guys are newspapermen!"

Today In History

Gregory Rasputin, evil genius of the Russian court, was murdered 56 years ago today—in 1916—after Russian noblemen decoyed him to an all-night party. A self-proclaimed holy man, Rasputin had been brought to court about 10 years before and became the empress' confessor owing to his apparent power over the health of her son, who suffered from a wasting disease. After Rasputin's murder she recovered his body from the river and buried it at the imperial summer palace.

Reclaiming Garbage

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I am writing to you regarding an article I read in one of your recent issues. This article was about the lack of funds for a garbage reclamation plant in Kingston, the first one to be built in Canada.

This project has been set back several months because of insufficient funds to build the plant. The company that was to donate the funds has now decided against the contribution.

I think that if this project was to receive enough funds that this would be a good start to help Canada get rid of some of its land pollution.

This reclamation of garbage will also help to avoid land littercycling garbage that we thought was no longer of any use. With this new plant they will be able to return things that are of good working condition. As Mr. Brown and Mr. Clark have said, they can restore paper and other re-usable material from other garbage, and use the organic material that would be reduced to compost for sale to gardeners.

This would be a very worthwhile project and I hope that they will receive enough funds to start on it as soon as possible.

Stamps Rich Revenue For Europe's Pocket-Size Lands

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Why do Europe's postage stamp-size countries issue so many postage stamps? To find revenue to pay their, that's why.

They also have other gimmicks, especially Liechtenstein, the most entrepreneurial of the small nations' group, such as offering tax heavens for foreign corporations heavily taxed at home. Place your home office in Liechtenstein, even if it's only a mailing on an office building and someone to answer the 'phone, and you re-open your "home office."

The tiny principality charges heavily for the service, a rental to justify the tax holiday and also benefits from the goings and comings of foreign business executives holding "annual meetings" in the tiny mountain kingdom.

Monaco, like Liechenstein, issues endless series of large, glossy postage stamps, but probably gets more money from its famous gambling tables. Except for the Vatican, another tiny European state, but with world-wide million dollar investment portfolios, Monaco may be the second richest of the tiny countries.

While on the Vatican—it also issues numerous series of glamorous postage stamps—many year ago a Harvard University professor did a study of the Roman Catholic Church and its senior management in the Vatican. There are the cardinals, or "princes of the church." He came to the conclusion the professor did a study of the kinds of management skills would easily parallel those of General Motors the world's largest private corporation.

Then there is Andorra, its Spanish name. Or Andorre to use its French name, is set high in the Pyrenees, snugly between Spain and France. Again it has many large, glossy stamps but again other much larger countries do not, chiefly smuggling.

Who condones the smuggling since Andorra has no seacoast, no outlet except the Spanish border on one side, the French on the other? Why both the Spanish and the French.

One suspects over the years more "looking-the-other way" from the Spanish than the French, since Spain's consumer economy has had a rockier time in the postwar years.

Oh yes, Andorra is big on tourism, especially for skiers. So are all the others. But where Liichtenstein makes it on corporate tax havens, the Vatican on global investments, Monaco on gambling, Andorra relies more on the tourist.

Not to be forgotten is the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, land ruled over by a Grand Duchess, the last such monarch in the world, now by a Grand Duke. Ditto.

Luxembourg doesn't like to be linked with these even smaller states. But even by comparison with Holland and Belgium, it's two not-very-large neighbors, it's small.

Furthermore it is a full-fledged member of NATO, the European Common Market, the European Iron and Steel Community founded before the ECM and Euratom, the European Atomic Energy Community.

Luxembourg—like the Saar, part of West Germany or Alsace-Lorraine part of France—is a major coal and steel producing area. This gives consumer goods—and stamps again —account for most of its prosperity.

How did these freaks of countries, these parcels of what should be parts of Austria, France, Spain or Italy, (where there is San Marino, the smallest of them all), survive into our times? They survived because they also were freaks of history.

For most of its history Western Europe was made up of hundreds of tiny states just like these. "The Germanies" before 1866 included about 200 states. But the existing small places escaped conquest, merger and unification. Today, they are Europe's tiny delights.

Hydro a Crown Corporation

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

A myth is about to be ended.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is to be changed into a Crown corporation.

And this should put a stop to one of the silliest film-flams in our politics. The film-flam that Hydro "belongs to the municipalities."

The switch to a Crown corporation has been proposed by a task force which has been studying Hydro and the government has accepted it.

Well it might.

For this would put the relationship between Hydro and the government on a rational basis for the first time, and if the government hadn't been writing the report itself this probably would have been the first recommendation it would have made.

Actually a group of municipalities under Sir Adam Beck did originally organize Hydro early in the century.

And for a while it was probably reasonably accurate to say it was "owned" by the municipalities.

But as the organization developed and became province-wide involved in fact into a provincial utility.

The province underwrote its bonds, subsidized it to a considerable extent and appointed its commissioners.

But still provincial politicians really because they didn't want to offend local politicians, would say that the system was owned by the municipalities.

What this came to mean in practice was that for a considerable time, in the 40s and 50s, hydro policies were actually being almost entirely set by the professionals on its staff.

Obviously there was no way that the several hundred municipalities that were "partners" could exercise any effective control.

And though the provincial government always had a representative on its board, a lot of the time he was treated as a necessary, but not wanted, evil.

At the same time the province was becoming more and more involved in Hydro. And Hydro was becoming more and more involved in the province's economy.

It has been obvious for some time that there should be a more direct control by the province over the commission, and now that is to be brought about.

Incidentally, to mollify the municipalities - the task force proposes that they be issued "equity certificates," proportionate to their interest.

These would be cashable if Hydro were ever sold.

In other words they have about as much practical value as a Kentucky colonelship.

German Artist Carves Creches of All Lands

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — In an Eskimo igloo, two seals look up at the new-born babe; a dogsled and team stand outside in the snow. Under a rugged cliff in Utah, an Indian maiden holds the infant. In a tiny stable in Africa, a black Mary cradles a black Christ child.

These are among the multinational images of the nativity as depicted in unusual collectors settings carved in wood by a German artist, Albert Fehrenbacher, who started the immense, painstaking task as a prisoner of war in Russia.

"It signifies how the living Christ breaks down all barriers of race, nation and culture," says Fehrenbacher, 61, a tall, thin man whose deep-set, sombre eyes still bespeak the ordeal he endured.

His elaborate group of carvings, called the Creche of All Nations, has been displayed extensively in a continuing tour of churches in the United States.

The detailed scenes, each set in its own dioramic background, include hundreds of tiny wooden figures—people, animals, trees, plant life, furniture and utensils each styled and outfitted according to the place represented.

In the varied scenes, the Infant Christ is shown in a tent beside the ruins of a Hindu temple in India, in a water-mill shed in the snow-clad Black Forest of Germany, in the arms of a Japanese woman sitting beside a tea table, in a lean-to surrounded by cactus in Peru, on a South Pacific island.

"They depict the nativity as seen by different peoples in various cultures and countries the world," says Fehrenbacher. In sum, he adds, they symbolize Christ as "Lord of the universe," drawing all people together in love and brotherhood.

"It is my own testimony to Christ as one who can break down all barriers holding men asunder and, who alone can reconcile all men everywhere," he says.

Bridging Chasm of Years Is Changelessness of God

By REV. G. C. SMYTH

On Monday each of us will stand at the beginning of another year. The thought of it impresses us with the fact of change. Some of us will recall these lines:

"Ring out the old. Ring in the new;

Ring out the false, Ring in the true.

Ring out the narrowing lust of gold.

Ring out the thousand wars of old.

Ring in the valiant man and free,

Ring in the Christ that is to be."

Yet behind the impressive fact of change there lies the much deeper and more steadying idea of the changelessness of God. "The earth and the heavens will perish," wrote the Psalmist, "but thou dost endure. They will all wear out like a garment; but thou art the same, and thy years have no end."

Bridging the chasm of years is this continuous, eternal, immutable unity of the purposes of God.

It is this faith in the stability of God which sustains us in a universe of change. The whole history of science, of logic, of human reasoning, is based upon this assumption of dependability and consistency in the universe, and assumes that we have relations with the immutable.

When one turns to the experience of life, the one hope of peace and confidence — indeed, of sanity — lie in this conviction that our affections and ideals are untouched by the changing years.

A man walks his way, stumbling through the dark looking for truth, but he can go on with courage if he sees something fixed, a star above him to which he may look and toward which he may hold his way.

Each experience of change, especially in these revolutionary times, renews a yearning for changelessness and immutability of God. "What is excellent," said Ralph Waldo Emerson, "as God lives, is permanent."

We must put away the life of the passing year as we put away the suit which is changed. But there are purposes and ideals which are not to have an end. One may pass calmly the artificial boundary of every first day of January because he is upheld by the Everlasting Arms.

"It fortifies my soul," said a poet, who knew all the tragedy of change, and the transitions of faith and fear —

"It fortifies my soul to know
That though I perish, truth is so:
That howso'er I stray and range,
Whate'er I do, thou dost not change.
I steadier step when I recall
That though I slip, thou dost not fall."

Medical Aid Soon Summoned To Ships at Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Freighters at sea with emergency injuries or illnesses now can locate the nearest doctor within minutes by asking a computer, a Coast Guard commander says.

Through the Automated Mutual-Assistance Vessel Rescue (AMVER) system, the nearest vessel carrying a doctor is contacted and, begins heading for the distressed ship, Cmdr. Joe Wubbold told a Coast Guard sponsored Pacific Search and Rescue Seminar here.

The heart of AMVER is a computer room in New York where the position of ships and other pertinent data is recorded. If a crewman is seriously injured, the ship wires the nearest Coast Guard station.

"I get on the phone direct to the computer in New York," Wubbold said. "No operator or secretary or anybody else—I talk directly to the machine myself."

Wubbold said he tells the computer to send a list of all the ships carrying a doctor in an area of two longitudes and two latitudes.

"In minutes I've got the list, with the ship nearest the freighter heading it. The message flies out, and often enough within hours the doctor is boarding the freighter," Wubbold said.

Catholics Ignore Ban On The Pill

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Roman Catholics in the United States are ignoring their church's ban on birth control and are using the pill in numbers almost equal to non-Catholics, says a recent survey.

The study, of 6,000 married couples, showed that last year 31.5 per cent of non-Catholics who responded were using the pill. Of the Catholics, the figure was 29.5.

Roman Catholics, in addition, were using the intra-uterine coil or loop in greater numbers than non-Catholics. The comparison was 8.3 per cent of Catholics to six per cent of non-Catholics.

The survey, spanning the years 1961 to 1971, was carried out by Princeton University Professor Norman Ryder for the Population Council, an independent research body.

Ryder, of the university's population research office, said his survey had borne out an earlier, little-publicized, study showing that the huge majority of American Catholics said they disagreed with the 1968 papal encyclical banning artificial methods of birth control.

That study, in 1995, polled 450 Catholic women on their feelings towards the encyclical and reported 69 per cent against, 16 per cent for, 15 mixed, and the rest inconclusive.

Pentecostal Revival Is Growing in Brazil

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A Pentecostal revival is taking hold in the world's largest Roman Catholic country.

Signs of the Protestant denomination's growth range from storefront-type meetings halls to a huge million-dollar Brazil for Christ complex set up in Sao Paulo's Pompeia district.

By completion in 1975, it will accommodate 25,000 Pentecostal faithful in what the founder claims will be "the world's largest evangelical church."

"Amen, Jesus!" and "hallelujah!" punctuate services of Brazil for Christ, the largest of three main Pentecostal groups here. Its young leader is 43-year-old Manuel de Mello.

"Now let's sing that song that's taking hold of Brazil," Mello exhorts from his pulpit.

"We're looking for revival, the power of the Father, the power of the Son, the power of the Holy Ghost!"

The lively Pentecostal services of Brazil for Christ, the Assemblies of God and the Brazil Christian Congregation are filled with loud-clapping and use of musical instruments considered unconventional by more conservative Protestant groups.

Its growth has been so spectacular that Brazil's National Conference of Bishops has undertaken a study to assess the movement's prospects in this vast Catholic nation.

From soup to turkey on her menu: Mrs. Betty Hardy tests her recipes with Fiesta Room employees. Mrs. Trudy Hardy, daughter-to-law and Miss June Crowhurst, catering manager, Mrs. Hardy (Mum) doesn't find it hard cooking for the expected 125 people at the Fiesta Room, New Year's day. Preparing oneself well in advance is her secret to a successful dinner.

Saint Vasillios Honored For Greek's New Year

New Year's Eve for the Greek community in Belleville is a time for festivities and dancing. Saint Vasillios is honored.

At midnight, the parties which include friends and relatives, have a buffet-style meal consisting of cheeses, olives, salads, lamb, ham, salads and olives.

Also at midnight, the Vasilopita or New Year's cake is cut. There is one gold or silver coin placed in this bread and whoever receives this piece will have good luck during the new year.

After the party, everyone goes to church before returning home. Children are encouraged to attend the party with their parents and participate in the dancing and festivities.

"In Greece", said Mr. John Zikoboulos, of Belleville, "New Year's is more important than Christmas". Impromptu caroling begins the day before New Year's. Bands of youth and adults, in Greece, carol personalized songs for each home they visit."

The gifts are exchanged before midnight.

The Zikoboulous: John and Georgina also celebrate the traditional Canadian Christmas with their family: Steven and Nicolete and Paul. Itsmouth-old twins, Turkey, trimmings and gift exchanges are enjoyed. The religious New Years' then follows.

Saint Vasilios, The Protector of Children is the equivalent to Santa Claus. He brings presents and wisdom for all New Years through.

Also in Greece, according to Mr. Zikoboulos 97 per cent of the people have a homogeneous cultural background. The whole community shares their traditional New Year's celebrations.

VASILOPITTA
(New Year's Cake)

Prepared for New Year's Eve. A gold or silver coin is placed in this bread for good luck. It is customary to cut at midnight when New Year starts.

3 lbs. flour
1 cup butter
1¼ cups sugar
1 cup milk
6 eggs
1 tbsp. powdered aniseeds
¼ oz. yeast
1 tsp. salt
Grated lemon or orange rind

Dissolve yeast in bowl with 1 cup lukewarm, water.

Add enough flour to thick batter, cover with napkin.

Set aside for 1 hr.

Place remaining flour in basin, make a lake in centre, pour in batter.

Rinse with warm milk and add to flour.

Add remaining ingredients, preserve egg yolk for glazing top.

Knead 10 min. until smooth. Makes a stiff dough.

Cover — set aside for 2 to 3 hours until doubled in bulk. Turn it again and knead.

Shape by hand in well greased round baking pan.

Dough should be 1½ inches thick.

Preserve 1 handful of dough.

Roll ¼ inch thick.

Place on top in a circle

Shape a few more strips with number of new year.

Beat preserved yolk with little water.

After cake has risen ¼", glaze on top.

Bake in moderate oven for 1 hr.

When cold, cut. Insert a coin.

Whoever gets it has good luck for the year!

New Year's Cake

The Vasilopita or New Year's cake is ready and somewhere within, a silver coin has been placed by Mrs. John Zikoboulos. A traditional Greek custom, it is believed that whoever finds this coin in their piece of cake, will have good luck in the forthcoming year.

Social And Personal

Mr. Roy Hawkins of the Kingston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses officiated at the recent wedding of Joanne M Belnap, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weese, Belleville, and P. Earl Wightman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Wightman. The wedding took place at the home of the bride. Attendants were Mrs. Peter Jury and Stephen Wightman.

'Be Prepared!' for New Year's Good Dinners Need Preparation

This New Year's Day, many Bellevillians will be "eating out", a popular trend with many families.

Mrs. Betty Hardy, who will be cooking for 125 people this New Year's Day at the Hostelquinte's Fiesta Room, offers one suggestion for every cook.

"Be prepared. Organize your menu and make sure you allow yourself time to cook everything."

For Mrs. Hardy, known as 'Mum' for the Fiesta Room employees a week's preparation for her New Year's dinner at the hotel is necessary. There will be several 28-lb. turkeys which Mrs. Hardy has assuredly finished making the dressing. Pastries, vegetables and salads follow in order of preparation.

Basic recipes are used for this cook's New Year's day menu which includes homemade soups, Roast Ontario Young Turkey, Bakes Sugar-Cured Ham, Broiled Filet Mignon Hostelerie, Roasted Prime Ribs of Beef-au-jus, potatoes, brussel sprouts, buttered parsley carrots, salad, mince pie and Christmas pudding.

Mrs. Hardy then adds seasoning as her taste buds dictate. Some of her important flavor suggestions were butter rather than margarine, mushrooms in the dressing, poultry seasoning, home-made French dressing basted on the large turkeys to set in flavor and moisture, sour cream and chives for the baked potatoes and cider sauce for the ham.

Hotel Quinte's large kitchen, possibly the largest hotel kitchen in Belleville, affords Mrs. Hardy a lot of space for her work. This cook, born in Scotland and Hotel Quinte's chef for 13 years, loves her kitchen and believes the size of a kitchen denotes the cook's mood in preparing food.

A large cutting board and marbleboard to keep pastry cool when rolling are important for this hotel's cook.

Male chefs, according to Mrs. Hardy, can't cope with the hectic bustle in mass food preparation and serving for hotels.

A new recipe challenges this cook who reads cookbooks to keep herself updated and prepared.

Ironing-Day Blues Gone With Handy Steam Irons

Consumers' Association of Canada

Clothes that wrinkle while drying on a line or after tumbling about in the automatic dryer cause ironing-day. Until permanent press materials become universal and truly permanent, the iron will continue to play an important role in every household.

Although its basic shape has remained unchanged for centuries, the iron has acquired a certain sophistication. More and more shoppers turn to the steam iron rather than to their former favorite, the dry iron. Today's homemaker need no longer dampen clothes before using a steam iron.

The basic principle involved in steam ironing is that water, in the form of steam, is applied to a fabric to relax wrinkles, which are then more easily removed by heat and pressure. To be effective the steam must be converted to water. This happens when the steam hits a cold fabric. The water is then removed by the hot soleplate.

A fabric can absorb only a certain amount of steam before it gets too hot to absorb any more. Any steam applied to the fabric after that point passes through the fabric to the ironing board pad.

That is why an ironed-in wrinkle is difficult to remove with a steam iron. The fabric is already too hot from the ironing to condense the steam required to dampen and relax the new wrinkle. To combat this problem, many manufacturers have introduced the feature of a spray which provides instant moistening for stubborn creases. The spray enables you to use water — and not steam — to help iron out a stubborn wrinkle.

When you are shopping for a steam iron, remember that manufacturers have not standardized the temperature range for irons. That is, identical settings will produce different temperatures with different brands and even with different models of the same brand of iron. You should, therefore, be very careful when using a new iron, the temperature range may be quite different from your old iron even though it may be the same brand.

New Home Economist Introduced

Home economists from Hastings and Prince Edward Counties were present at the recent meeting for Sub-division 5 Trent Valley Area Women's Institutes. Miss Kate Wahl, the new Home economist for Hastings was introduced by Mrs. Elaine Strichens who is returning from the position, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Barber, Belleville where the meeting was held.

Plans were also discussed for the District Annuals to be held in the spring. A report of the Provincial Board meeting was presented by Mrs. C. Barber, Board Director.

Each district was asked to donate one article valued at approximately $3 to the Christmas expenses for the National Convention to be held in Banff, Alberta in June, 1973. These articles will be sent to Mrs. Barber by the end of March.

Once again at this Festive Season we wish each and everyone of you the best in 1972, along with our warmest thanks for the very generous share of business you have accorded us in 1971. It has been our pleasure to serve you.

Our policy of selling Better Furniture and Carpeting at modest prices has been well received, and we appreciate the many opportunities of assisting with advice on room decor and planning.

Your reception of our large Rug and Broadloom department has been most encouraging. As you know we carry one of the largest displays of Carpeting between Toronto and Montreal and our volume of sales enables us to buy direct from the manufacturer at savings that are passed on to you. Again, our thanks.

Yuletide Meet Held

MADOC — Mrs. Roy Rollins was hostess for the Christmas meeting of Queensboro Women's Institute held in the W.I.

Mrs. John Thompson conducted a contest and Mrs. Arthur Holmes presented a guessing game during the Christmas program. An old-fashioned spelling match was led by Mrs. Carl Gordon. A sing song of Christmas carols was followed by Santa's visit. Everyone received gifts.

During the business meeting, correspondence was read and a thank you card was received from Bruce Leslie and family.

It was decided to sponsor a 4H Girls Club with Mrs. Alan Sager and Mrs. William Roushorn as leaders.

Gifts will be sent to the sick and shut-ins in the community for Christmas.

Ann Landers
'Sloppy Broads' Annoy Better, Unclaimed Female

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a good 26-year-old working girl with two years of college. I appreciate good literature, good art, good music and good conversation. I'm fairly attractive though no beauty. I have no visible drawbacks. I'm not too fat or too thin, too short or to tall. I don't have acne, buck teeth, knock-knees or horsetail. I have no eyes, one each on the opposite sides of my face.

I work in a high-class retail establishment and I see women all day long. Most of them are poorly groomed—fat, sloppy broads, short-tempered, loud-mouthed, and they yell in public like fishwives at their ill-mannered kids. Yet it is apparent that at least one person wanted to marry each dame. In the meantime here I sit, unclaimed, unpursued and unwanted without nothing in sight. Why do good girls finish last?—Bitter Mystery Of Life

Dear Ms: Some of those "broads" got fat and sloppy after marriage, and their voices became shrill from yelling at their kids. Twenty-four is still a far cry from the old fella's home. The trick isn't to get married, honey, but to make a decent selection that sticks. I'm worth waiting for. Relax.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's the situation in a nutshell—and I mean nutshell. Ever since I've known this married couple she's had two closets jammed full of dresses. Last week her sex-starved husband confided to me that his wife insists on a new dress as reimbursement for every act of "love".

Question: What's the difference between this woman who is legally married and a prostitute—H.J.

Dear H. J.: Most prostitutes insist on money. But fundamentally the principle is the same.

Incidentally, if the wife's closet is jammed full of dresses, how do you figure her husband is sex-starved?

Dear Ann Landers: I am a married woman who had four babies in five years. They are more than I can handle and I do not want a larger family. Neither does my husband. He was seriously considering a vasectomy but gave up the idea when he read of the side effects that a few men have experienced. Although his doctor assured him that 95 per cent of the men who have had vasectomies have had no trouble whatever, he has decided toward the idea and I can understand why.

Last week he suggested that I have my tubes tied but I am afraid to do it. A few of my friends have told me that this is not 100 per cent safe. They say tubes can come untied and pregnancy is possible.

Will you please check with your medical consultants and get me the right answer? If you say tube tying is 100 per cent certain I will do it.—Need Guidance

Dear Need: Very few things in this world are 100 per cent anything. There are bound to be exceptions, for one reason or another. A tubal ligation, if performed properly, is about as safe as you can get.

Confidential to Heartsick Sister: No, do not tell her. It would serve no useful purpose and it might cause a great deal of agony. You have no real evidence that the woman was his mistress. Forget it.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can 'dreams' co-exist with marriage?

YES and no. Hopeful dreams, of course, can shape a marriage, give it direction. Hopedreams, however, have no place in marriage. Oh, a couple may on occasion feel happy enough to believe they have located that "happily, ever after" fairy-tale land, but they will come down to earth after a while. That is why fanciful dreams have no place in marriage. There is always that day when a man and wife realize that true happiness can only come through reality.

Does a recluse enjoy meditation?

HARDLY. He might enjoy the solitude, the lack of interference; but a self-directed recluse rarely likes to do any self-searching when he is off by himself—mainly because he doesn't want to give himself a chance to become self-conscious. He is afraid he might yearn to be back interacting with other people, which he knows can provide a basis for compromise and the loss he thinks about himself, the less chance he believes he will have of realizing what he is missing.

Are we glad to know where we stand?

YES—in most cases. Even if it takes an argument to clear the air, we are pleased at least to know "what the score is." Some people, though, are hard to pin down; not only that, they seem to take delight in keeping others guessing. Say someone has resolved a dispute in his own mind; he outlines the proposal to the other disputant. After all the discussion, however, the issue turns out to be more up in the air than ever.

Thoughts on Time Bring Ideas on Life and Love

I am a Calendar; the symbol of time.
Take time to think: It is the source of power.
Take time to play: It is the secret of perpetual youth.
Take time to read: it is the fountain of wisdom.
Take time to love and be loved: it is a God-Given privilege.
Take time to be friendly; it is the road to happiness.
Take time to laugh: it is the music of the soul.
Take time to give; it is too short a day to be selfish.
Take time to work:; it is the price of success.

Author Unknown.

The above was sent in by a reader — "A Poem for Your Collection". It seems to me there are thoughts here that might well go with some good New Year's resolutions.

How about time to love and to laugh and to give — do we do enough of these things?

Dear Doris: I have a daughter who has a child with the same problem as "Stumped" has. She is very bright in every way but when she reads a story from her school reader, she can't tell you afterwards what the story is about.

She is eight years old, belongs to the Brownies and is very active. Her grades are good in school and she is a healthy, normal child but she does have this reading problem. She has no trouble reading; it is the idea of being able to tell what the story is about when she's finished.

I'm sending 20 cents for your leaflet on Children With Learning Disabilities. If you have another that would suit this child better, I would be glad to have it. — Also Stumped.

Dear Also: The question is, does she fail to comprehend, or to express herself, or to concentrate? Or is she under tension because she senses your anxiety about her?

Some children have trouble formulating their ideas. Try her on what she saw on TV; or what did she wear to school? Can she express herself about anything?

The good grades would suggest comprehension okay. Also that she can concentrate, if she is relaxed. And that is where you come in. See if she can tell a story to her favorite uncle.

Talk to her teacher. My leaflet on Children With Learning Disabilities may give you a few more clues. Only after diagnosis can we tell who should be the one to help her.

Dear Doris: What is a Mason? Why are they only men? Why are their meetings such a secret that a husband won't even tell his wife about it?

I am referring to a friend of mine. I just want to know why. Then I will understand. — Why?

Dear Why? I know. Many a married pair thoroughly believe they should have no secrets from each other. But is it really good for one person to possess another to the 9th degree? Much depends on just how kindred their spirits are.

Masonry, or Freemasonry, is one of the oldest and largest fraternal organizations in the world. It aims to promote brotherhood and foster morality among its members. It honors women.

There are secret rituals — and members swear they will discuss these with no single person, male or female. But they do encourage the wives of Masons to belong to their sister organization, The Order of the Eastern Star.

I think the secrecy tends to make the ideals of Masonry more sacred. And from what I have learned, those ideals are worth reaching for. Can do nothing but good.

(Make a resolution to do something about your personal hang-up. Write to Doris, in care of this newspaper, for help in getting started.)

Supper, Skits Featured

The December meeting of the College Hill United Church Women featured a pot luck supper and skits with a Christmas message. The skits were performed by Vivian Leproe, Frayne MacDonald and Millie Townsend.

Helen McLaren, president, read a Christmas poem at the beginning of the meeting.

The slate of officers for 1973 was approved.

Worship service by Frayne MacDonald and Vivian Lepore with a theme of "If we had been to Bethlehem" completed the evening.

THIS AD IS NOT FOR ABSTAINERS

AFTER ALL 'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY'

... and in keeping with the times, we appreciate the fact that there can be some genuine cheer in a glass of beer, some real enjoyment in a cocktail or a glass of wine.

BUT WE SHOULD ALSO BE MINDFUL THAT AT SUCH TIMES BOTH MISFORTUNE AND EVEN TRAGEDY CAN BE LURKING CLOSE AT HAND.

Each one of us would do well to examine our drinking habits NOW at the beginning of the New Year and moderate them as required.

You scarcely need to be reminded not to drink and drive, but, if you insist, limit your consumption to one drink or two at the very most. Make it a point to eat at such times as food consumption will retard the entry of alcohol into your blood stream.

Past misdemeanors by careless, thoughtless, however well-meaning offenders have put new teeth and more severe penalties into our traffic laws where drinking is concerned. Even for first offenders, so beware! It's up to you. If you overindulge, DO NOT DRIVE!

1973 Inaugural

Mayor Prepares to Take Office

The New Year's message most pertinent to Belleville's everyday life style is now ready for delivery.

But Bellevillians must wait until Tuesday to know its contents.

It is the inaugural address of Robin Jeffrey Phillips which she will officially launch her administration that day as the second woman mayor to hold office at city hall.

Traditionally, such documents echo many of the campaign themes of candidates during election bids to the city's top elected office.

But, apart from the working projects she may commend to city council's attention for consideration during the two years of Hanover term, the incoming mayor believes she has a fundamental task to tackle immediately: Creation of a united co-operative council.

"I think that there have been, perhaps, divisions in the council," she says. "And one of my major tasks is to try and unite a good, strong working team so that we can get the job done".

It's a time when individual citizen involvement in civic affairs is broadly manifest, and Belleville will be in step with the new political style.

For one thing, the new mayor made contact with the people a key campaign commitment which she says she intends making good.

Whatever, the administrative demands, Mayor-elect Jeffrey says she'll make the time to meet and hear as many people as possible — "to listen to their ideas . . . and use their suggestions in developing policies for our city . . .

"Sure, it could be a heavy burden . . . but think it's the only answer. People themselves are concerned with what's going on in their community. They're vitally interested. And it's the only way you have as mayor to know their feelings.

"If I'm not willing to listen to them or be available to them, I think you find a gap developing between the mayor and council and citizens."

One broad general need she believes felt by Bellevillians is the need for redevelopment of their roads. And — without giving details — the mayor-elect says her inaugural speech will include a suggestion on how a 20-year re-construction program might be tackled "without unduly increasing taxes".

The mayor elect says council will have to be "very careful" about raising any taxes, which she now sees as an already heavy burden. The need for caution is compound by warning of constraints on provincial government revenue sources.

Priorities and issues she cites for attention in the next two years of her office include:

Planning — the city's official plan and zoning bylaw must be expedited.

Industry — Serviced industrial land is needed. A current lack has been a "bottleneck" on the city's industrial commission dealing with prospective industries.

Parks-Recreation — Population growth has created an open-space development lag in east and north sectors of the city. Expanded recreation facilities for senior citizens also is a requirement.

And, shadowing the background of Belleville-area civic administration is an undefined issue that may assume more substance before the upcoming Jeffrey mayoralty expires — regional government.

Already, an Oshawa-Cobourg regional administration proposed by the province, promises to affect Hastings County with the addition of peripheral municipalities.

It's vital that Belleville, Trenton and county councils draw together early to discuss what looks to me like regional government coming into our area in the next two or three years," says the mayor-elect.

"It's important we all have input into any provincial government decision for this area."

Young Skaters Take Cheerily To Fund-Raising Task

Skaters Score In Fund Project

Hundreds have been skating for thousands at Belleville rinks this weekend.

The event is the first skating marathon organized by Belleville Rotary to raise funds for the service club's community work.

The two - day skate - a-thon started yesterday with young Bellevilleans from various youth organizations skating for cash pledges at both Belleville Memorial Arena and Dick Ellis Rink.

Although neither the number of participants nor the money amount involved was precisely known at the end of the event's first day, club officials last night were estimating hundreds of skaters had raised about $3,000.

The young people were back slicing the ice again this morning at both rinks.

Each skater puts in a maximum of 60 laps and pledges have been set from a cent to a dime a lap. The total take is spread between club and participating organizations.

Rotary takes 35 per cent of the funds — and pays all expenses.

The skaters, who collected their own pledges came from community minor sports groups, scouts, guides and church organizations.

Village Hall Lost In Deloro Fire

DELORO (Staff) — This village is without a municipal hall today after fire of undetermined origin Friday night, completely destroyed the one-storey frame structure.

All council records, together with community hall equipment and the village library in the basement of the building, were destroyed.

No estimate of the loss was available this morning, but village clerk Mrs. Bernice Young said the structure was covered by insurance.

"But insurance is never enough" to replace the loss she said.

Leonard Bicknell, who lives just across from the municipal hall, discovered the fire as he was returning home shortly after 8:30 p.m.

He spotted smoke rolling from the rear of the building and turned in the alarm to nearby Marmora fire department. Firefighting equipment was on the scene in minutes but nothing could be done to save the building.

Firemen were assisted in saving an adjacent store as a result of the wind blowing in the opposite direction. Firefighters remained on the scene until after midnight.

Mrs. Young said the village hall formerly owned by Deloro Smelting had been used as the municipal office since 1964.

At that time, a new furnace was installed and in 1970 the building was renovated, with new kitchen equipment and dining facilities being installed on the ground floor. The main floor was set up for a New Year's dinner and dance at the time of the fire.

Most of the village records were in steel filing cabinets which, Mrs. Young feared, would have melted in the blaze. Also lost in the fire was a memorial plaque honoring soldiers who fought in two world wars.

Trenton Mayor Sure Of More Industry

TRENTON (Staff — The year 1972 could have been rosier for Trenton.

But generally the town fared exceptionally well when it is considered two established industries closed and approximately 300 workers lost their jobs.

This was the observation of Mayor Duncan McDonald today as he reviewed occurrences with the greatest effect on the municipality during the past 12 months.

But, Mayor McDonald said, the reverses were more than offset by acquisitions of new industry, expansion at the growing Quaker Oats complex, along with the enlarged street reconstruction program and completion of a ambitious sewer projects on Front and Dufferin Streets.

Also in the plus column, Mayor McDonald included development of large housing subdivisions in both the west and north sections of the town.

"I am pretty sure we are going to get more new industry in the next year and I think that is very important," said the mayor, who also predicted continued improvement for the downtown core.

However, he noted that additional road construction and other public works undertakings would depend on whether capital is available now that a large sum has been earmarked by the Ontario Municipal Board for construction of the new municipal office and downtown parking garage.

The biggest disappointment this year was the OMB decision to approve expenditure of $383,100 on the old post-office property," Mayor McDonald concluded.

Ice Holds Automobile

A Thomasburg man escaped serious injury after his car went off the end of Belleville's government dock last night.

Franklin Thompson sustained a mouth injury from the accident. The ice was sufficiently thick to hold the vehicle, later discovered by patrolling police.

MAYOR McDONALD

Quinte's Richard Potter

New Year, New Controversies?

For Dr. Richard Potter 1973 means more of the same — but only more so.

The year 1972 brought the Belleville physician appointment as Ontario's health minister — at a time when the delivery of health care was evolving in new directions.

The evolution often has appeared as much a revolution with the straight-talking home-town practitioner moving in a swirl of controversy and criticism as he tcsieged traditional attitudes — in turn often coming under heavy counter fire.

In retrospect, as the year closes, the Belleville - area riding of Quinte, which sent him to Queen's Park, could well lay claim to producing the province's most controversial political personality of 1972.

And for 1973?

"I think there will be all kinds of criticism and controversy. The issues that are coming up are going to be very controversial" predicts the minister as he takes a New Year breakfast spell at his Massasauga home.

His February appointment to the health portfolio came at a time when public health expectations of health care converged with a universal problem — rising costs of government services. In Ontario the health ministry's budget has run over $2 billion — about a third of provincial expenditures.

Meeting public need and the demand for cost - control restraints immersed him in twinned assignments: Re-organization of his ministry and shaping the health care program it would administer.

The first dealt with a department mustering a work force of more than 22,000. The second involved Ontario's population, its medical professions and institutions — a task that made 1972 "a helluva busy year".

"I didn't think I could be any busier when I was in general practice (before he turned to politics in 1971)," relates Dr. Potter. "But those days were a pipe compared to the hours I've been putting in at this job."

Nonetheless, the pressures was to be expected, he indicates. Contemporary social changes make his job something of a "trouble-shooting" task.

"Health care today is the number one problem," says Dr. Potter.

Evolving solutions to the problem has produced varied reactions during the year. Such issues as the cutback on active - treatment hospital beds, supervision of dentistry by dentists, and suggestions that doctors should make more house calls have been among Potter proposals bringing a cluster of criticisms from various sources.

But he also looks back as what he sees as major accomplishments — Prime among them being inclusion of nursing homes in the developing health care program.

Meantime, projects like home-care' services, roll-care units, use of para-medical personnel — such as specially trained nurses to supplement doctors services, are among other cost-cutting alternatives to active treatment hospitalization now being contemplated.

"We're attempting to provide alternatives to active - treatment beds which are so expensive to build, so expensive to operate," he says.

The reaction of the professions, as well as the professions, have a part to play in fighting the cost spiral emphasizes Dr. Potter.

"Really, without the wholehearted co-operation of everyone involved, hospital administrations, physicians and the public, it's going to be most difficult."

"None of us want to be faced with increased premiums . . . and all of us feel we're overtaxed . . . We certainly don't want to inversely on increased taxes to continue skyrocketing health costs as they are now.

"One of the difficulties is that everyone everyone has to all have a part to play, that we all can do something about it."

He believes a majority of the public agrees "that we have to do something about these costs — just as they had to do something a bout school costs.

"But," he adds, "we still have the diehards who are more interested in running interference than in attempting to develop something in the best interests of the public generally. These we'll always have with us . . .

One possible future controversy could be the method of physicians' remuneration — a program which has prompted much study in other public health schemes. But, could the present fee-for-service system of payment be replaced by a salary formula?

If it were, cautions Dr. Potter, such a schedule would have to be linked to some manner of incentive payments because of the time irregularity involved in medical practice.

A task force of doctors now is scrutinizing the entire question of fee schedules for the Potter ministry.

But he is hopeful the profession's doctors want to assist in resolving such an issue.

"This is going to be a very ticklish one," the minister admits. "Of course, my attitude is that the profession itself must give some leadership and assist the government in sorting their way out of this one. Surely, they must realize it has got to be done. And if it can be done with the co-operation of the profession it will be that much better . . ."

With no illusions that the coming year will be any more conflict swirling around Potter proposals, there also is a belief he can again weather any such storms.

"You have to be prepared to do what you think is right, do the necessary studies . . . and be as careful as you can with your research to make sure you're making the right move.

Dr. Potter's prescription for enduring political controversy: "You have to have a hide like a rhinoceros."

Dr. Potter: More Controversy?

Official County Plan Top Priority in 1973

Final approval of the county's official plan now under preparation should be high on the to-do agenda for Hastings county council in 1973.

This is the expectation of Warden Norman Gibson who says the new official plan is being generally well received throughout the county.

"Local meetings have been held and fairly well, with the people generally understanding what is trying to be accomplished," he said.

Although he will not be a member of next year's council, Warden Gibson expects there could be some initial confusion as a result of more members (up to 47 from the present 34) and with the provincial government proposal to create two rural and urban municipalities from Northumberland to Hastings.

Under the proposal for regional government for the area east of Toronto, five Northumberland county townships and four urban centres would be added to Hastings for administrative purposes, bringing council membership to about 60.

The county already has submitted a private bill to the Ontario Legislature to change county council membership. As the result of the election this fall 11 additional councillorees will come to county council next year.

Mr. Gibson also expects there could be county opposition to the proposal to include the Northumberland municipalities in Quinte.

Warden Gibson nevertheless sees regional government coming in this county probably by 1975.

He would not suggest what possible boundary lines might be drawn for regional government involving Hastings. But he hopes for careful consideration of the voice areas and also the feeling of the people.

Too often, he says, when government agencies propose areas to be serviced from a central point "they merely sit down with a pencil and paper and make decisions without taking all factors into consideration."

Looking back over 1972, Warden Gibson expressed pleasure on the continued good relations between the county and the city of Belleville.

He also noted that county activity during the year included publication of The Life and Letters of William Hutton an early county history project by Belleville educationist Gerald B. Boyce, and the visit of officials from the city of Lahr, Germany.

Agreement Postponed

PICTON — Prince Edward County director of economic development William Daggett said this week said the signing of a final agreement between Loch Sloy Holding and Skyligh Homes has been postponed until early January. The agreement will open the door for a new industry in Prince Edward which will employ approximately 250 persons in production of plastic houses for use in developing countries.

Local Identity: Warden Concerned

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County Warden Ross Beeway yesterday reviewed his term of office voicing concern for maintenance of the county as a unit.

He said he was "a bit concerned" by the large regions created recently by the government in areas west of the county. He said he does not want to see Prince Edward lose its identity. The warden felt it should remain as a unit because of its unique position as an island.

County council has prepared a brief outlining a proposal for one-tier local government and it has been presented to government officials.

Warden Beeway said he became familiar with the Sandbanks controversy during his term and is convinced it was favorable consideration in work done on this project.

He also mentioned a county wide survey of waste disposal sites and said garbage collection and disposal has created a problem for most municipalities in Prince Edward. "I am quite confident we are going to see some major developments in this county at Loch Sloy Holding," he predicted.

He said mayor-elect Harvey McFarland showed foresight in buying the land parcel at Prince Edward Heights and he is to be complimented in making its benefits available to the county.

Discuss Carnival

PICTON — William Silver, president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, yesterday said a board of directors meeting will be held at Prince Edward Yacht Club at 12 noon, Monday, January 8 when plans for a winter carnival may fall under discussion. The carnival has been an annual event for two years but no decisions have been made for the winter of 1973.

Business Boomed For Downtown

"Yes, last year was a good year. Ask any merchant in downtown Belleville.

Representatives of the downtown trade say 1972 has been, the best in several years for increased sales.

Highlights of last year's business included soaring sales in wrist watches, record sales in women's sports wear. Men also are making an entry into high-volume clothes buying.

One spokesman said men's business "in the department this year has been the best since the store opened."

The Belleville Downtown Association, co-ordinating group for a number of downtown shops, reflected it back over the year saying a high light was formation of the "improvement area bylaw". With this bylaw merchants will be levied a special tax to be used to develop the downtown area.

John Adams, speaking for the association said downtown business generally was good and riding on a strong wave.

"The word for downtown is strong," said Mr. Adams.

Other highlights in the year have seen several improved facilities and renovated fronts at several stores.

Charlie Bristol, member of the board of management of area, said "this was a fantastic year for growth — an excellent business year."

Orr Scores Winning Goal Against Minnesota North Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Bobby Orr was upset over the disclosure by his teammates Friday that he was engaged to a 26-year-old Detroit school teacher, it wasn't evident at Minneapolis.

Orr, Boston Bruins' super defenceman and considered by many the greatest player in the game today, scored the winner in a 3-0 victory over Minnesota and just missed getting his second in the closing seconds when his rink-length shot caromed off the goalpost of the empty North Stars' net.

But the key to the Boston win, that moved the Bruins into first place in the National Hockey League East Division, was the brilliant goaltending of Eddie Johnston, a much-maligned veteran carrying the burden of the backstopping chores this season.

Johnston turned aside 37 shots, including 18 in the first period and 12 in the second before the Stars finally ran out of offence in the closing minutes.

Elsewhere Saturday, Toronto Maple Leafs supported rookie goaltender Ron Low's sparkling performance at Pittsburgh for a 4-0 win over the Penguins while California Golden Seals beat New York Islanders 5-2 and Vancouver Canucks and Philadelphia Flyers played to a 4-4 tie.

The fourth-place Philadelphia game spread into the stands at the 17:28 mark of the third period when several Flyers took after a fan who grabbed Don Saleski by the hair during a fight with Canucks' Barry Wilkins.

"We were 14 points behind at one time early last month," laughed the 31-year-old Johnston in the Bruin locker room.

"I made a big save early in the game to get me going," he said of his brilliant behind-the-net and his defensive mates. "I got a couple of breaks too.

"Sure they hit a couple of the pipes. But most of the year they've been hitting the pipes and going in."

Johnston, admitted what his team-mates had been publicly proclaiming since early season.

"I didn't want to make a big announcement about the extension because he said, 'Guys get engaged all the time, don't they?'"

Orr missed the Bruins' first 14 games with a knee injury and the defending Stanley Cup champions slid and got untracked before his return.

"He's back in form," claimed coach Tom Johnson. "He (Orr) says we got going just prior to his return, but I think the game when he returned to the lineup."

Since his return to the lineup, Boston has lost only once in 20 games and in addition to the 10 goals Orr has picked up 21 assists.

The Bruins could lose first place tonight when Montreal Canadiens entertain Atlanta Flames.

In other games, Toronto returns home against St. Louis Blues, the Islanders move on to Vancouver, Detroit Red Wings visit Pittsburgh and Los Angeles Kings are at home to Philadelphia.

Sunday's only New Year's Eve game has St. Louis in New York against the Islanders.

Orr told his team-mates of his engagement to Peggy Gilday, a native of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the Minneapolis hotel where the Bruins were guests.

No wedding date has been set.

Orr scored his 10th of the year at 11:51 of the first period but the game remained in doubt until Mike Walton tallied his 20th in the third period.

The loss snapped Minnesota's home-ice win streak at 11 and kept them three points behind Chicago Black Hawks, West Division leaders.

Low, whom the Leafs have been rumored ready to trade or demote to obtain strength behind veteran Jacques Plante, survived a 45-shot barrage—18 in the first period—as Toronto took period leads of 2-0 and 4-0.

BOBBY ORR

Goals by Paul Henderson and Dave Keon 16 seconds apart in the second period provided decisive for the Leafs who are struggling for sixth place to stay ahead of Vancouver in the East. Marshall Johnston broke Pens' 1-1 game at Oakland and Pete Laframboise gave the Seals a 2-1 lead before the first period ended.

At Vancouver, spare netminder Bob Taylor and defencemen Andre Dupont and Ed Van Impe led the attack from the Philadelphia bench over the boards with the first flurry of rink action, began hitting fans with their sticks and throwing punches before order moved in to quell the fracas.

Referee Ray Lon Tannahill and Bobby Schmautz salvaged the tie with Jim Flyers before the donnybrook involving players and spectators.

Cheevers Winner For WHA's Crusaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Gerry Cheevers and Bernie Parent, both established National Hockey League goaltenders, decided to jump to the rival World Hockey Association this year, it was a toss-up which of their new teams would benefit most.

Thus far it's no contest. Cheevers has been a consistent winner with Cleveland Crusaders and showed Friday night why his six club, Boston Bruins, want him back.

The veteran goalie handled 36 shots flawlessly in the first two periods of a game with Quebec Les Nordiques then was buried under a 24-shot third-period blitz as the Crusaders hung on for a 5-3 victory.

Parent went to Philadelphia and has been beaten consistently during the season, leaving his Blazers a solid last in the WHA's Eastern Division.

The Crusaders, meanwhile, closed to within two points of division-leading New England after the Whalers were upset 4-3 at Boston by Houston Aeros.

In the only other scheduled game, Los Angeles Sharks scored two shorthanded goals 31 seconds apart en route to a 5-2 win over Minnesota Fighting Saints marred by penalties.

Houston at Cleveland tonight while Ottawa at Montreal visit Chicago Cougars in the only scheduled games.

New England goes against the Raiders in a day game Sunday, with Ottawa in the Quebec Philadelphia at Los Angeles to complete the New Year's Eve contests.

Paul Andrea scored twice at Cleveland where the Crusaders built a 5-0 lead after two periods before folding under the continual Nordiques attack in front of 3,709 fans.

Doug Brindley, Joe Hardy and Garry Jarrett added the other goals before Quebec took charge in the free-skating third period.

Mike Parizeau, Alain (Boom-Boom) Caron and Rejean Gi roux finally solved Cheevers goaltending in the fourth inch. Dan McCourt tallied twice for the Sabres with single goals going to Randy Montgomery, Dr. Lotes, Jim Tunney and Mi Zettel.

At Guelph, Bruce Boyd, Jim Joy, Doug Risebrough and Mike Zettel shared in the Biltmore scoring. Brian Duench and Dino Ciccarelli replied with the Flyers who were outshot 39-35.

Elgins Tie Sabres 6-6

By THE CANADIAN PRE

Cellar-dwelling St. Thomas Elgins, winners of only seven previous games, came from behind three times in the third period to tie Welland Sabres 6-6 in Southern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action Friday night in Welland.

In other games, Guelph Biltmore moved within their first place margin over Niagara Falls to 11 points, defeating them 4-2, while Chatham Maroons moved to within three points of third place Windsor with a 4-2 victory over Spitfires.

Hugh Carpenter put Elgins' tying goal at 18:18 of the final period. Jamie Hodge scored twice for Sabres, Thomas and Wally Keating, Rick Smith and Mark Scholten replying for each. Dan McCourt tallied twice for the Sabres with single goals going to Randy Montgomery, Dr. Lotes, Jim Tunney and Mi Zettel.

At Guelph, Bruce Boyd, Jim Joy, Doug Risebrough and Mike Zettel shared in the Biltmore scoring. Brian Duench and Dino Ciccarelli replied with the Flyers who were outshot 39-35.

Titan Czechs Handle Moscow Dynamos in Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Billed as the battle of the titans in the Ontario International ice hockey tournament, the Czechoslovakia-Moscow game Friday night bombed for 6,600 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Czechs, clearly the superior team when they needed to be, skated away from Moscow Dynamos with four third-period goals and a 5-3 victory for the third straight win.

In another tournament game, at Kingston, the Aces of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series, bolstered by four players from Ontario Generals of the OHA Junior A Series, beat Tirma of Sweden 5-4.

Czech international veteran Vaclav Nedomansky, who indicated earlier in the day he might try for a berth in the National Hockey League next year, led the Prague-based team with two goals.

He and Ivan Hlinka, who have anchored the Czech national line for several years at centre, both skated just as hard as they were necessary against the moving Dynamos.

But it was the Soviet goaltender, Vladimir Pospanov, who kept the Dynamos a threat through the first two periods. Pospanov made several big saves when the Czech forwards poured into the Moscow zone and was a key figure in Moscow's 3-2 lead going into the final period.

Then the Czechs opened the door. Defenceman Stastlny, Bedrich Brunclik, Julius Haas and Nedomansky scoring between 5:36 and 12:47 to add the win to the victory. Rick Middleton scored three goals and an assist, Bill Lochead contributed three goals and an assist. Don Selling scored once and assisted on five others and defenceman Rick Fraser picked up two assists and had a first goal in the second period.

Mike Schewchuk, with two, and Mike Flannigan completed the Kingston scoring as even the Aces' tournament record a 1-1. They lost earlier 8-6 to Moscow.

Thurs., playing for first place in the tournament, got two goals from Finn Landstrom and one apiece from Ove Larrson, Olle Ahman, Hakan Petersson and Orjan Lundstrom.

Kingston held period leads of 3-2 and 4-3 in the chippy game outscoring the Europeans 5-3 in the final period including a burst of six goals within a game of three minutes in which the Aces scored four times.

Kingston took 17 of 26 minor penalties, including a major and misconduct.

Carolina Wins Peach Bowl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Post-season U.S. college football finishes whetted their appetites Friday night when Southern Carolina State frosted No. 18 Virginia Tech 49-32 in the Peach Bowl and Tampa edged Kent State 21-18 in the Tangerine Bowl.

But the piece de resistance of bowl-time fare is the Sugar Bowl, one of three New Year's Day classics involving six of the nation's top teams.

Sophomore Stan Fritts set a Bowl record with four touchdowns. Quarterback Dave Buckey passed for two major scores, one to his brother, Don, and went over from the two-yard line for an other.

Kent State, the mid-American conference champion, mounted a furious fourth-quarter attack after trailing 21-0 at the half but lost the Bowl battle when Herb Page missed two extra-point attempts and quarterback Greg Kokal failed on a two-point conversion attempt.

Tampa quarterback Buddy Carter opened with tight end Paul Orndorf for touchdown passes of 15 and 33 yards in the first quarter before Carter was relieved by Fred Solomon who capped an 80-yard drive with a two-yard run in the second quarter to end Tampa's scoring.

The national championship is at stake in Pasadena, Calif., when top-ranked Southern Cal puts its unbroken record on the line against 9-1-0 Ohio State.

"This Southern Cal team is the best team Ohio State has ever played," said Ohio coach Woody Hayes, aiming for victory No. 158 and his fourth Rose Bowl triumph in five appearances.

Nebraska, No. 9 this year after losses to UCLA and Oklahoma, takes on 12th-ranked Notre Dame in another Jan. 1 confrontation. Orange Bowl Miami—while fourth-ranked Alabama squares off against No. 7 Texas in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Russia Downs Czechs in Cup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Russia, making its first appearance, downed Czechoslovakia 6-3 Friday night to deal the Czechs their first loss in the World Cup Hockey Tournament.

Russia rocked the Czechs, who concluded their play in the four-team round-robin tourney with a 2-1 record, with three first-period goals. Play now shifts to Bloomington, Minn. for three final games: Russia vs. Canada Saturday night, Czechoslovakia vs. Canada Sunday and United States vs. Russia Tuesday.

The start of the game was delayed one hour by a power failure.

Thayer Tutt, president of the sponsoring Amateur Hockey Association of the U.S., and also-tough boss, presidents of the corporation which owns the Broadmoor World Arena here, termed the failure of a circuit breaker "most unusual."

The intense international encounter was a rough one. Twenty-nine penalties were called and three Russians were given game misconduct in the

Quintes Win 6-2 As

Godson Nets Quick Goals for Lead

Quintes' Georges Godson took to the ice and the scoreboard in quick succession in Friday night's Senior "A" 6-2 victory over fifth place Brantford.

Centre Godson beat Foresters goalie Bob Aitken at 0.25 and 0.37 of the first period to give the Belleville club a 2-0 lead within the first minute of play.

Though Brantford's Dave Johnson grabbed a pass from linemate John Hall and put the puck past Quintes' goalie Ron Jury seven seconds later, the rapid comeback did little to dissuade the Quintes from the eventual victory.

The remainder of the first frame saw the score stand 2-1 as the Quintes had difficulty in getting the puck out past their blue line. The netminding of Jury kept the Belleville Senior "A" entry in the game despite the Quintes' 8-6 edge in shots on goal.

"We didn't play well in the first period," said Quintes' coach Wayne Brown after the game. "I think we thought that with the quick goals it would be an easy victory. But there's 60 minutes left and you have to play all of the whole game."

"Though we're still not checking enough," said the coach, "we're playing more as a team now. We played good defensive hockey tonight. We've changed our style of play to suit the defense. Bant the low slot position aimed at his glove side. The Forester netminder sealed the corner on another Godson scoring attempt and met Al Ferguson's solid efforts throughout the game with near impunity.

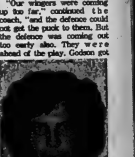
"Ferguson played well for us," said Brown, "considering he's been out of the line-up for three weeks."

The burly right winger netted a goal in the third period along with Paul Grills, Wayne McConnell and Godson, who completed his hat trick against Aitken at 0.19 of the final frame.



The Foresters' second tally came from Johnson as the best defenseman Lorne O'Donnell along the left wing and netted the 2-2 tie-up goal with a low shot past Jury.

Johnson and teammate Terry Cooke pressed the Quintes netminder hard in the third period as they fired shots at Jury from the cover of scrambles in front of the net. Only puck did beat the Belleville goal tender but it was disallowed by the referee on the grounds that it was kicked in by a Brantford player.

Foresters' coach Chuck Kelly whose team comes off victories over front running Galt and Orillia was unhappy with Brantfords efforts in the first period.

"We didn't play well in the first period," said Kelly, "the first minute killed us, and we had to fight up hill from then on.

"Our wingers were coming up too far," continued the coach, "and the defence could not get the puck to them. But the defence was coming out too early also. They were ahead of the play. Godson got his first goal that way. He was checked by our defence, but then walked in cold turkey for the goal.

Aiken Down On Ice But Still No Loser

Belleville Quintes Paul Grills put the puck past Brantford Forester goalie Bob Aiken in Senior "A" hockey action last night as the Quintes marched to a 6-2 victory over the visiting green clad team. Aiken did not play the entire game on the ice as he stopped 32 Quintes' shots.

Tam O'Shanter Entries Winning

Belleville Kinsmen Club bantam majors started the Tam O'Shanter International Invitational Hockey Tournament on the wrong skate Wednesday as they fell to defeat at the hands of Trenton bantams 4-3.

Sandy Waterson, Bob Thompson, and Paul Weeks supplied the Belleville Club with their goals in a game which saw shots on net almost even at 25-24 in the Kinsmen Club's favor.

In Thursday's action, the Kinsmen thrashed the Syracuse bantam representatives 12-1. Kelvin Pope and Paul Hayman each tallied hat tricks while Tony Meagher and Waterson worked two goals by the American net minder. Rob Kelly and Tom Belch both scored single goals.

In the third game of the tourney, Kinsmen Club bantams edged Picton 4-3. Meagher, Waterson, Rob Chase and Andy Lupenette gave the Belleville team their victory.

Mark Meehan kept all Ottawa's shots out of the net in Friday's contest as the Kinsmen defeated the team from the nation's capital 12-0.

Meagher marked up a hat trick while Weeks and Rob McBrien tallied two goals apiece. Pope, Ray Skelly, Thompson, Paul Hipkin and Rob Chase added singles to the bantams shutout win.

The Belleville Kinsmen Club bantams will play Trenton for the Grand Championship tonight at 8 p.m.

The Dixie Lee Fried Chicken peewee minors also fell to the hands of the Trenton Tam O'Shanter Tournament entry. Trenton defeated Belleville 12-3 as Mark Crawford, Brad Miller and Darrell Colman tallied for the Dixie lads.

Crawford proved to be the hat trick hero in Belleville's game with Syracuse as he led the way to a 7-4 victory over Steve Mofina. Mofina tallied two apiece in the Thursday victory. Belleville outshot the American pee wees 39-16.

Crawford outdid himself in Belleville's 8-4 victory over neighboring Picton as he led off the second period scoring with three back-to-back goals. The Dixie Lee player added another tally in the third and assisted on Billy Rowe's marker. Mofina scored two goals while Miller tallied a single.

Thaugh Rhode Island peewee pulled their goalie for the last 10 minutes of Fridays contest with the Dixie Lee minors, they failed to close up the 5-1 final score. Meagher, Steve Murphy, Colman with two, Mofina, tallied for Belleville though no one met the open net with a scoreboard markup.

Smrke Stars

Peter Smrke earned the first star honors in the opening game of the Kingston Township Juvenile Hockey Tournament Thursday as he scored five goals against Memorial entry Dalland Des Orneaux.

The Western Tire juveniles defeated the western Monireal club 10-3. Glen Richardson, Wayne Andrews, Kevin Joudwa, McBride and Paul Ackerman tallied single goals.

The tiremen captured the "A" championship with their 5-1 victory over Camp Bonden. Smrke tallied two against the Borden team while Ackerman, Greg Duffy, and Richardson marked up the remaining tallies.

Smrke won the Most Valuable Player of the tournament award for his seven goal record.

The rink consists of lead Bill Meagher, second Chris Smith, vice Bill Riley and skip Murray Johnson.

Barons Look To Warm Climate

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — It will be another week before Montreal Barons find out if they can finish the 1972-73 schedule in Jacksonville, Fla. Antonio Amianno, Boston Hockey League secretary, said Friday that Barons' owner Phil Milici has applied for permission to make the change but has not yet received it. Amiano said the 12 AHL owners began voting on the request Thursday. He termed as speculative newspaper reports that Barons have already had been received. The Barons' last home game drew 2,000 fans.

PARK'S RETURN SHORT

NEW YORK (AP) — Brad Park, New York Ranger defenseman who recently returned to action after missing 18 games with an injured lift knee, will be sidelined for a week after reinjuring the knee, the National Hockey League club announced Friday. Park was hurt Wednesday against Buffalo. Since the original injury Nov. 15, park has played in only two games.

Bennett Skips Quinte To Trenton Playdown

Quinte Secondary's skip Steve Bennett broke the back of Kingston's Loyalist CVI with his last rock of the game and end in the Ontario Curling Association's School Boy Bonspiel.

The Quinte rink of Paul Champagne, Rod Bennett, Simon, second Don Bennett, skip, vice, and Steve Bennett, skip, had five rocks in the last house with Loyalist's skip Joe Dark still having one to play.

Dark, who held down lead in the Loyalist rink's Ontario finalist entry in the School Boy last year, placed his rock on the edge of the four foot circle. Dark's final rock position would have given Quinte a one point end but it not been for the precise shooting of Bennett.

The Quinte skip chipped the Loyalist final rock from the house for a full five point end and a 5-1 lead at the end of the second end.

According to lead Champagne, Bennett's "good skip" demoralized the Loyalist rink and allowed Quinte to go on to a 12-2 victory and the opportunity to meet the "A" series champions Trenton High School.

The Quinte rink will meet the Trenton curlers skipped by Bill Merkinger Sunday, Jan. 7. According to Jim Dallas, OCA co-ordinator of the third division's School Boy Bonspiel, the finals could not be held under an OCA ruling which prohibits any rink to curl more than three matches per day.

"If Loyalist would have defeated Quinte," said Dallas, "they would have been unable to play Trenton because they would have played their regulation three games by Friday."

The Kingston rink defeated Picton 9-8 and Bayside 11-3 in two matches at the Quinte Curling Club, Friday before they curled against Quinte in the fourth and semi-final round of the "B" championship.

Bob Hargie, the Quinte rink's staff supervisor, noted that "the ice were curling well, but also they were getting the breaks. When we got a chip shot, our rock stayed in while their's went out. The Kingston rink's commissioner of lead Doug Nowes, second Ed Smith, vice Bob Sutherland, and skip Joe Dark were eliminated from the double knockout play. They lost 6-3 to Kingston's LaSalle College in round one action Wednesday.

"Loyalist wasn't playing as well" said Champagne, "they weren't making shots they usually do. We were not getting the breaks Wednesday but it turned around for us and we got them when we needed them".

The winner of the Quinte-Trenton contest will go on to a playdown with the representative of the fourth club which encompasses the Peterborough area.

American Stars Missed

SASKATOON (CP) — Fans of ice Coast Track Club in Los and spectators trefted Friday because some highly-regarded American stars failed to appear for the eighth annual Saskatchewan Indoor Games, but a handful of Canadians overcame the problem.

Paced by Glenda Reiser of Ottawa and Liz Vanderziam of Edmonton, the Canadians set a variety of Saskatchewan open records and in general compensated for the absence of several Americans who had been advertised as mainstays of the two-day meet.

Miss Reiser, who gained fame last summer at Munich as an unknown 17-year-old making her first Olympic appearance, cruised home in front of Patricia Lavrieu of San Jose, Calif., to set a Canadian women's open record in the 1,500 metre event.

She was clocked in 4:26.9 compared with the former Canadian open standard of 4:21.2 and bolstered her ranking as No. 8 among the world's female milers at her specialty.

Although her performance itself was less spectacular, Miss Vanderziam, a University of Alberta student, also struck a blow for Canadian athletes.

Welcomed into the invitational women's 400-metre event only because Kelley Hammond of Sacramento, Calif., sent her regrets at the last moment, Miss Vandenam covered the distance over a tightly-bunked indoor track in 55.5 seconds.

Two other Canadians, Brenda Walsh of Edmonton and Joanne McTaggart of Saskatoon, finished close behind.

Canadians fared well in other invitational events too.

Ken Elmer of Vancouver captured the 1,000 metre competition ahead of Randy Mickey of Calgary, with Olympic veteran Chuck La Bens of Los Angeles a well-beaten third, and perennial standout Grant McLaren of London, Ont., topped Peter Kaul of Los Angeles and John Halberstadt of Stillwater, Okla., in the invitational two-mile.

Saylor Plows Lanes

Ron Saylor who has won the Mr. Bowling Tournament four times since it began at the Bowl-O-Drome in 1952, Friday night took the top honors in the ninth Annual Holiday Classic Invitational Tournament held at the Bowl-O-Drome and still came out ahead of the field.

Saylor won the double-knockout match play without a single loss to earn a first place finish from among 16 bowlers. Fifty bowlers from as far as Peterborough, Trenton, Kingston, and Smiths Falls attended the tourney.

Cobourg's Wayne Tuttle, who won the 1965 Classic placed 2nd behind the Belleville resident, while Glenn Hamilton, who captured the 1966 Mr. Bowling Tournament title followed in third spot.

Bill Muise held the highest score of the tournament with a 386.

Saylor who won the Intelligencer Gold Cup Tournament last year, holds the highest game score this year with a 415.

According to Bill Bateman, proprietor of the Bowl-O-Drome, Saylor "is a natural bowler". "Ron used to be a pin boy here many years ago," said Bateman, "and in my opinion most of the best bowlers are ex-pin boys. That's where these bowlers learned to play the game, but now with the automatic lanes, things will be different."

Saylor Tops Holiday Bowl

Ron Saylor took to the bowling lanes instead of the waterways Friday night in the ninth annual Holiday Classic Invitational Tournament held at the Bowl-O-Drome and still came out ahead of the field.

Waffle Urges PM Damn Raids

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Waffle has called on Prime Minister Trudeau to "condemn in unqualified terms" the bombing of North Vietnam and to stop all exports of war materials that could be used by the United States in Vietnam. The group, cut from the Ontario New Democratic Party last spring, said Friday that Mr. Trudeau created a false impression when he said Dec. 22 that Canada has always opposed the bombing and that "we have condemned it in the past." In fact, said the Waffle, the government "has never condemned the bombing unambiguously or without qualification."

Test Turbos

MONTREAL (CP) — Testing of Canadian National's troubleplagued turbo-trains, which have undergone more than 100 modifications, is to begin in mid-January, a railway spokesman said Friday. The turbos, leased from United Aircraft of Canada Ltd. by CN, should be back in service on the Montreal-Toronto run in March. The sleek silver trains first entered trooboard in 1969 and twice taken out of service, have undergone major modifications to cure recurring mechanical failures during winter conditions.

Scare Over

PALO ALTO, Calif. (Reuter) — The great San Francisco earthquake scare is over for the time being.

Earthquake prophet Reuben Greenspan announced Friday with "profound pleasure" that San Francisco would not be destroyed by a killer-quake Jan. 4, as he predicted two years ago.

He declined to set a new date until after a University of California computer had checked his calculations.

The learned Death Valley recluse said he discovered a co-ordinates error in his manual match calculations two days ago concerning the positions of the sun and moon.

The error came about, he said, because when he made his calculations two years ago, the tables in the 1972 nautical almanac were not available.

Rebel Broken

MOSCOW (AP) — Pyotr Yakir, who led Russia's small coalition of dissidents until his arrest last June, is a broken man who has turned state's evidence against his former associates, says a woman who saw him in prison.

Mrs. Adel P. Naidenovich, whose husband published an underground journal, said secret police investigators confronted her with Yakir Dec. 20, in Lefortovo prison here.

She said in a typewritten account of the confrontation, which is circulating in Moscow, that Yakir denounced her as the author of a letter written under a pseudonym to Radio Liberty, which broadcasts in Russian to the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Naidenovich described Yakir as "a man who has totally disintegrated under his cruel isolation and misfortune."

Arena Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — An application by the village of Pickering for construction of a $722,-000 arena, has been rejected by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The board's written decision cited lack of an accurate cost estimate and opposition from some residents to using a four-acre park as the arena site.

D. M. Jamieson, board vice-chairman said the board would consider a new application for a different site.

The village of 2,700 is 15 miles northwest of Oshawa.

Fate of Trudeau Government May Be Decided Within Days

OTTAWA (CP) — How long will it last? That is the question repeatedly asked as Prime Minister Trudeau's minority Liberal government prepares to meet Parliament and an uncertain fate next week.

The session opens Thursday, Jan. 4. The answer could come as early as the following Tuesday, Jan. 9. That is the day an expected New Democratic Party motion of non-confidence in the government would come to a vote.

If the NDP motion, moved by leader David Lewis, draws support from the Progressive Conservatives it could be all over for the Trudeau administration.

But there are so many "ifs" to the proposition few politicians in any party are willing to predict what will happen.

The limping Liberals, who won only 109 seats in the Oct. 30 federal election, are 24 short of a majority in the 264-seat House of Commons. Never in Canadian history has a government controlled a smaller proportion of Commons seats.

The NDP with 31, if supported by all or most of the 107-man Conservative Opposition, can send Mr. Trudeau to Gov.-Gen. Michener with the resignation of his government. (Fifteen Social Credit members and two independents complete the line-up).

This, however, is far from a foregone conclusion. For one thing, Mr. Lewis does not have to present a motion of no-confidence in the government. But avoiding it would leave him open to criticism from his own party workers and others who voted for the New Democrats last fall.

NDP spokesmen are playing their cards close the vest, refusing to say what they will do. Mr. Lewis has said they will deal with government legislation on merit and give Parliament a chance to work.

It is generally thought the NDP, with campaign funds depleted, prefers to avoid an early election. There have been predictions the New Democrats would lose ground if a new vote were to come soon. Party spokesmen say otherwise, of course.

With this in mind Mr. Lewis's motion could criticize the government in such a way that Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and his Conservatives could not support the motion, averting a Liberal defeat.

This might be the case if it embodied far-out socialist philosophy or programs.

If the government survives past this point its next crisis could come two days later, Jan. 11. On that day a non-confidence motion by Social Credit leader Real Caouette normally would day.

New Year's Day to be Delayed for One Second

OTTAWA (CP) — New Year's Day will be delayed one second.

Timekeepers around the world will set their atomic clocks back one s e c o n d, to fit them into line with solar time, said Dr. A. G. Mungall, a senior officer in the time and frequency section of the National Research Council.

"We call it a leap second," he explained. There's actually an extra second in 1972.

This one-second pause between Dec. 31 and Jan. 1 is decided internationally, Dr. Mungall said in an interview Wednesday. It has come about because of a switch in 1967 to atomic clocks for international use.

However, a slight problem arises because a year measured on a cesium clock goes about one second a year faster than the actual time it takes the earth to circle the sun. So the international bureau has decided to stop its atomic clocks for one second in the future, to say, to bring them into line with solar or sun time.

Sunday's leap second is the second one. The first time adjustment was made between June 30 and July 1.

The international community will announce others as needed, whenever solar time and atomic time get one second apart—probably in June.

However, scientists can't always tell too far in advance because some earth trips around the sun take longer than others.

Kingston Doctor Says One in Ten Cheating

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Richard Milne, a member of the province's medical review committee, said Friday that "millions of dollars" have been lost through the medical care billing practices of some doctors.

Dr. Milne, a general practitioner, said in an interview he believes one doctor in 10 has abused the system.

The review committee was set up last year to investigate suspected billing abuses by doctors.

Dr. Milne said the committee is investigating 306 cases and except for about 30, all "involve some way are an abuse of the system."

An example, he said, was the billing for psychotherapy which under the doctors fee schedule was listed as $11.50 for a half hour "or part thereof." Dr. Milne said some doctors were billing $31.50 for only one minute of psychotherapy and a new ruling had to be introduced to make it mandatory to spend at least 20 minutes with a patient before charging the $11.50.

Questioned about other possible abuses, Dr. Milne said that in Kingston there "are probably some very senior people" who bill seven times for hospital rounds and only make one round.

A general practitioner can charge $4 for a round—a visit to a patient in a hospital.

"Working on the committee has been an education in dishonesty and irregular billing practices," said Dr. Milne.

He said the province should return to the use of the internal random audit on doctor's bills.

The audit—letters to patients asking them if they received the services the doctors billed for—was halted recently because of problems with the patients' right to privacy.

The letters might be opened by other members of the patient's family and could concern private matters between the patient and doctor such as abortion or birth control pills.

Economists See Inflation One of Top Dangers Today

TORONTO (CP) — The economic challenges for 1973 in Canada, the U.S. and Western Europe will be to continue the fight against inflation and strengthen society's power over big business and big government.

This sums up the principal speeches in three days of talk by some 8,000 economists attending the annual meeting of the American Economic Association, held in Canada for the first time.

American delegates, particularly those from the sunny south, began fleeing from the city Friday when a mixture of rain and snow storm threatened airline schedules on the holiday weekend. Closing convention sessions today were left for the dedicated, and those who live in or nearby Toronto.

John Kenneth Galbraith, Canadian-born Harvard University economist and president of the AEA, said in his presidential address Friday night that more than half of all economic output now is managed by powerful corporations. They are so powerful and dedicated to their own growth and self-interest they have over-ride the traditional mechanisms of the free-market economy, he said.

He called on economists to recognize this power structure and its close links with government, and to adapt their economic thinking to the realism of today.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve System, which is the central bank of the U.S., said the big labor unions and the ease with which big governments spend the taxpayer's money are the principal causes of new inflationary pressures.

He told the convention Friday it might be well if Washington would set a ceiling for the next year or two on government spending at the current level. U.S. federal government spending has doubled in eight years.

While these foreboding words came from the conference's "rapacious" doctors, James Cutt, an economist at York University said Friday.

Mr. Cutt, who recently completed a study on guaranteed income experiments for the federal government, said that in Ontario the medical profession has been given "the key to the public treasury."

Mr. Cutt was speaking in a panel discussion at the annual convention of the Allied Social Sciences Associations. About 8,-000 North American economists are attending.

He told his United States counterparts that Canadian experience has shown that unless public authorities maintain firm control over the price, quality and standards of medical care it becomes simply a feeding trough for a rapacious profession.

Mr. Cutt said salary scales and job qualifications for doctors operating under medical care should be written into law.

The U.S. had wage and price controls—first a freeze and now a controlled relaxation of them—but Canada had not followed suit.

Medicare Called Doctors' Guaranteed Income Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Medical care in Ontario has become a guaranteed income scheme for "rapacious" doctors, James Cutt, an economist at York University said Friday.

Mr. Cutt, who recently completed a study on guaranteed income experiments for the federal government, said that in Ontario the medical profession has been given "the key to the public treasury."

Mr. Cutt was speaking in a panel discussion at the annual convention of the Allied Social Sciences Associations. About 8,-000 North American economists are attending.

He told his United States counterparts that Canadian experience has shown that unless public authorities maintain firm control over the price, quality and standards of medical care it becomes simply a feeding trough for a rapacious profession.

Nova Scotia Plans Land Sales Controls

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia government has proposed amendments to interim measures to control non-resident ownership of land while a select committee looks at long-term moves toward a permanent policy.

Premier Gerald Regan said Friday that although non-resident land ownership has not reached "alarming proportions" in the province, his government has the intention of acting quickly and waiting for such a situation to develop. About 650,000 out of about 13 million acres is owned by non-residents.

A cabinet committee recommends:

—Legislation requiring approval by a land review board before a non-resident can acquire a piece of property.

—Levying of a provincial non-resident land transfer tax to help support the operation and acquisition of recreational land by the province;

—Acceleration of the acquisition of recreational land by the province;

—Changes in the Land Holdings Disclosure Act to ensure that provincial registrars of deeds inform the government of any titles registered by a non-resident;

—Consultation with wardens of municipal units before establishment of a permanent policy on non-resident land ownership;

—That Nova Scotia urge the next meeting of a Canadian premiers to treat the matter of non-resident land ownership as a major topic.

A select committee of the legislature should be named immediately to recommend permanent non - resident legislation, the cabinet report said.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, DEC. 31

Aries (March 21-April 19): Just keeping the peace throughout the year's end is enough of an achievement. Begin at home with those you love for generosity.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Be early and conservative in your share of the community's expression of faith. Take a long break, pray and meditate.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Performance are to be avoided, particularly where the activity serves no practical purpose or may be hazardous.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Moderation is the key to enlightenment this long and perhaps tedious day. The evening brings sobering thoughts.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Everybody has his own approach today, with clash in some respects inevitable. Help reconcile for a tightly packed evening.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Close friends, old familiars make good companions on this somewhat overcharged day and long evening. Give yourself a break.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Morning is divided between making your normal appearances and getting belated details ready for the evening.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Putting yourself out to be helpful doesn't really help—wait until you are asked, be there where you are expected.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Let people and their pet subjects alone—it's not time for teasing or criticism. Live and let live, beginning now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Since nothing will be as well organized as it might be, be content that you had no part in creating confusion.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Listening can bring you ever so much more benefit than striving to convert others into doing things your way.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): As you march through Sunday customs, think, feel, see, and practice some hopes between your interests and those of others.

MONDAY, JAN. 1

Aries (March 21 — April 19): Now is the time to apply for any improvements. Higher rulings open campaigns to get a reasonable share for yourself.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Take the trouble to review your reserve funds. Be sure you hold le collective ventures. Budget for the coming month and year.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your opposite number is after your attention, will do almost anything to get a better understanding with you. Don't be rushed.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Skipping your usual schedule helps offset minor annoyances. People are inclined to perverse moods when you want simple agreement.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): More actual work is going on than you had bargained for, some of it with great personal satisfaction, some of it for no reward.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Home is the finest place to express your creative impulses, not just resolutions, but doing something to get things moving.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you are restless, pick up and move about—there are many places to go briefly, errands better run now than later.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Successful planning can be done today. When you are satisfied you're on the right track and far enough along, call it a day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are near your best in morale and style, so do a bit of showing off. The business of the day is minimal.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You catch up with some wandering possession, find out what has been happening without your proper attention.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Let your friends step forward and speak first. Your solutions tend mainly to fit yourself and your needs, not theirs.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): It is normal to feel that nearly everybody is asking quite a lot from you—they're are. Set priorities early in the day.

TUESDAY, JAN. 2

Aries (March 21 — April 19): Yesterday's plans produce well if applied early. Many subtle turning points are reached today without warning.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): What had concerns are foremost: You can make a good advance in your work, looking toward higher rewards soon.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You work at a slight disadvantage, need verification of facts, encouragement. Postpone what you can, buy only what you must.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): First priority goes to picking up bits and pieces of incomplete major projects, organizing. You have new contacts to make.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There are times you can do little for yourself without first doing for others—like as much a day. Begin group ventures.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Prepare for further study or diagnostics. Much depends on how well you have stated your case, established precedents.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Gather up your energies for a vigorous start on the projects you've chosen for the year. Family co-operation is on your list of priorities.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Today your wits lead you into the path of success, both for and for your friends. Set in motion legal procedures, applications.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Speak up, claim credit for your deeds, ask for your share of whatever is available, reach mutual understandings.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What you have set forth on so-called tides lately comes home to you now, with dividends. extras. Make the special effort. required.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Go, what you can do for your friends, bring them together and redo the path upward. Your next turn comes soon, be patient.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): It's time to make that long planned move. Go ahead, strive for advancement in your field and at home. You will get co-operation.

Making Longhorn Cheese Described by Champ Liar

Burlington, Wis. (AP) — The Burlington Liars' Club 1972 World Champion Liar is a Montana man who claimed a cheesemaking first.

"Among the valued things I lost in a fire was a plaque awarded me for working out a formula for making longhorn cheese out of shorthorn milk," was the yarn told by Charles Hatch of Miles City, Mont.

Fred Smith of Muskegon Heights, Mich., claimed he and his fishing buddies used so bad in Lake Winnebago "When they came up to spit out the pits, we catch them with a butterfly net," Smith said.

Last August, pollution was so bad in Lake Winnebago that pike 15 to 20 inches shrank to 10 to 15 inches, said Frank Adrian of Menasha, Wis.

Said Ray Schreiber of Algoma, Wis.:

"One night recently, when the furnace failed to kick in, it got so cold in the house that my teeth were chattering—and they were in a cup in the bathroom."

A big-league hitter who is so tough "the pitchers even walk him during batting practice," was described by A. W. Tolg of Chicago.

Julius Feistner of Prescott, Ariz., said that about New York tailors:

"They're having so much trouble with the middle button hole of their $500 suits wearing out too soon that they have decided to add an extra button to help. This will be found in the right hand coat pocket."

Plaque Marks Spot Dief Met Laurier

SASKATOON (CP) — A plaque was unveiled Friday at the street corner where John Diefenbaker sold a newspaper to Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier 62 years ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker, MP for Prince Albert and former Conservative prime minister, attended with 200 people, including representatives of the federal and Saskatchewan governments, at the ceremony.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 77, was 14 when his father settled in Saskatoon to enable him and his younger brother, Elmer, to get a better schooling.

As a newsboy, with Elmer, young John peddled the old Winnipeg Telegram to Mr. Laurier, who then was travelling in the West.

At the railway station, the two sat down on the steps of a railway coach and chatted.

Years later, as a prime minister himself, Mr. Diefenbaker told an audience of school children: "That gave me an idea that has been with me all through the years, of a country in which each of us can rise to whatever position there is in the state provided we dedicate ourselves."

University Graduate Protests As Degree Delayed Over Fines

EDMONTON (CP) — Sid Kaplan, a business administration graduate, is "questioning the University of Alberta's authority to withhold his degree for non-payment of campus parking fines.

Mr. Kaplan, who also has been refused a transcript of his marks, said in an interview Thursday he received about 2 parking tags costing $100 during his four years at the university.

Because of non-payment within 30 days, the amount has doubled to $200.

He says the university has the power under the Universities Act to set parking regulations, but contends that enforcing fines by withholding marks and degrees is improper and a form of blackmail.

The university found in a recent survey that about 85 students owe $32,000 in outstanding parking fines.

Mr. Kaplan has asked Education Minister Lou Hyndman to look into the matter. He lives in Mr. Hyndman's riding.

If the tickets are legal, they will be paid, Mr. Kaplan says. If not, he would consider court action.

Solicitors have advised the university is empowered under the Universities Act to set parking regulations and to determine fines.

University Registrar A. D. Cairns has said the withholding of marks and a degree is not properly related to the nature of the violation.

Montreal Businesses Abandon Use of Mails

MONTREAL (CP) — A recent work slowdown by mail sorters at Montreal's main post office has prompted some area businesses to take steps to ease the problem.

Jean-Louis Arcand, a post-office spokesman, said that in some cases it was taking letters three days to get from one part of the city to another.

A bell captain at the Hotel Bonaventure in downtown Montreal said guests are leaving forwarding addresses for letters they expected to receive in Montreal.

Paul Casavant, collection manager for a downtown branch of a credit corporation, said his staff is asking customers to bring their payments in to the office or offering to collect their payments.

A tourist agency is using its local courier service to deliver reservations and tickets to customers.

We stopped using the mail two weeks ago," said Charles Beaulé, agency president.

The mail sorters are members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers. Postal workers have been without a contract for seven months.

They are to vote next Wednesday on conciliation board recommendations to settle the dispute.

Lawrence Harvey Plans To Wed New Year's Eve

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Laurence Harvey and Pauline Norris, 31, of London have taken out a marriage license in Santa Monica municipal court and say they plan a New Year's Eve wedding.

The 44-year-old former British actor gave his residence as Nassau, the Bahamas, and Miss Norris as London.

Harvey recently was divorced from his second wife, the former Joan Cohen. It will be the second marriage for Miss Norris.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor John Barrymore Jr. has been arrested for investigation of drunken driving.

Police said the 40-year-old Barrymore was taken into custody Thursday after he ran from the scene of a traffic accident.

Officers said Barrymore was driving on Sunset Boulevard when his car struck a parked vehicle. They said he left the car and ran but a witness chased him about 400 yards and caught him.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne's latest honor is the U.S. Army's Silver Buffalo, its highest award to a civilian.

The Oscar-winning actor was presented the award Friday for his lifelong interest in military preparedness, the defence of freedom through strength, and the merits of military life."

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
3♠	4♥	Pass	4♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — Three of diamonds.

Let's assume you're in six hearts and West leads a diamond. In view of the diamonds you have, it is not difficult to realize that West's lead must be a singleton. There is no other holding that could justify West's leading a diamond in preference to a spade, the suit his partner bid.

So you go up with the ace and, after cashing the A-K of trumps, start to look for ways and means of avoiding the loss of two diamond tricks.

One possibility is to cross to dummy with a trump, lead a club, and finesse the jack. You would make the contract if the finesse succeeded, because you could then discard two diamonds from dummy on the A-K of clubs and wind up losing only one diamond trick.

However, this is not a promising line of play because East — who probably has seven spades and has already shown up with one heart and presumably three diamonds — is highly unlikely to have the queen of clubs among his spaces.

A much more promising method of play is to try to take advantage of the fact that West probably has the queen of clubs and no more diamonds. Assuming that that is the case, you can speedily bring him to justice.

Cross to dummy with a trump, cash the A-K of spades, discarding two diamonds, and ruff a spade. Then cash the A-K of clubs, discarding a diamond from dummy, and continue with the jack of clubs permitting West to win the trick as you discard a second diamond from dummy.

Poor West is in bad shape at this point, as he is forced to lead another club, allowing you to discard dummy's last diamond as you ruff the return in your hand. The extraordinary outcome is that the only trick you lose is a club!

PONTON PARK II
2 NEW MODELS

We have just been finished these two new plans. One is a 3 bedroom bungalow with attached garage. The other is a 2 bedroom back split with attached garage. Both homes finished in clay brick and aluminum. They have 9% mortgages. If you are looking for something different, see these first.

WEST SIDE CONDOMINIUM

Some of these units are now nearing completion. With solid masonry party walls sound transmission is minimal between each units. Each unit has its own built in garage. There are three and four bedroom units available, each with dining room.

"PLAN NOW"!
FOR SPRING CONSTRUCTION

Join the many prudent home owners who are now going through our latest plan books to select the plan of their choice, then make whatever changes they want to have the plan complete to their wishes. We then make out their building contract for construction to be completed when they wish. It is this way they are assured that increased costs will not affect their price.
We will be pleased to call you at your home to discuss your ideas.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
